Provisions for appointment of new trustees, on death, &c.

34. Whenever any trustee, either original or substituted, and whether appointed by any High Court or otherwise, shall die, or be six months absent from British India, or desire to be discharged from, or refuse, or become unfit or incapable, to act in the trusts or powers in him reposed, before the same shall have been fully discharged and performed, it shall be lawful for the person or persons nominated for that purpose by the deed, will or other instrument creating the trust (if any), or if there be no such person, or no such person able and willing to act, then for the surviving or continuing trustees or trustee for the time being, or the acting executors or executor, or administrators or administrator, of the last surviving and continuing trustee, or for the retiring trustees, if they shall all retire simultaneously, or for the last retiring trustee, or where there are two or more classes of trustees of the instrument creating the trust, then for the surviving or continuing trustees or trustee of the class in which any such vacancy or disqualification shall occur (and for this purpose any refusing or retiring trustee shall, if willing to act in the execution of the power, be considered a continuing trustee), by writing to appoint any other person or persons to be a trustee or trustees in the place of the trustee or trustees so dying, or being absent from British India, or desiring to be discharged, or refusing or becoming unfit or incapable to act as aforesaid.

Transfer of trust-property to new trustees.

So often as any new trustee or trustees shall be so appointed as aforesaid, all the trust-property (if any) which for the time being shall be vested in the surviving or continuing trustees or trustee, or in the heirs, executors or administrators of any trustee, shall with all convenient speed be conveyed and transferred so that the same may be legally and effectually vested in such new trustee or trustees, either solely or jointly with the surviving or continuing trustees or trustee as the case may require.

Powers, &c., of new trustees.

Every new trustee to be appointed as aforesaid, as well before as after such conveyance or transfer as aforesaid, and also every trustee appointed by any High Court, either before or after the passing of this Act, shall have the same powers, authorities and discretions, and shall in all respects act as if he had been originally nominated a trustee by the deed, will or other instrument (if any) creating the trust.

Appointment of Official Trustee to be a trustee.

The Official Trustee may with his consent, and by the order of the High Court, be appointed under this section in any case in which only one trustee is to be appointed and such trustee is to be the sole trustee.

[Cf : 23 & 24 Vict., c. 145 — S. 27.]

Appointment in place of trustee predeceasing testator.

35. The power of appointing new trustees hereinbefore contained may be exercised in cases where a trustee nominated in a will has died in the life-time of the testator.

Trustees' receipts to be discharges.

36. The receipts in writing of any trustees or trustee for any money payable to them or him by reason, or in the exercise, of any trusts or powers reposed or vested in them or him, shall be sufficient discharges for the money therein expressed to be received, and shall effectually exonerate the persons paying such money from seeing to the application thereof, or from being answerable for any loss or misapplication thereof.

[Cf : 23 & 24 Vict., c. 145 — S. 29.]

Section 34 — Note 1

Every trust-instrument deemed to contain clauses for indemnity and reimbursement of trustees.

37. Every deed, will or other instrument creating a trust either expressly or by implication, shall, without prejudice to the clauses actually contained therein, be deemed to contain a clause in the words or to the effect following, that is to say,—

"that the trustees or trustee for the time being of the said deed, will or other instrument shall be respectively chargeable only for such moneys, stocks, funds and securities as they shall respectively actually receive, notwithstanding their respectively signing any receipt for the sake of conformity, and shall be answerable and accountable only for their own acts, receipts, neglects or defaults, and not for those of each other, nor for any banker, broker or other person with whom any trust-moneys or securities may be deposited, nor for the insufficiency or deficiency of any stocks, funds or securities, nor for any other loss, unless the same shall happen through their own wilful default respectively; and also that it shall be lawful for the trustees or trustee for the time being of the said deed, will or other instrument, to reimburse themselves or himself, or pay or discharge out of the trust-premises all expenses incurred in or about the execution of the trusts or powers of the said deed, will or other instrument."

Executors may compound, &c.

38. It shall be lawful for any executors to pay any debts or claims upon any evidence that they may think sufficient, and to accept any composition, or any security for any debts due to the deceased, and to allow any time for payment of any such debts as they shall think fit, and also to compromise, compound or submit to arbitration all debts, accounts, claims and things whatsoever relating to the estate of the deceased, and for any of the purposes aforesaid to enter into, give and execute such agreements, instruments of composition, releases and other things as they shall think expedient, without being responsible for any loss to be occasioned thereby.

39. [Trustee, etc., making payment under power-of-attorney, not liable by reason of death of party giving power.] Repealed by the Powers of Attorney Act, 1882 (7 [VII] of 1882), S. 6.

As to liability of executor or administrator in respect of rents, covenants or agreements.

40. Where an executor or administrator liable as such to the rents, covenants, or agreements contained in any lease or agreement for a lease granted or assigned, whether before or after the passing of this Act, to the testator or intestate whose estate is being administered, shall have satisfied all such liabilities under the said lease, or agreement for a lease, as may have accrued due and been claimed up to the time of the assignment hereinafter mentioned, and shall have set apart a sufficient fund to answer any future claim that may be made in respect of any fixed and ascertained sum covenanted or agreed by the lessee to be laid out on the property demised or agreed to be demised, although the period for laying out the same may not have arrived, and shall have assigned the lease or agreement for a lease to a purchaser thereof, he shall be at liberty to distribute the residuary estate of the deceased to and amongst the parties entitled thereto respectively, without appropriating any part, or any further part (as the case may be), of the estate of the deceased to meet any future liability under the said lease or agreement for a lease

The executor or administrator so distributing the residuary estate shall not, after having assigned the said lease or agreement for a lease, and having, where necessary, set apart such sufficient fund as aforesaid, be personally liable in respect of any subsequent claim under the said lease or agreement for a lease.

Nothing herein contained shall prejudice the right of the lessor or those claiming under him to follow the assets of the deceased into the hands of the person or persons to or amongst whom the said assets may have been distributed.

[Cf: 22 & 23 Vict., c. 35 — S. 27.]

As to liability of executor, &c., in respect of rents, &c., in conveyance on rent-charge.

41. In like manner, where an executor or administrator liable as such to the rent, covenants or agreements contained in any conveyance on chief rent or rent-charge (whether any such rent be by limitation of use, grant or reservation), or agreement for such conveyance, granted or assigned to or made and entered into with the testator or intestate whose estate is being administered, shall have satisfied all such liabilities under the said conveyance or agreement for a conveyance, as may have accrued due and been claimed up to the time of the conveyance hereinafter mentioned, and shall have set apart a sufficient fund to answer any future claim that may be made in respect of any fixed and ascertained sum covenanted or agreed by the grantee to be laid out on the property conveyed, or agreed to be conveyed, although the period for laying out the same may not have arrived, and shall have conveyed such property, or assigned the said agreement for such conveyance as aforesaid, to a purchaser thereof, he shall be at liberty to distribute the residuary estate of the deceased to and amongst the parties entitled thereto, respectively without appropriating any part or any further part (as the case may be) of such estate to meet any future liability under the said conveyance or agreement for a conveyance.

The executor or administrator so distributing the residuary estate shall not, after having made or executed such conveyance or assignment, and having, where necessary, set apart such sufficient fund as aforesaid, be personally liable in respect of any subsequent claim under the said conveyance or agreement for conveyance.

Nothing herein contained shall prejudice the right of the grantor, or those claiming under him, to follow the assets of the deceased into the hands of the person or persons to or among whom the said assets may have been distributed.

[Cf : 22 & 23 Vict., c. 35 — S. 28.]

As to distribution of assets of testator or intestate after notice given by executor and administrator.

42. Where an executor or administrator shall have given such or the like notices as in the opinion of the Court in which such executor or administrator is sought to be charged would have been given by the High Court in an administration-suit, for creditors and others to send in to the executor or administrator their claims against the estate of the testator or intestate, such executor or administrator shall, at the expiration of the time named in the said notices, or the last of the said notices, for sending in such claims, be at liberty to distribute the assets of the testator or intestate, or any part thereof, amongst the parties entitled thereto, having regard to the claims of which such executor or administrator has then notice, and shall not be liable for the assets or any part thereof so distributed to any person of whose claim such executor or administrator shall not have had notice at the time of distribution of the said assets, or a part thereof, as the case may be.

Nothing in the present Act contained shall prejudice the right of any creditor or claimant to follow the assets, or any part thereof, into the hands of the person or persons who may have received the same respectively.

[Cf: 22 & 23 Vict, c. 35 — S 29.]

Trustee, executor, &c, may apply by petition to Judge of High Court for opinion, advice, &c., in management, &c., of trust-property.

43. Any [a][trustee,] executor or administrator shall be at liberty, without the institution of a suit, to apply by petition to any Judge of the High Court for the opinion, advice or direction of such Judge on any question respecting the [a][management or] administration of the [a][trust-property or] the assets of any testator or intestate.

Such application shall be served upon, or the hearing thereof shall be attended by, all persons interested in such application, or such of them as the said Judge shall think expedient.

The [a][trustee,] executor or administrator acting upon the opinion, advice or direction given by the said Judge shall be deemed, so far as regards his own responsibility, to have discharged his duty as such [a][trustee,] executor or administrator in the subject-matter of the said application:

Provided, nevertheless, that this Act shall not extend to indemnify any [a][trustee,] executor or administrator, in respect of any act done in accordance with such opinion, advice or direction as aforesaid, if such [a][trustee,] executor, or administrator shall have been guilty of any fraud or wilful concealment or misrepresentation in obtaining such opinion, advice or direction; and the costs of such application as aforesaid shall be in the discretion of the Judge to whom the said application shall be made.

THE SCHEDULE.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"TRUSTS, in the strict sense in which that term is used by English lawyers, that is to say, confidences to the existence of which a 'legal' and an 'equitable' estate are necessary, are unknown to Hindu and Muhammadan law. But trusts in the wider sense of the word, that is to say, obligations annexed to the ownership of property which arise out of a confidence reposed in and accepted by the owner for the benefit of another, are constantly created by the natives of India and are frequently enforced by our Courts. "There is, probably," says Mr. Justice Phear (4 Ben. O. C. J. 134), "no country in the world where fiduciary relations exhibit themselves so extensively and in such varied forms as in India, and possession of dominion over property, coupled with the obligation to use it either wholly or partially, for the benefit of others than the possessor, is, I imagine, familiar to every Hindu." So, too, in the case of Muhammadans, where a woman is entitled to a share of her deceased father's estate in the hands of her brother (W. R. 1864, p. 377), or to eligible dower in the hands of her husband (6 W. R. 111). Trusts created by an old man for his own maintenance and ulterior purposes, for a widow, for a daughter, step-daughter or daughter-in-law and her children, are of pretty frequent occurrence amongst the natives, whether Hindu or Muhammadan, and it is desirable to keep them free from the complication of double estates in which, without the intervention of the legislature, they are certain to become entangled. But apart from the native property-holder, there is the large body of domiciled Europeans and Eurasians who have for nearly a century enjoyed and taken advantage of a trust-law recognised by our Courts: the number and wealth of this class have increased, and in suits between members of this community every Court in the country may be called upon to administer a trust-law. Nevertheless, with the exception of certain provisions in the Penal Code, the Specific Relief Act, the Code of Civil Procedure and the Limitation Act, the Indian Statute-book is silent on the subject so far as regards the bulk of the population; for the Statute of Frauds, sections 7 to 11, is in force only in the Presidency-towns, and the rules contained in Acts XXVII and XXVIII of 1866 extend only to cases to which English law is applicable, and are, in themselves, incomplete.

The object of the present Bill is to codify the law relating to trusts in the wider sense above described: but it saves the rules of Muhammadan law as to wakf, and the mutual relations of the members of an undivided family. And it leaves untouched religious and charitable endowments established by Hindus and Buddhists, as being matters in which the legislature cannot at present usefully interfere further or otherwise than has been done by Act XX of 1863.

With the few exceptions mentioned in this Statement, the rules contained in the Bill are substantially those now administered by English Courts of Equity and (under the name of 'justice, equity and good conscience') by the Courts of British India.

The Bill distributes the subject under the following heads: I, Preliminary: II, the creation of trusts: III, the duties and liabilities of trustees: IV, their rights and powers: V, their disabilities: VI, the rights and liabilities of the beneficiary: VII, vacating the office of trustee: VIII, the extinction of trusts; and IX, certain obligations of the nature of trusts.

The preliminary chapter, in order to prevent the introduction of conceptions resembling the English legal estate and equitable ownership, defines the interest of the beneficiary as his right against the trustee as owner of the property. The beneficiary has, under the Bill, no estate or interest in the subject-matter of the trust. The Bill also defines 'breach of trust' as a breach of any duty imposed on a trustee, as such, by any law for the time being in force, and declares that a person has 'notice' of a fact when he actually knows that fact, or when, but for wilful abstention from inquiry or gross negligence, he would have known it, or when information is given to, or obtained by, his agent under the circumstances mentioned in the Contract Act, section 229.

The second chapter deals with the creation of trusts. It declares that a trust may be created for any 'lawful purpose,' and, as there is a general analogy between a trust and a contract, the Bill defines such purpose to be lawful in the cases in which the Indian Contract Act, section 23, declares the object of an agreement to be lawful. An explanation shews that, where the trust-property is land situate in a foreign country, the trust, to be valid, must not create an estate not recognized by the law of that country.

The expediency of excluding oral declarations of trust has long been felt in the case of land, and the Bill (section 5) lays down, in general accordance with the seventh section of the Statute of Frauds, that no trust in relation to immoveable property is valid, unless declared (a) by a non-testamentary instrument in writing signed by the author of the trust or the trustee and registered, or (b) by the will of the author of the trust or of the trustee, and that no trust in relation to moveable property is valid unless declared, as aforesaid, or unless the ownership of the property is transferred to the trustee. Theoretically, this will modify the Hindu law, which in no transaction absolutely requires a writing (2 Mad. H. C. Rep. 39); but trusts by merely verbal declarations are as rarely met with as mortgages by merely verbal agreements: the proposed change will therefore in practice make no alteration in that law. The rule will not apply where it would operate so as to effectuate a fraud, as, for example, where a father having power to bequeath certain land is induced not to make a will of that land by the promise of his heir-presumptive that he will provide thereout for his relatives.

Section 8 declares that the subject-matter of a trust must be property transferable to the beneficiary, and that it must not be a merely beneficial interest under a subsisting trust. The object of the latter provision is to preclude the complications that would arise from allowing a trust upon a trust.

Section 9 declares that every person capable of holding property may be a beneficiary. As, under Act I of 1868, 'person' includes a corporation, the Bill here varies from English law. But the variation is intentional, as it has been more than once ruled that the Mortmain Statutes are not in force in India.

Chapter III deals with a trustee's duties and liabilities. None of the rules here contained call for remark except sections 20 and 23. Section 20 gives a list of the securities on which alone a trustee may invest trust-funds. The necessity for some such provision has been indicated by the High Court of Bombay in De Souza v. De Souza, 12 Bom. 184. Investments on mortgages of leaseholds for years are forbidden, unless, of course, such securities are expressly authorized by the instrument of trust. In England, no doubt, trustees authorized to lend on a mortgage of realty may invest on a long term of years at a peppercorn rent. But in this country such terms are practically unknown. Section 20 also allows a trustee to deposit a trust fund not exceeding Rs. 1,000 in a Government Savings Bank, and to invest on mortgage of land already pledged as security for an advance under the Land Improvement Act, 1871. A power like the latter is conferred in England by 27 & 28 Vic., cap. 114, section 161. Section 23 declares the measure of the trustee's liability in case of a breach of trust and embodies, as illustrations, the rules on which Courts of Equity act where trust-property improperly left outstanding is lost, or where a trustee retains money which should be invested, or neglects a direction to invest, or to accumulate, or improperly sells trust-securities, or is guilty of unreasonable delay in investing trust-funds or in paying them to the beneficiary.

Chapter IV treats of the rights and powers of trustees. It embodies the substance of Act XXVIII of 1866, sections 2, 3, 5, 32, 33, 36, 37, 39 and 43. Section 34 of the Bill empowers trustees to apply, not only to High Court Judges, but to District Judges, for advice on simple questions respecting the management and administration of the trust-property. Under section 36, which deals with the general authority of a trustee, trustees will be able (unless restrained from doing so by the instrument of trust) to grant reasonable agricultural leases, thin timber and otherwise act for the benefit of the trust. Except with the permission of the Court, no trustee will be able to lease trust property for a term exceeding 21 years.

Chapter V deals with disabilities of the trustees. The only section here calling for remark is 52, which declares that no trustee, and no person who has recently ceased to be a trustee, may, without the permission of the Court, buy the interest of the beneficiary in the trust-property, and that such permission shall not be given unless the purchase is manifestly for the benefit of the latter. The Bill here deviates from the present law according to which a trustee is allowed to buy trust-property from his beneficiary if the latter is sui juris and the former can shew that the relation of trustee and beneficiary was, at the time of the purchase, virtually dissolved, and that the fullest information and every advantage were given to the beneficiary. Such a rule seems too vague for insertion in a Code intended to be worked, for the most part, by unprofessional Judges; it has, moreover, been disapproved in Morse v. Royal, 12 Ves. 372.

In the next chapter — of the rights and liabilities of the beneficiary — the only sections requiring special notice are sections 58 and 62. The former provides for the execution of trusts by the Court, and makes no distinction between the cases where the declaration of trust is complete and those where the trust is executory, i. e., where the declaration of trust is intended to be perfect at some future period.

The latter section declares that all persons taking immoveable trust-property inconsistently with the trust hold it subject to the trust, except (a) purchasers in good faith for consideration without notice of the trust, and (b) purchasers for consideration from such purchasers. This agrees with the English rule which, to prevent stagnation of property, exempts from the trust a purchaser with notice from an innocent purchaser without notice, who has got the legal estate.

Chapter VII treats of vacating the office of trustee, and, incidentally, deals with the appointment of new trustees, and declares that, on the death or discharge of one of several co-trustees, the trust survives and the trust-property passes to the others, unless the instrument of trust expressly declares otherwise.

Chapter VIII treats of the extinction of trusts and, incidentally, of their revocation.

Where no trust is declared, but for the purposes of justice the law deems one to have been created, the trust is by English lawyers termed constructive. Benami transactions, where property is transferred to A for a consideration paid by B, and B makes the payment for his own benefit, have for centuries been familiar to the people of India: gains made by one person at the cost of another are an everyday source of litigation; and in no country, owing to the extreme sub-division of immoveable property and the partition of inheritances, are constructive trusts more common.[a] Chapter IX avoids the fiction implied in the term 'constructive trusts' by treating such confidences as obligations in the nature of trusts properly so called. It specifies the fourteen principal cases in which such an obligation arises, as follows:

1. Where it does not appear that the transferor of property intended to dispose of the beneficial interest (section 80):
2. Where property is transferred to one person for a consideration paid by another (section 81):
3. Where the trust is incapable of execution or is executed without exhausting the property (section 82):
4. Where a transfer of property is made for an illegal purpose (section 83):
5. Where a bequest is made for an illegal purpose, or where the revocation of a bequest is forcibly prevented (section 84):
6. Where a transfer is made in pursuance of a rescindible contract (section 85):
7. Where a transfer is made in fraud of the transferor's creditors (section 86):
8. Where a debtor becomes his creditor's legal representative (section 87):
9. Where a pecuniary advantage is gained by a person in a fiduciary character (section 88):
10. Where an advantage is gained by the exercise of undue influence (section 89):
11. Where an advantage is gained by a tenant for life or other qualified owner in derogation of the rights of other persons interested in the property (section 90):
12. Where property is acquired with notice of an existing contract affecting it (section 91):

[a] As to these trusts, Mr. Coghlan, a District Judge in the Bombay Presidency, writes as follows: "Cases of constructive trusts are continually arising in all civil Courts [in the Mufassal], and are treated on the general principle of equity as fixed by case-made law."

13. Where a person contracts to buy property to be held on trust (section 92) :

14. Where one of several compounding creditors, by a secret arrangement with the debtor, gains an advantage over his co-creditors (section 93) :

The Bill also contains a general clause (section 94) providing for cases not so specified. It is believed that this clause will cover that form of constructive trust which the Punjab Courts have held to arise when a co-sharer in a village community absents himself without expressly abandoning his rights.

The Bill declares that, in the case of all obligations in the nature of a trust, the obligor shall be subject to the liabilities and (with the two exceptions mentioned in section 95) to the disabilities of an ordinary trustee.

Three only of the obligations above specified seem to require further notice. The Bill, it will be seen, does not attempt to suppress the inveterate practice of entering into benami transactions, and it must be admitted that in many, perhaps most, of these transactions the parties are actuated by religious or prudential, rather than fraudulent motives. Section 81, accordingly, declares that, where property is transferred to one person for a consideration paid by another, and it appears that the latter did not intend to pay the consideration for the benefit of the former, the transferee must hold the property for the benefit of the person paying. Resulting trusts, i.e., those that arise where an interest is given for purposes to which the trust is not commensurate (as for instance, to pay debts which are satisfied, or an annuity which expires), are treated (section 82) as constructive, for here there is no declaration of trust as to the portion of the trust-property which is not required for the purpose declared. Section 86 corresponds with 13 Eliz., c. 5, as to settlements intended to defraud creditors. That Statute is in force in the Presidency-towns, and its principle has been held by the Madras High Court (4 Mad. 88) to apply to Natives in the mufassal.

Where a person gives property to charitable purposes, and either specifies no objects or such as do not exhaust the proceeds, the law as it stands, does not suffer the property or its surplus to result to the donor or his legal representatives; but the Court takes upon itself to execute the donor's intention by declaring the particular purposes to which the fund shall be applied. A similar exception is made when the purposes of the gift at the time exhaust the whole proceeds, but in consequence of an increase in the value of the property an excess of income subsequently arises. The Bill ignores these exceptions, which were introduced when the law of resulting trusts was imperfectly understood, and which unfairly disregarded the interest of the legal representative.

Lastly, it may be remarked that the Bill contains no provisions as to the presumption against trustees that advantages gained by them from their beneficiaries are gained by undue influence, or as to the escheat of a beneficiary's interest. The former matter is sufficiently provided for by the Evidence Act, I of 1872, section 111, the latter, by the Succession Act, X of 1865, and the general law as to bona vacantia.

The Bill is now published as settled by the Indian Law Commission[1] and in accordance with the Legislative despatch of the Secretary of State, No. 37, dated 7th October, 1880."

[1]The short title and commencement of the proposed Act have been altered : sections 54 and 55 (which overlapped) have been amended; and in the first Explanation to section 59 the word "allows" has been substituted for "provides."

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE

"The Hon'ble Mr. Stokes moved that the further Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to define and amend the law relating to Private Trusts and Trustees be taken into consideration He said that since he last had the honour of addressing the Council on this Bill, it had been twice revised by a Select Committee, at first composed of the Hon'ble Mr. Gibbs and himself, and then of the Hon'ble Messrs. Gibbs, Evans, Crosthwaite and himself, his hon'ble friend the Maharaja Jotindra Mohan Tagore, to his regret, being unable to assist them owing to his other avocations. The Committee had left the Bill in substance as it was settled by the Indian Law Commission. But it had made five changes which he would briefly state to the Council.

The Bill, as originally drawn and as settled by the Indian Law Commissioners, applied to the whole of British India. Now, the Government of India had no desire to bring this Bill into operation in any part of India against the wishes of the Local Government. The Committee had, therefore, made the Bill to extend in the first instance only to the territories respectively administered by the Governor of Madras in Council, the Lieutenant Governors of the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh the Central Provinces, Coorg and Assam; and they had given power to the other Local Governments to extend it by notification to any part of the territories respectively under their administration.

Section 20, in accordance with a suggestion of the Bombay High Court, enumerated the securities on which trustees might properly invest trust funds The learned Chief Justice of Bombay had pointed out that the most ordinary and popular investment among Native trustees (at least in the Bombay mufassal) was an investment of money with the firms of shroffs or merchants of good repute to run at interest. To proscribe this form of investment, as the Bill as introduced practically did, would, in Sir M. Westropp's opinion, cause much inconvenience Similar kinds of investment might also occur in other parts of India. The Committee had, therefore, in section 20, clause (f), provided that money held in trust might be invested on any security expressly authorized by any rule which the High Court might from time to time prescribe in this behalf.

At the suggestion of the British Indian Association, the Committee had expressly provided, in section 41 of the Bill, that the income of property held in trust for a minor might be applied for the reasonable expenses of his religious worship.

After section 42 they had inserted a section taken, with some slight modification, from the Property Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vic., c 41), and declaring the power of a trustee to compromise or compound debts or claims relating to the trust. A like power was given by section 38 of the Trustees' and Mortgagees' [Powers] Act (XXVIII [28] of 1866) to executors, whose position was similar to that of trustees.

Clause (b), section 72, which empowered retiring trustees to appoint a new trustee, was objected to by the British Indian Association on the ground that retiring trustees would probably be indifferent to the interests of the beneficiary The Committee had, therefore, provided that they could only appoint with the consent of the Court.

No objections to the Bill had been received since it was republished last July, except those contained in a memorial from the British Indian Association, dated the 9th December, 1881. The Committee, and especially the Hon'ble Mr. Evans and himself, had carefully examined this memorial and adopted two of the suggestions which it contained. But they were unable to adopt its other recommendations, most of which were, as seemed to them, founded on a misconception of what the law of trusts really was, as applied to Natives by the High Courts. He was prepared, if the Council wished him to do so, to go through the memorial point by point and to answer each of the objections. But this would take up at least an hour with matters of which only a lawyer could properly judge; and he was bound to say that he thought the time of the Council might be occupied both more pleasantly and more profitably than in listening to such a dissertation.

He, therefore, now asked the Council to pass the Bill. The reception which it had met with in the greater part of India, namely, in Madras, the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, Oudh, the Central Provinces, Coorg and Assam, convinced him that it was accurate, intelligible and really wanted; and the growing tendency of Hindu testators in the Lower Provinces to create trusts by will, of which he had recently been informed by Mr. Justice Wilson, made him sanguine that His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor would soon see the propriety of extending it to the Provinces which he administered so ably.

The Hon'ble Mr. Evans said that he had been placed on the Select Committee since his return to this country in November, and had not had much leisure to go minutely through all the provisions of the Bill, but that he had in Select Committee considered the objections urged by the memorial of the British Indian Association, with the result stated by the hon'ble mover. As to the Bill generally, the somewhat cursory examination which he had been able to give to it did not lead him to believe that the rights and obligations of trustees and beneficiaries would be materially altered, save possibly as regards the class of securities in which a trustee might invest. Power was given to the High Court to relax the rules as to investment if found too stringent.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Stokes then moved that the Bill as amended be passed.

The motion was put and agreed to."—

Short title. Commencement. 1. This Act may be called the Indian Trusts Act, 1882 : and it shall come into force on the first day of March, 1882.

Local extent. Savings. SECTION 1 — SYNOPSIS

1. Applicability.
2. Public or private trusts.
3. Religious or charitable endowments.

1. Applicability.—[1] The Trusts Act applies only to Rangoon and not to the districts. But still the principles enunciated therein can be applied to cases coming from the districts in Rangoon. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 44 (47) (DB).

[2] Principle of Act applies to districts in Burma to which the Act does not apply. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 44 (47) (DB).

[3] The tendency of Legislature in India has been, as far as possible, not to disturb by special legislation existing usages and customs, and not to interfere with their public, religious and charitable endowments The considerations that apply to charities in India are Repeal of enactments.

2. The Statute and Acts mentioned in the Schedule hereto annexed shall to the extent mentioned in the said Schedule, be repealed in the territories to which this Act for the time being extends.

Interpretation-clause — "trust".

3. A "trust" is an obligation annexed to the ownership of property, and arising out of a confidence reposed in and accepted by the owner, or declared and accepted by him, for the benefit of another, or of another and the

[4] In interpreting the Act English authority and practice may be considered. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 223 (225) : I L R (1943) Kar 213 (DB).

[5] Trusts and legal estates are governed by the same rules. Any question of a trust in India is controlled by the provisions of the Indian Trust Act, 1882, if the trust in question does not happen to be a charitable trust. Under the Act, executory trusts may be claimed as obligations in the nature of trusts as provided for in Ss. 92 and 94. The salary drawn by an officer is trust money. Income from trust money and not trust money itself will be exempted under S. 4 (3), Income-tax Act. (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 95 (96, 97, 98 : 4 Rang 538 (FB).

2. Public or private trusts.—[1] The criterion for deciding whether a particular trust is or is not of a private nature is whether the said trust is or is not for the benefit of individuals. (Vol 22 1935 All 139 (140) (DB).

[2] The feeding of the poor is a public charity. Where a trustee has been appointed to such charity he can be removed only by an application under S. 92, Civil P. C. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 689 (690).

[3] Property described as wakf was divided among the members of the family by the award of arbitrators. Each was receiving his share of profits and it was stated that each should apply it for trust. Held, it was a private trust. (Vol 20) 1933 All 622 (622) (DB).

[4] It is the extensiveness of object which affords some indication of the public nature of a trust. The test is, whether it is for a large and extensive section of the community? Appeals for funds to carry on utsabs of institution are hardly commensurate with private, religious or charitable institution. If a private institution receives a gift from a stranger for his own spiritual benefit, mere receipt of the gift does not make the institution a public one. But the number and nature of gifts are material. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 67 (78, 79) : I L R (1937) 1 Cal 515 (DB).

[5] The 'raddimazalim' fund is an endowment, partly public and partly private for religious and charitable purposes and hence the Trusts Act will not apply to it. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 118 (121) : 9 Luck 507.

[6] Public endowment for religious uses is defined. In a private trust the beneficiaries are defined and ascertained individuals. In a public trust the beneficial interest must be vested in an uncertain and fluctuating body of persons. The fact that the fluctuating body of persons is a shia sect or even a sub-sect of shias would not make a wakf a private trust. Individual or limited individuals may have personal right in public trust. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 343 (349) : I L R (1942) 1 Cal 211 (DB).

[7] Long user is determining factor in finding out whether temple is public or not. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 33 (37) (D B). ('91) 15 Bom 612 (D B) ; ('99) 23 Bom 659 (DB) and (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 142 : 50 Cal 292 (DB), Ref.)

[8] In the case of family trusts the general consensus of the family may put an end to them, in this sense they differ from public trusts. But so long as members of the family insist that the family trusts should be continued, it is not open to the other members to insist on their discontinuance. ('37) 1937 Mad W N 162 (163).

3. Religious or charitable endowments. — [1] The Act does not apply to public charities, and no formalities are required by law to create it. In the case of trust with reference to a particular property language must be expressive of the intention to create a trust. Also rights of the author in the property should have been parted with for the benefit of the beneficiary. There must be complete dedication and a mere intention to dedicate at a future date is not sufficient. (Vol 9 1922 Mad 83 (84, 85) (DB).

[2] Act does not apply by analogy to religious and charitable trusts — Indian Courts are to be guided by English law unless it is inconsistent with the rules of practice of the Indian Courts. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 374 (379, 380) : I L R (1937) Bom 843.

[3] Act does not apply to charities. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 389 (393).

[4] Act in excluding Hindu religious endowments predicates them to be not strictly trusts. (Vol 15) 1928 All 689 (693) (DB).

[5] Trusts Act has no application to waqf alal-aulad. (Vol 32) 1945 All 261 (262) : I L R (1945) All 818 (FB).

[6] Mere foundation of a public religious or charitable trust does not mean that the founder has relinquished his rights as such. Subsequent benefactions are mere accretion to existing foundation. In the case of a private trust, foundation of worship of idol means that the shebaitship is vested in founder and his heirs unless disposed of otherwise. This principle applies to public trusts as well. To remove a trustee of public trust under S. 92, Civil P.C. something substantial must be shown. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 67 (80, 81) : ILR (1937) 1 Cal 515 (DB). (AIR (10) 1923 Cal 142, Rel. on.)

[7] A trust for charity simpliciter so long as it is confined to charity exclusively is a perfectly good trust and it is not necessary that the objects of trust or charity need be specified. This is the law both Indian and English. A trust for khairat or kharatikam is a perfectly good trust and in such a case no specification of objects of charity is necessary. (Vol 28) 1941 All 235 (241) : I L R (1941) All 443 (DB).

[8] Income from an office held on condition that such salary would be held in trust for certain charitable purposes is not exempt from income-tax under S. 4 (3), Income-tax Act, although the money is spent for such charitable purposes. (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 95 (95) : 4 Rang 538 (FB).

Section 2 — Note 1

[1] The saving clause in S. 1 of the Trusts Act does not affect the repealing section which immediately follows. The words of the section are unqualified and absolute (1909) 33 Bom 509 (517) (DB).

6. Beneficiary.

owner: the person who reposes or declares the confidence is called the "author of the trust" : the person who accepts the confidence is called the "trustee" : the person for whose benefit the confidence is accepted is called the "beneficiary" : the subject-matter of the trust is called "trust-property" or "trust-money": the "beneficial interest" or "interest" of the beneficiary is his right against the trustee as owner of the trust-property; and the instrument, if any, by which the trust is declared is called the "instrument of trust" :

and in this Act unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context, "registered" means registered under the law for the registration of documents for the time being in force : a person is said to have "notice" of a fact either when he actually knows that fact, or when, but for wilful abstention from inquiry or gross negligence, he would have known it, or when information of the fact is given to or obtained by his agent, under the circumstances mentioned in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, section 229; and all expressions used herein and defined in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, shall be deemed to have the meanings respectively attributed to them by that Act.

"registered" :

"notice".

Expressions defined in Act IX of 1872.

SECTION 3 — SYNOPSIS (contd.)

7. Breach of trust.
8. Notice.
9. Obligation in nature of trust.

1. Scope.—[1] A trust is in effect, the gift of property or an interest in property to a person or institution by or through the intervention of a trustee. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 636 (638) : 50 Mad 687 (FB).

[2] Though original trust is void, subsequent admission by trustee that he holds property on trust establishes valid trust. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 366 (370) : I L R (1943) Bom 495 (DB).

2. "Annexed to the ownership."—[1] Under the law in India there can be only one owner of the property where the property is vested in a trustee and he is the trustee. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 818 (822) (D B). ((Vol 18) 1931 P C 196 : 58 Ind App 279: 10 Pat 851 (PC), Rel. on.)

[2] A trustee in the legal sense of the word is one in whom the trust property is absolutely vested The mere use of the word 'trustee' in documents does not make a man the legal trustee till he proves the ownership of the immovable properties which is the subject matter of the trust. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 374 (378, 379) : I L R (1937) Bom 843 (DB)

[3] The Indian Law does not recognize legal and equitable estates. The owner of trust property is the trustee only. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 84 (87) : 12 Rang 589 (DB).

[4] Bona fide holder of property whether under express or implied trust is legal owner. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 366 (370) : 60 Cal 262 (DB).

[5] Trusts Act is intended to get rid of the conception of double ownership, legal and equitable. ('09) 32 Mad 443 (455) (DB).

[6] The cashier furnished a deposit as security in a Bank with the understanding that the Bank should hold the deposit as trustee The fact that the Bank made use of the security in its business though known to the cashier who had the general charge of the account books did not alter the fiduciary relationship between the parties. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 221 (222) : I L R (1937) 2 Cal 305.

[8] Liability of trustee and agent of the trustee — Difference pointed out. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 412 (414) (DB).

[9] Where the rights of executants of a deed become extinguished and get completely vested into an idol the idol is the owner and not the trustee. (Vol 28) 1936 Cal 556 (560) : 62 Cal 1098 (DB).

[10] Money set apart for charity and invested with merchant does not make latter trustee, though interest thereon may be spent on charity. (Vol 12) 1925 Sind 259 (260).

3 Arising out of confidence. — [1] It is essential in every trust which is not wholly unilateral that there should be a confidence reposed. The beneficiary is clothed with the equitable title and the legal title resides in the trustee, no trustee can use the trust property for his own benefit He is bound to hold it for and account for the beneficiary. (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 261 (262, 263).

[2] Person agreeing to collect movables and rent from immovables, and render accounts to third person does not become trustee for owner. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 8 (11) : 16 Nag L R 94 (PC).

[3] By a deed of relinquishment S gave all his property to his eldest son. The son later executed another deed providing to give a village and a certain sum of money to J the son of the concubine of S. The two deeds were followed by mutation proceedings : Held, that the two instruments should be read together and since the property intended to be surrendered to J was handed over immediately to the son, a trust was created in favour of J. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 245 (247) : 32 Sind L R 907 (PC).

[4] P entrusted some money with his agent, a firm to invest it in other firms. The agent firm had no authority to invest any part of it in its own firm : Held, the money was held in trust and the fact that the agent firm invested it in its own firm without the knowledge of P could not affect the fiduciary character in which the agent firm stood. (Vol 24) 1937 P C 296 (298) : I L R (1938) Mad 91 : 31 Sind L R 678 : 64 Ind App 343 (PC).

CHAPTER II

OF THE CREATION OF TRUSTS.

Lawful purpose.

4. A trust may be created for any lawful purpose. The purpose of a trust is lawful unless it is (a) forbidden by law, or (b) is of such a nature that, if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law, or (c) is fraudulent, or (d) involves or implies injury to the person or property of another, or (e) the Court regards it as immoral or opposed to public policy.

Every trust of which the purpose is unlawful is void. And where a trust is created for two purposes, of which one is lawful and the other unlawful, and the two purposes cannot be separated, the whole trust is void.

Explanation. — In this section the expression "law" includes, where the trust property is immoveable and situate in a foreign country, the law of such country

Illustrations.

(a) A conveys property to B in trust to apply the profits to the nurture of females for ends to be trained up as prostitutes. The trust is void

(b) A bequeaths property to B in trust to employ it in carrying on a smuggling business and out of the profits thereof to support A's children. The trust is void.

(c) A, while in insolvent circumstances, transfers property to B in trust for A during his life, and after his death for B. A is declared an insolvent. The trust for A is invalid as against his creditors.

Section 3 — Note 3 (contd.)

[5] Where a person accepts a trust in relation to a specific sum of money and agrees to invest it in his firm and to conform to the terms of the instrument creating the trust, a valid trust is created. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 41 (46) : I L R (1941) Bom 42 (DB).

[6] The security deposit of an employee in a Bank placed upon fixed deposit in his name is held by the Bank in trust. The fact of payment of interest by the Bank does not destroy the character of the deposit. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 651 (652).

[7] A, sister of B and C, with a desire to help B, entrusting C with the sum of Rs. 50,000 with a direction to redeem the mortgage over B's ancestral house and hand it over to B—Transaction amounts to a trust. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 43 (44).

[8] Trust is gift of property or interest in property to person or institution by or through trustee. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 636 (638) : 50 Mad 687 (FB).

[9] A sole selling agent of a company deposited a sum of money as security to be refunded after expiry of agreement. Interest was paid on that amount : Held, no trust was created. (Vol 25) 1938 All 574 (576) : I L R (1938) All 896.

[10] An imperfect gift will not operate as a declaration of trust. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 88 (88).

4. "For the benefit of another". — [1] Creditor not a party nor notified of trust—Debtor transferring to third person in trust for creditors—Creditor can get his debt out of trust property through trustee who is the owner thereof. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 818 (822) (DB).

[2] Trust in favour of creditors is irrevocable if creditors are parties to conveyance or are given notice of execution. When some creditors only sign composition deed but others have notice of execution it is trust in favour of all. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 10 (12) (DB).

[3] A document which purports to create a trust must create a genuine trust and not create a provision for relatives under the guise of a trust ; the test is the proportion of the funds to be allotted to the idol or charity. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 23 (29) (DB).

[4] Where a person has come into possession of properties as a trustee, he is estopped from taking up the position that it is his private property. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 33 (51) : 11 Pat 288 (DB).

5. Trust property — [1] Enjoyment of beneficial interest by trustee along with beneficiaries does not make it any the less trust property. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1134 (1134).

[2] A person may become a trustee by his own acts and conduct so as to deprive himself of all beneficial ownership of a property and declare that he will hold the same in trust for another. The definition of trust in S. 3 clearly shows that because the owner retains a certain interest in the property, it would not necessarily go against the foundation of trust. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 296 (297).

6. Beneficiary.—[1] The interest of a beneficiary of a trust as defined in S 3 of the Act is his right against the trustee as owner of trust property. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 818 (822) (DB).

7. Breach of trust. — [1] Where executors who are also residuary legatees under a will take money belonging to the estate for their own use before paying the debts and legatees, they commit a breach of trust and no question of title arises under the circumstances (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 286 (290) : 60 Cal 30 (DB).

8. Notice.—[1] Bank is not fixed with constructive notice of a trust simply because, executor opened a number of accounts, each deposit having a corresponding current account to which interest was credited. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 155 (160, 161) (D B).

9. Obligation in nature of trust.—[1] Obligations in nature of trust provided in Ch IX are not included in definition of trusts which only were subject-matter of Act. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 215 (242) : 47 Cri L Jour 594 (D B).

1. Trusts for lawful purposes. — [1] If there was a complete dedication by the donor for religious purposes, the subsequent misapplication of the income by the donor would not affect the validity of the trust. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 920 (922) (D B).

[2] Non-performance of charity does not negative charitable trust if otherwise the trust is proved. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 138 (139, 140) (D B).

Trust of moveable property.

No trust in relation to moveable property is valid unless declared as aforesaid, or unless the ownership of the property is transferred to the trustee.

These rules do not apply where they would operate so as to effectuate a fraud.

Section 5 (contd.)

2. Trusts created to defeat provisions of law.—[1] The vendor, on the eve of his insolvency parting with goods on an agreement with the vendee to hold the goods or their sale proceeds in trust for him—Vendee is a trustee but the trust is unlawful and could not be enforced against the Official Assignee. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 37 (39) : 31 Sind L R 391 (D B).

[2] Vendor making vendee "trustee for goods sold or sale proceeds" to enable vendee get false credit, object being to defeat Insolvency Act — Held, no valid trust. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 37 (38, 39) : 31 Sind L R 391 (DB).

[4] Suit for possession of property on basis of trust deed — Defendant can plead fraudulent nature of deed. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 233 (236) (D B).

3. Trusts for the benefit of creditors.—[1] Trust for benefit of creditors is prima facie not fraudulent. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 818 (821) (DB).

[2] If a transfer is a trust for creditors it must conform to the requirements of the law of trusts i. e., Ss. 4, 5 and 6 must be satisfied. Hence, a mere declaration of trust with regard to moveables is clearly not enough. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 869 (871) : 50 Mad 815 (D B).

4. Partially unlawful purpose.—[1] A trust deed provided for charitable objects and for private benevolence towards certain relatives: Held, the provisions relating to the bounty to the relatives were void, and the other part of the trust was valid. (Vol 24) 1937 P C 4 (8) : 64 Ind App 5: I L R (1937) All 3 (P C).

5. Other illustrative cases. — [1] A company instead of giving pensions to its officers promised them a lump sum on retirement to be computed on terms formulated by the rules of the fund. Those placed on the fund were given 'pass books' containing the amounts credited to them from time to time under the rules: Held, a trust was created in favour of the employees. (Vol 24) 1937 P C 261 (263) : 31 Sind L R 656 : 64 Ind App 323 : I L R (1938) Mad 1 (P C).

SECTION 5 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Declaration of trust.
3. There must be transfer of the property.
4. "In writing registered."
5. Trust of moveable property.
6. Immoveable property.
7. Subsequent conduct.
8. Agency and trust.
9. Last paragraph.

1. Scope.—[1] No trust of immovable property is valid unless declared by non-testamentary instrument in writing signed by author of trust or trustee and registered. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 84 (87) : 12 Rang 589 (DB).

[2] Section 5 of the Trusts Act must be read with S. 6—S. 5 lays down what may be called the extrinsic conditions necessary to create a trust. S. 6 lays down the intrinsic conditions necessary for a valid trust. S. 5, cl. (2) lays down a general rule; S. 6 creates an exception in the case of a trust of moveable property. ('11) 35 Bom 403 (407) (DB).

[3] Where a non-testamentary instrument in writing is signed by the trustee as well as the author of the trust and registered there is a valid trust both in regard to moveable and immoveable property. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 99 (103) : 12 Luck 639 (D B).

[4] To constitute a trust, there must be a trustee, an express trust, and an estate or interest in lands vested in the trustee and which the trust must affect. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 284 (285).

2. Declaration of trust. — [1] In the case of moveable property the ownership of the property is to be transferred. In the case of a trust of immoveable property only a declaration is necessary. The declaration itself vests the property in the trustee and is a 'transfer' of property. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 818 (820, 821) (DB).

[2] A, a Jain widow who held a share in the Bank of Bombay transferred it to B to secure a debt. After discharging the debt she desired to transfer the share to her minor nephews. Accordingly she presented the transfer signed by B but the Bank refused to effect the transfer as the transferees were minors. A then directed the transfer to her brothers as trustees for the minors and the transfer was lodged on 15th December. Meanwhile A died on the 14th. The heirs of A contended that neither gift nor trust was created —Held, the trust in favour of the minors was complete, although there was no written and signed declaration of trust by A, as the property already vested in a trustee B, who had notice of the trust in favour of the minors and could in equity be compelled to perform the trust duty. ('12) 36 Bom 396 (404) (D B).

3. There must be transfer of the property.—[1] A document to be a deed of trust must contain words of transfer and vest the property in the trustee as the legal owner; although no particular form of expression is necessary. Mere intention to create a trust, however, is not sufficient. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 555 (556) (D B).

[2] Where after registration of a trust deed the author renounces the world but remains in management of the trust property not as owner but as manager, a valid trust is created. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 86 (88).

[3] Where there is a fund vested in trustees and payable to the children of the deceased and the deceased himself never had any interest in the fund or any disposing power over it a valid trust under the section is created. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 300 (301) (D B).

[4] Assignment of specific property is essential to trust and allegation that a certain sum was deposited with first defendant in trust for plaintiff, and that second and third defendants had attested will to that effect is not enough to create a trust. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 284 (285).

[5] Rules of provident fund providing for vesting of control and management of funds in trustee — No

6. Subject to the provisions of section 5, a trust is created when the author of the trust vesting of ownership of funds in trustee — No valid trust is created— Creditor can obtain attachment order in respect of funds standing to credit of his judgment-debtor in such fund. (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 430 (431) & (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 47 (49, 50) : I L R (1941) Kar 401 (DB).

[6] Money set apart for charity invested with third party—Latter is not trustee. (Vol 12) 1925 Sind 259 (259).

[7] Trust deed empowering trustee to sell moveables and immoveables and collect outstandings—Deed containing no words of transfer— Held, that, as the document was one and indivisible it did not create any rights of trusteeship even in respect to movable property and no security or charge was created in respect of the moveable property in favour of the trustee. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 555 (556) (D B).

[8] Transfer of property is not necessary if trust is declared by will, or if the author of trust is himself trustee. ('11) 35 Bom 403 (408, 409) (D B).

4. "In writing registered."—[1] Registered deed is necessary to constitute valid trust. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 86 (88).

[3] A trust by an auction-purchaser in favour of the person who supplied him with purchase money can be created only by means of a registered instrument. (Vol 21) 1934 All 990 (993).

[4] Deed of gift registered— Contemporaneous unregistered agreement executed by donee in favour of donor that gift was revocable whenever donor would like —Held latter document was admissible in evidence though not registered as provisions of S. 5, Trusts Act could not be applied so as to effectuate a fraud — Nor was S. 17, Registration Act bar to its admissibility. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 188 (189).

[5] Trust of immovable property must be by non-testamentary instrument signed by author or trustee and registered; or declared by will of trustee or author of trust. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 202 (206) (D B).

[6] Trust—Creation of—Charitable endowment by a Hindu in Punjab — No writing is required — Purpose should be clearly specified—Property intended should be set apart as dedicated to that purpose — Divestiture of property is necessary. [7] Twelve years enjoyment by the beneficiary will in general confer a prescriptive right even in the absence of a registered instrument. (Vol 21) 1934 All 990 (993).

[8] The vendor under an unregistered contract for sale of immoveable property by reason of what he had said or done cannot be treated as holding the property as a trustee for the purchaser as it is in violation of the Registration Act. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 84 (85): 12 Rang 589 (D B).

5. Trust of moveable property. — [1] In a trust of moveable property the ownership of the property is to be transferred. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 818 (820, 821, 822) (D B).

[2] Chose in action such as right to sue for specific performance of contract to lease being moveable property can be subject of trust. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 184 (185) : 7 Rang 144 (D B).

[3] Where property is money, promissory notes and bonds, mere delivery is enough to vest property in trustee (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 109 (110) (D B).

6. Immoveable property.— [1] Under S. 5 of the Trusts Act a trust respecting immovable property must be declared by a non-testamentary instrument in writing signed by the author of the trust or the trustee and registered or it must be declared by the will of the author of the trust or trustee. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 202 (205) (D B).

[2] A valid trust in respect of immoveable property can only be created by a writing signed by the author of the trust and registered in the case of a non-testamentary instrument. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 657 (658) (D B).

7. Subsequent conduct.— [1] If there was a completed dedication by the donor for religious purposes the subsequent misapplication of the income by the donor would not affect its validity and would not revest the income in him. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 920 (922) (D B).

[2] Trust by a Hindu in Punjab — Evidence of divestiture of property must be contemporaneous—Subsequent acts and conduct of the donor are irrelevant and cannot revest the property in him. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 73 (76) : I L R (1938) Lah 63 : 65 Ind App 106 : 32 Sind L R 350 (P C).

8. Agency and trust.—[1] There is a well-marked distinction between the relation of agency and that of trust but agency may often involve a relation of trust and confidence and property in the hands of an agent may sometimes be impressed with a trust for the benefit of the principal. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 673 (675) : I L R (1938) 1 Cal 652.

9 Last paragraph.—[1] The provision for writing in regard to a trust in relation to immoveable property is got over by the last paragraph of the section to the effect that such rules do not apply where they would operate so as to effectuate a fraud. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 673 (676) : I L R (1938) 1 Cal 652.

[2] Deed of gift registered — Contemporaneous unregistered agreement executed by donee in favour of donor that gift was revocable whenever the donor liked : Held, latter document was admissible in evidence though not registered as the provisions of S. 5, Trusts Act could not be utilised to effectuate a fraud. 7. Transfer of trust property.
8. Rights of third parties.
9. Trust for benefit of creditors.
10. Other illustrative cases.

Illustrations.

(a) A bequeaths certain property to B, "having the fullest confidence that he will dispose of it for the benefit of C". This creates a trust so far as regards A and C.

(b) A bequeaths certain property to B, "hoping he will continue it in the family". This does not create a trust, as the beneficiary is not indicated with reasonable certainty.

(c) A bequeaths certain property to B, requesting him to distribute it among such members of C's family as B should think most deserving. This does not create a trust, for the beneficiaries are not indicated with reasonable certainty.

(d) A bequeaths certain property to B, desiring him to divide the bulk of it among C's children. This does not create a trust, for the trust-property is not indicated with sufficient certainty.

(e) A bequeaths a shop and stock-in-trade to B, on condition that he pays A's debts and a legacy to C. This is a condition, not a trust for A's creditors and C.

Section 6 — Note 1 (contd.)

[3] Express trusts are only those validly created under Ss. 5 and 6. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 180 (185) : 63 Cal 784.

2. "Indicates with reasonable certainty." —

(a) General.

[1] The intention to create a trust must be indicated with reasonable certainty. The purpose of the trust, the trust property and the beneficiaries must be indicated in such a way that the trust can be administered by the Court if the occasion arises. (Vol 22) 1935 P C 97 (102) : 62 Ind App 146 : 57 All 330 (P C).

[2] Where the original instrument of dedication is indefinite, the trust must be construed in the light of long continued usage. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 443 (451) (DB).

[3] In an insurance policy appeared the words "to the person or persons legally entitled thereto" against the column to whom payable : Held requirements of S. 6 Married Women's Property Act, had not been fulfilled and no trust was created. The trust should appear express on the face. The words should be plain and unambiguous. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 635 (636) (DB).

(aa) Certainty as to intentions.

[4] Where there is no indication with reasonable certainty by any words or acts of an intention to create a trust, there can be no trust. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 78 (80) : I L R (1944) Kar (P C) 262 : I L R (1944) Mad 617 (P C).

(b) Certainty as to beneficiary.

[5] Although it is clearly the intention of the Shia law that the property of a heirless Shia should be devoted to the poor and indigent, there is some vagueness as to the persons who are intended to be benefited. This vagueness relates to whether the beneficiaries are to be Sayyids, especially poor Sayyids, or whether they are to be the poor and indigent, whether Sayyids or not, whether they are to be the poor of the native town of deceased or the poor of the place where he resided or the poor of the place where he died, or of all these places, or whether they were to be poor Shias generally. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 321 (327, 328) : 5 Pat 539 (DB).

(c) Certainty as to object.

[6] Vanabhojanam Dharmam is not too vague an object of charitable trust. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 689 (690).

[7] Where the relevant portion of the will ran as follows:—" . . . . . the executors shall with the said ⅓ portion of the said income make annadhanam in our family choultry and if she (the testator's wife) dies leaving any moveable properties they shall be used by the said executors themselves for the said feeding charity. After my wife's decease, 2 out of 3 portions of the income enjoyed by her shall be utilized for the charity": Held, that the words "the charity" refer to the chattram which had immediately before been indicated. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 221 (225) : 51 Ind App 282 : 47 Mad 884 (P C).

[8] A bequest for Dhamaco Kam is void for uncertainty. (Vol 12) 1925 Sind 195 (197) : 19 Sind L R 220.

(d) Certainty about trust property.

[9] Testator merely expressing pious wish to carry on charitable and religious work and trust property not indicated with reasonable certainty — No trust is created. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 435 (436, 437) : 21 Pat 488 (S B).

[10] In case of failure to give certain village, trust deed providing for another village of the same quality and profits : Held there was no uncertainty about the trust property. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 99 (104) : 12 Luck 639 (DB).

[11] Member of provident fund creating trust of interest accruing and accrued — Trust property, held had been indicated with reasonable certainty within meaning of S. 6 although the precise amount was not actually ascertainable at the time of the deed. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 335 (338) : I L R (1943) 2 Cal 325.

3. Declaration of intention. — [1] Where there is no non-testamentary instrument in writing signed by the author of the trust nor a declaration of intention, no trust is created. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 78 (80) : I L R (1944) Kar (P C) 262 : I L R (1944) Mad 617 (P C).

[2] Property conveyed—Entire interest of transferor, whether legal or equitable, intended to be conveyed—No intention to create trust can be gathered. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 168 (170) (P C).

[3] A trust is not created unless the author of the trust 'indicates with reasonable certainty by any words or acts an intention on his part to create thereby a trust.' A man, who contracts to do a certain thing for consideration does not intend to create a trust. He merely enters into a contract and his obligations are thereafter contractual, not in trust. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 266 (269) : I L R (1943) Nag 643.

[4] A trust can be created by word of mouth provided an express declaration can be proved or reasonable certainty existed of the creation of a trust by language or conduct — There must be intention to constitute a trust binding on settlor or any other; a definite property in favour of a definite person. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 97 (98).

[5] Mere intention to create trust is not sufficient, unless some act is done to effectuate trust. ('09) 19 Mad L Jour 106 (111) (DB).

[6] The word "thereby" in S. 6 refers to "words or acts" and only means that an intention on the part of the author of the trust must appear with reasonable certainty by any words or acts. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 99 (104) : 12 Luck 639 (DB).

4. Purpose. — [1] Kararnama providing that interest or balance of insurance money with defendant was to be used for any ceremonial in family held constituted valid trust, as there was sufficient precision of purpose of trust. (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 63 (64).

[2] When settlor authorises trustee to invest money in trustee's business and pay interest to beneficiary, valid trust is created. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 693 (698) (DB).

[3] A person who collects money for a charity becomes a trustee of such money for the charity. It is immaterial that the charity or society has made any arrangement with the Collector authorising him to collect because the trust is constituted by the payment by the members of the public on the representation of the Collector that the money is for a specific charitable purpose. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 358 (360) (DB).

[4] Gift subject to condition that donee should maintain certain person creates implied trust. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 29 (30).

[5] A deposit by an employee with employer is not a trust since there is no object of trust and the employer, is not expected to carry out any trust. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 444 (445).

[6] A trust in favour of education simpliciter will not be void for vagueness or indefiniteness. A deed of wakf dedicated to national education is not void. (Vol 28) 1941 All 225 (234) : I L R (1941) All 377 (DB).

5. Beneficiary. — [1] For constitution of trust, beneficiaries must be indicated with reasonable certainty. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 519 (522):ILR (1946) Mad 429 (DB).

[2] Where there is no devise of estate to anybody, no valid trust is created. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 291 (297) (D B).

[3] Where gift provided that donee should maintain certain person, there was trust in his favour. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 29 (30).

[4] Fund payable to children on death without disposing power to member is valid trust. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 300 (300, 302) (DB).

[5] A beneficiary should not be made a trustee unless there are clear words indicating that he was intended to be made a trustee. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 789 (790).

[6] In the case of Provident Fund neither the trust money nor the beneficiary can be said to be clearly indicated, hence the trust is invalid. The ownership of the trust fund also does not vest in the trustees. (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 47 (49) : I L R (1941) Kar 401 (DB).

6. Trust property must be specified. — [1] Company having one of its objects to allocate 30 per cent. of monies coming from certificate holders towards specified charities, issuing donation certificates to subscribers — Certificates accepted by subscribers on condition and with knowledge that 30 per cent. of contribution was to go to charity. Held, trust was created in respect of 30 per cent. of contribution amount. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 368 (369, 370).

[2] Sole proprietor of company opening separate account in name of wife in company's books and placing large amounts to her credit. Interest paid to wife on aforesaid amounts described as "deposits" or "unsecured loans" in company's books but as gift in letter to wife from Company — Held no trust was created in favour of wife as no sum was set aside and appropriated by the husband as a fund transferable to the wife of which he was to be trustee. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 78 (80) : I L R (1944) Kar (P C) 262 : I L R (1944) Mad 617 (PC).

[3] To constitute trust, there must be trustee with express trust, and estate or interest in lands which the trust must affect. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 284 (285).

7. Transfer of trust property. — [1] There can be no trust unless the legal interest is actually vested in trustee. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 119 (121) (PC).

[2] The Trusts Act lays considerable stress on the necessity of a transfer of ownership for the effective creation of a trust. In India there is no such thing as an equitable owner. Whatever the limitations of that estate may be, there is no doubt that in Indian Law, as in English Law, the trustees have the full legal estate in the trust property. No particular words of transfer are required but the document must aim at effecting a transfer. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 529 (550-554).

[3] One of the modes of transfer under the section is a non-testamentary instrument in writing which is registered. ('11) 35 Bom 403 (409) (DB).

[4] Section 6, Trusts Act, contemplates that the author of the trust should transfer the trust property. The word "transfer" has been used in a wider sense than in the T. P. Act which was also passed in the same year. It includes, not only sales, mortgages, leases, gifts but also vesting declarations. In the case of movable property, the ownership of the property is to be transferred. In the case of immovable property, only a declaration is necessary. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 818 (820, 821) (D B).

[5] Trust is complete not after appointment of trustee, but after vesting of property in him for benefit of cestui que trust. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 374 (378, 379) : I L R (1937) Bom 843.

[6] To constitute himself trustee, owner must clearly divest himself of beneficial interest, declare himself trustee and exercise control over it as such. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1337 (1342) (DB)

[7] Trust deed empowering trustees to sell moveables and immovables and collect outstandings — Deed containing no words of transfer —Document does not create trust nor, document being indivisible, rights of trusteeship even in respect of moveables. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 555 (555, 556) (DB).

[8] There is no need to transfer possession, if declaration of trusts refers to specific property, beneficiary, and purpose. (Vol 2) 1915 Bom 124 (127).

[9] Section 6 must be construed as meaning that though as a rule transfer is one of the conditions necessary for a valid trust whether in the case of moveable or immoveable property no transfer is necessary where trust is declared by will or where the author of the trust is to be the trustee. ('11) 35 Bom 403 (408) (DB).

[10] Section 10, Limitation Act, 1908, deals with suit against person in whom property has been vested in trust for any specific purpose. It is not applicable to constructive trusts or obligations in the nature of trusts where there is no transfer of ownership. There is no trust without a transfer of ownership. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 722 (723) (DB).

[11] Only real dedication, whereby owner divest himself of ownership and not mere unexpressed intention to dedicate can invalidate a subsequent transfer of property to third person. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 612 (614) : 13 Pat 356 (DB).

[12] Physical delivery of property in addition to registered instrument is not necessary for creation of valid trust. ('11) 14 Oudh Cas 356 (383) (DB).

8. Rights of third parties. — [1] S executing deed of relinquishment in favour of his son U — U party to such deed — Deed referring to another deed executed by U and stating that U would act according to conditions laid down in that deed — U in such second deed agreeing to pay certain amount to one J who was not party to either deed — Two deeds, held must be read together and trust was created in favour of J enforceable at his instance. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 245 (247, 248) : 32 Sind L R 907 (P C).

[2] The grounds of the defendant's liability were stated in the plaint to be that, in consideration of great services rendered by the plaintiff and his father to the Zemindar, the latter agreed to give the plaintiff a salary of Rs 20 a month during the plaintiff's time and that in the deed of mortgage with possession executed by the Zemindar in favour of the defendant there was a stipulation that the defendant should pay the allowances to the plaintiff — Held, that plaintiff could not recover on the strength of the direction to pay contained in the mortgage deed unless the defendant could be held to have been constituted a trustee for the plaintiff.

Who may create trust.

7. A trust may be created —

(a) by every person competent to contract,[a] and,

(b) with the permission of a principal civil Court of original jurisdiction, by or on behalf of a minor;

but subject in each case to the law for the time being in force as to the circumstances and extent in and to which the author of the trust may dispose of the trust-property.

[a] See the Indian Contract Act, 1872 (9 [IX] of 1872), S. 11.

Subject of trust.

8. The subject-matter of a trust must be property transferable to the beneficiary.

It must not be merely beneficial interest under a subsisting trust.

Who may be beneficiary.

9. Every person capable of holding property may be a beneficiary.

Disclaimer by beneficiary.

A proposed beneficiary may renounce his interest under the trust by disclaimer addressed to the trustee, or by setting up, with notice of the trust, a claim inconsistent therewith.

[3] Where a person sets apart a certain sum for charity and invests it with a merchant and the interest paid by the merchant is spent on charity, the merchant is not a trustee in respect of the amount. (Vol 12) 1925 Sind 259 (259).

[4] Statement of a charge for discharge of debts in partition document does not create trust. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 221 (222) : I L R (1943) Kar 338 (DB).

9. Trust for benefit of creditors. — [1] In the case of a deed of trust for the benefit of creditors it is not absolutely necessary that every creditor should execute the deed. Unless the creditor in some manner expresses his willingness to accept it, he cannot claim benefit under it. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 199 (201) (DB).

10. Other illustrative cases. — [1] It is a well established principle of equity that no trust shall fail for want of a trustee. The same appears from the scheme of the Trusts Act. It is thus clear that the law of trusts in India also contemplates that no trust should be defeated for want of a trustee. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 161 (169, 170) : 14 Luck 548 (DB).

[2] Where for his benefit, settlor asks another to acquire property, reserving to himself right to revoke transaction, there is valid trust; but on revocation, trustee's acquisitions made later on become his own. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 68 (91, 92) (FB).

[3] Banker, agreeing to buy securities for depositor, does not become trustee of that money by his suspending payment. ('10) 8 Mad L Tim 52 (52) (SB).

[4] Government granting pension on death of A to his son-in-law and daughters—On death of one daughter, Government instead of paying whole pension to surviving daughters, paying only certain portion to descendants of deceased daughter and investing balance through Accountant General for benefit of descendants of two Begums on lapse of pension — On death of surviving daughter, Government deciding to pay political pensions to heads of families left by Begums thus replacing accumulated capital by political pensions — Suit by descendant of Begum for account and administration of accumulated fund alleging it to be trust fund — Held that no trust had been created. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 439 (446, 447) (DB).

[5] By a supplementary deed, the executant did not purport to execute a fresh deed of trust having revoked the former one, but merely to add to the former deed, supposed to be a valid deed of trust, supplementary provisions. The first deed was found to be ineffective as a deed of trust. The defects in the first deed could not be held to be cured by the second deed. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 529 (552).

[6] A document not vesting any interest in properties in trustees is not deed of trust. ('13) 17 Cal L Jour 233 (235) (DB).

[7] When there was a verbal assignment by attorney to himself of property known to be his principal's, held property vested in him in trust for the administrator for administering the estate and accounting for the residue to the next of kin. (Vol 22) 1935 P C 28 (32) (PC).

[8] Gift of certain sums by disciples to Guru to enable him to carry on charity which he was performing — Guru purchasing properties from out of these amounts—Gift held absolute followed by words merely expressing motive of gift and hence no trust was created. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 789 (791).

[9] Only when there are other persons in management who can be regarded as general trustees and there are other funds out of which the general upkeep of the trust can be carried on, there will be any sense in distinguishing any endowment as a special trust or kattalai intended for a special purpose. Where in a gift to a temple, the person to whom the properties are conveyed is described as a trustee and there are no other general trustees in the management and the object of the gift is connected with ordinary worship, such person is not a special trustee and whether he is a trustee de facto or de jure, having taken property under the gift deed, he cannot claim to have held the properties in any character except that of the trustee of the temple. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 314 (315) (DB).

SECTION 8 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Subject-matter of trust.

1. Scope. — [1] So long as the objects of a trust are lawful, any property or interest in property capable of being transferred by deeds inter vivos or testamentary can be saddled with trust. (Vol 12) 1925 Sind 159 (161); 19 Sind L R 286.

2. Subject-matter of trust. — [1] Liability of surety cannot form subject-matter of a trust. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 309 (311).

[2] Property given to person receivable by her on death of mother is valid trust and not merely trust of beneficial interest. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 64 (66) (DB).

[3] Section forbids trust upon trust. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 64 (65) (DB).

Section 9 — Note 1

[1] Section is enabling and not a disabling provision. It recognises the possibility of a beneficiary desiring to renounce his interest under the trust and suggests two modes by which this can be done. It is not in every case in which a beneficiary sets up a claim inconsistent with the trust, that he loses thereby all his rights under the trust. The use of the word "may" repudiates this

10. Every person capable of holding property may be a trustee; but, where the trust involves the exercise of discretion, he cannot execute it unless he is competent to contract.

Who may be trustee.

No one bound to accept trust.

No one is bound to accept a trust.

Acceptance of trust.

A trust is accepted by any words or acts of the trustee indicating with reasonable certainty such acceptance.

Disclaimer of trust.

Instead of accepting a trust, the intended trustee may, within a reasonable period, disclaim it; and such disclaimer shall prevent the trust-property from vesting in him.

A disclaimer by one of two or more co-trustees vests the trust-property in the other or others and makes him or them sole trustee or trustees from the date of the creation of the trust.

Illustrations.

(a) A bequeaths certain property to B and C, his executors, as trustees for D. B and C prove A's will. This is in itself an acceptance of the trust, and B and C hold the property in trust for D.

(b) A transfers certain property to B in trust to sell it and to pay out of the proceeds A's debts. B accepts the trust and sells the property. So far as regards B, a trust of the proceeds is created for A's creditors.

(c) A bequeaths a lakh of rupees to B upon certain trusts and appoints him his executor. B severs the lakh from the general assets and appropriates it to the specific purpose. This is an acceptance of the trust.

CHAPTER III.

OF THE DUTIES AND LIABILITIES OF TRUSTEES.

11. The trustee is bound to fulfil the purpose of the trust, and to obey the directions of the author of the trust given at the time of its creation, except as modified by the consent of all the beneficiaries being competent to contract.

Trustee to execute trust.

Where the beneficiary is incompetent to contract, his consent may, for the purposes of this section, be given by a principal civil Court of original jurisdiction.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to require a trustee to obey any direction when to do so would be impracticable, illegal or manifestly injurious to the beneficiaries.

Explanation.—Unless a contrary intention be expressed, the purpose of a trust for the payment of debts shall be deemed to be (a) to pay only the debts of the author of the trust existing and recoverable at the date of the instrument of trust, or, when such instrument is a will, at the date of his death, and (b) in the case of debts not bearing interest, to make such payment without interest.

Illustrations.

(a) A, a trustee, is simply authorized to sell certain land by public auction. He cannot sell the land by private contract.

(b) A, a trustee of certain land for X, Y and Z, is authorized to sell the land to L for a specified sum. X, Y and Z, being competent to contract, consent that A may sell the land to C for a less sum. A may sell the land accordingly.

(c) A, a trustee for B and her children, is directed by the author of the trust to lend, on B's request, trust property to B's husband, C, on the security of his bond. C becomes insolvent and B requests A to make the loan. A may refuse to make it.

SECTION 11 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope.
2. Modification by Court.
3. Trust for payment of debts.
4. Explanation.

Trustee to inform himself of state of trust-property.

12. A trustee is bound to acquaint himself, as soon as possible, with the nature and circumstances of the trust-property; to obtain, where necessary, a transfer of the trust-property to himself; and (subject to the provisions of the instrument of trust) to get in trust-moneys invested on insufficient or hazardous security.

Illustrations.

(a) The trust-property is a debt outstanding on personal security. The instrument of trust gives the trustee no discretionary power to leave the debt so outstanding. The trustee's duty is to recover the debt without unnecessary delay.

(b) The trust-property is money in the hands of one of two co-trustees. No discretionary power is given by the instrument of trust. The other co trustee must not allow the former to retain the money for a longer period than the circumstances of the case required.

Trustee to protect title to trust-property.

13. A trustee is bound to maintain and defend all such suits, and (subject to the provisions of the instrument of trust) to take such other steps as, regard being had to the nature and amount or value of the trust property, may be reasonably requisite for the preservation of the trust-property and the assertion or protection of the title thereto.

Illustration.

The trust property is immovable property which has been given to the author of the trust by an unregistered instrument. Subject to the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1877,[a] the trustee's duty is to cause the instrument to be registered.

[a] See now the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (16 [XVI] of 1908).

Trustee not to set up title adverse to beneficiary.

14. The trustee must not for himself or another set up or aid any title to the trust-property adverse to the interest of the beneficiary.

1. Scope.—[1] Executor who has proved will becomes liable for performance of the trusts, and for consequences arising from breach of them. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 191 (191, 192).

2. Modification by Court.—[1] Extension or limitation by trustees of the scope of trust, so as to exclude who are intended to be included or to include those who are intended to be excluded is a breach of trust. ('09) 33 Bom 509 (521, 592) (DB).

[2] When emergency unforeseen by author of trust occurs and trustees are unable to take consent of beneficiaries, Court will exercise administrative jurisdiction by sanctioning acts of trustees. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 242 (243) : 56 Mad 508 (DB).

[3] The doctrine of cypres is applied where from lapse of time and changes of circumstances, it is impossible beneficially to apply property left by founder exactly as per his directions. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 191 (192).

[4] Subscriptions paid by persons for specific and well defined charitable object to committee of subscribers—Members of committee are trustees in either case if object is shown practicable or impracticable—In event of impracticability committee can neither abandon scheme nor make cypres application of fund on ground of general charitable intent without recourse to Court. (Vol 24) 1937 P C 240 (241) : 31 Sind L R 585 (P C).

3. Trust for payment of debts.—[1] Trust for payment of debts specified in deed — Creditors not specified are not entitled to be paid by the trustees out of their discretion. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 161 (174) : 14 Luck 548 (DB).

4. Explanation.—[1] The explanation to the section implies that interest can be paid on debts which bear interest but it cannot be inferred from the language used that it is incumbent on the trustees in every case to pay interest on interest bearing debts. The sentence "unless a contrary intention be expressed" is very important and shows that the provision contained in the explanation is subject to the terms of the deed of trust and where the deed of trust makes no provision for payment of any interest on the debts specified in it, the explanation to S. 11 will not entitle the creditors to claim interest. (Vol 26 1939 Oudh 161 (175, 176) : 14 Luck 548 (DB).

SECTION 13—SYNOPSIS.

1. "Maintain suits."
2. "Such other steps."

1. "Maintain suits." — [1] Suit by a trustee against a banker to recover trust moneys misapplied by him does not come under Section 92, C. P. C. He may institute the suit without the sanction of the Advocate-General. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 999 (1004) : I L R (1938) Mad 121 (DB).

[2] Where none of the trusts created by the testator is in existence, the trustees become merely bare trustees and have no right of suit with regard to trust property. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 228 (232).

2. "Such other steps."—[1] Trustees are entitled to carry out provisions of trust deed till suit challenging trust is decreed. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 56 (59) : I L R (1941) Bom 170 (DB).

Section 14—Note 1

[1] Trustee acquiring property in that capacity cannot claim adverse possession until he gets a proper discharge. (Vol 22) 1935 All 458 (458)

[2] No person accepting position of trustee or of quasi-trustee and acquiring trust property can assert adverse title until he obtains proper discharge from trust (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 335 (346) : I L R (1939) Nag 1 (FB).

[3] Trustee's false assertion of ownership is sufficient ground for his removal. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 325 (332): 45 Mad 565 : 49 Ind App 237 (PC).

[4] Property under void trust can be adversely possessed by trustee. S. 10, Limitation Act has no application. (Vol 29) 1942 P C 64 (66 & 67) : 69 Ind App 137: I L R (1942) Kar (P C) 166 (P C).

15. A trustee is bound to deal with the trust-property as carefully as a man of ordinary prudence would deal with such property if it were his own; and, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, a trustee so dealing is not responsible for the loss, destruction or deterioration of the trust-property.

Care required from trustee.

Illustrations.

(a) A, living in Calcutta, is a trustee for B, living in Bombay. A remits trust-funds to B by bills drawn by a person of undoubted credit in favour of the trustee as such, and payable at Bombay. The bills are dishonoured. A is not bound to make good the loss.

(b) A, a trustee of leasehold property, directs the tenant to pay the rents on account of the trust to a banker, B, then in credit. The rents are accordingly paid to B, and A leaves the money with B only till wanted. Before the money is drawn out, B becomes insolvent. A, having had no reason to believe that B was in insolvent circumstances, is not bound to make good the loss.

(c) A, a trustee of two debts for B, releases one and compounds the other, in good faith, and reasonably believing that it is for B's interest to do so. A is not bound to make good any loss caused thereby to B.

(d) A, a trustee directed to sell the trust-property by auction, sells the same, but does not advertise the sale and otherwise fails in reasonable diligence in inviting competition. A is bound to make good the loss caused thereby to the beneficiary.

(e) A, a trustee for B, in execution of his trust, sells the trust-property, but from want of due diligence on his part fails to receive part of the purchase-money. A is bound to make good the loss thereby caused to B.

(f) A, a trustee for B of a policy of insurance, has funds in hand for payment of the premiums. A neglects to pay the premiums, and the policy is consequently forfeited. A is bound to make good the loss to B.

(g) A bequeaths certain moneys to B and C as trustees, and authorizes them to continue trust-moneys upon the personal security of a certain firm in which A had himself invested them. A dies, and a change takes place in the firm. B and C must not permit the moneys to remain upon the personal security of the new firm.

(h) A, a trustee for B, allows the trust to be executed solely by his co-trustee, C. C misapplies the trust-property. A is personally answerable for the loss resulting to B.

16. Where the trust is created for the benefit of several persons in succession, and the trust-property is of a wasting nature or a future or reversionary interest, the trustee is bound, unless an intention to the contrary may be inferred from the instrument of trust, to convert the property into property of a permanent and immediately profitable character.

Conversion of perishable property.

Illustrations

(a) A bequeaths to B all his property in trust for C during his life, and on his death for D, and on D's death for E. A's property consists of three leasehold houses, and there is nothing in A's will to show that he intended the houses to be enjoyed in specie. B should sell the houses, and invest the proceeds in accordance with section 20.

(b) A bequeaths to B his three leasehold houses in Calcutta and all the furniture therein in trust for C during his life, and on his death for D, and on D's death for E. Here an intention that the houses and furniture should be enjoyed in specie appears clearly, and B should not sell them.

17. Where there are more beneficiaries than one the trustee is bound to be impartial, and must not execute the trust for the advantage of one at the expense of another.

Trustee to be impartial.

Where the trustee has a discretionary power, nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize the Court to control the exercise reasonably and in good faith of such discretion.

Illustration.

A, a trustee for B, C and D, is empowered to choose between several specified modes of investing the trust-property. A in good faith chooses one of these modes. The Court will not interfere, although the result of the choice may be to vary the relative rights of B, C and D.

18. Where the trust is created for the benefit of several persons in succession and one of them is in possession of the trust property, if he commits, or threatens to commit, any act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto, the trustee is bound to take measures to prevent such act.

Trustee to prevent waste.

[5] Where appointer of trustee professes to appoint manager of trust property which he falsely claims as his own and does not appoint him as trustee of those properties which are already trust properties, the trustee is not properly appointed. Section 20 (contd.)

1. Investment and forms.—[1] The forms of instrument mentioned in S. 20 of the Indian Trusts Act are restricted only to private trusts and do not necessarily exhaust the modes of investment permissible in the case of charitable trusts. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 355 (356) (D B).

[2] Section 20 which regulates the mode in which a trustee is to make investment is not controlled by S. 15. Trust monies payable to a minor cannot be applied for the trust at an early date as the trustees cannot pay the money, until the minor becomes sui juris. And even as regards money capable of being so applied at an early date, if the trustee takes the responsibility of keeping the money in investment for a long time, he must make the investment according to his obligations as trustee. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 897 (898) : 38 Mad 71 (D B).

[3] Purchase of a house is not an investment authorised by S. 20. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 628 (630) (D B).

2. Liability for disregard of the section. — [1] Disregard of S. 20 amounts to a breach of trust even though the act is honest. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 897 (899) : 38 Mad 71 (D B).

[2] Lessee agreed to deposit year's lease amount with lessor—On lessee's request lessor deposited in Bank—When Bank failed it was held that even as trustee lessor was not liable for loss. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 636 (637) (D B).

3. Duty of trustee. — [1] For disposing trust funds trustee must consider whether it is prudent and right to do so. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 243 (246) (P C).

[2] When trustee appoints surveyor to obtain true valuation, it is proper if his advice can be prudently taken into account for arriving at decision. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 207 (213) : 1940 Rang L R 273 (D B).

Mortgage of land pledged to Government under Act XXVI of 1871.

Deposit in Government Savings Bank.

21. Nothing in section 20 shall apply to investments made before this Act comes into force, or shall be deemed to preclude an investment on a mortgage of immoveable property already pledged as security for an advance under the Land Improvement Act, 1871[a], or, in case the trust-money does not exceed three thousand rupees, a deposit thereof in a Government Savings Bank.

Sale by trustee directed to sell within specified time.

22. Where a trustee directed to sell within a specified time extends such time, the burden of proving, as between himself and the beneficiary, that the latter is not prejudiced by the extension lies upon the trustee, unless the extension has been authorized by a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction.

Illustration.

A bequeaths property to B, directing him with all convenient speed and within five years to sell it, and apply the proceeds for the benefit of C. In the exercise of reasonable discretion, B postpones the sale for six years. The sale is not thereby rendered invalid, but C, alleging that he has been injured by the postponement, institutes a suit against B to obtain compensation. In such suit the burden of proving that C has not been injured lies on B.

Liability for breach of trust.

23. Where the trustee commits a breach of trust, he is liable to make good the loss which the trust-property or the beneficiary has thereby sustained, unless the beneficiary has by fraud induced the trustee to commit the breach, or the beneficiary, being competent to contract, has himself, without coercion or undue influence solvency and character of borrower. But a trustee may not blend these considerations together. He must not allow the character or solvency of the borrower to weigh with him so as to make his advance, in effect, an advance, not upon the security offered, but upon a consideration of other matters which seems to make it safe not to rely upon the security alone. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 207 (214): 1940 Rang L R 273 (D B).

[3a] Trustee can mix moneys of one trust with those of others or with his own money if his drawings from mixed fund are proper and there is no breach of trust. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 225 (227) (D B).

[4] Where at any moment it might have been necessary for the trustee to produce the funds in his hand, it cannot be held that the trustee was bound to invest the funds. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 147(151): 46 Mad 47(DB).

[5] It is not open to a trustee to invest trust funds in debentures of a municipal body outside a Presidency-town or Rangoon Town. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 159 (162) (D B).

[6] A municipality is not a trustee in respect of the provident fund of its employees and is not restricted to invest the fund in securities mentioned in the section. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 159 (162) (D B).

[7] Care to be applied to a temporary investment of capital can be no less than that which the Trusts Act requires for an investment of current expenditure not immediately wanted, and so an omission to apply the same standard of care would amount to the kind of neglect contemplated by S. 15. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 30 (32) : 1 L R (1940) Nag 94 (D B).

4. Powers of Court. —[1] In cases of emergency not provided for by the trust instrument and not within the contemplation of the author of the trust, the Court has power under its extraordinary jurisdiction to sanction the trustees doing acts which are necessary for the protection of the trust estate although not expressly authorised by the trust instrument. But the jurisdiction is of an extremely delicate character and must be exercised with the greatest caution. Where house property was subject to a large set back under the Municipal Regulations and was in urgent need of sanitary and other heavy repairs, the Court sanctioned the sale of the property by the trustees, although the trust settlement contained no power of sale. (Vol 6) 1919 Bom 119 (121): 43 Bom 519.

[2] Neither S. 36 nor S. 40 confers a power of sale on the trustee when the instrument does not provide for it. (Vol 6) 1919 Bom 119 (121) : 43 Bom 519.

SECTION 23 — SYNOPSIS

1. Breach of trust—General.
2. Making good the loss.
3. Suits against trustee.
4. Liability for interest.
5. Liability to account and failure.
6. Effect of concurrence or acquiescence.
7. Clause (e).
8. Clause (f).

having been brought to bear on him, concurred in the breach, or subsequently acquiesced therein, with full knowledge of the facts of the case and of his rights as against the trustee.

A trustee committing a breach of trust is not liable to pay interest except in the following cases : —

(a) where he has actually received interest :

(b) where the breach consists in unreasonable delay in paying trust money to the beneficiary :

(c) where the trustee ought to have received interest, but has not done so :

(d) where he may be fairly presumed to have received interest.

He is liable, in case (a), to account for the interest actually received, and, in cases (b), (c) and (d), to account for simple interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, unless the Court otherwise directs.

(e) Where the breach consists in failure to invest trust-money and to accumulate the interest or dividends thereon, he is liable to account for compound interest (with half yearly rests) at the same rate.

(f) Where the breach consists in the employment of trust-property or the proceeds thereof in trade or business, he is liable to account, at the option of the beneficiary, either for compound interest (with half-yearly rests) at the same rate, or for the nett profits made by such employment.

Illustrations.

(a) A trustee improperly leaves trust-property outstanding, and it is consequently lost : he is liable to make good the property lost, but he is not liable to pay interest thereon.

(b) A bequeaths a house to B in trust to sell it and pay the proceeds to C. B neglects to sell the house for a great length of time, whereby the house is deteriorated and its market price falls. B is answerable to C for the loss.

(c) A trustee is guilty of unreasonable delay in investing trust-money in accordance with section 20, or in paying it to the beneficiary. The trustee is liable to pay interest thereon for the period of the delay.

(d) The duty of the trustee is to invest trust-money in any of the securities mentioned in section 20, clause (a), (b), (c) or (d). Instead of so doing, he retains the money in his hands. He is liable, at the option of the beneficiary, to be charged either with the amount of the principal money and interest, or with the amount of such securities as he might have purchased with the trust-money when the investment should have been made and the intermediate dividends and interest thereon.

(e) The instrument of trust directs the trustee to invest trust-money either in any such securities or on a mortgage of immoveable property. The trustee does neither. He is liable for the principal money and interest.

(f) The instrument of trust directs the trustee to invest trust-money in any of such securities and to accumulate the dividends thereon. The trustee disregards the direction. He is liable, at the option of the beneficiary, to be charged either with the amount of the principal money and compound interest, or with the amount of such securities as he might have purchased with the trust-money when the investment should have been made, together with the amount of the accumulation which would have arisen from a proper investment of the intermediate dividends.

(g) Trust-property is invested in one of the securities mentioned in section 20, clause (a), (b), (c) or (d). The trustee sells such security for some purpose not authorized by the terms of the instrument of trust. He is liable, at the option of the beneficiary, either to replace the security with the intermediate dividends and interest thereon, or to account for the proceeds of the sale with interest thereon.

(h) The trust-property consists of land. The trustee sells the land to a purchaser for a consideration without notice of the trust. The trustee is liable, at the option of the beneficiary, to purchase other land of equal value to be settled upon the like trust, or to be charged with the proceeds of the sale with interest.

1. Breach of trust—General.—[1] As a matter of procedure, breaches of trust, both positive and negative (wilful default) must be pleaded at the outset unless the trustee has refused to show the trust account. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 30 (33) (D B).

[2] Agreement by trustee to discharge post-settlement debts of settlor, is breach of trust where object of trust is to pay pre-settlement debts and provide for settlor's family. Where act of trustee amounts to breach of trust, he must show that transaction was beneficial to beneficiary. Beneficiary need not prove breach of trust where transaction unreasonably throws great burden on trust property. ('09) 32 Mad 490 (499, 501) (D B). (Affirmed on appeal in (Vol 2) 1915 P C 33:39 Mad 115 (P C).)

[3] Just as a trustee cannot set up any title adverse to that of the cestui que trust, so also the beneficiary cannot repudiate the bona fide acts of the trustee entered upon for the benefit of the beneficiary or the cestui que trust. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 394 (397) : 11 Luck 209 (D B).

[4] On breach of trust, trustee does not cease to be trustee. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 154 (155) (D B).

[5] Succeeding trustee may acquire a good title from an outsider against trust only, if the former was not a party to the original misappropriation. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 409 (412) (D B).

[6] In suit for breach of trust, account taken must be common account giving beneficiaries liberty to surcharge and falsify but not account on footing of wilful default. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 448 (455) (D B).

[9] Guardian using ward's money in business must account for profits made or might have been realised — Guardian's neglect of duty amounts to breach of trust and ward must be compensated for loss caused thereby. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 291 (292):1919 Pun Re No. 157 (DB).

2. Making good the loss.—[1] The principles on which the cestui que trust is entitled to relief limited to the personal assets of the trustee in the hands of his legal representative are : The first principle is that a trustee is liable to make good loss caused by breach of trust. The cause of action to obtain compensation survives and his legal representative is bound to make good the loss out of assets which he receives. The second principle is that a cestui que trust is entitled to follow the trust property whatever shape or form it takes, in the hands of a volunteer. The same principle applies even when the trust property is money, provided it can be traced. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 337 (343) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 372 (DB).

[2] Where trustee wrongfully appropriates the trust money and fails to utilize it in redeeming the beneficiary's property as directed by the author of the trust, the cestui que trust has a right to be indemnified. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 43 (45).

[3] The loss occasioned by acts and omissions and wilful defaults of the late trustee must be made good from his assets in the hands of his legal representative. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 337 (345) : ILR (1940) 1 Cal 372(DB).

[4] The sons of a deceased father are not liable in respect of a claim against him for criminal breach of trust. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 238 (242) : 61 Ind App 350 : 56 All 548 (PC).

[5] Loss occasioned by negligent acts or omissions or wilful defaults of deceased trustee must be made good from his assets. Cause of action survives as loss arises from breach of fiduciary relation. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 337 (343) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 372 (DB).

[6] A trustee for payment to creditors if he fails to exercise due diligence in his duties must be debited with the loss caused by his laches and should not be allowed costs of suit instituted by him after limitation. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 807 (810) (DB).

[7] If the ward's money are used by guardian in his business he should account for profits he had made or could have made but for gross or wilful default. Every plain neglect of duty by a guardian amounts to a breach of trust and he must compensate his ward for any loss occasioned thereby. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 291 (292) : 1919 Pun Re No. 157 (DB).

[8] The object of a marriage settlement by way of trust is to protect the beneficiary against herself ; and merely because the beneficiary happens to know that the trust fund or any part thereof is to be invested in a particular manner and consents thereto, the trustees are not absolved from liability under S. 23 unless she concurred or acquiesced in the breach with full knowledge of the facts of the case and of her rights as against the trustees. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 146 (147) (DB).

[9] Banker applying what he knows as trust funds in discharge or reduction of a debt of a customer in breach of trust, is liable for the money to the trust. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 999 (1001):ILR (1939) Mad 121 (DB).

3. Suits against trustee. — [1] Cause of action, survives against legal representatives of deceased trustee. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 448 (455) (DB) ⊛ (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 337 (345) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 372 (DB).

[2] Under trust deed, father to be trustee for life and his sons to become trustees after his death—Breach of trust — Father if ceases to be trustee — Suit for mesne profits and possession by sons — As regards mesne profits—The plaintiffs were not the present trustees and they were not entitled to maintain the suit in that capacity. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 154 (155) (DB).

4. Liability for interest.—[1] Trustee for payment to creditors is liable for loss due to his laches—Costs of suits filed by him after limitation should not be allowed — He must pay interest on money retained after payment of debts, only when he has committed breach of trust —Negligence in trustee and contributory negligence in debtor—Trustee is not liable for interest. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 807 (810) (DB).

[2] Where a beneficiary under a waqf deed files a suit for recovery of his share of the profits from the property of the mutawalli and the payment is unreasonably delayed, the beneficiary becomes entitled to interest on the amount claimed. (Vol 20) 1933 All 186 (188) : 55 All 164 (DB).

[3] Partnership dissolved on one partner assigning his share — Remaining partners forming new firm— Assignee is entitled to profits of new firm or interest. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 627 (632) : 52 Mad 509 (DB). ((Vol 2) 1915 P C 116 : 42 Cal 914 : 42 Ind App 91 (PC), Rel. on.)

[4] Muhammadan acting as a de facto guardian of his brother's property becomes liable to pay interest on the liquid assets held by him for minor by virtue of S. 23 read with Ss. 94 and 95. If guardian dies, estate would be liable for interest. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 254 (255): ILR (1943) Mad 654 (DB).

[5] The words "unless the Court otherwise directs" in S. 23 allow the Court to grant a higher rate of interest if it considers it proper to do so. It cannot grant interest on costs at a higher rate than 6 per cent. but with this exception, the discretion of the Court is entirely unfettered. (Vol 32) 1945 Mad 297 (298) : ILR (1946) Mad 255 (DB).

[6] Trustee investing money on unauthorised security must be treated as failing to invest under Cl. (e) of S. 23 and he is liable for interest on money lost. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 897 (900) : 38 Mad 71 (DB).

[7] Trustee receiving profits from trust property is not ordinarily liable for interest in the absence of any breach of trust. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 147 (151) : 46 Mad 47 (DB).

[10] Trustee not rendering accounts properly—They must pay interest even if debt does not ordinarily carry interest. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 448 (454) (DB).

5. Liability to account and failure. — [1] In a suit for breach of trust, the account to be taken must be a common account which will give the plaintiffs liberty to surcharge and falsify but not on account on the footing of wilful default. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 448 (453) (DB).

[2] In ordinary circumstances, there can be little doubt that the value of produce rents at the time and place of the receipt is the measure of liability and not the price fetched by sales at a later date. If the person liable to account for produce rent to his employer should without fraud convert it to his own use his liability cannot be measured by the price at which the produce was subsequently sold. (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 598 (599) (DB).

6. Effect of concurrence or acquiescence.—[1] The onus is on the trustees, as soon as it is established that a breach of trust has been committed, to satisfy the Court that the plaintiff concurred or acquiesced in the breach of trust with full knowledge of the facts of the

24. A trustee who is liable for a loss occasioned by a breach of trust in respect of one portion of the trust-property cannot set-off against his liability a gain which has accrued to another portion of the trust-property through another and distinct breach of trust.

No set-off allowed to trustee.

25. Where a trustee succeeds another, he is not, as such, liable for the acts or defaults of his predecessor.

Non-liability for predecessor's default.

26. Subject to the provisions of sections 13 and 15, one trustee is not, as such, liable for a breach of trust committed by his co-trustee :

Non-liability for co-trustee's default.

Provided that, in the absence of an express declaration to the contrary in the instrument of trust, a trustee is so liable—

(a) where he has delivered trust-property to his co-trustee without seeing to its proper application :

(b) where he allows his co-trustee to receive trust-property and fails to make due enquiry as to the co-trustee's dealings therewith or allows him to retain it longer than the circumstances of the case reasonably require :

(c) where he becomes aware of a breach of trust committed or intended by his co-trustee and either actively conceals it or does not within a reasonable time take proper steps to protect the beneficiary's interest.

A co-trustee who joins in signing a receipt for trust property and proves that he has not received the same is not answerable, by reason of such signature only, for loss or misapplication of the property by his co-trustee.

Joining in receipt for conformity.

Illustration.

A bequeaths certain property to B and C, and directs them to sell it and invest the proceeds for the benefit of D. B and C accordingly sell the property, and the purchase-money is received by B and retained in his hands. C pays no attention to the matter for two years, and then calls on B to make the investment. B is unable to do so, becomes insolvent, and the purchase-money is lost. C may be compelled to make good the amount.

27. Where co-trustees jointly commit a breach of trust, or where one of them by his neglect enables the other to commit a breach of trust each is liable to the beneficiary for the whole of the loss occasioned by such breach.

Several liability of co-trustees.

But as between the trustees themselves, if one be less guilty than another and has had to refund the loss, the former may compel the latter, or his legal representative to the extent of the assets he has received, to make good such loss ; and, if all be equally guilty, any one or more of the trustees who has had to refund the loss may compel the others to contribute.

Contribution as between co-trustees.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize a trustee who has been guilty of fraud to institute a suit to compel contribution.

Indemnity of trustees.

OF THE RIGHTS AND POWERS OF TRUSTEES.

31. A trustee is entitled to have in his possession the instrument of trust and all the documents of title (if any) relating solely to the trust-property.

Right to title-deed.

32. Every trustee may reimburse himself, or pay or discharge out of the trust-property, all expenses properly incurred in or about the execution of the trust, or the realization, preservation or benefit of the trust-property, or the protection or support of the beneficiary.

Right to reimbursement of expenses.

If he pays such expenses out of his own pocket, he has a first charge upon the trust-property for such expenses and interest thereon; but such charge (unless the expenses have been incurred with the sanction of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction) shall be enforced only by prohibiting any disposition of the trust-property without previous payment of such expenses and interest.

If the trust-property fail, the trustee is entitled to recover from the beneficiary personally on whose behalf he acted, and at whose request, expressed or implied, he made the payment, the amount of such expenses.

Where a trustee has by mistake made an over-payment to the beneficiary, he may reimburse the trust property out of the beneficiary's interest. If such interest fail, the trustee is entitled to recover from the beneficiary personally the amount of such over-payment.

Right to be recouped for erroneous over-payment.

[1] Co-owner collecting entire rents is not trustee for the others and is not liable for what ought to have been received. (Vol 32) 1945 Mad 17 (17).

SECTION 32 — SYNOPSIS

1. Right of indemnity.
2. Creditor's right of subrogation.
3. Limitation.

1. Right of indemnity.—[1] Trustee has right of indemnity against the estate for amounts spent in preserving the estate, in defending his position as trustee and performing the obligations of the trust—The right is first charge on estate. ('10) 37 Cal 229 (234) : 37 Ind App 27 (PC).

[2] A trustee is entitled to be reimbursed the moneys spent by him on a bona fide litigation believed to be in the interest of the cestui que trust but a person not really entitled to the office cannot so claim. ('13) 25 Mad L Jour 452 (456) (DB).

[But see (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 180 (183) : 51 Mad 291 (D B)]

[3] Trustee is entitled to out of pocket expenses only till date of order of removal. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 57 (64) : 38 Mad 260 (DB) & (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1196 (1198) : 39 Mad 456 (DB).

[4] Trustee of a religious or charitable trust can only re-imburse himself from rents and profits and not corpus of trust. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 57 (62) : 38 Mad 260 (D B).

[5] Generally, a trustee supporting his title and succeeding in supporting the trust would be entitled to an order for costs out of the estate. Where, however, the trustees are guilty of misconduct in respect of the suit, that is, where their attitude throughout has been of not upholding the trust or assist the Court in upholding the trust, they are not entitled to the order for costs out of the estate. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 307 (310).

[6] Trustee exceeding budget allotment for purposes binding on temple is not bound to make good excess amount spent by him. In the performance of festival, trustee is to be guided by his judgment. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 970 (971, 972).

2. Creditor's right of subrogation. — [1] The creditor is not debarred from a right of subrogation to get the benefit of trustee's right of indemnity by reason of the fact that he was not, at the date of the transaction, aware that he was dealing with a trustee. The creditor may be impeded by any obstacle which the estate could raise against the trustee or executor and the creditor has the right to step into the shoes of the trustee but these shoes may be too small, or may not be there at all. Adequate or not, such is the only right which the law allows the creditor vis-a-vis the estate. Provided the suit be appropriately framed, the matter of subrogation and indemnity may be determined in

Right to indemnity from gainer by breach of trust.

33. A person other than a trustee who has gained an advantage from a breach of trust must indemnify the trustee to the extent of the amount actually received by such person under the breach; and where he is a beneficiary the trustee has a charge on his interest for such amount.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle a trustee to be indemnified who has, in committing the breach of trust, been guilty of fraud.

Right to apply to Court for opinion in management of trust-property.

34. Any trustee may, without instituting a suit, apply by petition to a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction for its opinion, advice or direction on any present questions respecting the management or administration of the trust-property other than questions of detail, difficulty or importance, not proper in the opinion of the Court for summary disposal.

A copy of such petition shall be served upon, and the hearing thereof may be attended by, such of the persons interested in the application as the Court thinks fit.

The trustee stating in good faith the facts in such petition and acting upon the opinion, advice or direction given by the Court shall be deemed, so far as regards his own responsibility, to have discharged his duty as such trustee in the subject-matter of the application.

The costs of every application under this section shall be in the discretion of the Court to which it is made.

the suit by the creditor against the trustee. It is not open to the creditor to ask the Court to investigate the matter of indemnity and subrogation in execution, as it is not a matter within the scope of S. 47, Civil P. C. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 668 (671, 672) : 60 Cal 801 ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 390 (390) : 15 Pat 88 (DB).

[2] In order that a creditor can claim right of subrogation to trustee's right of indemnity, (1) the creditor should sue the trustee as a trustee, (2) all the trustees should be represented (O. 31, R. 2, Civil P.C.); (3) the parties beneficially interested should be represented and (4) indemnity and subrogation to that right should be claimed. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 668 (673) : 60 Cal 801.

[3] Liability on promissory note executed by trustee is restricted to personal liability of the trustee and a decree against temple properties cannot be passed. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 198 (198).

3. Limitation.— [1] Suit by trustee for recovery of money advanced to trust is governed by Art. 120 and not Art. 132 of Limitation Act. Limitation begins from date of dispossession as trustee. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 57 (59) : 38 Mad 260 (DB).

Section 33 — Note 1

[1] Principle that creditor advancing money to trust for trust purposes cannot be defeated by contention that duties could have been performed on less elaborate scale, does not apply where trustee acts contrary to trust. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 719 (721, 722).

SECTION 34 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. "Opinion, advice or direction given by Court."
3. Powers of Court to order deviation from trust deed.
4. Notice of application.
5. Appeal.
6. Revision.

1. Scope.— [1] All parts of S. 34, must be read together. That section is clearly an enabling section in that it enables any trustee, and not all trustees only, to apply by petition to a principal Court of original jurisdiction for its opinion, advice or direction on any present questions respecting the management or administration of the trust property other than questions of detail, difficulty or importance, not proper, in the opinion of the Court, for summary disposal. So, reading paras. 1 and 3 together, it would appear that what the section contemplates is that the trustee, upon a statement of facts made in good faith and applying to the Court for opinion, advice or direction, and acting in accordance with such opinion, advice or direction, shall be deemed to have discharged his duty as trustee in the subject-matter of the application. It appears, then, that the section is for the benefit and protection of the trustee. (Vol 32) 1945 Sind 81 (89) : I L R (1945) Kar 384 : 47 Cri L Jour 283 (FB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 72 (75) (DB).

[2] Proceedings in an application under S. 34, Trusts Act, are intended to be summary and the Court would not be exercising a proper discretion if it disposed of matters of vital importance, such as involving the conversion of the entire trust property and the directions of the Court asked for and proposed by the trustees are stoutly opposed by the beneficiaries, in a summary manner especially when there is no question of emergency and when it is open to the trustees at all times to file a regular suit. (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 182 (183) : I L R (1939) Kar 99.

[3] An application under S. 34 is an independent procedure analogous to originating summons for direction or advice of the Court in matters relating to the trust. That section relates only to matters in which the trustee in order to protect himself asks the advice or opinion of the Court on any question respecting the management or administration of the trust property. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1225 (1226) (DB).

[4] Where an allegation is made that a person is entitled to office proper remedy is to file suit under S. 92, Civil P.C., and not to apply under S. 34 or S. 74. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 118 (121) : 9 Luck 507.

[5] Proof of embezzlement or mismanagement on part of trustee is not necessary for appointment of receiver. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 337 (338) : 12 Luck 635 (DB).

[6] On a petition under S. 34, Trusts Act, court-fee under Art. 1 (d), Sch. II, Court-fees Act, is sufficient. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 118 (121) : 9 Luck 507.

2. "Opinion, advice or direction given by Court." — [1] The words "opinion, advice or direction" must be read together as meaning nothing more than guidance. Advice, opinion or direction given under section is not an order and the disobedience thereof does not involve committal for contempt. (Vol 32) 1945 Sind 81 (92, 93) : I L R (1945) Kar 384 : 47 Cri L Jour 283 (FB).

[2] Court can refuse to give opinion if the trustee who has ignored the opinion previously given applies again. (Vol 32) 1945 Sind 81 (92) : I L R (1945) Kar 384 : 47 Cri L Jour 283 (FB).

Right to settlement of accounts.

35. When the duties of a trustee, as such, are completed, he is entitled to have the accounts of his administration of the trust-property examined and settled; and, where nothing is due to the beneficiary under the trust, to an acknowledgment in writing to that effect.

General authority of trustee.

36. In addition to the powers expressly conferred by this Act and by the instrument of trust, and subject to the restrictions, if any, contained in such instrument, and to the provisions of section 17, a trustee may do all acts which are reasonable and proper for the realization, protection or benefit of the trust-property, and for the protection or support of a beneficiary who is not competent to contract.

Except with the permission of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, no trustee shall lease trust-property for a term exceeding twenty-one years from the date of executing the lease, nor without reserving the best yearly rent that can be reasonably obtained.

[a] The second paragraph was repealed by the Amending Act, 1891 (12 [XII] of 1891), S. 2 and Sch. I.

[3] In case of a trust to make annual payments out of income of property which is larger than is required, the Court will sanction setting aside and retention of so much of the corpus as will be sufficient by its income to meet the annual payments. (Vol 29) 1942 P C 28 (29) (PC).

[4] Where subscriptions are paid to a committee of persons for fulfilling specific charitable purpose, a trust is created to apply the funds for that object. In case of impracticability to carry out the purpose, the trustees can neither abandon the purpose, nor can they, without recourse to Court, make a cypres application of the funds on the ground of general charitable intent. (Vol 24) 1937 P C 240 (241) : 31 Sind L R 585 (PC).

[5] Under S. 34 Court can give opinion, advice or direction relating to the management of trust property — But it cannot ask under this section or under S. 49 one co-trustee to pay money to another trustee. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1225 (1226) (DB).

3. Powers of Court to order deviation from trust deed. — [1] If provisions of trust deed result in frustration of objects of trust, Court can permit deviation from deed. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 920 (921) : I L R (1940) Mad 300 (DB).

[See also (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 252 (255).]

[But see (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 347 (347, 348) (DB).]

4. Notice of application. — [1] In application by trustee for leave to take a particular course, it is sufficient to serve the application on the Advocate General who represents all the beneficiaries unless there is a conflict between them and the Advocate-General. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 63 (63) : I L R (1937) Bom 425 (DB).

5. Appeal. — [1] Opinion expressed by Court under S. 34 is not appealable. ('09) 33 Bom 429 (432) (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 72 (73) (DB) ✠ (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 337 (337) : 12 Luck 635 (DB).

6. Revision. — [1] When a petition under the section is presented to a Single Judge of the Oudh Chief Court and is dismissed, no revision lies against that order. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 72 (75) (DB).

Section 35 — Note 1

[1] When cestui que trust sues for money due to him, but not for accounts, trustee can ask Court to take accounts, and get decree in same suit if he is in surplusage. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 337 (344) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 372 (DB).

SECTION 36 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Reasonable and proper acts.
3. Lease.

1. Scope. — [1] The Trusts Act refers to private trusts. Section 36 is intended for the benefit of the cestui que trust and this is secured better by treating the leases in excess of 21 years as voidable at the option of the cestui que trust rather than void and illegal per se. ('10) 33 Mad 397 (401) (DB).

[2] Where the case is emergent and is unprovided for by the author of the trust and the consent of all the beneficiaries cannot be obtained, the Court will exercise its jurisdiction by sanctioning certain acts being done by trustees. (Vol 6) 1919 Bom 119 (121) : 43 Bom 519.

[3] Liberty given to trustee to apply trust money for his benefit does not destroy character of property as trust. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 249 (252).

2. Reasonable and proper acts. — [1] The trustees cannot be expected to devote more care and attention to the business of the trust than an ordinary man would use in dealing with his own affairs. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 47 (48) (DB)✠(Vol 20) 1933 Cal 393 (396).

(Vol 21) 1934 P C 238 (242) : 56 All 548 : 61 Ind App 350 (PC).

[See also (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 5 (5) (DB)]

[6] Principle that creditor advancing money to trust for purposes of trust cannot be defeated by contention that duties could have been performed on less elaborate scale does not apply where trustee is acting contrary to the trust. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 719 (721, 722).

Power to sell in lots, and either by public auction or private contract.

38. The trustee making any such sale may insert such reasonable stipulations either as to title or evidence of title, or otherwise, in any conditions of sale or contract for sale, as he thinks fit ; and may also buy in the property or any part thereof at any sale by auction, and rescind or vary any contract for sale, and re-sell the property so bought in, or as to which the contract is rescinded, without being responsible to the beneficiary for any loss occasioned thereby.

Power to sell under special conditions. Power to buy in and re-sell.

Where a trustee is directed to sell trust-property or to invest trust money in the purchase of property, he may exercise a reasonable discretion as to the time of effecting the sale or purchase.

39. For the purpose of completing any such sale, the trustee shall have power to convey or otherwise dispose of the property sold in such manner as may be necessary.

[10] As between trustees and their beneficiaries and as to every person in a fiduciary character, so long as the trustee has moneys standing to his account, drawings by him will be attributed to his own money, the trust money being in tact. Power to give receipts.

42. Any trustees or trustee may give a receipt in writing for any money, securities or other moveable property payable, transferable or deliverable to them or him by reason, or in the exercise, of any trust or power; and, in the absence of fraud, such receipt shall discharge the person paying, transferring or delivering the same therefrom, and from seeing to the application thereof, or being accountable for any loss or misapplication thereof.

Power to compound, etc.

43. Two or more trustees acting together may, if and as they think fit,—

(a) accept any composition or any security for any debt or for any property claimed ;

(b) allow any time for payment of any debt;

(c) compromise, compound, abandon, submit to arbitration or otherwise settle any debt, account, claim or thing whatever relating to the trust; and,

(d) for any of those purposes, enter into, give, execute and do such agreements, instruments of composition or arrangement, releases and other things as to them seem expedient, without being responsible for any loss occasioned by any act or thing so done by them in good faith.

The powers conferred by this section on two or more trustees acting together may be exercised by a sole acting trustee when by the instrument of trust, if any, a sole trustee is authorized to execute the trusts and powers thereof.

This section applies only if and as far as a contrary intention is not expressed in the instrument of trust, if any, and shall have effect subject to the terms of that instrument and to the provisions therein contained.

This section applies only to trusts created after this Act comes into force.

Power to several trustees of whom one disclaims or dies.

44. When an authority to deal with the trust-property is given to several trustees and one of them disclaims or dies, the authority may

[1] Acceptance of rent by one of several co-trustees is sufficient to constitute waiver of forfeiture. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 454 (456) (DB).

[3] Document intended to be executed by all trustees but executed by some only is incomplete and unenforceable. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 692 (693): 39 Mad 597(DB).

[4] Where the document was executed by all but one trustee and where money was paid under it, the whole body of executants is bound by it. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 692 (693) : 39 Mad 597 (DB).

Section 43 — Note 1

[1] Sole trustee authorised by deed to execute trusts and powers thereof is "sole acting trustee" and is empowered to compromise doubtful claims. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 394 (401) (DB).

[2] Compromise by trustee in good faith is legal and Court will not enquire whether it is beneficial to trust. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 508 (509) (DB).

[3] Majority of trustees of charitable trust can bind whole body. Where there are several trustees payment to one of them who has no authority either actual or by estoppel to receive and give discharge is not a valid payment. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 692 (693-694): 39 Mad 597 (DB).

[4] Reduction of rent effected by trustee authorised to do so is binding on trust estate. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 393 (396-397).

[5] Though S. 43 of the Act does not apply to public or private religious trusts, it regulates the powers of a trustee of a religious trust. Courts in India should scrutinize with great care alienations by compromise and awards out of Court made in reference to properties belonging to a charity. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1204(1209)(DB).

Section 44 — Note 1

[1] In the case of private trusts, surviving trustees can continue to exercise powers under trust, unless deed be exercised by the continuing trustees, unless from the terms of the instrument of trust it is apparent that the authority is to be exercised by a number in excess of the number of the remaining trustees.

Suspension of trustee's powers by decree.

45. Where a decree has been made in a suit for the execution of a trust, the trustee must not exercise any of his powers except in conformity with such decree, or with the sanction of the Court by which the decree has been made, or, where an appeal against the decree is pending, of the Appellate Court.

CHAPTER V.

OF THE DISABILITIES OF TRUSTEES.

Trustee cannot renounce after acceptance.

46. A trustee who has accepted the trust cannot afterwards renounce it except (a) with the permission of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, or (b) if the beneficiary is competent to contract, with his consent, or (c) by virtue of a special power in the instrument of trust.

Trustee cannot delegate.

47. A trustee cannot delegate his office or any of his duties either to a co-trustee or to a stranger, unless (a) the instrument of trust so provides, or (b) the delegation is in the regular course of business, or (c) the delegation is necessary, or (d) the beneficiary, being competent to contract, consents to the delegation.

Explanation.—The appointment of an attorney or proxy to do an act merely ministerial and involving no independent discretion is not a delegation within the meaning of this section.

Section 47—Note 1 (contd)

[9] A benamidar possesses the legal ownership of the property. He is a trustee in respect of that property. There cannot be an effectual transfer of the trust. The office of trustee is incapable of transfer. It is impossible to dissociate the office of trustee from the possession of the properties. SECTION 48 — SYNOPSIS

1. Joint execution.
2. Borrowings by one of several trustees.
3. Suits by one of several trustees.
4. Election of trustee.
5. Managing trustee.

1. Joint execution. — [1] In the case of co-trustees, the office is a joint one and the duties of the office must be done in their joint capacity. The act of one trustee done with the sanction and approval of a co-trustee may be regarded as the act of both, but such sanction or approval must be strictly proved. The above principles of English law apply in India as well and hence the execution of any document even by the de facto trustee or manager alone would be ineffective in conveying a valid claim to the property. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 23 (28) : 72 Ind App 39 : I L R (1945) Kar (PC) 73.

[2] All trustees form one collective trustee and must exercise powers in joint capacity and not separately. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 810 (811) (DB).

[3] Melkanom of temple property by one of trustees not in consultation with other trustees is invalid. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 842 (843).

[4] Section 48 is meant only to control the conduct of the trustees so long as they are alive and does not provide for what should ensue upon the death of one of the trustees. ('32) 1932 Mad W N 297 (299).

[5] The representatives of the other deceased trustee are entitled to joint possession of the trust property with a self-constituted trustee and not to an exclusive possession of the property. ('10) 8 Mad L Tim 200 (200) (DB).

2. Borrowings by one of several trustees. — [1] Where there are several trustees, one cannot borrow money on security of trust property, unless expressly authorised by others. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1199 (1201)*(Vol 29) 1942 Mad 92 (93).

3. Suits by one of several trustees.—[1] No suit in regard to trust properties would be maintainable by one or some of the trustees only, if the remaining trustees are not before the Court either as plaintiffs or even as defendants. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 982 (990) (DB).

[2] Trustee of temple properties cannot sue singly for rent without making other co-trustees parties. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 119 (119) (DB).

[3] One trustee alone can maintain suit to evict lessee where other trustee refuses to join and is added as defendant. (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 335 (335).

[4] Ordinarily all the trustees should be co-plaintiffs and only such of them as are unwilling should be made defendants. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 810 (811) (DB).

[5] Two out of five trustees of temple properties can sue tenants for rent—One of many trustees can validly discharge, if authorised by co-trustees. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 698 (698, 699) (DB).

[But see (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 746 (747) (DB). (One of two Uralans (trustees) of Devoswom can maintain a suit for redemption of a Kanom of the Devoswom property without reference to the other Uralan)]

[6] The principle that co-shebaits should join as co-plaintiffs or defendants in case they are unwilling cannot be invoked in a suit for removal of some trustees on ground of misappropriation and breach of trust. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 562 (567) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 128 (DB).

[7] One trustee in a minority has no legal right to sue to set aside a majority vote even when strict obedience to technical rules has not been observed if, in substance, the rules have been complied with. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 658 (659).

4. Election of trustee. — [1] In the case of a private trust where there are more trustees than one, all must join in the execution of the trust, and hence where all the assistant shebaits have not joined in electing the shebait, the election is not valid. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 519 (521) : 60 Cal 538 (DB).

5. Managing trustee.—[1] Majority cannot elect one of the trustees as managing trustee and oust minority from taking part in management. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 397 (397).

[2] There is nothing improper in one of the trustees being permitted to supervise the routine work in the temple; but there can be no general authorization by the other trustees permitting the so-called managing trustee to incur debts on behalf of the temple and create a charge on the temple properties. For so doing, the express consent and authorization of the other trustees beforehand is certainly essential. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1199 (1201).

[3] Co trustee not consulting other trustees in bona fide belief that he had exclusive right of management, should not be absolutely removed — Opportunity must be given to him to show his readiness to act in co-operation with other trustees. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 323 (323).

[4] One of co-trustees keeping trust property and refusing co-trustee management and access to accounts. Latter can sue—He is entitled to inspection of accounts. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 416 (416) (DB).

Section 49 — Note 1

[1] Court has no jurisdiction to interfere with the discretion of the trustee except on a properly instituted suit. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 237 (238).

Section 50 — Note 1

[1] Section 50 reproduces a principle of the English law and applies to constructive trustee as well. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 374 (380) : I L R (1937) Bom 843.

[2] When solicitor trustee is defendant to suit relating to trust property and his firm acts on his behalf with the beneficiary or the Court at the time of accepting the trust, a trustee has no right to remuneration for his trouble, skill and loss of time in executing the trust.

Nothing in this section applies to any Official Trustee, Administrator General, Public Curator or person holding a certificate of administration.

Trustee may not use trust-property for his own profit.

51. A trustee may not use or deal with the trust-property for his own profit or for any other purpose unconnected with the trust.

Trustee for sale or his agent may not buy.

52. No trustee whose duty it is to sell trust-property, and no agent employed by such trustee for the purpose of the sale, may, directly or indirectly, buy the same or any interest therein, on his own account or as agent for a third person.

Trustee may not buy beneficiary's interest without permission.

53. No trustee, and no person who has recently ceased to be a trustee, may, without the permission of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, buy or become mortgagee or lessee of the trust-property or any part thereof; and such permission shall not be given unless the proposed purchase, mortgage or lease is manifestly for the advantage of the beneficiary.

Trustee for purchase.

And no trustee whose duty it is to buy or to obtain a mortgage or lease of particular property for the beneficiary may buy it, or any part thereof, or obtain a mortgage or lease of it, or any part thereof, for himself.

Co-trustees may not lend to one of themselves.

54. A trustee or co-trustee whose duty it is to invest trust money on mortgage or personal security must not invest it on mortgage by, or on the personal security of, himself or one of his co-trustees.

and other co-trustees, his firm will be entitled, not only to their out-of-pocket costs, but also to profit costs taxed as between attorney and client. (Vol 24) 1937 Bom 374 (382) : I L R (1937) Bom 843.

Section 51 — Note 1

[1] A trustee contracting to purchase property in the course of execution of his trust does so in his individual capacity and is personally liable in the absence of a stipulation to contrary. (Vol 29) 1942 All 73 (73).

[2] When trust money is handed over to trustee to be used in his business subject to payment of interest, and when he uses that money it ceases to be trust money. The trust can no longer look to that particular sum of money, as its res or subject-matter but only to a promise to pay an equal sum If he holds it purely as trust money he is debarred by S. 51 from dealing with it for his own profit and the veto so imposed is absolute. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 251 (254) (DB).

[3] Succeeding trustee may acquire title from outsider as against trust provided he was not party to original misappropriation. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 409 (412) (DB).

[4] Author of trust can permit trustee to apply funds to his own use and such authority will not detract from the trust. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 249 (252).

[5] Purchase of goods with trust money and other moneys—Beneficiary unable to identify goods bought with his money — He has charge on whole property. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 249 (251). (In re; Hallet's Estate; Knatchbull v. Hallet, (1879) 13 Ch D 696, Foll.)

Section 52 — Note 1

[1] Trustee not being a trustee for sale may buy property from major beneficiaries, only on disclosure to them of all facts known to him regarding the property —Secret purchase by trustee in another person's name is invalid. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 235 (236) : 48 Ind App 258 : 48 Cal 1019 (PC).

[2] Any one in fiduciary position cannot sell to himself. (Vol 10) 1923 P C 114 (117) : 50 Ind App 162 : 4 Lah 284 (PC).

[3] Trustee cannot purchase trust property nor sell his property to trust. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 372 (374) (DB). (Wright v. Morgan, (1926) 1926 App Cas 788 and (Vol 9) 1922 P C 235 : 48 Ind App 258 : 48 Cal 1019 (PC), Ref.)

Section 53 — Note 1

[1] Trustee purchasing from beneficiary — Purchase is bad unless trustee has made full disclosure of all material facts. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 235 (236) : 48 Ind App 258 : 48 Cal 1019 (PC).

[2] A person appointed as manager by an executor of an estate should be regarded as an executor de son tort and therefore a trustee by purchasing a tenancy within the estate, comes within the principle of Ss. 53 and 88 of the Act. Therefore the purchase by him must be taken to have been made for the benefit of the estate. ('13) 15 Bom L R 343 (347).

[3] Trustee contracting to purchase property for trust is personally liable in absence of contrary stipulation in the contract itself. Court granting decree should not add direction for re-imbursement of trustee from trust property, where beneficiaries are not parties and there is no issue in that respect. (Vol 29) 1942 All 73 (73, 74).

[4] Trust—Sale by trustee to his wife—Presumption of undue benefit—Duty of Court to scrutinise transaction. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 68 (70) (PC).

[5] Trust money was to be used in business by insolvent trustee subject to payment of interest—The trustee becomes a debtor when the money is invested in his business and when the trustee becomes insolvent the trust cannot have preferential right in the general assets. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 251 (259) (DB).

Section 54 — Note 1

[1] When trust money is handed over to any person or to trustee to use it in his business subject to payment of interest and when the money is used in the business the object matter of trust is no longer the money but the personal obligation of the trustee. The trust still subsists but a relationship of creditor and debtor is set up between the parties. When that person becomes insolvent, the trust has no preferential right to the general assets. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 251 (258) (DB).

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF THE BENEFICIARY.

55. The beneficiary has, subject to the provisions of the instrument of trust, a right to the rents and profits of the trust-property.

Rights to rents and profits.

56. The beneficiary is entitled to have the intention of the author of the trust specifically executed to the extent of the beneficiary's interest; and, where there is only one beneficiary and he is competent to contract, or where there are several beneficiaries and they are competent to contract and all of one mind, he or they may require the trustee to transfer the trust-property to him or them, or to such person as he or they may direct.

Right to transfer of possession.

When property has been transferred or bequeathed for the benefit of a married woman, so that she shall not have power to deprive herself of her beneficial interest, nothing in the second clause of this section applies to such property during her marriage.

Illustrations.

(a) Certain Government securities are given to trustees upon trust to accumulate the interest until A attains the age of 24, and then to transfer the gross amount to him. A on attaining majority may, as the person exclusively interested in the trust-property, require the trustees to transfer it immediately to him.

(b) A bequeaths Rs. 10,000 to trustees upon trust to purchase an annuity for B, who has attained his majority and is otherwise competent to contract. B may claim the Rs. 10,000.

(c) A transfers certain property to B and directs him to sell or invest it for the benefit of C, who is competent to contract. C may elect to take the property in its original character.

57. The beneficiary has a right, as against the trustee and all persons claiming under him with notice of the trust, to inspect and take copies of the instrument of trust, the documents of title relating solely to the trust-property, the accounts of the trust property and the vouchers (if any) by which they are supported, and the cases submitted and opinions taken by the trustee for his guidance in the discharge of his duty.

Right to inspect and take copies of instrument of trust, accounts, etc.

SECTION 56—SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Trust in favour of creditors.

1. Scope. — [1] Agreement between adoptive father and natural father of plaintiff to devise property to plaintiff — Breach — Suit by son for possession against adoptive father's heirs: Held, suit does not lie —His only remedy is to sue the trustee for a conveyance. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 196 (202) : 58 Ind App 279:10 Pat 851 (PC).

[2] Where it was found that the defendants had realised certain dues from some cartmen in the name of and for the benefit of an institution and in the suit by the plaintiffs, members of the working committee of the institution, for money realised by the defendants, the defendants contended that the plaintiffs not being parties to the contract between the defendants and the cartmen, had no right to enforce payment against the defendants :

Held, that the defendants, when realising the dues, constituted themselves trustees for the institution, which, as cestui que trust, was entitled to maintain the suit. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 496 (496, 497) : 11 Luck 428 (D B).

[3] Immovable property vesting in trust — Certain amount to be paid to deity and balance to heirs—Deity and heirs can seek partition of property. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 272 (281) : I L R (1940) 2 Cal 285.

[4] Where agreement between two persons secures to another benefit as a cestui que trust, the latter can sue in his own right to enforce the trust. (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 117 (117) (DB). (('10) 32 All 410 : 37 Ind App 152 (PC), Rel. on.)

2. Trust in favour of creditors.—[1] When a legal transfer of property has been made to trustees for payment of the debts of the owner the creditors being neither parties nor privies thereto, the trustees are mere mandatories and the creditors do not become cestui que trust. Till the trust is communicated to the beneficiaries i.e., creditor's the owner is the beneficiary and he can recall the money at pleasure. When once it is communicated the trust is irrevocable. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 42 (45) (DB).

[2] The debtor is the cestui que trust till the fact of the execution of the trust in favour of the creditors is communicated to them or if the creditors themselves are not parties to the conveyance. The debtor can revoke it. It is not revocable either if the creditors are parties or the fact of execution is conveyed to them in which case the creditors are the beneficiaries. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 10 (12) (DB).

[See however (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 818 (821, 822) (DB). (A trust for the benefit of creditors is prima facie not fraudulent. A creditor who is not a party to the trust deed and to whom the trust has not yet been communicated can avail himself of the benefit if a substantial property is transferred to a third person for benefit of creditors generally.)]

[3] B promises A that B will pay the debt of A to C. On this point, according to a Full Bench decision (53 Mad. p 287), at any rate, in this (Madras) presidency the law in India and England is the same and C can sue B only as cestui que trust. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 457 (458) : 55 Mad 436 (DB).

[4] Where a sum is payable by A for the benefit of C, C can claim as beneficiary from A, the trustee. Sections 56 and 69 are applicable to such a case. (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 82 (84) : 7 Luck 292 (DB).

Section 57 — Note 1

[1] Plaintiffs divested themselves of all rights in a part of family property by a transfer deed in favour of family deity—Though Trusts Act cannot be aplied, still the principles can be called in aid. Under Ss. 19 and 57 the beneficiaries are not entitled to an account unless there is an allegation of a breach of trust. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 21 (22) : I L R (1945) Nag 820 (DB).

Right to transfer beneficial interest.

58. The beneficiary, if competent to contract, may transfer his interest, but subject to the law for the time being in force as to the circumstances and extent in and to which he may dispose of such interest :

Provided that when property is transferred or bequeathed for the benefit of a married woman, so that she shall not have power to deprive herself of her beneficial interest, nothing in this section shall authorize her to transfer such interest during her marriage.

Right to sue for execution of trust.

59. Where no trustees are appointed or all the trustees die, disclaim, or are discharged, or where for any other reason the execution of a trust by the trustee is or becomes impracticable, the beneficiary may institute a suit for the execution of the trust, and the trust shall, so far as may be possible, be executed by the Court until the appointment of a trustee or new trustee.

Right to proper trustees.

Wrongful purchase by trustee.

62. Where a trustee has wrongfully bought trust property, the beneficiary has a right to have the property declared subject to the trust or retransferred by the trustee, if it remains in his hands unsold, or, if it has been bought from him by any person with notice of the trust, by such person. But in such case the beneficiary must repay the purchase-money paid by the trustee, with interest, and such other expenses (if any) as he has properly incurred in the preservation of the property; and the trustee or purchaser must (a) account for the nett profits of the property, (b) be charged with an occupation-rent, if he has been in actual possession of the property, and (c) allow the beneficiary to deduct a proportionate part of the purchase-money if the property has been deteriorated by the acts or omissions of the trustee or purchaser.

Section 71 — Note 1

[1] The only modes in which a trustee can divest his office are by the universal consent of all interested parties or by retiring by virtue of a power conferred by the trust deed or by obtaining release on application to Court. ('14) 7 Low Bur Rul 39 (41) (DB).

[2] Court can remove trustee of private trust when there is clear necessity for interference to save trust estate. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 210 (222) (DB).

[3] Where breach of trust is caused by mistake of trustee, it is unnecessary to ask for his removal; the Court in such cases should direct the transferee to make restitution to the trustee. ('09) 32 Mad 490 (507) (DB).

[4] Removal of present trustee does not entail forfeiture of the hereditary office which descends to the next heir. In case of minority, another trustee is appointed until the minor attains majority. ('11) 10 Ind Cas 300 (301) : 9 Mad L Tim 495 (DB).

[5] Where certain persons managed temple properties as de facto trustees, claiming to be Archakas and appropriated for their use surplus income of property and where inam register showed that property was granted to temple, held, that appropriation was not bona fide and they must account for moneys received by them and not being hereditary trustees, must be removed for breach of trust. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 87 (88, 89) (DB).

Section 72 — Note 1

[1] Trust should not be allowed to fail for want of trustee—Court by directing trustees to hand over trust property to donor, does not extinguish trust, but makes donor himself trustee. (Vol 10) 1923 Oudh 80 (89) : 25 Oudh Cas 291 (DB).

SECTION 73 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Application to Court.
3. Inquiry by Court—Scope.
4. Powers of Court.
5. Para. 1—"Unfit".
6. Disagreement amongst trustees.
7. Provision for appointment by founder.

1. Scope. — [1] It is true that S. 73 relates primarily to the appointment of new trustees, but S. 74, which is to be read with S. 73, relates not only to vacancies but to disqualifications. Therefore, Ss. 73 and 74 do, in effect, confer a power of removal when "in the opinion of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction" a person is "unfit or personally incapable to act in the trust." The appropriate term, however, would appear to be not "removal" but "discharge." (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 223 (224) : I L R (1943) Kar 213 (DB).

[2] A new trustee, under S. 73 of the Trusts Act, need not be appointed by a registered document, as the office of trustee is not immoveable property under the Registration Act and the trust properties vest in him according to S. 75 of the Trusts Act and not by the instrument of appointment. ('09) 6 Mad L Tim 240 (241) (DB).

[3] Misconduct of trustee does not ipso facto result in his removal. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 982 (993) (DB).

2. Application to Court.—[1] A petition is to be made by the beneficiary when a vacancy or disqualification occurs. The petition follows a vacancy or disqualification which is a condition precedent, the existence of which is not dependent upon an adjudication by the Court in the same proceeding. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 223 (224, 225) : I L R (1943) Kar 213 (DB).

[2] An application for removal of a trustee for having committed breaches of contract and for the appointment of another trustee is competent under the Act: it is not necessary to file a regular suit. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 574 (574).

the opinion of a principal civil Court of original jurisdiction, unfit or personally incapable to act in the trust, or accepts an inconsistent trust, a new trustee may be appointed in his place by —

(a) the person nominated for that purpose by the instrument of trust (if any), or

(b) if there be no such person, or no such person able and willing to act, the author of the trust if he be alive and competent to contract, or the surviving or continuing trustees or trustee for the time being, or legal representative of the last surviving and continuing trustee, or (with the consent of the Court) the retiring trustees, if they all retire simultaneously, or (with the like consent) the last retiring trustee.

Every such appointment shall be by writing under the hand of the person making it.

On an appointment of a new trustee the number of trustees may be increased.

The Official Trustee may, with his consent and by the order of the Court, be appointed under this section, in any case in which only one trustee is to be appointed and such trustee is to be the sole trustee.

The provisions of this section relative to a trustee who is dead include the case of a person nominated trustee in a will but dying before the testator, and those relative to a continuing trustee include a refusing or retiring trustee if willing to act in the execution of the power.

Appointment by Court.

74. Whenever any such vacancy or disqualification occurs and it is found impracticable to appoint a new trustee under section 73, the beneficiary may, without instituting a suit, apply by petition to a principal civil Court of original jurisdiction for the appoint-

Section 73 — Note 2 (contd.)

[But see (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 20 (21) : 52 Bom 32 (DB). (Applications for removal of trustees must be made by suit.)]

3. Inquiry by Court—Scope.—[1] The enquiry is limited in its scope to matters that can be readily determined in an enquiry of a summary nature. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 574 (574).

[2] Sections 73 and 74, Trusts Act are not intended to apply to contentious or disputed cases, where proceeding by way of suit is appropriate, but to cases appropriate to a summary procedure where the facts are not disputed or cannot reasonably be disputed. For the purpose of an application under S. 74, it is enough that the trustee has placed himself in the position of a debtor to the trust and has obtained an advantage to himself by so doing. The Court is not to embark upon an inquiry into allegations which are disputed ; it should base its opinion as to the unfitness, incapacity or disqualification of the trustee upon facts which are admitted, or which are self-evident, or which have already been the subject of decision by a competent Court. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 223 (225) : I L R (1943) Kar 213 (DB).

4. Powers of Court. — [1] Where trustees of a certain fund are appointed by a certain community but the trustees have no power to appoint their successors and the successive trustees are being appointed for 50or 60 years by the trustees, they are not validly appointed trustees unless their appointment is sanctioned by the community. In the case of large charities, the Court should see that trustees are being appointed by a good electorate. When the donors have not provided for the appointment of trustees, those vitally interested in the charity and its due and effective administration should have some voice in choosing the trustee. ('09) 2 Ind Cas 701 (724) : 33 Bom 509 (DB).

[2] Where a waqf was created, before the Waqf Validating Act, in favour of the grantor's family and descendants without ultimate dedication to charity and the District Judge removed the mutwalli and appointed one of the beneficiaries in his place. Held, that the order was bad as not only the waqf was invalid but also a trust in favour of unborn persons from generation to generation was not supportable under Muhammadan Law. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 587 (588) (DB).

5. Para. 1—"Unfit."—[1] Word "unfit" refers not only to physical incapability but also to case where applicant charges trustee with breach of trust. (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 41 (43).

[2] It is neither possible nor necessary to limit the term "unfit" in S. 73, Trusts Act, to physical fitness or personal incapacity, to an incapacity other than a physical incapacity. Under S. 73, mere unfitness or personal incapacity is not in itself a sufficient disqualification. It must be an unfitness or personal incapacity which in the opinion of the Court disqualifies, and when such disqualification exists, a vacancy occurs, and a new appointment is to be made. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 223 (224) : I L R (1943) Kar 213 (DB).

6. Disagreement amongst trustees. — [1] Appointment of new trustees can be made by joint act of all the continuing trustees and if they do not agree, the matter becomes one where the Court's intercession must be called for. (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 222 (225) : I L R (1944) Bom 420.

[2] Trust created by will containing a provision that new trustee shall be appointed by the continuing trustee—Compromise effected in the matter of appointment of new trustees in case continuing trustee did not agree—Compromise not valid— Court can interfere in case of a deadlock due to the non-agreement amongst the continuing trustees. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 331 (332).

7. Provision for appointment by founder. — [1] Where founder has made no provision for appointment of fresh trustees, his legal representatives are entitled to be appointed. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 193 (193, 194).

[See also (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 218 (219, 220) (DB). (Succession to trusteeship of property follows the ordinary rule of Hindu Law and consequently a Hindu widow is entitled to succeed to the trusteeship as heir to her husband, if there is no special custom to the contrary.)]

[2] Trustee appointed by will of author of trust cannot be removed by Court on application of person other than beneficiary. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 20 (21) : 52 Bom 32 (DB).

[3] Where power is given on death or retirement of trustee to some person to appoint another person "other" means other than trustee dying or retiring. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 366 (367) : I L R (1943) Bom 495 (DB).

Section 74 — Note 1

[1] Per Weston J. — Section 74 expressly confers upon the beneficiary a right to apply to the Court by ment of a trustee or a new trustee, and the Court may appoint a trustee or a new trustee accordingly.

Rules for selecting new trustees.

In appointing new trustees, the Court shall have regard (a) to the wishes of the author of the trust as expressed in or to be inferred from the instrument of trust; (b) to the wishes of the person, if any, empowered to appoint new trustees; (c) to the question whether the appointment will promote or impede the execution of the trust; and (d) where there are more beneficiaries than one, to the interests of all such beneficiaries.

Vesting of trust-property in new trustees.

75. Whenever any new trustee is appointed under section 73 or section 74, all the trust property for the time being vested in the surviving or continuing trustees or trustee, or in the legal representative of any trustee, shall become vested in such new trustee, either solely or jointly with the surviving or continuing trustees or trustee, as the case may require.

Powers of new trustees.

Every new trustee so appointed, and every trustee appointed by a Court, either before or after the passing of this Act, shall have the same powers, authorities and discretions, and shall in all respects act, as if he had been originally nominated a trustee by the author of the trust.

Survival of trust.

76. On the death or discharge of one of several co-trustees, the trust survives and the trust-property passes to the others, unless the instrument of trust expressly declares otherwise.

petition, not by suit, for the appointment of a new trustee, and such appointment may then be made by the Court, not only when a vacancy has occurred because of death or absence from British India, but also when any "disqualification" contemplated in S. 73, renders a new appointment necessary. The right to apply under S. 74 is subject to the restriction that an appointment under S. 73 is found to be impracticable. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 223 (226) : I L R (1943) Kar 213 (DB).

[2] An application for the removal of a trustee for a breach of trust and for appointment of a new trustee is maintainable under Ss. 73 and 74, but the inquiry is of a summary nature because Ss. 73 and 74 are not intended to deal with questions involving elaborate inquiry. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 574 (574).

[3] Where one of the trustees is excluded from the administration of trust estate in consequence of which the trustee renounces the trust, the trustee, thereby, either disclaims or refuses within the meaning of S. 73, and an application for removal and appointment of trustee under S. 74 is competent. (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 41 (42).

[4] Allegation that person is entitled to office of trustee brings relief sought under S. 92, Civil P. C. and remedy is by way of suit only and not by application. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 118 (121): 9 Luck 507.

[5] Receiver cannot be appointed in proceeding for removal of trustee and appointment of new trustee under the Act. (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 237 (238) : 22 Sind L R 146 (DB).

[6] Mortgage — Equity of redemption — Proper representation — Mortgagor creating trust for paying debts including that of mortgages — Trustees subsequently discharged, debtor having taken possession of properties—Debtor declared insolvent — Suit by mortgagee on mortgages against debtor, his son and receiver —Equity of redemption held not represented in mortgage suit — As mortgagee a beneficiary could have applied for appointment of new trustees and have made them parties to his suit to represent the equity of redemption. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 161 (170) : 14 Luck 548 (DB).

[7] Act does not apply to wakf-alal-aulad, and no application lies under Ss. 73 and 74 for the removal of the mutwalli of such wakf and for the appointment of a new one. (Vol 32) 1945 All 261 (262, 263) : I L R (1945) All 818 (FB).

[8] Petitton under S. 74—Court-fee under Art. 1 (d), Sch. II, Court-fees Act, is sufficient. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 118 (121): 9 Luck 507.

[9] No appeal lies to the High Court from an order made by the District Judge under S. 74 of the Trusts Act. The Act contains no provision for an appeal from such an order. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 223 (223, 224) : ILR (1943) Kar 213 (DB).

Section 75 — Note 1

[1] Trust — Trustee of temple — Management — Liability to account — Conduct of previous trustees supervised by members of community—Suit by succeeding trustee for taking of account — Specific items of malversation held against—Lapse of time—Direction for general accounts — Whether can be given. ('37) 70 Mad L Jour 318 (319, 320) (PC).

Section 76—Note 1

[1] Act has no application to public or private religious charitable endowments. Principles underlying Ss. 44 and 76 serve as useful guide. (Vol 28) 1941 All 387 (391) : I L R (1941) All 711 (DB).

[2] Once a founder prescribes a line of devolution as regards the trusteeship in the document creating a trust, the founder has no right to alter the line of devolution of the trusteeship unless he had reserved such a power in the original document itself. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 633 (634).

[3] Where a will creating a trust dictates that succession is to pass to the descendants of the original trustee, the direction cannot be extended to include their collaterals, in whom there is no reason to suppose that the testator would have been inclined to repose any particular confidence. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 300 (301).

CHAPTER VIII.

OF THE EXTINCTION OF TRUSTS.

Trust how extinguished.

77. A trust is extinguished —

(a) when its purpose is completely fulfilled; or

(b) when its purpose becomes unlawful; or

(c) when the fulfilment of its purpose becomes impossible by destruction of the trust-property or otherwise; or

(d) when the trust, being revocable, is expressly revoked.

Revocation of trust.

78. A trust created by will may be revoked at the pleasure of the testator.

A trust otherwise created can be revoked only —

(a) where all the beneficiaries are competent to contract—by their consent;

(b) where the trust has been declared by a non-testamentary instrument or by word of mouth—in exercise of a power of revocation expressly reserved to the author of the trust; or

(c) where the trust is for the payment of the debts of the author of the trust, and has not been communicated to the creditors—at the pleasure of the author of the trust.

Illustration.

A conveys property to B in trust to sell the same and pay out of the proceeds the claims of A's creditors. A reserves no power of revocation. If no communication has been made to the creditors, A may revoke the trust. But if the creditors are parties to the arrangement, the trust cannot be revoked without their consent.

Revocation not to defeat what trustees have duly done.

79. No trust can be revoked by the author of the trust so as to defeat or prejudice what the trustees may have duly done in execution of the trust.

CHAPTER IX.

OF CERTAIN OBLIGATIONS IN THE NATURE OF TRUSTS.

Where obligation in nature of trust is created.

80. An obligation in the nature of a trust is created in the following cases.

Section 77 — Note 1

[1] Where gift of land is made for public purpose, the donees are trustees — If fulfilment of purpose becomes impossible, trust is extinguished and land reverts to donor. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 93 (94).

[2] Where trustee is dissatisfied with co-trustee's management, he cannot apply for cancellation of trust. (Vol 12) 1925 All 277 (279, 280) : 47 All 313 (DB).

[3] When trust money is deposited as security for good behaviour of an employee, demand for its return does not amount to revocation and consequent extinguishment of trust. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 126 (128) : 16 Luck 241 (DB).

Section 78 — Note 1

[1] Valid trust once created is irrevocable by any subsequent act of the author of trust. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 380 (382) (DB).

[2] Trust under S. 6 of the Married Women's Property Act can be revoked by beneficiary. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 136 (138).

[3] A debtor by an arrangement made one of his creditors a trustee in respect of some of his properties for the payment of debts and subsequently hypothecated the same properties for securing an advance. Held, that the subsequent hypothecation amounted to a revocation of a trust.'('09) 1 Ind Cas 347 (348) (DB) (All) ✻ (Vol 34) 1947 Pat 131 (132).

[4] Clause (c) applies only to trust solely for payment of debts.(Vol 10)1923 Oudh 80(90):25 Oudh Cas 291(DB).

[5] Section 78 does not apply to trust created for payment of debts and other purposes. (Vol 10) 1923 Oudh 80 (90) : 25 Oudh Cas 291 (DB).

[6] G sold property to S and deposited the price with him, the deed of deposit reciting "G will have all his creditors paid off by said vendee and get him receipts for them." G was adjudged insolvent. A particular creditor R was not paid: Held no trust was created in favour of R and the money with S was available for distribution among the creditors. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 66 (67) (DB).

[7] Where a person asks another to acquire a certain property for his benefit, i.e, for benefit of the settlor and allots a sum of money for the purpose but reserves to himself the power of revoking the trust after the amount is spent, the trust is a valid one and his refusal after the amount is spent to further finance the work is a valid revocation of the trust. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 68 (91) (FB).

[8] In case of a waqf-alal-aulad, no application lies under Ss. 73 and 74, Trusts Act, for the removal of the mutwalli and appointment of a new one in his place. In view of S. 1, the Act has no application to such waqfs. (Vol 32) 1945 All 261 (263) : I L R (1945) All 818 (FB).

[9] If a person deposits money with a Bank as security for good behaviour of an employee, and demands the return of the money, there is no express revocation of the trust but the demand is one for the performance of the trust. The trust cannot be extinguished until the purpose of the trust was completely fulfilled by the return of the amount to the depositor subject to the lawful claims of the Bank against that property. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 126 (128) : 16 Luck 241 (DB).

[10] A, by a registered deed settled certain property for charitable trusts and appointed himself as Hukdar for life and after him his grandson B. It was held that A had no power to revoke the appointment of B who obtained a vested right to property on A's death, as the deed was not a will. ('11)1911-2 Mad W N 382 (383) (DB).

[1] Chapter 9 gives the principles that should govern Courts in ascertaining the rights and obligations of

81. Where the owner of property transfers or bequeaths it and it cannot be inferred consistently with the attendant circumstances that he intended to dispose of the beneficial interest therein, the transferee or legatee must hold such property for the benefit of the owner or his legal representative.

Where it does not appear that transferor intended to dispose of beneficial interest.

Illustrations.

(a) A conveys land to B without consideration and declares no trust of any part. It cannot, consistently with the circumstances under which the transfer is made, be inferred that A intended to transfer the beneficial interest in the land. B holds the land for the benefit of A.

(b) A conveys to B two fields, Y and Z, and declares a trust of Y, but says nothing about Z. It cannot, consistently with the circumstances under which the transfer is made, be inferred that A intended to transfer the beneficial interest in Z. B holds Z for the benefit of A.

(c) A transfers certain stock belonging to him into the joint names of himself and B. It cannot, consistently with the circumstances under which the transfer is made, be inferred that A intended to transfer the beneficial interest in the stock during his life. A and B hold the stock for the benefit of A during his life.

(d) A makes a gift of certain land to his wife B. She takes the beneficial interest in the land free from any trust in favour of A, for it may be inferred from the circumstances that the gift was for B's benefit.

parties in certain cases and does not relieve a party from any obligation to take the necessary steps needed by the substantive or adjective law for creating a valid trust. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 350 (354, 356):38 Mad 321 (DB).

[2] Section 4, cl. (f), Mad. Agri. Relief Act applies to obligations declared in Chap IX. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 471 (472) : I L R (1939) Mad 525 (DB).

[3] Where sale deed contains recital that property is bought for plaintiff in names of defendants, there is constructive trust only—S. 10, Limitation Act, does not apply to it. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 57 (58, 59) : 45 Mad 415 (DB).

[4] Trustee de facto is really no other than a trustee de son tort. He has no right to maintain suit on behalf of trust, even if beneficial to the charity. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 982 (990) (DB).

SECTION 81 — SYNOPSIS

1. "Intended to dispose of the beneficial interest."
2. Doctrine of advancement.
3. "Attendant circumstances."
4. Other illustrative cases.

1. "Intended to dispose of the beneficial interest." — [1] Intention referred to in the section is intention of testator at time of making will and burden of proving different intention is upon those who set up the same. ('11) 10 Mad L Tim 42 (44) (DB).

[2] 'Disposal of beneficial interert' refer to transfer or bequest referred to in earlier part of section, i. e., if it is legally proved that the testator or transferor did not intend by such transfer or bequest to part with the beneficial interest, the transferee or legatee is a trustee for the transferor or his legal representative and cannot claim the property under such transfer or bequest. ('09) 32 Mad 443 (454, 455) (DB). (Per Sankaran Nair J.)

[3] Fiduciary relationship may be established without the use of the word 'trust". A person may become a trustee by his own acts and conduct so as to deprive himself of all beneficial ownership of property and declare that he will hold the same in trust for another. The mere fact that the owner retains an interest in the property would not necessarily go against the foundation of trust. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 296 (297).

[4] Legatee executing agreement to pay guzara to testator from date of will—Will giving vested remainder to legatee — Non-payment of guzara by legatee—Will not revoked by testator — Character of legatee is not changed into trustee for testator or his heirs as the intention referred to in the section is the intention of the testator at the time of making the will and not afterwards. It does not apply to a subsequent change of intention. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 193 (207) : 21 Luck 314 (DB).

2. Doctrine of advancement. — [1] Presumption of advancement, under English law applies only in case of persons of British nationality domiciled in India — Where husband or father makes apparent advancement to wife or child, no beneficial interest is conferred on donee, if donor proves that his intention was different; but mere statement of husband or father is not enough. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 56 (57) : 47 Ind App 275 : 48 Cal 260 : 10 Low Bur Rul 335 (PC).

[2] Advancement — Doctrine of, does not generally apply in India — Principles to be applied in English Court of Chancery are to be applied in case of persons of British parents, but residing wholly in India. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 56 (57, 58, 59) : 47 Ind App 275 : 48 Cal 260 : 10 Low Bur Rul 335 (PC).

[3] There is no presumption of advancement in the Province of Burma (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 447 (447, 448) (DB)≠(Vol 23) 1936 Rang 256 (259, 266) : 14 Rang 242 (FB).

[4] Presumption of advancement as known in English law may arise in case of Anglo-Indians where husband transfers property in name of his wife. (Vol 11) 1924 Rang 283 (286) : 2 Rang 253 (DB)≠(Vol 20) 1933 Nag 337 (339, 340) : 30 Nag L R 115.

[5] Presumption of advancement in case of British National resident in India is not rebutted by proof of management and collection of rent by husband after purchase. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 15 (15, 16) : 9 Low Bur Rul 212 (DB).

[6] Where a husband or father purchases property in the name of wife or child, there is no presumption of an intended advancement unless there is some other evidence of sufficient motive for gift or transfer. The onus lies on the person alleging the advancement to prove that the purchase was intended to be an advancement. ('26) 28 Bom L R 11 (14) (DB).

3. "Attendant circumstances."—[1] "Attendant circumstances" mean the same thing as surrounding circumstances at time of making the will. ('09) 32 Mad 443 (455) (DB).

[2] Section 81 of the Trusts Act refers only to attendant circumstances but not to antecedent circumstances. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 193 (205) : 21 Luck 314 (DB).

[3] Where a resulting trust is sought to be proved, acts and declarations made long after the transaction are not admissible in favour of the person seeking to show such a trust and therefore it is doubtful whether they would be admissible in favour of that person's creditor against the person in whose name the property stands. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 433 (435).

4 Other illustrative cases.—[1] The general rule and principle of the Indian law as to resulting trusts differ but little, if at all, from the general rule of English law upon the same subject, but owing to widespread and persistent practice which prevails amongst

82. Where property is transferred to one person for a consideration paid or provided by another person, and it appears that such other person did not intend to pay or provide such consideration for the benefit of the transferee, the transferee must hold the property for the benefit of the person paying or providing the consideration.

Transfer to one for consideration paid by another.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the Code of Civil Procedure[a], section 317, or Act No. XI of 1859[b] (to improve the law relating to sales of land for arrears of revenue in the Lower Provinces under the Bengal Presidency), section 36.

the natives of India, whether Mahomedan or Hindu, for owners of property to make grants and transfers of it benami for no obvious reason or apparent purpose, without the slightest intention of vesting in the donee any beneficial interest in the property granted or transferred, as well as the usages which the natives have adopted or which have been protected by statutes, no exception has ever been engrafted on the general law of India negativing the presumption of the resulting trust in favour of the person providing the purchase money, such as has, by the Courts of Chancery in the exercise of their equitable jurisdiction, been engrafted on the corresponding law in England in those cases where a husband or father pays the money and the purchase is taken in the name of a wife or child. In such a case there is, under the general law in India, no presumption of an intended advancement as there is in England. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 56 (57): 47 Ind App 275: 10 Low Bur Rul 335 : 48 Cal 260 (PC).

[2] In the case of a voluntary conveyance of property by a grantor without any declaration of trust, there is a resulting trust in favour of the grantor, unless it can be proved that an actual gift was intended. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 269 (271) (DB).

[3] W endorsed the receipt of his fixed deposit and sent it with a letter to the Bank asking them to hand-over amount to defendant. W's heir sued for a declaration that the money formed part of W's estate — Held, defendant was the absolute owner, and there was no resulting trust in favour of W's heir. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 286 (288) : 38 Bom 618 (DB).

[4] Where a mortgage is taken in the name of A, the money advanced being admittedly the money of B, there is resulting trust in favour of B. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 447 (447, 448) (DB).

[5] Assignment of mortgage-deed intended to place property conveyed by it beyond reach of assignor's creditors, falls under S. 80, assignee becoming only benamidar and assignor remaining real owner. (Vol 17) 1930 Nag 273 (277, 278) : 26 Nag L R 277 (DB).

SECTION 82 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Intention and presumption.
3. Advancement.
4. "Transferee must hold property, etc."
5. Other illustrative cases.

1. Scope.—[1] Section means that if nothing more is shown than transferor paid consideration, there is resulting trust (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 671 (672).

[2] Purchase by A in B's name — Sale by B to C in fraud of A — Suit by A for declaration of ownership—Second suit by C for possession—Plea of A's ownership —Held, that once A proved that the consideration was paid by him, S 82 became applicable and it was not necessary for him to rely upon any of the ingredients referred to in S 84 of the Trusts Act. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 165 (167) (DB).

[3] Person pays consideration and another takes conveyance; latter holds property for benefit of former. (Vol 4) 1917 P C 152 (155) (PC).

[4] Property purchased in one's name with another's money with intention that property should belong to that another person creates resulting trust. ('71) 14 Moo Ind App 433 (437, 438) (PC).

[5] Where pre-emptor paid into Court whole amount including money due by vendor to previous mortgagee and vendor with that money discharged the mortgage and was in possession — Held that vendor must hold possession on the pre-emptor's behalf. (Vol 10) 1923 All 507 (508) : 45 All 482 (DB).

[6] The test to find out whether a transaction is benami or not is the source from which the purchase-money is got, but even this test becomes relevant only in the absence of all other explanatory circumstances. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 243 (246, 247) (DB).

2. Intention and presumption.—[1] Where property is acquired in the name of one person but the purchase price is paid by another, a presumption arises that the transaction is one for the benefit of the person providing the money. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 68 (80) (FB).

[2] Purchase of property in name of one's mistress living under one's protection does not raise presumption that one intended to benefit her. But other circumstances may show that title passes to her. ('10) 5 Ind Cas 85 (86, 87) (DB) (Cal).

[3] The section has no bearing on the burden of proof and does not make it necessary for a person who alleges that the consideration for transfer was paid by some one other than the nominal transferee to show further that there was no intention upon the part of the person providing the money to pay for the benefit of the transferee. (Vol 29) 1942 All 308 (312, 314): ILR (1942) All 478 (DB).

[4] Section 82, Trusts Act though it may not have really altered the burden of proof, has made it much clearer than it was before that burden of proof of establishing all the facts neeessary to lead to the inference that a transfer was benami lies upon the person asserting it to be so. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 288 (292): 16 Luck 341 (DB).

3. Advancement. — [1] The presumption of advancement in English law when a person purchases property in the name of another in whom he is interested does not arise in India. Here the question in such a case is if the purchase was for the benefit of the person in whose name it was made, one test being the source of the purchase-money. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 926 (927) (DB).

[2] Executor purchasing property comprised in will in name of his son—Presumption that purchase is gift by way of advancement to son is not applicable — Presumption does not apply in any case in which father could not purchase property — Such a presumption is only of general application in competition between father and son or those claiming under them. (Vol 6) 1919 P C 253 (255) (PC).

83. Where a trust is incapable of being executed, or where the trust is completely executed without exhausting the trust-property, the trustee, in the absence of a direction to the contrary, must hold the trust-property, or so much thereof as is unexhausted, for the benefit of the author of the trust or his legal representative.

Trust incapable of execution or executed without exhausting trust-property.

(a) A conveys certain land to B —
"upon trust," and no trust is declared; or
"upon trust to be thereafter declared," and no such declaration is ever made; or upon trusts that are too vague to be executed; or upon trusts that become incapable of taking effect; or
"in trust for C," and C renounces his interest under the trust.
In each of these cases B holds the land for the benefit of A.

(b) A transfers Rs. 10,000 in the four per cents. to B, in trust to pay the interest annually accruing due to C for her life. A dies. Then C dies. B holds the fund for the benefit of A's legal representative.

(c) A conveys land to B upon trust to sell it and apply one moiety of the proceeds for certain charitable purposes, and the other for the maintenance of the worship of an idol. B sells the land, but the charitable pur-

[3] There is no presumption in India that property acquired by father in name of child is intended for his advancement. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 419 (423) : 12 Lah 546 (DB).

[4] Father of European nationality living in India in European style — Presumption of advancement arises, if father purchases property in name of his daughter. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 441 (444, 445) (DB).

[5] The deposit by a Hindu of his money in a bank in the joint names of himself and another and on terms that it is payable to either as survivor does not, on his death, constitute a gift by him to the other. There is a resulting trust in his favour in the absence of proof of a contrary intention, there being, in India, no presumption of an intended advancement to such other person. (Vol 32) 1945 PC 10 (11): 71 Ind App 197(PC).

[6] Doctrine of advancement in favour of wife or son does not apply in British India. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 243 (246, 247) (DB).

[7] Where an Indian Christian husband provides the money for the purchase of a property in the name of his wife, the property must be regarded as being his unless the evidence justifies the conclusion that he intends to make a gift to his wife. The English doctrine of advancement cannot be legitimately applied to Indian Christians, who are Indians of the full blood. Religious belief is not a factor in the application of the doctrine and there is no reason for making an exception in the case of Indian Christians. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 503 (504, 505) : I L R (1942) Mad 844 (DB).

4. "Transferee must hold property etc." — [1] Benamidar cannot be considered trustee in strict sense of term. He is alias for real owner in whom vests legal title. Real owner can enforce his rights in respect of property, without referring to benamidar—Benamidar has some of liabilities but not all the rights of true owner. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 268 (269) (DB).

[2] Person purchases property in name of another and consideration has come through former; effect of transaction is that resulting trust is created in his favour. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 198 (199).

[3] The general principle of equity, applicable both in England and in India is that in the case of a voluntary conveyance of property by a grantor, without any declaration of trust, there is a resulting trust in favour of the grantor, unless it can be proved that an actual gift was intended. Where money was deposited by a husband in a bank in the name of himself and his wife "payable to either or survivor:" Held, that the money belonged to the estate of the husband. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 172 (173, 174) : 55 Cal 944 : 55 Ind App 235 (PC).

[4] It has been established by decisions that owing to the widespread and persistent practice prevailing in India of owners of property making grants and transfers benami for no obvious reason, without any intention of vesting in the donee any beneficial interest in the property granted or transferred, as well as the usages which the natives have adopted and which have been protected by statute, no exception has ever been engrafted on the general law of India, negativing the presumption of the resulting trust in favour of the person providing the purchase money. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 56 (57, 58, 59) : 47 Ind App 275 : 48 Cal 260 : 10 Low Bur Rul 335 (PC).

[5] Property belonging to the plaintiff's father sold in execution of a decree—Vendee agreed to return the same to the father on payment of a certain amount, part of which was advanced by defendants and the balance supplied by the father — Vendee executed a kobala in the names of the defendants — A year later, father unable to pay interest, put the defendants in possession to recover the amount due to them — After the execution of the kobala, some of the properties were sold for arrears of rent due and purchased by defendants — Plaintiffs sued the defendants for recovery of possession of the property on payment of amount due to the defendants—Held, that the defendants were in the position of creditors in possession and there was a resulting trust in favour of the plaintiffs. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 309 (311) (DB).

5. Other illustrative cases.—[1] Co-sharers A and B having claims against taluqdar for under-proprietary title in certain villages — Agreement that claim should be prosecuted in name of A, B paying half the costs and receiving half profits when right is established — A obtaining decree and delivery of possession — B is entitled to say that A held partly for him—Agreement should be maintained and B awarded his half share. ('89) 16 Cal 62 (66, 70).

[2] Benamidar is competent to maintain suit for recovery of possession of property purchased benami in his own name and without beneficial owner being party to the suit. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 190 (190).

[1] Funds held in trust for particular purpose—Purpose failing or coming to end — Resulting trust of remaining funds — Suit for recovery of their share by subscribers of fund is governed by Art. 120, Limitation Act. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 641 (642, 643) (DB).

[2] A trust was created by a woman which failed after her death. A resulting trust was created in favour of settlor and it descended to her heirs at the time of her death. (Vol 2)1915 Bom 267 (268):40 Bom 341(DB).

poses wholly fail, and the maintenance of the worship does not exhaust the second moiety of the proceeds. B holds the first moiety and the part unapplied of the second moiety for the benefit of A or his legal representative.

(d) A bequeaths Rs. 10,000 to B, to be laid out in buying land to be conveyed for purposes which either wholly or partially fail to take effect. B holds for the benefit of A's legal representative the undisposed of interest in the money or land if purchased.

84. Where the owner of property transfers it to another for an illegal purpose and such purpose is not carried into execution, or the transferor is not as guilty as the transferee, or the effect of permitting the transferee to retain the property might be to defeat the provisions of any law, the transferee must hold the property for the benefit of the transferor.

Transfer for illegal purpose.

[3] Where no wakf was found to have been created it was held that the property must go back to the owner or his representative. (Vol 22) 1935 All 458 (458).

[4] Resulting trust—Whole interest of grantor legal and equitable intended to be transferred—No resulting trust comes into existence unless there is no consideration or consideration wholly fails—Resulting trust property conveyed in consideration of covenant—Breach of covenant is not failure of consideration as to give rise to resulting trust. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 168 (170) (PC).

[5] Past rents were assigned to trustee for purposes of the charitable trust—Trustee later obtained decree for the rents — Trust declared subsequently incapable of being given effect to—Held the original owner can execute the decree without any assignment—Illustration (c) to S. 83 and (b) of S. 94 cited—Where Act is not applicable the aforesaid provisions in the Act notably the above sections, fully set out principles that should govern a case like the present one, and we are bound to follow these principles in asmuch as they accord with equity and justice of the case. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 343 (344, 345) (DB).

[6] 'Legal representative' in section includes person entitled to represent deceased's interest by inheritance when for deceased's property no administration has been granted. (Vol 2) 1915 Bom 267 (268) : 40 Bom 341 (DB).

[7] Where debtors transferred all their properties to trustee for benefit of creditors, it was held that no resulting trust was created in favour of debtors and surplus moneys could not be sued for. (Vol 1) 1914 Sind 81 (82) : 8 Sind L R 132.

[8] Article 120, Limitation Act, governs an action under the section and time runs from the date when there was a failure of the purpose and the resulting trust thereupon arose. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 641 (642, 643) (DB).

1. Scope.
2. Transfer for an illegal purpose.
3. "And such purpose is not carried into execution."
4. "Transferor not as guilty as transferee."
5. Defeating provisions of law.
6. "Transferee to hold the property for the benefit of the transferor."
7. Fraudulent transfers.

1. Scope.—[1] Section 84 speaks of a case where a transfer has been effected for an unlawful purpose and the transferor claims that he nevertheless remains the beneficial owner of the property. Section 82 speaks of a case where A conveys property to B for consideration paid by C and states that B holds the property for the benefit of C. This is the distinction between S. 82 and S. 84. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 165 (167) (DB).

2. Transfer for an illegal purpose.—[1] Lottery —Kurichit fund is lottery—Promoters of chit fund commit offences under S. 294-A, Penal Code—Money paid to stake-holder is held by him as trustee. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 225 (227) : 59 Mad 562 (FB) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 281 (283, 284) (DB).

[2] Agreement to transfer service inam when it would be enfranchised, is void and money received under it must be paid back. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 885 (886).

3. "And such purpose is not carried into execution." — [1] The rule that a person in pari delicto cannot recover is applicable not only where the unlawful agreement has been fully carried out but also where there has been part performance of a substantial character of such agreement. This is the construction of the words "not carried into execution." ('06) 29 Mad 72 (74) (DB).

[2] To enable fraudulent confederate to retain property transferred to effect fraud, fraud must be carried into effect. Then alone fraudulent grantor loses right to recover property. (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 321 (323) (DB).

[3] If fraudulent object is accomplished, though not entirely, transferee would not be disturbed — If it is continuous act, perpetrator can retract and revoke authority given to confederates. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 147 (151) : 53 Bom 321 (DB).

[4] As long as an unlawful or void agreement remains unperformed any money paid under it may be recovered back as received to the use of the person who so paid it. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 159 (160) (DB).

[5] Colourable transfer made with intention to defraud creditors can be set aside by transferor before fraud had taken place. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 127 (129) (DB).

[6] Where mortgage was taken benami with tainted origin for plaintiff's benefit, but fraud was not effected, plaintiff can sue on mortgage. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 148 (149) (DB).

[7] Partnership between defendant and plaintiff prior to excise bid — Plaintiff to supply funds to defendant and defendant to carry on business — Plaintiff to share profits—Profits earned—Suit by plaintiff for dissolution of partnership and accounts : Held, that the partnership was illegal and that neither under S. 84, Trusts Act, nor under S. 65, Contract Act, could the plaintiff recover the money advanced to the defendant. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 415 (416).

4. Transferor not as guilty as transferee. — [1] Lottery — Kurichit fund is lottery — Promoters of chit funds commit offences under S. 294-A, Penal Code — Subscribers to lottery are not guilty of any offence — Doctrine of pari delicto is not applicable. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 225 (227) : 59 Mad 562 (FB).

[2] Where, for the purpose of inducing the trustee of a public trust of national importance to defraud the trust, sums of money are paid by a person, it cannot be said that the person is not as guilty as the trustee. Such an agreement, being contrary to public policy, the Court will not order a refund of money paid under an arrangement which falls within this category. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 31 (31) : I L R (1939) Mad 30 (DB).

Bequest for illegal purpose.

85. Where a testator bequeaths certain property upon trust and the purpose of the trust appears on the face of the will to be unlawful, or during the testator's lifetime the legatee agrees with him to apply the property for an unlawful purpose, the legatee must hold the property for the benefit of the testator's legal representative.

Bequest of which revocation is prevented by coercion.

Where property is bequeathed and the revocation of the bequest is prevented by coercion, the legatee must hold the property for the benefit of the testator's legal representative.

Transfer pursuant to rescindable contract.

86. Where property is transferred in pursuance of a contract which is liable to rescission or induced by fraud or mistake, the transferee must, on receiving notice to that effect, hold the property for the benefit of the transferor, subject to repayment by the latter of the consideration actually paid.

Debtor becoming creditor's representative.

87. Where a debtor becomes the executor or other legal representative of his creditor, he must hold the debt for the benefit of the persons interested therein.

Advantage gained by fiduciary.

88. Where a trustee, executor, partner, agent, director of a company, legal adviser, or other person bound in a fiduciary character to protect the interests of another person, by availing himself of his character, gains for himself any pecuniary advantage, or where any person so bound enters into any dealings under circumstances in which his own interests are, or may be, adverse to those of such other person and thereby gains for himself a pecuniary advantage, he must hold for the benefit of such other person the advantage so gained.

5. Defeating provisions of law. — [1] The possession of property by a transferee under a transfer which has been adjudged to be fraudulent is similar to that of a trustee for the person from whom he takes the transfer under S. 84 of the Trusts Act. (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 37 (40) : I L R (1943) Nag 764 (DB).

6. Transferee to hold the property for the benefit of the transferor. — [1] Where the person who was for the time being in possession of a Karnam service inam expected that the same would be enfranchised in his name and agreed to transfer his interest in the property to the plaintiff when the event would take place. Held, that the agreement was void and forbidden by law. Held, further, that the plaintiff would be entitled to refund of the money advanced by him. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 885 (886).

[2] Chit fund with arrangement for paying of prize every month by casting lot was held illegal as lottery — Held (by Krishnan J., Odgers J, dissenting.) that as the prize arrangement was severable from the rest of the contract, money paid could be sued for by way of refund. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 281 (282, 284) (DB).

[3] Lottery — Kurichit fund is lottery — Promoters of chit fund commit offence under S. 294-A, Penal Code — Subscriber can claim refund of his subscription — Application of S. 84, Trusts Act — Promoters are personally liable. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 225 (227) : 59 Mad 562 (FB).

7. Fraudulent transfers. — [1] Transferor is disentitled to set aside transfer for fraudulent purpose and to delay creditor. (Vol 3) 1916 Sind 22 (24) : 9 Sind L R 108 ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 127 (129) (DB).

[But see ('01) 5 Nag L R 146 (148). (The fact that a creditor of the defendant is actually defeated by a sale does not debar the defendant from pleading, in a suit for possession, that the conveyance was benami to defeat creditors.)]

[2] Any argument based on S. 84, Trusts Act, proceeds on the assumption that the document in question has been assailed or is liable to be assailed under S. 53, T. P. Act as executed with the intent to commit fraud. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 95 (97).

Section 86 — Note 1

[1] By S. 86, a transferee in possession under a voidable transfer must, on receipt of notice of rescission, hold the property for benefit of transferor, subject to repayment of consideration actually paid. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 350 (353) : 38 Mad 321 (DB).

[2] Section 86, Trusts Act is in pari materia with Ss. 19 and 19-A, Contract Act and apparently relates only to the lifetime of the transferor. The legal representative of the transferor cannot take advantage of it. (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 93 (94) : 43 Bom 173 (DB).

Section 87 — Note 1

[1] A person mentioned in a will a debt due by D and provided that D and K should be the executors, after the death of his wife who would be the manager during her life-time: Held, that under S. 87, D would be a trustee for the sum due by him, and that the Common law doctrine would not apply for such a debt. But he would not thereby become an express trustee of the debt for a specific purpose unless it was so designated in the will. ('09) 11 Bom L R 1187 (1192) (DB).

SECTION 88 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Executor.
3. Partner.
4. Agent.
5. Director of company.
6. Legal adviser.
7. Other person bound in a fiduciary capacity
8. Gains any pecuniary advantage.
9. Adverse dealings.
10. Hold for the benefit of such person.
11. Reimbursement.

1. Scope.—[1] Except in cases otherwise provided by statute, a constructive trust can be held to arise only under S. 88 or S. 90 of the Act. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 929 (935, 936).

[2] The Trusts Act applies only to Rangoon and does not apply to the Districts, but still the principles enunciated therein can be applied to cases coming from the districts. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 44 (47, 48) (DB).

(b) A, a trustee, uses the trust-property for the purpose of his own business. A holds for the benefit of his beneficiary the profits arising from such user.

(c) A, a trustee, retires from his trust in consideration of his successor paying him a sum of money. A holds such money for the benefit of his beneficiary.

(d) A, a partner, buys land in his own name with funds belonging to the partnership. A holds such land for the benefit of the partnership.

(e) A, a partner, employed on behalf of himself and his co-partners in negotiating the terms of a lease, clandestinely stipulates with the lessor for payment to himself of a lakh of rupees. A holds the lakh for the benefit of the partnership.

(f) A and B are partners. A dies. B, instead of winding up the affairs of the partnership, retains all the assets in the business. B must account to A's legal representative for the profits arising from A's share of the capital.

(g) A, an agent employed to obtain a lease for B, obtains the lease for himself. A holds the lease for the benefit of B.

(h) A, a guardian, buys up for himself incumbrances on his ward B's estate at an undervalue. A holds for the benefit of B the incumbrances so bought, and can only charge him with what he has actually paid.

value of property — Court may decree profits on fixed interest which need not be current rate. (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 134 (145) (DB).

[4] The terms of Ss. 88 and 90 are not exhaustive only in the sense that if a person cannot be brought within these sections, and held liable as a trustee, he must be found to fall under the residuary section i. e., S. 94. In other words, where no trust has been declared, a person would not be accountable as a trustee until obligations are found to have been created which are in the nature of a trust and under which he may be held to be, what is termed in English law, a constructive trustee. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 779 (781, 782).

2. Executor. — [1] A person mentioned in a will a debt due by D and provided that D and K would be the executors after the death of his wife who would manage the estate during her lifetime : Held, D would be a trustee for the sum due but not an express trustee of the debt for a specific purpose, unless that was so designated in the will. ('09) 11 Bom L R 1187 (1192) (DB).

3. Partner. — [1] Where partner retains and uses for his business the partnership fund after the death of a partner, he is bound to render accounts of profits (Vol 18) 1931 All 327 (329) : 53 All 479 (DB).

[2] It is not without significance that illus. (d) and (e) to S. 88 refer only to cases where the partner uses funds belonging to the partnership or clandestinely stipulates for a personal benefit in a transaction negotiated by him on behalf of himself and his co-partners. In the circumstances existing in this country, it is difficult to say that a general presumption, that in obtaining the renewal of a lease, the partner 'availed himself of his character' or of the advantage of the old lease will be justified in cases where the lease is not renewable by contract or custom. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 929 (935, 936) (DB).

[3] The retiring partner can, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, claim not only interest but at his option either a share of the profits of the business which was continued with his assets or interest on the amount of his share of the partnership assets. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 456 (457, 458) : 52 Mad 672 (DB).

4. Agent. — [1] Principal is entitled to pecuniary advantage received by agent having adverse interest to those of principal. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1133 (1136) (DB).

[2] If attorney or agent entitled to purchase, buys property not openly but in name of his wife by concealing fact, purchase cannot stand. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 34 (35, 36) : 51 Ind App 24 : 51 Cal 299 (P C).

5. Director of company. — [1] Where company with limited liability undertakes to sell shares of shareholder, position of Managing Director is one of fiduciary character. (Vol 17) 1930 All 615 (616) (DB).

[2] Payment of money to insurance company for revival of policy — Company going into liquidation before policy revived — Receipt of money by company is not in fiduciary capacity and no question of trust arises. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 210 (211).

6. Legal adviser. — [1] Pleader and client — Pleader purchasing client's property in execution sale in his wife's name after his ceasing to be client's pleader—Sale is vitiated owing to concealment. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 34 (35, 36) : 51 Ind App 24 : 51 Cal 299 (PC).

[2] Hindu joint family owned Abkari business. Family became divided and partition suit was brought, and receivers were appointed for getting in all assets and for winding up. [8] Muhammadan co-heirs—One continuing business and taking minor co-heir under his guardianship—Suit by minor for share of profit : Held, co-heirs were in fiduciary position of trustees for daughter. [12] A mortgagee is not a trustee of the power of sale. It is a power given to him for his own benefit, to enable him the better to realize his mortgage debt. If he exercises it bona fide for that purpose, without corruption or collusion with the purchaser, the Court will not interfere, even though the sale be very disadvantageous, unless indeed, the price is so low as in itself to be evidence of fraud. ('11) 13 Ind Cas 261 (264) : 10 Mad L Tim 554 (P C).

[13] A co-sharer in the tenure was held not to come within the language of S. 88, as a person bound in a fiduciary character to protect the interest of the other co-sharer. (Vol25) 1938 Cal 500 (502): I L R (1938) 2 Cal 266.

8. Gains any pecuniary advantage. — [1] The Superintendent of the State of a disqualified Ruling Chief is in a fiduciary position towards the Political Agent who represents the Chief, and his duty as Superintendent is to do his best in the interests of the State. If, therefore, he gains any property for himself by representations to the Political Agent concealing the fact that he is gaining it for himself he will be affected by the provisions of S. 88. (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 357 (366) (DB).

[2] There is ordinarily no fiduciary relation between tenants in common so as to impose an obligation on one co-owner to protect the interest of the other co-owners. Nor can S. 90, Trusts Act, apply unless one co-owner is placed in such a relation to another by the act or consent of another, that he becomes interested for him and with him in any subject of property or business and being in that position, he, acting for himself or as representing another, gains an advantage in derogation of another's rights. 'The basic principle however depends upon whether any duty is owed by the person who obtains the advantage of making over the advantage or sharing that advantage with others". (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 302 (306) : I L R (1943) Nag 658.

[3] The defendants-respondents took over the management of the estate of M soon after his death and obtained a new contract from Government : Held that even assuming that they had obtained a renewal of the contract in personal capacity it would be clearly contrary to public policy to allow them to retain the benefit for themselves. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 44 (47, 48) (DB).

[4] Per Mullick and Foster, JJ. — A trustee who relies on abandonment of the trust by the beneficiary and acquires property by his own exertions need not hold it as a trustee but may hold it for his own benefit. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 68 (98) (F B).

89. Where, by the exercise of undue influence, any advantage is gained in derogation of the interests of another, the person gaining such advantage without consideration, or with notice that such influence has been exercised, must hold the advantage for the benefit of the person whose interests have been so prejudiced.

[2] There is no more certain way of taking advantage than the way of concealment, and if an attorney or agent can show he is entitled to purchase, yet if instead of openly purchasing he purchases in the name of a trustee or agent without disclosing the fact, no such purchase as that can stand for a single moment and the advantage he has acquired by concealing the name of the real purchaser must be given up. Even where the Trusts Act does not apply the above principles hold good. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 34 (34, 35) : 51 Cal 299: 51 Ind App 24 (P C).

[3] Muhammadan trader dying leaving two major sons, widow, and some minor sons and daughters — Major sons continuing trade as family trade for benefit of family. When there is no misconduct of execution creditor, property reverts to debutter estate in case of purchase by shebait without leave and surplus sale proceeds should be returned to him. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 210 (217, 218) (D B).

[6] Trustee who relies on abandonment of trust by beneficiary and acquires property by his own exertions, may hold it for his own benefit. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 68 (98) (F B).

[7] The defendants-respondents took over the management of the estate of M soon after his death, and later when they had obtained letters, carried on its administration and obtained a new contract from Government:

Held, that they occupied a fiduciary position when they obtained a new contract from Government and the new agreement must be treated as a graft or addition to the estate of M. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 44 (47, 48) (DB).

[8] Pleader who has not obtained any advantage over his clients by using his confidential position, does not become trustee within meaning of section. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 144 (150, 151) (D B).

[9] A person in a fiduciary relation procuring a conveyance by taking advantage of his relationship must restore all advantage so gained for the benefit of the other. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 89 (91) : 7 Luck 64 : 59 Ind App 147 (P C).

[10] Plaintiff and her sister sold their land for an inadequate price to their uncle the defendant with whom they were living after the death of their parents. [11] The resumption of an inam and the levy of full assessment on the trustee for failure to fulfil the condition of the trust does not amount to a re-grant to the trustee, or extinguish the trust originally created. The advantage gained by the trustee enures for the benefit of the trust. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 515 (522, 524) : 42 Mad 161 (DB).

[12] Where a company with a limited liability undertakes to sell the shares belonging to one of its share-holders, the position of its Managing Director in negotiating and completing the sale is clearly one of a fiduciary character. Utmost good faith should be expected and should be insisted upon in transactions of this description. If any advantage was obtained by the Managing Director as the fruit of the sale, whether the purchase was made in his name, or in the name of his minor sons, the benefit must go to the owner of the shares. (Vol 17) 1930 All 615 (616) (DB).

[13] Property ceasing to be trust property—Person subsequently becoming trustee, can purchase it if it has become absolute property of another by adverse possession. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 317 (318).

[14] Under S. 88, a trustee is bound to hold the property on behalf of the trust and cannot therefore bring a suit in his personal capacity in derogation of the trust, but if he is in possession of the trust property he can out of it recoup himself what he has spent for the benefit of the trust. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 367 (367).

11. Reimbursement. — [1] Where mother acting as guardian ad litem of her son whose estate was held by a trustee for him purchased a portion of trust property sold in execution of decree passed against the estate with her own money—Held, that the son is not entitled to recover possession of that property from his mother and in any case he could in equity do so only on reimbursing to his mother the purchase money which had gone to the benefit of his estate. [1] The principles of English cases have been adopted by the Indian Legislature in enacting S. 89. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 726 (731) : 58 Mad 454 (DB).

[2] The true owner cannot claim the restitution of a fraudulent advantage gained by a person in adverse possession because the person in such possession is not "under a duty to speak" as Ss. 89 and 90 contemplate only persons under some fiduciary relationship to the true owner. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 228 (231): 39 Mad 959 (DB).

[3] Effect of section is to invalidate gifts even if donees were not themselves in position of real or apparent authority provided they had notice that undue influence had been used. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 97 (99, 100) (DB).

Advantage gained by qualified owner.

SECTION 90 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Co-owner.
3. Mortgagee.
4. "Other qualified owner."
4a. "Person interested."
5. Illustration (a).
6. "Gains an advantage in derogation."
7. "Must hold for the benefit of all persons interested."
8. Representative capacity.
9. Co-sharer.
10. Purchase by mortgagee.
11. Lease-renewal.
12. Repayment of expenses.
13. Other illustrative cases.

1. Scope. — [1] The right recognised by S. 90 of the Trusts Act is not a vested right enforceable unconditionally by a decree for joint possession but depends on the nature of the property and the equities, arising from the conduct of the properties. When there is uncertainty in the property, the person must be active in the prosecution of his rights and should not sleep over them. ('10) 6 Nag L R 12 (15).

[2] The terms of Ss. 88 and 90 are not exhaustive only in the sense that if a person cannot be brought within these sections and held liable as a trustee, he must be found to fall under the residuary section i. e., S. 94, i. e., where no trust has been declared, a person would not be accountable as a trustee until obligations are found to have been created which are in the nature of a trust and under which he may be held to be, what is called in English law as a constructive trustee. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 779 (781, 782).

[3] This section has no application to re-grant on new tenure of property forfeited for non-payment of assessment under S. 56 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code. A clear provision of special statute overrides the section. ('13) 37 Bom 692 (698, 699) (DB).

[4] Section does not invalidate purchase by mortgagee in contravention of O. 34, R. 14, Civil P. C. ('12) 15 Ind Cas 589 (592) (DB) (Mad).

[5] Tenants in common—Sons becoming tenants in common — One of the sons on termination of original lease obtaining renewal for himself and not for anybody or as anybody's heir — After his death, his sons obtaining land on occupancy tenure by paying occupancy price—Sons are not trustees of such land for benefit of family—Section does not apply. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 250 (252).

[6] Money deposited in Court in usum jus habentis and withdrawn by person not entitled to it may properly be held to be received for person entitled to it. ('11) 33 All 450 (452) (DB).

[7] Where the equity of redemption was sold in execution of a decree for money upon a claim independent of the mortgage, it cannot be said that the purchaser holds the property as trustee for the mortgagors. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 121 (129) (DB).

2. Co-owner.—[1] Person inheriting property as heirs from a common ancestor are deemed as co-sharers and possession of one is deemed to be the possession of the other. (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 521(523): 4 Luck 261.

[2] A relationship of mutual confidence exists between co-sharers in a joint estate. ('11) 15 Cal W N 776 (780) (D B).

[3] It is not correct to say that, as between co-sharers, a relation of fiduciary character does not exist, and if any co-sharer has acted fraudulently in allowing a default in the payment of revenue and purchasing the properties himself at the revenue sale the other co-sharers are entitled to a re-conveyance on paying to him a share of the purchase money proportionate to their share. ('13) 18 Cal L Jour 97 (107, 108) (D B).

[4] Co-owners—Auction sale for default of payment of land revenue — Purchase by one co owner — Section 90, has no application in absence of suggestion that default was due to machinations on part of purchaser. There is ordinarily no fiduciary relation between tenants-in-common so as to impose an obligation on one co-owner to protect the interest of the other co-owners. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 302 (306) : I L R (1943) Nag 658.

[5] Though co-heirs of a deceased Muhammadan are tenants-in-common and a co-tenant does not stand in a fiduciary relation to the other co-tenants, a co-heir may, by his dealings with the shares of the others, put himself in a fiduciary relationship. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 686 (687).

[6] Advantage taken by co-sharer at revenue sale is not by itself ground to give other co-sharers right to reconveyance. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 431 (432) (D B).

[7] Co-sharer procures default of payment of revenue with a view to purchase it for himself—His liability to reconvey to the owner does not depend on his being directly liable to pay the revenue. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 434 (434) : 69 Cal 180 (D B).

[8] False statements that other co-owner abandoned claim, made — Occupancy rights acquired by such misrepresentations — Co-owner is within the provisions of S. 90. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 219 (222) (D B).

[9] There may be circumstance on grounds of public policy where section should apply to co-owner as for instance where revenue sale is caused by default of co-owner and property is purchased by very co-owner. '13) 18 Cal L Jour 111 (118) (D B).

[10] Winding up of business owned by some persons —Members not allowed to compete so as to interfere with successful winding up—Members of Hindu family not allowed to compete with the receivers appointed to wind up joint family business. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 137 138) (D B).

[11] A, 2-anna co-sharer and mortgagee with possession of 14 annas of village—A ejecting tenants from certain plots with consent of mortgagors and cultivating himself and acquiring tenancy rights — Subsequent mortgage of 14-anna share with possession to B — B redeeming A's mortgage and claiming joint possession of plots—Held whatever rights got in the plots in question were obtained by him in his capacity as motgagee and as owner of a two-anna share and those rights were for the benefit of all the co-sharers of the sixteen anna share in the village and the subsequent mortgagee was entitled to joint possession. (Vol 24) 1937 All 321 (324, 326) (D B).

[12] One of two co-owners of debt obtaining document in his own name in derogation of rights of other holds it for benefit of other also under S. 90 of the Act. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 129 (130) (D B).

[13] Plaintiff and defendant owned separate plots under joint patta and for default in paying revenue, plaintiff's land was sold in auction and defendant purchased it. Plaintiff claimed benefit of purchase by defendant. In absence of defendant's fraudulent conduct causing property to be sold, plaintiff was not entitled to benefit as plaintiff and defendant were not co-owners. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 288 (289).

[14] Occupancy rights in mauza were acquired by mortgagees of co-sharer who were also co-sharers with him in mauza for their own benefit:

Held, to give mortgagor any claim to them it was incumbent on him to show that they were acquired under circumstances which bring them within this section (Vol 19) 1932 P C 199 (201) : 59 Ind App 366 (P C).

[15] Where a member of a joint Hindu family holds a property on behalf of the joint family and subsequently a grant is given to him by the Govt. of that property, he holds the property even after the grant on behalf of the family and if this constitutes a trust, that trust is discharged when the other members who claim a share in the property subsequently accept a guzara. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 17 (27).

[16] A person who obtains a decree for his brother as well as himself cannot plead that he alone should benefit because his name alone is entered in it. Such a person must be regarded as a trustee for his brother. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 177 (180, 181) : 18 Luck 439 (D B).

[17] Renewal of lease for 30 years in favour of one of the heirs of original lessees—Other heir is entitled to participate in profits, notwithstanding Government's refusal to associate him in benefit. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 200 (201) : 27 Oudh Cas 281.

[18] Section 90 does not apply unless one co-owner is placed in such a relation to another by the act or consent of another that he becomes interested for him and with him in any subject of property or business and being in that position he, acting for himself or as representing another gains an advantage in derogation of another's rights. (Vol 30) 1943 Nag 302 (306) : ILR (1943) Nag 658.

[19] Assignment by Mahomedan mother of mortgage in favour of minor daughter and herself—Assignment void as regards the interest of daughter—Realisation of full mortgage amount by assignee — Suit by minor daughter —Held the assignee is a co-sharer with minor daughter in respect of mortgage-debt and he is liable under this section. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 806 (814).

[20] Separate possession of common land by one of co-sharers without objectiom by others is not in derogation of rights of the co-sharers within. S. 90. The remedy is by partition and to obtain compensation (Vol 21) 1934 All 193 (196) : 56 All 582 (D B).

3. Mortgagee.— [1] A mortgagee is in the position of a trustee and cannot grant leases or make other dispositions of the mortgaged property in his own favour and of such a kind as to give rise to a possible conflict between his interest and duty. ('10) 7 Mad L Tim 148 (150) (DB).

[2] Mortgagee allows mortgaged property to be sold in consequence of his default and purchases it benami, cannot resist redemption by mortgagor. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 108 (109) : 40 Bom 483 (DB) ✠ (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 192 (193) (DB).

[But see (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 61 (63) : 41 Bom 357 (DB). (Mortgagee purchasing equity of redemption in execution of money decree cannot be held to have gained undue advantage over mortgagor.)✠(Vol 10) 1923 Cal 121 (129) (DB). (Sale of equity of redemption in execution of money decree independent of mortgage—Purchaser does not hold property as trustee for mortgagors.)]

[3] Mortgage — Revenue sale of mortgaged property — Mortgagor purchasing it benami—Subsequent mortgage sale: Held, sale under mortgage-decree was valid and conveyed full title to plaintiff as mortgagor bought property only in benami at revenue sale. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 760 (761, 762) (DB).

[4] Where a mortgagee had three mortgages on the same property and brought a suit upon the last mortgage alone and purchased the property in court auction subject to his prior mortgage, he cannot by his failure to sue on all the mortgages be said to have gained an advantage within the meaning of S. 90 so as to hold the equity of redemption in trust for the mortgagor's sons. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 288 (292, 293) (DB).

[5] Minor was mortgagee of a separately owned share of property. Agents of mortgagee intentionally made default in paying revenue, for which he was responsible, to have the whole property sold for arrears and purchased for mortgagee. Co-sharers with mortgagor never knew of default or consequent sale. Purchaser was a trustee for all the co-sharers. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 227 (229) : 44 Cal 573 : 44 Ind App 30 (PC).

4. "Other qualified owner." — [1] Accretions made by a Hindu widow to her husband's estate partake of the nature of that estate. It is of little moment whether this rule of law is one of Hindu law or is based on S. 90 of Trusts Act. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 277 (278) : 1 Luck 98 (DB).

[2] A lessee is a qualified owner of the property inasmuch as he exercises the power of the landlord during the continuance of his lease and can give his consent to transfers and therefore, if he gains any advantage in derogation of the interest of the superior landlord, he holds that advantage for the benefit of the latter. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 360 (364) (DB).

[3] Crown grant for thirty years transferred by grantee — Grant renewed in transferee's favour after period of 30 years — Transfer cannot claim grantee's interest. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 135 (136) (PC).

[4] A Hindu widow is not a qualified owner or a tenant for life in the sense in which these expressions have been used in the section. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 719 (721, 722).

4a. "Person interested."—[1] "Person interested" do not cover the creditors of the widow's deceased husband. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 719 (721, 722).

5. Illustration (a).—[1] As regards renewals obtained by a tenant for life, Illustration (a) to S. 90 provides in unqualified terms that the person so renewing "holds the renewed lease for the benefit of all those interested in the old lease." Except in the cases otherwise specially provided for by statute, a constructive trust can be held to arise only under Ss. 88 and 90. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 929 (935, 937) ✠ (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 200 (201) : 27 Oudh Cas 281.

6. "Gains an advantage in derogation."—[1] Before the benefit of S. 90 of the Trusts Act can be demanded, it must be shown that (1) the party against whom relief is sought availed himself of his position, (2) he gained an advantage by so doing, and (3) the advantage was gained in derogation of the rights of the person interested in the property. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 202 (204, 205, 206) : I L R (1943) Mad 418 (DB).

[2] There may be circumstances on grounds of public policy that a co-owner should hold advantage obtained by him in derogation of the rights of others for their benefit as well as his own, as for instance where a revenue sale is caused by the default of co-owner, and the property is purchased at the sale by the very co-owner. ('13) 17 Cal W N 1233 (1239) (DB).

[3] If a co-sharer procures default of payment of revenue with a view to purchase it for himself his liability to reconvey to the owners does not depend on his being directly liable to pay the revenue. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 434 (434) : 59 Cal 180 (DB),

[4] Land granted to one of several co-owners under Bombay Land Revenue Code, after amendment, is granted individually. If another co-owner wishes to take advantage under section, he must prove that former had gained advantage in derogation of other co-owner's rights. (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 212 (215) : 23 Sind L R 461 (DB) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Sind 27 (27, 28) (DB).

[5] A co-sharer who deliberately makes default in paying his share of Government revenue with a view to purchase the estate himself when brought to sale for the arrears cannot be held to have practised fraud upon the other co-sharers when he has done nothing to mislead the latter or to keep from their knowledge the fact, that the estate was to be sold. ('13) 20 Ind Cas 317 (318) (DB) (Cal).

[8] Separate possession of common land by one of co-sharers without objection by others is not in derogation of rights of the co-sharers within S. 90. The remedy is by partition and to obtain compensation. (Vol 21) 1934 All 193 (196) : 56 All 582 (DB).

[9] Where lease is given to and accepted by person in representative capacity gains an advantage for himself he must under section hold advantage as trustee for benefit of all. (Vol 1) 1914 Nag 48 (51) : 10 Nag L R 64 (DB).

[10] The mere fact that the purchaser of an estate at a revenue sale is one of the co-sharers who did not pay his share of the revenue is not in itself sufficient to give the other co-sharer equity to obtain a reconveyance of their shares from their purchaser on their paying to him of their proportion the expenses which he had incurred. To support a claim to this equity there must be something unfair, something amounting at least to sharp practice in the conduct of the purchaser. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 431 (432) (DB).

[11] Principle that advantage by agent gained behind back of principal should be for principal does not apply where lease of land was given by landlord to defendant who allowed plaintiff to live upon it and pay rent due and plaintiff obtained intermediate lease from landlord. ('09) 1 Ind Cas 66 (68) (DB) (Cal).

[12] Subsequent usufructuary mortgagee required under the mortgage to pay off prior mortgagee and maintenance to third person—Prior mortgage not paid off—Decree for sale on prior mortgage—Subsequent mortgagee purchasing property in execution sale—Subsequent mortgage held not extinguished and his liabilities under it continued and that the subsequent mortgagee refrained from paying off the prior mortgage with a view to gaining an advantage by the purchase of the property at the execution sale. (Vol 34) 1947 Mad 202 (211) (DB).

[13] One of two co-owners of a debt obtaining document in his own name in derogation of the rights of other holds it for the benefit of the other also under the section. The latter is entitled to a declaration to that effect. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 129 (130) (DB).

[14] A mortgagee who purchases the equity of redemption in execution of a simple money decree against the mortgagor cannot be deemed to be a person who avails himself of his position to gain an undue advantage of the mortgagor. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 61 (63) : 41 Bom 357 (DB).

7. "Must hold for the benefit of all persons interested."— [1] Where the acquisition of a benefit depends upon the holding of certain position and that position is, in reality, held, not by one but by several persons and yet only one of these several persons comes to acquire that benefit through holding that position, the person acquiring the benefit may be held to be a constructive trustee for those several persons. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 240 (241).

[2] Heirs of common ancestor inheriting his property are co-sharers. If one, in possession of entire property, derives advantage by virtue of such possession, he cannot appropriate it exclusively to himself. He cannot therefore resist claim for partition by other co-sharers. (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 521 (523) : 4 Luck 261.

[3] The words "person interested" in S. 90 cannot be held to apply to the case of a Hindu reversioner. Such a reversioner has no vested interest in the estate which is in the possession of a widow. (Vol 8) 1921 All 11 (12) : 43 All 374 (FB).

[4] Where a lease of land for building a bashabari in a town was given by the landlord to the defendant who allowed the plaintiff to live on the land and work for the defendant as mukhtear and pay the rent due to the landlord and the plaintiff obtained and intermediate lease of the land from the landlord: Held, that the principle that a confidential agent is not entitled to take the lease behind the back of the principal and that if he takes it, he must be regarded as a trustee for the principal, did not apply to the present case. ('09) 1 Ind Cas 66 (68) (DB) (Cal).

8. Representative capacity. — [1] Plaintiff and defendant co-owners of 1/5th and 4/5th portions of property — Plaintiff leasing his portion to defendant who becoming pattadar of property — Defendant getting two darkhast grants of adjacent lands—Plaintiff not entitled to partition — No presumption that grant was in representative capacity. [2] Where revenue sale was collusive, purchase prearranged, parties decided to utilize revenue laws for accomplishment of fraudulent object, and to cause injury to proprietor and selected purchaser to hold property for benefit of himself and participators in fraud, Court would strip all disguise from case of fraud. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 26 (32, 33) (DB).

[2] After mortgage of certain wargland and Kumaki land, Government assigned Kumaki lands on Dharkhast to Wargdar. Mortgagee does not get benefit of assignment as mortgagor did not obtain Kumaki lands on Dharkhast. Mortgagee was not protected by Trusts Act, S. 90 as the mortgagor obtained the grant of the waste land only for himself and not as one representing on behalf of all persons interested in the mortgaged property. Section does not apply. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 121 (123) (DB).

(ACT XXV OF 1866.)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Sums amounting to nearly Rs. 6,70,000 in Government Securities and cash, are now in the High Courts of the three Presidency towns, deposited in the course of suits instituted in the late Supreme Courts of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay. There are also funds deposited under similar circumstances in the Supreme Court of the Straits Settlement. These sums have been unclaimed for more than twenty years. The proceeds of certain estates administered by order of the Supreme Court of the Straits Settlement have also been unclaimed for a period of fifteen years.

The object of this Bill is to transfer these sums to the Government of India for the general purposes of Government, subject to any claims which may hereafter be established to the satisfaction of the Court from which the transfer shall have been made.

The present opportunity has been taken to remedy a defect in the existing law regarding unclaimed estates in the hands of the Administrator General of Benga.. All estates administered by the Administrators General of Madras and Bombay, which may be unclaimed for more than fifteen years, are, under Act No. VIII of 1855, S. 51, credited to the general revenues, subject to any claim thereto being afterwards established. But there is no provision of the kind with regard to estates coming into the official charge of the Administrator General of Bengal, subsequent to the passing of that Act."

Such petitions are sometimes merely speculative and in the absence of power such as the present Bill proposes to confer, the time of the Courts is liable to be wasted."—Gazette of India, 1870, Part V, page 5.

Measures under Art. 41 of the Charter of the United Nations.

2. If, under article 41 of the Charter of the United Nations signed at San Francisco on 26th day of June 1945 the Security Council of the United Nations calls upon the Central Government to apply any measures, not involving the use of armed force, to give effect to any decision of that Council, the Central Government may, by order published in the official Gazette, make such provisions (including provisions having extra-territorial operation) as appear to it necessary or expedient for enabling those measures to be effectively applied, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, provision may be made for the punishment of persons offending against the order.

[THE] USURIOUS LOANS ACT, 1918.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

"The object of this Bill is to prevent the Civil Courts being used for the purpose of enforcing harsh and unconscionable loans carrying interest at usurious rates. This subject has engaged the attention of the Government of India frequently in the past and in 1899 sections 16 and 19 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, were amended so as to enunciate more clearly the principle on which a contract can be avoided on the ground of undue influence.

Those amendments had the effect of conferring on the Courts in India equitable jurisdiction in cases relating to usurious contracts in which the element of undue influence is established, but where undue influence cannot be established the result has been to emphasize the rigidity of section 2 of the Usury Laws Repeal Act (XXVIII of 1855), however exorbitant the demand, and however unconscionable the bargain.

Further there has been a tendency on the part of the Courts to place upon the word "unconscionable" in section 16 of the Indian Contract Act the technical meaning which it has acquired in English equity, and consequently to limit their own powers of interference.

Lastly the particular transaction before the Court is often merely one of a series and unless there is power to go behind it and examine antecedent agreements and attendant circumstances there is little hope of the Courts being able to come to an equitable decision.

The remedy proposed by this Bill is to empower the Courts on the lines of section 1 of the Money-lenders Act, 1900 (63 & 64 Vict. c. 51) to reopen transactions by way of money or grain loans in cases where the Court is satisfied (1) that the interest or other return is excessive and (2) that the transaction is substantially unfair, and after investigation of the circumstances, both attendant and antecedent, to revise the transaction between the parties and if necessary to reduce the amount payable to such sum as the Court, having regard to the risk and all the circumstances of the case, may decide to be reasonable. The Local Governments have been consulted and legislation in this direction has commanded almost universal approval. Provision has been made to cover the case of loans of grain as well as of money, as loans in kind are often made on very oppressive terms. As there may be urban or rural areas where the proposed law is deemed unnecessary it has been provided that the Act shall not come into force in any Province or part of a Province except by notification."

1. Scope.
2. Court's powers and duties.
3. Necessary conditions for exercise of power.

(b) that the transaction was, as between the parties thereto, substantially unfair, the Court may exercise all or any of the following powers, namely, may,—

(i) re-open the transaction, take an account between the parties, and relieve the debtor of all liability in respect of any excessive interest;

(ii) notwithstanding any agreement, purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation, re-open any account already taken between them and relieve the debtor of all liability in respect of any excessive interest, and if anything has been paid or allowed in account in respect of such liability, order the creditor to repay any sum which it considers to be repayable in respect thereof;

(iii) set aside either wholly or in part or revise or alter any security given or agreement made in respect of any loan, and if the creditor has parted with the security, order him to indemnify the debtor in such manner and to such extent as it may deem just:

Provided that, in the exercise of these powers, the Court shall not—

(i) re-open any agreement purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation which has been entered into by the parties or any persons from whom they claim at a date more than [a][twelve] years from the date of the transaction;

(ii) do anything which affects any decree of a Court.

Explanation.—In the case of a suit brought on a series of transactions the expression "the transaction" means, for the purposes of proviso (i), the first of such transactions.

(2) (a) In this section "excessive" means in excess of that which the Court deems to be reasonable having regard to the risk incurred as it appeared, or must be taken to have appeared, to the creditor at the date of the loan.

(b) In considering whether interest is excessive under this section, the Court shall take into account any amounts charged or paid, whether in money or in kind, for expenses, inquiries, fines,

[6] Relief merely on ground of hardship is not proper. (Vol 12) 1925 Sind 136 (140) : 18 Sind L R 39 (DB).

[7] In absence of undue influence Court will not give relief to parties who, with their eyes open, entered bonuses, premia, renewals or any other charges, and if compound interest is charged, the periods at which it is calculated and the total advantage which may reasonably be taken to have been expected from the transaction.

(c) In considering the question of risk, the Court shall take into account the presence or absence of security and the value thereof, the financial condition of the debtor and the result of any previous transactions of the debtor, by way of loan, so far as the same were known, or must be taken to have been known, to the creditor.

(d) In considering whether a transaction was substantially unfair, the Court shall take into account all circumstances materially affecting the relations of the parties at the time of the loan or tending to show that the transaction was unfair, including the necessities or supposed necessities of the debtor at the time of the loan so far as the same were known, or must be taken to have been known, to the creditor.

Explanation.—Interest may of itself be sufficient evidence that the transaction was substantially unfair.

(3) This section shall apply to any suit, whatever its form may be, if such suit is substantially one for the recovery of a loan or for the enforcement of any agreement or security in respect of a loan [b][or for the redemption of any such security].

(4) Nothing in this section shall affect the rights of any transferee for value who satisfies the Court that the transfer to him was bona fide, and that he had at the time of such transfer no notice of any fact which would have entitled the debtor as against the lender to relief under this section.

For the purposes of this sub-section, the word "notice" shall have the same meaning as is ascribed to it in section 4 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be construed as derogating from the existing powers or jurisdiction of any Court.

[9] Discretion vested in Court by U. P. Act XXIII of 1934 to decide whether rate of interest is excessive or not—Where the lower Court has exercised its discretion properly the High Court will not interfere in appeal. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 223 (224) : 14 Luck 464 (DB).

3. Necessary conditions for exercise of power. —[1] Two conditions must be satisfied before debtor can be relieved under S. 3; first that interest must be excessive and second that transaction is substantially unfair as between parties. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 776 (777) ✠ (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 99 (102) : 19 Pat 974 (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Pesh 4 (4) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 65 (67) (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 621 (622). (Regard must be had to prevailing rate of interest, nature of security and the period of outstandings.)

4. Court to have "reason to believe."—[1] The words 'has reason to believe' mean something more than mere suspicion. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 776 (777).

[2] 'Reason to believe' does not require evidence but means only judicial notice under the appropriate provisions of the Evidence Act. (Vol 26) 1939 All 323 (326) (DB).

5. Relief in respect of excessive interest.—[1] Operation of Cl. (1) is not restricted to cases where the parties have entered into a subsequent agreement purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 600 (601) : I L R (1943) Mad 56.

[2] Settlement of final accounts between parties — Account open to review — Court is bound to re-open transaction if interest charged is excessive. (Vol 33) 1946 P C 145 (149) (PC). (Case under Art. 6 of Ottoman Law of Interest.)

[3] Even in cases where custom allows excessive interest the Court has under S. 3 (1), power to re-open transaction and order repayment in respect of excessive interest and no claim for such relief is necessary. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 348 (348).

[4] Transaction not harsh and unconscionable — Terms not indicating that it was induced by undue influence — Court should allow agreed rate of interest. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 7 (8) : 5 Rang 619 (DB) ✠ (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 340 (341) (DB).

[5] If rate of interest was neither unfair, nor higher than the prevailing rate, Court should not interfere. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 207 (208) : 56 Cal 960 (DB).

[6] Unless rate is excessive or transaction substantially unfair interest pendente lite and up to date fixed for payment at contract rate should be allowed. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 268 (269) (DB).

[7] The Court on coming to a conclusion that the rate of interest is usurious must reopen the transactions and find out what is really due at the new rate of interest. It cannot provide for any compensation by lessening future interest. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 273 (275) : 18 Luck 81 (DB) ✠ (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 158 (159) : 8 Lah 205 (DB).

[8] Reasonable rate should be fixed by Court having regard to risk incurred. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 468 (471) (DB).

[9] The following rates were held reasonable in the following cases.

(a) Reduction to 15 per cent simple interest. (Vol 26) 1939 P C 200 (201) (PC).

Objects and Reasons.

"We think it well to commence clause 3 by a specific reference to the Usury Laws Repeal Act, 1855, as the powers conferred by the Bill override pro tanto the provisions of that Act. We have accepted the view that the Court may act under the provisions of this clause suo motu as we attach considerable weight to the body of opinion which suggests this course and have modified the language of the Bill accordingly.

We gave careful consideration to the question whether there should not be some restriction on the powers of the Court to re-open agreements closing previous dealings and creating new obligations. We think that there is something to be said for the view that the Courts should not be required or allowed in such a case to go back beyond a definite period. In the case of a running account such a restriction is not possible, but we have accepted the view that where there is such an agreement which has been entered into by the parties or by their representatives in interest, the Court should not be allowed to re-open the agreement if it was made more than six years prior to the transaction before the Court. We have therefore inserted a proviso limiting in this way the powers under clause 3 (1) of the Bill annexed to this Report. To prevent any misapprehension we have also laid it down that the powers conferred by the clause shall not be used in such a way as to affect the decree of a Court.

We have accepted the view expressed in many opinions that the concluding words of clause 2 (2) (a) of the Bill, referred to us should be omitted. We recognize that there is some danger of a local combination creating a prevailing rate which would be an excessive rate. We have amended the closing words of sub-clause (2) (b) so as to make it clear that it is for the Court to decide the total advantage which may reasonably be taken to have been expected from any transaction. We have inserted an Explanation to make it clear that interest may of itself be sufficient evidence that a transaction is substantially unfair. By doing so we have deliberately adopted the view set forth in the House of Lords in Samuel v. Newbold, (1906) A. C. 461.

We have modified the provision in the Bill by which protection is afforded to a transferee for value so as to make it clear that it only extends to a case where a Court is satisfied that the transfer is bona fide, and that the transferee had at the time of the transfer no notice of any fact which would have entitled the debtor as against the lender to relief under clause 3".

[3] Under the provisions of the Usurious Loans Act, the Court is bound to reopen any agreement purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation which has been entered into by the parties within a period of twelve years from the date of the transaction. (Vol 33) 1946 Lah 6 (9).

[4] Court can reduce the excessive interest in spite of an agreement where such an agreement serves merely as a device for getting excessive interest. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 212 (213).

8. Relief where transaction is unfair.—[1] Disapproval with which extortionate claims are viewed in Courts is based on inherent inequity of transaction and not on capacity in which plaintiff seeks to enforce it. (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 294 (294) : I L R (1942) Nag 177.

[2] For a transaction to be unfair it is not necessary that some moral blameworthiness should be ascribed to the creditor. Taking undue advantage of the position of the debtor is enough. [9] All the circumstances should be taken into account in deciding about the unfairness of a transaction The interest may of itself be sufficient evidence but the creditor can show that the high rate is justified in view of the risk involved. (Vol 17) 1930 All 76 (76, 77) (DB).

[10] The mere fact that the rate of interest is somewhat high would not be itself a ground for interference in the absence of anything to suggest that the transaction was unconscionable or unduly hard. SECTION 2—SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Power of Court to grant relief.
3. Delay and interest.

1. Scope and applicability. — [1] In a country like India, where there is so much borrowing by the ignorant lower classes, who as much require to be protected against themselves as against money-lenders, a too literal application of provisions of S. 2 could only be productive of oppression and injustice of the most grievous kind. Court of equity will grant relief against oppressive rate. ('81) 3 All 260 (265) (F B).

[2] Section 2 of the Act is law applicable to suits on contracts whereby interest is recoverable irrespective of creed of contracting parties; but Court may give relief if interest agreed is penal. ('74) 6 N W P H C R 358 (362, 363, 365) (F B).

[3] Section 209 C. P. C., 1877, (now S. 34) does not expressly refer to suits in which interest has been contracted for; and S. 2 directs Court to give contract rate up to date of decree. ('81) 3 Mad 125 (126) (D B).

[4] Section 11 of Bihar Money-lenders Act is repugnant to S. 2 of Usury Laws Repeal Act and must to that extent be treated as void under S. 107 of Government of India Act. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 55 (62) : 18 Pat 13 (F B).

[5] Stipulation in a bond for payment of interest at a certain rate from date of bond in case amount promised to be paid on a certain date is not paid within that time and for no interest in case it is duly paid falls within S. 2 of the Act and not under S. 74, Contract Act. ('86) 13 Cal 200 (201) (D B) ✠ ('02) 25 Mad 343 (346, 349, 350) (D B) ✠ ('94) 1894 Pun Re No. 99, page 364 (371) (D B). (Bond payable by instalments — Interest payable on default from date of bond whether 'penalty'.)

[6] Bond providing for a certain rate if paid by a certain date; higher rate of interest provided for in case of default ; Held that S. 2 of the Act providing for decree of interest at rate agreed on between parties does not affect question of penalty or no penalty and that it was still open for Court to decide whether enhanced rate stipulated was agreed upon by parties as interest or whether it was intended as a penalty. ('73) 11 Beng L R 135 (140) (D B)

[7] Mere fact of rate of interest being exhorbitant is not sufficient to disentitle plaintiff to claim interest at agreed rate in the absence of any circumstances such as fiduciary relation existing between parties at time of transaction or want of sufficient capacity in the defendant to understand the nature of transaction. ('02) 29 Cal 823 (825) (D B)✠(Vol 17) 1930 Lah 733 (734) (D B). (Absence of fraud or undue influence—No discretion to Courts to modify interest agreed.)✠(Vol 15) 1928 Rang 7 (8): 5 Rang 619 (D B). (Court bound to decide interest at contract rate unless transaction is shown to be harsh and unconscionable.)✠(Vol 1) 1914 Mad 131 (133) : 36 Mad 533 (D B.) (High rate of interest may be evidence of the unconscionable nature of bargain and creditor's domination over the debtor.) ✠('02) 25 Mad 343 (346, 350) (D B). (Do) ✠ (04) 31 Cal 233 (240) (D B). (Mere fact that a person is in urgent need of money is not sufficient in itself to raise the presumption that persons to whom he applies for loan will take unfair advantage of his necessity—Rule stated.) ✠ (70) 7 Bom H C R (O C) 19 (21) (D B). (Promissory note, payable two months after date, given for money lent and interest in advance at the rate of 12½% per mensem, containing agreement to pay that rate after the due date if money is not then repaid.)

2. Power of Court to grant relief. — [1] As a Court of equity, judges are bound to inquire into nature of agreement entered into between persons who stand to each other in the relation of mortgagor and mortgagee, trustee and cestui que trust, and if it should appear that such agreements have been obtained under any pressure, owing to existence of this relation, they should not be given effect to. ('67-68) 4 Bom H C Rep (A C) 202 (204) (D B).

[2] There is no rule of law precluding Court from affording relief to a debtor, independently of S. 74, Contract Act, even when bond provides for increased rate of interest prospectively and not retrospectively, where proper ground for such relief is made out. ('99) 26 Cal 300 (303) (D B). (Per Ghose J.).

[3] It is open to the Court to decide notwithstanding provisions of S. 2 of the Act, whether stipulation as to enhanced interest was agreed upon between parties as interest, properly so called, or as a penalty and to give equitable relief against stipulations to pay increased rates of interest. ('99) 26 Cal 300 (303, 306, 307) (D B) ✠ ('93) 17 Bom 106 (113) (F B). (Proviso for retrospective enhancement of interest, in default of payment of interest at due date, is a penalty which should be relieved against.)

[4] The question as to whether "interest" as expressed in a document, is to be regarded as interest or as a penalty should be decided according as the intention of the parties can be gathered from the document as a whole. ('81) 3 All 260 (265) (F B) ✠ ('73) 10 Bom H C R 382 (383) (D B). (Where a promissory note stipulated that in default of payment of principal within three months after date, interest should run at the rate of 75 per cent per annum, the increased rate is a penalty and should be relieved against.) ✠ ('73) 11 Beng L R 135 (137) (D B) ✠ (1864-65) 2 Mad H C R 451 (457) (DB).

3. Delay and interest.—[1] A bargain which in itself is not open to objection as hard and unconscionable cannot be held to have assumed that character in consequence of delay on part of creditor in suing on bond. ('04) 31 Cal 233 (238) (DB) ✠ (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 733 (734) (DB)✠(Vol 4) 1917 Lah 432 (434) : 1917 Pun Re No. 66 (DB).

Amount of interest to be deposited in certain cases of conditional sales under Bengal Regulations.

5. Whenever, under the [a]Regulations of the Bengal Code, a deposit may be made of the principal sum and interest due upon any mortgage or conditional sale of land hereafter to be entered into, the amount of interest to be deposited shall be at the rate stipulated in the contract, or, if no rate has been stipulated, and interest be payable under the terms of the contract, at the rate of twelve per centum per annum : Provided that in the latter case, the amount deposited shall be subject to the decision of the Court as to the rate at which interest shall be calculated.

6. In any case in which an adjustment of accounts may become necessary between the lender and the borrower of money upon any mortgage, conditional sale of landed property, or other contract whatsoever, which may be entered into after the passing of this Act, interest shall be calculated at the rate stipulated therein; or, if no rate of interest shall have been stipulated, and interest be payable under the terms of the contract, at such rate as the Court shall deem reasonable.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Owing to the vast number of deaths caused every year by small-pox in India, it has been found necessary to enact special measures for checking the growth and spread of the disease and preventing the ravages caused by it.

This Bill has been drafted with the object of providing the required law. Its provisions are intended to extend to the municipalities and military cantonments of all those provinces which do not possess local legislatures. But it has been left to the power of the Local Governments to extend the provisions of the proposed law to any municipality and, with the previous sanction of the Governor General of India in Council, to any military cantonment of British forces situate in British India and to the power of the Governor-General in Council to extend them to any cantonment situate within the territories of Native States.

Most of the provisions of this Bill have been taken from the Bengal Inoculation Act of 1865 and the Bombay Vaccination Act of 1877, with such modifications as are deemed necessary in consideration of the circumstances of the provinces in which the proposed law is intended to be promulgated.

In preparing the draft, it has been especially kept in view that the proposed law should find popularity among the people, and not interfere with their customs and ways of life.

Provision is made to enable municipalities to establish vaccination quarters and stations which would facilitate the vaccination of children and render the operation of the proposed law free from practical difficulties. In order to secure the success of the proposed legislation, it has been provided that children may be vaccinated at their own residences, whilst the co-operation of Municipal Commissioners (most of whom usually are Native gentlemen of respectability and local influence, required by the Bill is calculated to secure its popularity. For similar reasons, the provisions of sections 16 and 17 have been framed to restrict as far as possible the interference of the police; and, by entrusting Municipal Commissioners and the Superintendent of Vaccinators with the duty of keeping registers of the names of unprotected children and making investigations, it is expected that all unnecessary inconvenience will be avoided which would arise from enforcing the attendance of children and their guardians before Magistrates.

Considering the physical constitution and the notions of the natives of India, the minimum age for vaccination has been fixed at one year and the maximum at fourteen years.

In consideration of the prejudices (whether well-founded or not) of the Native gentry against the extraction of virus from the arms of their children, the Bill expressly prohibits such a practice; and provision is made for securing the virus under special circumstances with the consent of the parents or guardians of children, by payment of compensation.

Special care has been taken in providing punishments for the contravention of the proposed law, and they have been restricted for the most part to pecuniary fines.

As the circumstances of different parts of the country are not alike, it has been left to the discretion of the Local Governments, and in case of military cantonments of British forces in Native States to the Governor General of India in Council, to frame rules, not inconsistent with the proposed law, for facilitating its practical working. At the same time, the essential principles which should be kept in mind in framing such rules have been expressly specified in section 21 of the Bill." —Gazette of India, 1880, Part V, page 80.

Statement of Objects and Reasons

"The War Injuries Ordinance, 1941, empowered the Central Government to make a scheme providing for the grant of relief in respect of war injuries. It also provided that no compensation should be payable under the Workmen's Compensation Act in respect of a war injury. Workmen under that Act are now entitled to receive relief from Government under the War Injuries Scheme.

In more highly industrialised countries where variations in the industrial wage scale are not so large as in India, payments under the Personal Injuries Scheme are, in respect of labour, both relief and compensation. In India the amount of relief under the War Injuries Scheme does not at present give higher paid labour adequate compensation. It is impossible for Government themselves, either to increase generally the scale of relief under the War Injuries Scheme or to undertake a liability to pay further compensation to a particular class of employees from Government funds. It is, however, reasonable that that obligation should be put on certain employers. There is also probably more danger to employees in factories and other industrial concerns (which may be a target for enemy attack) than there is elsewhere.

The Bill imposes on employers of essential services, of factory and mine labour, in major ports and other employments to be specified, an obligation to pay compensation in respect of war injury to their workmen, calculated to amount to the difference between the amount paid by Government under the War Injuries Scheme and the amount which would have been payable under the Workmen's Compensation Act if the war injury had given a right to compensation thereunder. This will mean additional payment in respect of labour drawing roughly over Rs. 24 a month.

Many employers are prepared to undertake the extra liability but the liability may prove either an embarrassment or impossibility in the case of a factory which might be seriously damaged by enemy action, unless insurance can be taken to cover the risk. It is understood that few insurance companies are now prepared to cover such risks although in a few cases insurance in this matter has been effected. The Bill, therefore, provides for compulsory insurance with the Central Government, of the liability referred to above, by employers throughout British India.

A provision has also been made to extend the scheme of insurance to employers in States provided that provisions substantially corresponding to the provisions of this Bill are made in that State.

The Bill follows closely the War Risks (Goods) Insurance Ordinance and the War Risks (Factories) Insurance Ordinance."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"It was suggested at the first conference of Labour Ministers held in January, 1940 that the Central Government should consider the question of passing an enabling measure giving Provincial Governments power by notification to provide for the compulsory closing of shops and commercial establishments for a minimum period of one day in the week, leaving it to the Provincial Governments to provide an extra half-holiday, if they considered it necessary. The present Bill has been drafted after consultation with Provincial Governments and further discussion at the second Conference of Labour Ministers held in January, 1941. The Bill will not come into effect in any Province until the Government for that Province directs its application by notification, either to the whole Province or any specified area within it. A further notification of the Provincial Government will be necessary to bring into application the provisions about an extra half-holiday. It is considered desirable that Provincial Governments should have power to introduce by notification certain minimum provisions on uniform lines as embodied in the Bill. The Bill provides for payment of wages for holidays declared under it. Certain classes of persons and establishments are excluded from its purview. It proposes to leave power with the Central Government in respect of establishments under its control and with Provincial Governments in respect of all other establishments within the Province, to make exceptions from or temporary suspension of the provisions of the proposed Act."

[2] Section 153, Cr. P. C., expressly authorises an inspection of weights and measures by an officer in charge of a police-station; until a set of standard weights is provided for purposes of comparison, it is impossible to say with accuracy whether any particular set of bazar weights differs so widely from that standard as to justify an inference of fraud. Statement of Objects and Reasons.

The first paragraph of the Statement of Objects and Reasons is as follows : "The object of this Bill is to amend the law relating to the punishment of whipping so as to restrict the classes of offences for which that punishment may be inflicted and to limit the number of officers who may be empowered to award it." (Gazette of India, 1908, Part V, page 222.)

However, the Select Committee in their Report state: "The Whipping Act, 1864, has already been the subject of various partial repeals and amendments, and very little of the original Act now remains on the statute-book. A further amending Act does not in the circumstances seem to be desirable. We have, therefore, prepared a consolidating Bill, which repeals the Whipping Act, 1864, with its amending enactments, and reproduces the law as contained therein with the amendments proposed in the Bill as introduced and certain further amendments now suggested by us." [THE] WHIPPING ACT, 1909.

[22nd March, 1909.]

An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to the punishment of whipping.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the punishment of whipping ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

[a] For S. O. R. see Gazette of India, 1908, Pt. V, p. 222 ; for Report of Select Committee, see ibid, 1909, Pt, V, p. 47 ; This Act has been declared to be in force in the Khandmals District by the Khandmals Laws Regulation, 1936 (Reg. 4 [iv] of 1936), S. 3 and Sch.; and in the Angul District by the Angul Laws Regulation, 1936 (Reg. 5 [v] of 1936), S. 3 and Sch.

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Whipping Act, 1909 ; and

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, inclusive of British Baluchistan and the Santhal Parganas.

Section 1 — Note 1

[1] The Act applies only to offences under Penal Code; and not to offences made punishable by special and Local Laws. ('97-01) 1 Upp Bur Rul 392 (392).

[2] As the Act is a highly penal enactment, it must be construed in the sense most favourable to the subject. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 145 (146) : 7 Low Bur Rul 63 : 15 Cri L Jour 3.

[3] The Act is not a special law; it creates no fresh offences, but merely provides a supplementary or alternative form of punishment for offences which are already punishable primarily under the Penal Code or (in case of juvenile offender) other enactments. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 145 (146) : 7 Low Bur Rul 63 : 15 Cri L Jour 3.

[4] The Act does not empower a Court after passing sentence of imprisonment, to commute it to a sentence of whipping; sentence of whipping should be passed directly. ('09) 10 Cri L Jour 120 (121) : 5 Low Bur Rul 22. (1900-1902) 1 Low Bur Rul 92, Rel. on.)

[5] The Act does not deal with attempts to commit offences punishable with whipping. (See Ss. 2, 3 and 4 of Act VI of 1864). ('72-1892) Low Bur Rul 531 (532) ('72-1892) Low Bur Rul 399 (399). (In case of males under certain age, whipping may not be awarded for offence of attempting to commit offence.)

[6] Act has no application to an offence under S. 354, Penal Code, where the accused is eighteen years old. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 78 (78) : 43 Cri L Jour 475 (DB).

[7] The Indian Penal Code and Code of Criminal Procedure must be read as if Whipping Act formed part of Penal Code from date of its enactment; in passing a sentence of whipping, a Magistrate is exercising his ordinary jurisdiction. ('71) 7 Beng L R 165 (169) (FB).

[8] Reading preamble and first section together of Act VI of 1864 the effect is that S. 53, Penal Code, must be read as if whipping were mentioned in it as one of the punishments to which offenders are liable under the provisions of the Code and that all whipping under Act VI of 1864 must be deemed to be whipping under the provisions of Penal Code. ('68) 9 Suth W R Cr 41 (41, 43) (FB).

Whipping added to punishments described in Act XLV, 1860.

2. In addition to the punishments described in Section 53 of the Indian Penal Code, offenders are also liable to the punishment of whipping.

SECTION 2 — SYNOPSIS

1. Whipping as penalty.
2. Postponement of sentence.
3. Substitution and enhancement.

1. Whipping as penalty. — [1] Whipping is one of penalties presented by Penal Code within the meaning of S. 46, Criminal P. C. ('68) 9 Suth W R (Cr) 41 (42) (FB).

[2] Section 2 only lays down as a general proposition that offenders are also liable to punishment of Whipping in addition to punishment described in S. 53, Penal Code, which does not include whipping. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 222 (223): 40 Cri L Jour 521 : 14 Luck 634.

[3] If a person is convicted at some time of two or more offences punishable under the Penal Code, Court can award sentence of whipping in addition to penalties prescribed by Penal Code. ('71) 7 Beng L R 165 (167) (FB).

[4] Word "Punishments" in S. 2 of Act VI of 1864 may be interpreted to mean total of punishments awarded, and so, where whipping is inflicted no other punishment as prescribed by Penal Code is allowable. ('91) Rat Un Cr C 564 (564) (DB).

[5] If a person has been convicted of two offences arising out of same facts and terms of imprisonment awarded in these two cases exceed seven years, he cannot be punished with whipping. ('35)36 Cri L Jour 1050 (1051) (Rang). ((Vol 17) 1930 Rang 138 : 7 Rang 769 : 31 Cri L Jour 176, Followed.)

[6] The Act is one in the construction and carrying out of which very many difficult questions arise; in no case can a Magistrate be justified in passing a sentence of whipping if he has any doubt as to his legal competency to do so. ('68) 9 Suth W R (Cr) 41 (43, 45) (FB)✠('83) 7 Bom 303 (304) (DB). (A person appointed as a second class Magistrate under Act X of 1872, is not competent after passing of Act X of 1882 to pass a sentence of whipping unless he is specially empowered to do so.)

[7] Section 565, Criminal P. C., must be construed strictly and Court's power is limited to cases therein specifically described and does not extend to cases where a sentence of whipping instead of transportation or imprisonment is passed. ('11) 11 Cri L Jour 691 (692) : 35 Bom 137 (DB).

[8] Section 395, Criminal P. C. — Words "Court which passed sentence" do not mean same officer who passed original sentence—District Magistrate can commute sentences of whipping to one of imprisonment if accused is physically unfit to receive stripes. ('01) 1901 Pun Re No. 33 (Cr.) Page 96 (97, 98).

[9] Effect of Whipping Act is to make whipping a punishment under Penal Code and it is competent to Magistrate on a second conviction at the same time to award a sentence of whipping either in substitution for or in addition to imprisonment subject to restrictions in Whipping Act itself. ('69-70) 5 Mad H C R (App) 18 (23) (FB).

[10] Double sentences of whipping are not contemplated by the Whipping Act. Double sentences of whipping are illegal and concurrent sentences are also illegal. When a person is convicted of two offences at one trial, the proper course is to sentence the accused to one of whipping in lieu of any other punishment and not to pass a sentence of whipping on each charge and order that they should run concurrently. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 286 (286, 287) : 38 Cri L Jour 878 : 1937 Rang L R 366. ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 310 (311) : 38 Cri L Jour 1013. (('11) 12 Cri L Jour 465 : 6 Low Bur Rul 22, Rel. on.) ✠ ('11) 12 Cri L Jour 465 (465) : 6 Low Bur Rul 22 (Rang)

[11] If a person is convicted at the same time of two or more offences punishable under the Penal Code, it is lawful for Courts in addition to penalties prescribed by Penal Code to sentence prisoner to whipping. ('71) 7 Beng L R 165 (171) (FB).

[See also (1870) 14 Suth W R (Cr) 7 (7) (DB).✠(1868) 9 Suth W R (Cr) 41 (47) (FB).]

[12] Sentence of whipping in addition to other punishment is not legal for one of two offences of the same character of which a prisoner is simultaneously convicted. ('85) 1885 Pun Re No. 8 (Cr) p. 19 (20)(DB).

2. Postponement of sentence.—[1] Section 390, Criminal Procedure Code authorises court to pass a sentence of whipping and to fix place and time of execution. It does not contemplate postponement of execution of sentence to any day other than that of sentence. (1897) Rat Un Cr C. 906 (907) (DB) ✠('81)1881 All W N 138 (138) ✠ ('80) 1880 Pun Re No 34 (Cr.) Page 81 (82) (DB)(Order postponing whipping until release is illegal.) ✠(1873) 20 Suth W R (Cr) 72 (73) (DB)✠(1872) Rat Un Cr C 68 (68) (DB).

[2] Sentence of whipping cannot be carried out after expiry of 15 days fixed in S. 9 of Act VI of 1864; any direction to contrary in a warrant addressed to jail Superintendant is illegal. (1870-71) 6 Mad H C R (App) 38 (38).

[3] Meaning of words "execution shall be stayed" in S. 11 of Act VI of 1864—Reading sections 11 and 12 together it means that whipping cannot be executed in instalments. (1866-68) 3 Mad H C R (App) 1 (1).

[4] Criminal Procedure Code makes no provision whereby a Magistrate imposing sentence of whipping only can suspend its execution; it is only where whipping is added to imprisonment in an appealable case that whipping may and ought to be postponed under S. 391, Criminal Procedure Code. ('03) 26 Mad 465 (466) (D B).

3. Substitution and enhancement. — [1] Granting that whipping is a degrading punishment, substitution of rigorous imprisonment for whipping would, in some circumstances amount to enhancement of punishment. ('71) 6 Beng L R App 95 (96) (DB).

[2] In case of adults substitution of a sentence of 30 stripes for a sentence of one year's rigorous imprisonment or more or a substitution of a sentence of 25 stripes for a sentence of nine months' rigorous imprisonment or more or a substitution of a sentence of 20 stripes for a sentence of six months' imprisonment or more is not ordinarily an enhancement of sentence within the meaning of S. 423 (1) (b) of Criminal P. C. and in the case of a person under 16 years of age the substitution of a sentence of 15 stripes for a sentence of imprisonment for six months or more or a substitution of a sentence of 10 stripes for a sentence of imprisonment for three months or more is not ordinarily an enhancement of sentence. But the substitution of a sentence of 30 stripes for a sentence of three months' rigorous imprisonment is an enhancement and therefore an illegal sentence under S. 423 (1) (b) of the Code. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 177 (179) : 7 Rang 319 : 30 Cr. L Jour 986 (F B).

[3] Where a Magistrate has ordered detention in Borstal School of an offender, the Sessions Judge has no power to substitute for it a sentence of whipping as that would be enhancing the sentence. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 81 (82) : 1939 Rang L R 744 : 41 Cr. L Jour 455 (D B).

Offences punishable with whipping in lieu of other punishment.

3. Whoever commits any of the following offences, namely :

(a) theft, as defined in section 378 of the Indian Penal Code other than theft by a clerk or servant of property in possession of his master ;

(b) theft in a building, tent or vessel, as defined in section 380 of the said Code ;

(c) theft after preparation for causing death or hurt, as defined in section 382 of the said Code ;

(d) lurking house-trespass, or house-breaking, as defined in sections 443 and 445 of the said Code, in order to the committing of any offence punishable with whipping under this section ;

(e) lurking house-trespass by night, or house-breaking by night, as defined in sections 444 and 446 of the said Code, in order to the committing of any offence punishable with whipping under this section ; may be punished with whipping in lieu of any punishment to which he may for such offence be liable under the said Code.

[4] Substitution of legal sentence in lieu of whipping which is illegal amounts to enhancement of sentence. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 64 (65) : 12 Rang 607 : 36 Cri. L Jour 366. (('71) 6 Beng L R (App) 95 (D B) Relied on.)

[5] There is no express provision of law which prohibits an appellate Court from passing a sentence of whipping in appeal; there is nothing in the Whipping Act or in the Criminal Procedure Code apart from provision against enhancement of sentence, which forbids it. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 177 (179) : 7 Rang 319 : 30 Cri. L Jour 986 (F B).

[6] Appellate Court reducing sentence of imprisonment and awarding whipping — Sentence of whipping amounts to enhancement of sentence and is illegal. ('05) 2 Weir 487 (487) (D B).

[7] Power of Magistrate in appeal to alter sentence in such a way as to enhance sentence discussed. ('95) 17 All 67 (68) (D B).

[8] No general rule can be laid down to determine what is or what is not an enhancement of sentence where only a portion of sentence is altered to a punishment of a lesser degree of severity; in each case Court has to consider what is the effect of alteration. (Vol 1) 1914 All 530 (531) : 36 All 485 : 15 Cri. L Jour 519. ✠ (1900) 27 Cal 175 (176, 178) (D B).

[See ('99) 23 Bom 439 (441) (DB) ✠ ('07) 30 Mad 103 (105) (F B).]

[9] Sentencing offender to some punishment under Penal Code and then converting it into whipping is plainly illegal. ('97) 1897 Rat Un Cri Cas 906 (907) (DB).

[10] Conviction under S. 411, I. P. C.—Sentence of fine or in default imprisonment — On appeal sentence altered to one of whipping in lieu of term of imprisonment awarded in default of payment of fine — Held whipping could be substituted for fine and not in lieu of remaining term of imprisonment which accused was to suffer for default of payment of fine. ('77) 1877 Rat Un Cri. Cas 131 (131) (D B).

SECTION 3—SYNOPSIS

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Whipping in lieu of any other punishment.
3. Section 3 (d) and (e).

1. Scope and applicability.—[1] Section 3 of Act VI of 1964 (Whipping Act) applies to juvenile as well as to adult offenders. ('70) 7 Bom H C R (Cr) 70 (71) (D B).

[2] A comparison of Ss. 3 and 4 makes it clear that in regard to the offences mentioned in S. 3, the intention of the Legislature was that whipping should be inflicted, if at all, in lieu of any punishment to which the offender may be liable under the Penal Code (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 222 (223) : 40 Cri L Jour 521:14 Luck 634.

[3] Section 3 permits whipping in lieu of any punishment for which the offender is liable under the Criminal Procedure Code to imprisonment, irrespective of age. (Vol 28) 1941 Sind 48 (48) : 42 Cri L Jour 403 : I L R (1940) Kar 477 (DB).

[4] Difference between Ss. 3 and 4 pointed out. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 435 (436) : 36 Cri L Jour 1497 : 15 Pat 44 (DB).

[5] Sections 5 and 3 should be read together and these sections must be read with the sections of Criminal Procedure Code relating to whipping. (Vol 28) 1941 Sind 48 (48) : 42 Cri L Jour 403:I L R (1940) Kar 477 (DB).

[6] The order passed under S. 25, Burma Prevention of Crime Act, 1930, is a punishment within the meaning of S. 3 of the Whipping Act. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 81 (82) : 41 Cri L Jour 455:1939 Rang L R 744 (DB).

[7] Sentence of whipping for attempt to commit theft, when accused is not a juvenile, is illegal. ('03-04) 2 Low Bur Rul 123 (123)✠('72-'92) 1872-92 Low Bur Rul 338 (338). (Conviction first of an attempt under S. 379, I. P. C. and then a conviction of an effected theft under S. 379, I. P. C. will not justify a double sentence of whipping and imprisonment.)

[8] Sentence of whipping passed for offence under S. 380 read with S. 109, I. P. C. is not legal. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 310 (310):38 Cri L Jour 1013. 2. Whipping in lieu of any other punishment.—[1] Word 'punishment' in S. 3 of the Whipping Act refers to the total of punishment awardable. In lieu of punishing the offender by imprisoning him or fining him the Court may punish him with whipping. But a fine in addition to whipping is illegal. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 183 (184) : 25 Cri L Jour 1185 ✠ (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 222 (223) : 40 Cri L Jour 521 : 14 Luck 634✠(Vol 24) 1937 Rang 310 (310, 311): 38 Cri L Jour 1013✠(Vol 22) 1935 Pat 435 (436) : 15 Pat 44 : 36 Cri L Jour 1497 (DB). Section 4 — Note 1

[1] A comparison of Ss. 3 and 4 of Act leaves no room for doubt that in regard to offences mentioned in S. 3 intention was that whipping should be inflicted in lieu of any other punishment and it is only in cases of offences under Ss. 375, 377, 390 and 391, Penal Code and of abetment of or attempt at an offence under S. 375 that a person can be punished with whipping in addition to any punishment that can be awarded under Penal Code. (Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 222 (223) : 14 Luck 634 : 40 Cri L Jour 521.

[2] According to the Whipping Act, the sentence of whipping in lieu of imprisonment is regarded as a sentence reserved for graver form of offences, and S. 4 (4) of the Act does not contemplate the offence of sodomy only. It imposes a special penalty upon the offence of sodomy combined with aggravating circumstances. (Vol 19) 1932 Sind 143 (144) : 33 Cri L Jour 900 (DB).

[3] Section 4, cl. (b) does not apply to convictions under S. 377 read with S. 511, Penal Code. (Vol 25) 1938 All 16 (17) : 39 Cri L Jour 233.

[4] Section 3, Whipping Act VI of 1864 (now S. 4) as amended by Act III of 1895 must be read subject to provisions of S. 391 (3), Criminal P. C. ('02) 4 Bom L R 436 (437) (DB).

[6] When a person inflicts pain upon another and when the offence is one which permits of the penalty of whipping, it is a good thing to inflict that penalty. There are, of course, circumstances in which the actual hurt caused is very slight and that is a circumstance to which attention has to be paid. (Detention in Borstal School may be valuable to avoid accused acquiring criminal habit such as thieving but doubtful in cases where accused gives way to violence or fails to control his passions.) ⊕ (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 123 (123, 124): 12 Rang 349 : 35 Cri L Jour 903 (DB).

(Sentence of whipping in addition to punishment under S. 25, Prevention of Crime (Young Offenders) Act, 1930, is illegal.)

[9] An additional punishment of whipping cannot be passed on a person who has received an adequate substantive sentence for an offence under S. 436, Penal Code. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 111 (111) : 29 Cri L Jour 666.

[10] There can be no justification for taking into account period of imprisonment to which a man has already been sentenced before commission of offence for which sentence of whipping with or without imprisonment is passed in the computation of maximum period of imprisonment fixed by S. 393, Cr. P. C. as amended by Whipping (Burma Amendment) Act 1927. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 58 (59, 60) : 12 Rang 404: 35 Cri L Jour 1027.

Juvenile offenders when punishable with whipping.

5. Any juvenile offender who abets, commits or attempts to commit—

[THE] WHITE PHOSPHORUS MATCHES PROHIBITION ACT, 1913 (ACT V OF 1913).

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

"The object of this Bill is to prohibit the importation into, and the manufacture and sale in, British India of matches which contain white (yellow) phosphorus.

The provisions of the Bill follow, so far as is necessary and practicable, the lines of the English White Phosphorus Matches Prohibition Act, 1908 (8 Edw. 7, ch. 42).

The Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General for making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd September 1911. At the Council meeting of the 1st March 1912, however, objections were raised to its passage on the ground that the necessity for the proposed legislation had not been substantiated; and it was decided to postpone the consideration of the Bill for one year and to obtain, in the meantime, additional information regarding (1) the accuracy or otherwise, of the statement that modern methods of manufacture have eliminated the danger of necrosis, and (2) the availability of suitable brands of non-phosphorus strike-anywhere matches for use in India, having in view the climatic conditions and the importance of not increasing the cost of matches to consumers of the lower classes. The Bill was accordingly withdrawn on the understanding that it would be re-introduced in the cold weather of 1913.

With reference to the first point the following facts have been ascertained regarding the continued occurrence of necrosis in Sweden, Norway, Belgium and the United States of America, which have not joined the Berne International Convention and which profess to have adopted the latest and most improved methods of manufacture. In Sweden, between the years 1902 and 1910, as shown by the official reports of the Inspectors of match factories in that country, there were 16 admitted cases of necrosis besides a number of doubtful cases. In 1905 there were no cases, and the Inspectors' reports announced the extinction of the disease; but in 1906 there were no less than seven cases, and there was one case in each of the years 1908 to 1910. In Norway, the number of persons exposed to poisonous fumes in match manufacture is only about 250. In their report for 1907-08, the factory Inspectors in that country stated that it might be assumed that the precautionary measures adopted, the introduction of new systems of ventilation, and the observance of the special regulations had resulted in the complete elimination of the disease. Notwithstanding, there was a case of necrosis in each of the years 1909 and 1910. In Belgium, where four factories use white phosphorus, there was a case of necrosis in 1908, and the Belgian Annual Report on Factory Inspection in 1909 discloses the fact that there were two cases of phosphorus poisoning in that year in spite of strict observance of the required precautions. In the United States of America, in a joint investigation recently undertaken by the American Bureau of Labour and the American Section of the International Association of Labour Legislation, 15 cases of phosphorus necrosis were discovered by Federal officials in an investigation covering 15 out of the 16 American match factories; and subsequent personal enquiries conducted by the President of the American Section indicated that for four of these factories alone the number should have been increased to 80. In view of these and similar disclosures an Act was passed in the United States of America on the 9th April 1912 imposing a tax on white phosphorus matches and prohibiting their import and export. The facts stated above show that the latest informaiton available does not substantiate the assertion that improved methods of manufacture are sufficient to stamp out necrosis.

The Vienna Medical Society in 1908, also, in reporting after detailed enquiry that about 20 deaths from phosphorus necrosis occurred annually in Austria, declared that the best regulations fail to stamp out the disease. The experience of the United Kingdom was similar, the Chief Inspector of Factories in England reporting in June 1910 that the absence of known cases of necrosis is itself inconclusive, the cases which occurred in Great Britain being (at first) ascertained with difficulty.

That a similar view is held in almost all civilized countries is indicated by the list of countries which have joined the Convention or have, without joining it, effectually controlled the manufacture of matches. The European countries adhearing to the Convention are France, Germany, Holland, Denmark, Switzerland, Luxembourg, Italy, Finland, Spain and the United Kingdom. In Austria, an Act prohibiting the use and manufacture of white phosphorus matches was passed in July 1909, and in Hungary and Mexico similar Acts were passed in 1912. In Russia, as now in the United States of America, a differential tax is imposed on white phosphorus matches and in the latter country, as already stated, their import and export is prohibited. In Greece, Portugal, Rumania, Bulgaria, Servia and Venezuela the manufacture of matches is a State monopoly and is therefore under control, and in Sweden the importation and consumption of white phosphorus matches is prohibited though their manufacture for export is allowed. The Convention has also been joined by almost all the French, Dutch and British Colonies, including the Union of South Africa and New Zealand. Australia also has prohibited the importation of white phosphorus matches since December 1908, and Tasmania has prohibited both their sale and manufacture.

With regard to the second question, it has been ascertained that a large proportion of the brands of strike-anywhere matches in use in the United Kingdom do not contain white phosphorus. The results of the official tests made in England by the Board of Customs and Excise for the purpose of distinguishing white phosphorus matches, up to December 1911, showed, that, out of 271 brands of strike-anywhere matches tested, only eleven were found to contain white phosphorus. Figures have been obtained from the Indian Custom Houses of the imports of matches during the year 1911-12. The proportion of strike-anywhere matches imported was nil in Rangoon, 25 per cent. at Calcutta, 51·8 per cent. at Karachi, 60 per cent. at Bombay and 76·8 per cent. at Madras. All these, with the exception of half a dozen brands from Austria, were found by chemical test to contain white phosphorus. The fact that the use of white phosphorus matches is smaller in Bengal than in other parts of India, and has for years been non-existent in Burma without causing any practical inconvenience, goes to disprove the assertion that the white phosphorus match is the only one which is suitable for a damp climate such as India in the monsoon, Bengal and Burma being two of the provinces with the heaviest rainfall. An additional argument to this effect is provided by the list of tropical countries which, as already stated, have joined the Berne Convention; for instance—British East Africa, Mauritius, the Seychelles, Southern and Northern Nigeria, Uganda, Fiji, Gambia, the Gold Coast, Sierra Leone, Bermuda, Somaliland, Madagascar, etc. Morever, as a result of experiments made in England on behalf of the Home Office, it has been definitely stated that there is no evidence that a match containing white phosphorus is of necessity, as regards resistance to damp, in any way superior to a phosphorus sesqui-sulphide match not containing white phosphorus. Figures have been obtained of the prices in different parts of India, during 1911-12, of cheap safety matches, and strike-anywhere matches with and without white phosphorus. It has been ascertained that there is practically no difference in price between the cheap safety match and the lucifer match (whether containing white phosphorus or not)."

The Schedule.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The Wild Birds Protection Act, 1887 (XX of 1887), enables rules to be made prohibiting the possession or sale, during the breeding season, of any kind of wild bird recently killed or taken, or the importation of the plumage of any kind of wild bird during such season. Power is also given to Local Governments to declare these provisions to apply to any animals of game other than birds. The Act applies only to municipalities and cantonments, and rules framed under it are practically inoperative in checking the wholesale slaughter of birds in rural districts throughout British India. The need for a general law which should have the effect of protecting these wild birds and animals which are threatened with extermination has been exhaustively considered, and the present Bill is the outcome of that discussion.

It will apply, in the first instance, to the birds and animals specified in the Schedule. As, however, it would be difficult to provide, for the whole of India, a single list sufficiently exhaustive to cover all the kinds of birds and animals, the protection of which widely varying local conditions may render desirable, it is proposed to permit Local Governments to add to the list at their discretion.

The Bill will empower Local Governments to declare, if necessary, an absolute prohibition, either throughout the year or for any specified part of the year, and extending to the whole or any part of its territories, against the capture or killing of any animals or birds to which the Act applies, or the possession of such animals or birds, or the plumage of the latter.

It is proposed, however, to exempt from the operation of the measure any person who captures or kills a wild animal in defence of himself or of any other person, or who captures or kills any wild bird or animal in bona fide protection of a standing crop or a growing fruit."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"An important source of revenue to the Indian State Broadcasting Service is the fees on licenses for wireless apparatus. These licenses are issued under the Indian Telegraph Act which, however, only gives power to control establishment, maintenance and working of such apparatus in British India. The detection of unlicensed apparatus and the successful prosecution of offenders is therefore difficult in practice as it is first necessary to locate unlicensed apparatus and then to prove that it has actually been established, maintained and worked. It is believed that the revenue lost at present owing to the use of unlicensed wireless apparatus is considerable, thus adversely affecting the financial position of the Indian State Broadcasting Service. It is now proposed to remedy this state of affairs by legislation to prohibit the possession without license of wireless apparatus as distinct from the establishment, maintenance and working of such apparatus, and the present Bill has been drafted with this object."

SCHEDULE IV. — Compensation payable in certain cases.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The general principles of workmen's compensation command almost universal acceptance, and India is now nearly alone amongst civilised countries in being without legislation embodying these principles. For a number of years the more generous employers have been in the habit of giving compensation voluntarily, but this practice is by no means general. The growing complexity of industry in this country, with the increasing use of machinery and consequent danger to workmen, along with the comparative poverty of the workmen themselves, renders it advisable that they should be protected, as far as possible. from hardship arising from accidents.

An additional advantage of legislation of this tpye is that, by increasing the importance for the employer of adequate safety devices, it reduces the number of accidents to workmen in a manner that cannot be achieved by official inspection. Further, the encouragement given to employers to provide adequate medical treatment for their workmen should mitigate the effects of such accidents as do occur. The benefits so conferred on the workman added to the increased sense of security which he will enjoy, should render industrial life more attractive and thus increase the available supply of labour. At the same time, a corresponding increase in the efficiency of the average workman may be expected. A system of insurance would prevent the burden from pressing too heavily on any particular employer.

After a detailed examination of the question by the Government of India, Local Governments were addressed in July 1921, and provisional views of the Government of India were published for general information. The advisability of legislation has been accepted by the great majority of Local Governments and of employers' and workers' associations, and the Government of India believe that public opinion generally is in favour of legislation.

In June 1922, a committee was convened to consider the question. This committee was composed, for the most part, of members of the Imperial Legislature. After considering the numerous replies and opinions received by the Government of India, the committee was unanimously in favour of legislation, and drew up detailed recommendations regarding the lines which, in its opinion, such legislation should follow. The Bill now presented follows these recommendations closely. A number of supplementary provisions have been added where necessary, but practically no variations of importance have been made.

The Bill contains two distinct proposals. In Chapter II modifications are made in the ordinary civil law affecting the liability of employers for damages in respect of injuries sustained by their workmen; these clauses will operate only in actions before the ordinary civil Courts. The main part of the Bill makes provision for workmen's compensation and sets up special machinery to deal with claims falling under this category.

Both parts of the Bill, however, apply to the same classes of workmen. If the scope of the employers' liability clauses was made wider than the scope of the workmen's compensation provisions, there would be considerable danger of a great increase in litigation. The classes included are those whose inclusion was recommended by the committee, and are specified in Schedule II. Two criteria have been followed in the determination of the classes to be included :—

(1) that the Bill should be confined to industries which are more or less organised ;

(2) that only workmen whose occupation is hazardous should be included.

The general principle is that compensation should ordinarily be given to workmen who sustained personal injuries by accidents arising out of and in the course of their employment. Compensation will also be given in certain limited circumstances for disease. The actual rates of compensation payable are based on the unanimous recommendation of the committee. They are in every case subject to fixed maxima, in accordance with the committee's recommendations. It should be remembered, however, that the more highly paid workmen will be enabled, in cases to which the employers' liability clauses will apply to obtain damages on a scale considerably in excess of the maximum fixed for workmen's compensation.

A consistent endeavour has been made to give as little opportunity for disputes as possible. Throughout the Bill, in the definitions adopted, the scales selected, and the exceptions permitted, the great aim has been precision, in order that, in as few cases as possible should the validity of a claim for compensation or the amount of that claim be open to doubt. At the same time, on the unanimous recommendation of the committee, provision has been made for special Tribunals to deal cheaply and expeditiously with any disputes that may arise, and generally to assist the parties in a manner which is not possible for the ordinary civil Courts."

(3) It shall come into force on the first day of July, 1924.

SECTION 1 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope and applicability of the Act.
2. Interpretation.

1. Scope and applicability of the Act. — [1] There is difference between the English and the Indian statutes. While the former applies to all workmen, the latter only applies to certain defined classes of workmen. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 45 (46) : 14 Rang 753 (DB).

[2] Act does not forbid compensation being paid otherwise than through commissioner. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 1 (4) : 7 Rang 660 (SB).

[3] The Act may or may not apply to apprentices, the deciding factor being nature of contract. Contract of service is necessary to bring apprentices under the category of "workmen." (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 573 (575). (Student of B Class of Maclagan College is neither apprentice nor workman.)

2. Interpretation. — [1] Act being a quasi penal statute, the provisions ought not to receive a benevolent or strained interpretation in the interest of the beneficiaries thereunder. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 173 (174) : 9 Rang 46 (SB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 45 (46) : 14 Rang 753 (DB).

[2] Principle regulating award of compensation has to be determined in accordance with provisions of Act and cannot be departed from on sentimental grounds. (Vol 26) 1939 All 29 (31) : I L R (1939) All 1.

Section 2 (1) (b) — Note 1

[1] Commissioner is a Court subordinate to High Court within S. 115, Civil P. C. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 33 (34) : 21 Pat 173 (DB).

SECTION 2 (1) (d) — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Dependants — Who are.
3. Dependants — Who are not.
4. Adoptive relations.
5. 'Dependent on the earnings.'

1. Scope. — [1] The expression "dependent" as defined in S. 2 (1) (d) includes wife, husband, parent and some other near relatives. But certain relatives are expressly excluded. Therefore it follows that gratuities are to be paid to particular persons who do not or may not include certain heirs to the deceased. (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 177 (178) : 23 Sind Law Rep 359 (DB). (Major son though heir is not 'dependant'.)

[2] Where a son is not "minor" the fact of his having been actually maintained by father on account of some infirmity does not make him "dependent" within Act. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 657 (657) (DB).

2. Dependants—Who are. — [1] The following are 'dependants' within the meaning of this section :

(a) Widowed daughter. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 358 (361) : 60 Cal 820 (DB).

(b) Widowed sister. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 1 (2) : 13 Lah 228. (Case before amendment of 1933.) ✠ (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 115 (115) (DB). (Do—(Vol 19) 1932 Lah 1 : 13 Lah 228 ; (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 358, Rel. on.); (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 483 : 5 Luck 380 (FB), Dissented.)

(c) An illegitimate child even though born of adulterous intercourse is a dependant of the deceased if it was supported by him. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 110 (113) : I L R (1945) Bom 871 (DB).

(d) Father, if he shows that he was wholly or in part dependent on the earnings of his son at the time of his death. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 401 (401) (DB).

3. Dependants—Who are not.—[1] The following are held not to be 'dependants' :

(a) Widowed step-mother. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 285 (285) (DB) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 33 (35) : 21 Pat 173 (DB).

(b) Minor half-brother. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 173 (174) : 9 Rang 46 (SB).

[But see (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 752 (753). (Minor brother includes brother of half blood.)]

4. Adoptive relations.—[1] Minor adopted son is a dependant. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 661 (661) : 12 Lah 50.

[2] A widowed mother includes an adoptive widowed mother for the purposes of S. 2 (1) (d). (Vol 32) 1945 Nag 238 (238) : I L R (1945) Nag 697.

[3] "Adopted daughter" is not a dependant. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 399 (400) : 12 Lah 658 (DB).

5. 'Dependant on the earnings.'—[1] Question of dependency is question of fact in each case. Mere evidence that husband and wife pooled their resource does not establish that husband was dependant on wife. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 369 (370, 371) (DB).

illegitimate if married and a minor or if widowed, a minor brother, an unmarried or widowed sister, a widowed daughter-in-law, a minor child of a deceased son, [d][a minor child of a deceased daughter where no parent of the child is alive], or where no parent of the workman is alive, a paternal grandparent;]

(e) "employer" includes any body of persons whether incorporated or not and any managing agent of an employer and the legal representative of a deceased employer and, when the services of a workman are temporarily lent or let on hire to another person by the person with whom the workman has entered into a contract of service or apprenticeship, means such other person while the workman is working for him;

(f) "managing agent" means any person appointed or acting as the representative of another person for the purpose of carrying on such other person's trade or business, but does not include an individual manager subordinate to an employer;

(g) "partial disablement" means, where the disablement is of a temporary nature, such disablement as reduces the earning capacity of a workman in any employment in which he was engaged at the time of the accident resulting in the disablement, and, where the disablement is of a permanent nature, such disablement as reduces his earning capacity in every employment which he was capable of undertaking at that time: provided that every injury specified in Schedule I shall be deemed to result in permanent partial disablement;

(h) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act;

(i) "qualified medical practitioner" means any person registered under the Medical Act, 1858,[a] or any Act amending the same, or under any Act of any Legislature in British India providing for the maintenance of a register of medical practitioners, or, in any area where no such last-mentioned Act is in force, any person declared by the [b][Provincial Government], by notification in the [c][Official Gazette], to be a qualified medical practitioner for the purposes of this Act;

(k) "seaman" means any person forming part of the crew of any [a][* *] ship, but does not include the master of [b][the] ship;

[a] The word "registered" was repealed by the Workmen's Compensation (Amendment) Act, 1933 (15 [XV] of 1933), S. 2. [b] Substituted, ibid., for "any such".

(l) "total disablement" means such disablement, whether of a temporary or permanent nature, as incapacitates a workman for all work which he was capable of performing at the time of the accident resulting in such disablement: provided that permanent total disablement shall be deemed to result from the permanent total loss of the sight of both eyes or from any combination of injuries specified in Schedule I where the aggregate percentage of the loss of earning capacity, as specified in that Schedule against those injuries, amounts to one hundred per cent.;

(m) "wages" includes any privilege or benefit which is capable of being estimated in money, other than a travelling allowance or the value of any travelling concession

Section 2 (1) (g) — Note 1

[1] In cases of permanent partial disablement Court has to see whether earning capacity has been reduced in every employment and not merely in particular employment at the time of the accident. (Vol 23) 1936 All 493 (494) : 58 All 976.

Section 2 (1) (m) — Note 1

[1] "Wages" involves notion of contract of service or employment and that manual labour which person does must be solely for benefit of his employer. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 573 (575). (Labour done by students in college workshop does not satisfy either of these conditions.)

or a contribution paid by the employer of a workman towards any pension or provident fund or a sum paid to a workman to cover any special expenses entailed on him by the nature of his employment;

(n) "workman" means any person (other than a person whose employment is of a casual nature and who is employed otherwise than for the purposes of the employer's trade or business) who is—

[2] "Wages" — Profit sharing bonus scheme of a Company under which its employees were declared entitled to certain bonus in good years — Bonus held included within term "wages." (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 437 (439) (DB).

[3] Where workman lost two-thirds of the index and middle fingers of right hand and whole of third and fourth fingers but his thumb and hand were intact, it was held that there was no permanent "total disablement" and workman was not entitled to compensation. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 319 (320).

SECTION 2 (1) (n) — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. "Of a causal nature."
3. "For purposes of .... business."
4. Clause (i).
5. Clause (ii)—"Monthly wages."
6. Other illustrative cases.

1. Scope. — [1] The definitions in S. 2 (1) (n) and cl. (ii) in Sch. II, must be read together. (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 185 (186, 187) : I L R (1940) Kar 370 (DB) ✠ (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 52 (55) : I L R (1943) Lah 813 (DB).

[2] To exclude workman from definition, employment must be of casual nature and it should also be otherwise than for purposes of employer's trade or business. (Vol 33) 1946 All 473 (475) : I L R (1946) All 628 (DB) ✠ (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 721 (722) : 58 Mad 804 (DB).

[3] Even if the employment is of a casual nature, if a man be employed for the purpose of employer's trade or business, he is a workman. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 244 (244) : 11 Rang 433 (DB) ✠ (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 208 (209) (DB). (Employed for two days.)

[4] In order to be workman within Act, person claiming to be workman must be under contract of service with some other person. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 89 (90) (S B).

[5] If persons are allowed to do work of their own in their own time and are not subject to orders of any master as to way in which or time at which, they shall do it, they do not fall within Act. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 219 (219, 220) (DB) (Tributor is not a workman.)

[6] The Act may or may not apply to apprentices. Contract of service is necessary to bring apprentices under the category of "workmen." (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 573 (575).

[7] A mere licensee upon the mine who is paid by piece work rates for the work which he did and over whom there is no control by the mine authorities is not a 'workman' within the meaning of the Act. (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 61 (61) (SB).

[See also (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 125 (125, 126) (DB).]

[8] To see whether person is workman, his occupation at time when he met his death is to be considered. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 45 (46) : 14 Rang 753 (DB).

2. "Of a casual nature."—[1] Whether employment of a workman is of casual nature depends on nature of employment. Onus in such cases would be on employer to prove the condition necessary for excluding a person from category of workman. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 270 (271, 272) (DB).

3. "For purposes of ..... business."—[1] The words "employed for the purpose of" and the words "employed in" do not mean exactly the same thing. Where a labourer is riding a lorry which is being driven to a brick field for the purpose of picking up bricks, his travelling to the brick field is within the scope of his employment. Such labourer is a workman within the meaning of the Act. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 169 (170) (DB).

[2] If man is employed for purpose of the trade or business of employer, though the employment is of a casual nature, he is a workman. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 493 (494) (DB). (Cooly employed for manual labour is a workman.)

[3] Hotel-keeper employed his profits in purchase of buildings and their reconstruction and repair for purpose of letting them—Workman falls down while repairing and dies: Held that repairing such building was part of his business and even if it was of a casual nature, workman was employed for the purpose of hotel-keeper's trade or business. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 941 (941, 942) (DB).

[4] Protection under the Act is meant for the workmen who are actually engaged in the process of handling the bales, so as to transfer them from the wharf to the hold of a ship which is actually being loaded. But where a workman is injured while stacking certain bales in a shed alongside the wharf he is not engaged for the purpose of loading a ship. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 44 (45) : 54 Bom 114 (DB).

(2) The exercise and performance of the powers and duties of a local authority or of any department [a][acting on behalf of the Crown] shall, for the purposes of this Act, unless a contrary intention appears, be deemed to be the trade or business of such authority or department.

[b][(3) The [c][Provincial Government], after giving, by notification[d] in the [e][Official Gazette] not less than three months' notice of [f][its] intention so to do, may, by a like notification, add to Schedule II any class of persons employed in any occupation which [g][it] is satisfied is a hazardous occupation, and the provisions of this Act shall thereupon apply [h][within the Province] to such classes of persons:

Provided that in making such addition the [c][Provincial Government] may direct that the provisions of this Act shall apply to such classes of persons in respect of specified injuries only.]

CHAPTER II.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.

3. (1) If personal injury is caused to a workman by accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, his employer shall be liable to pay compensation in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter:

Employer's liability for compensation.

Provided that the employer shall not be so liable—

(a) in respect of any injury which does not result in the total or partial disablement of the workman for a period exceeding [a][seven] days;

Section 2 (1) (n) — Note 3 (contd.)

[See also (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 698 (701) : 52 Mad 747 (FB). (Workman employed in godown, quarter mile away from wharf where steamers are moored — Intervention of cartman necessary to take goods to quay side for handing them over to stevedores : Held workman was not workman within the meaning of S. 2 (1) (n) read with Sch. 2 (5))]

[5] No man who is employed to repair cases containing goods or to unload and repack goods is employed in handling of goods and is therefore "workman." (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 110 (111) : I L R (1938) Bom 44 (DB).

4. Clause (i). — [1] Expression "not permanently employed . . . . in any office of a railway" in S. 2 (1) (n) (i) contemplates such servants as are not required to perform their duties continuously or habitually in office. Expression "permanently employed" is not used as opposed to "temporarily employed." (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 91 (93).

[2] The word "administrative" is not an adjective qualifying "District" and "Sub-Divisional Office." (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 91 (92).

5. Clause (ii)—"Monthly wages."—[1] The reference to employment on monthly wages in S. 2 (1) (n) means employment at wages which do not exceed an average of Rs. 300 a month. It is not limited to workmen who are employed by the month but also includes workmen employed by the day or by the week or by the year. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 52 (55, 56) : I L R (1943) Lah 813 (DB) ✻ (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 169 (170) (D B) ✻ (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 110 (111) : I L R (1938) Bom 44 (DB).

[2] The real purpose of insistence on employment on monthly wages not exceeding Rs. 300 is merely to fix a financial upper limit of means in the case of the deceased workman and it does not make any difference whether as a means of payment he was paid daily, weekly, monthly or even yearly. (Vol 33) 1946 All 473 (476) : I L R (1946) All 628. (Workman employed at wages at eight annas a day is a workman within this section.)

6. Other illustrative cases. — [1] Person employed for the purpose of employer's business in the construction, working or repairs of pipe-line otherwise than in clerical capacity, is workman though officiating in leave vacancy. (Vol 23) 1936 All 690 (691) : ILR (1937) All 15 (DB).

[3] Compositor in press in United Provinces can be workman. (Vol 30) 1943 All 273 (274) : I L R (1943) All 595 (DB).

[4] The claimant employed in works where sand was dredged from the creek and sifted so as to remove mud and stone is a workman. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 28 (29) : 58 Bom 128 (DB).

Section 2 (2) — Note 1

[1] Section 2 (2) was intended to include Government departments which are engaged in work with a commercial object, but it does not impose on such a Government department a duty other than that imposed on private traders or corporations, so as to deprive such a department of the saving contained in S. 12 (1). (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 179 (183) : 53 Bom 203 (DB).

SECTION 3 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Accident arising out of and in the course of employment.
3. Proviso (b) (ii)
   4. Wilful disobedience.
   5. Employee's negligence.
6. Section 3 (5) (a).
7. Principles governing grant of compensation.
8. Burden of proof.

1. Scope. — [1] Where a man is employed for purposes of trade or business, employer is liable even if the employment is of casual nature. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 244 (244) : 11 Rang 433 (DB) ✻ (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 208 (209) (DB). (Fact that workman had been employed only for two days for employer's trade or business when accident occurred does not disentitle him to compensation.)

(b) in respect of any [b][injury, not resulting in death, caused by] an accident which is directly attributable to—

(i) the workman having been at the time thereof under the influence of drink or drugs, or

(ii) the wilful disobedience of the workman to an order expressly given, or to a rule expressly framed, for the purpose of securing the safety of workmen, or

(iii) the wilful removal or disregard by the workman of any safety guard or other device which he knew to have been provided for the purpose of securing the safety of workmen [c][* * *].

(2) [d][If a workman employed in any employment specified in Part A of Schedule III contracts any disease specified therein as an occupational disease peculiar to that employment], or if a workman, whilst in the service of an employer in whose service he has been employed for a continuous period of not less than six months in any employment specified in [e][Part B of] Schedule III, contracts any disease specified therein as an occupational disease peculiar to that employment, the contracting of the disease shall be deemed to be an injury by accident within the meaning of this section and, unless the employer proves the contrary, the accident shall be deemed to have arisen out of and in the course of the employment.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this sub-section a period of service shall be deemed to be continuous which has not included a period of service under any other employer, [in the same kind of employment].[f]

[2] Workman receiving injuries as a result of negligence and breach of duty of employer — Compensation according to actual loss and injury can be obtained. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 451 (452) (DB).

2. Accident arising out of and in the course of employment. — [1] An accident in order to give rise to a claim for compensation must have some relation to the workmen's employment and must be due to a risk incidental to that employment as opposed to which all members of the public are alike exposed. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 353 (354) : I L R (1944) Mad 29 (DB) ✠ (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 599 (600, 601) : 19 Pat 514 (DB). (A workman in a colliery is not in course of his employment when he is riding in a vehicle provided by his employer unless, by the terms of his contract, he is bound to travel in that vehicle).

[2] It does not follow that because a man is injured during the time of his employment, the accident arose out of or in the course of such employment. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 453 (455) : 21 Pat 218 (DB).

[3] There is no difference between the English and Indian Statutes as to the type of accidents which gives the workman a claim to compensation. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 599 (600, 601) : 19 Pat 514 (DB).

[4] Expression 'arising out of the employment' applies to employment as such, to its nature, its conditions, its obligations and its incidents and if, by reason of any of these, workman is brought within zone of special danger and so injured or killed, statute applies. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 220 (221): 60 Cal 421 (DB).

[5] Question whether an accident arose out of the employment is dependant on the facts of each particular case. One test is whether it was part of the injured person's employment to hazard, to suffer or to do that which caused his injury. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 513 (514, 515) (DB) ✠ (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 397 (399) : I L R (1938) Nag 200 (DB).

(Vol 15) 1928 Bom 1 (3) : 52 Bom 45 (DB).

(e) Place of accident where act is within the scope of employment.

[18] Injury by natural force—Workman must prove association of such injury with his employment—If injury is due to physical contact with some part of place where he works, accident is associated with employment and no further inquiry is essential. (Vol 20) 1933 P C 225 (228, 229, 230) (P C).

[19] Where workman met with his death when he was doing very thing which he was employed to do, mere fact that he had no right to be working in place where he was when he met his death, does not show that accident did not arise out of and in course of employment. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 428 (431) (DB).

(f) Accident while proceeding to or returning from employment.

[20] A person who with the knowledge and permission of employer lives at some distance from his work spot, must be allowed a reasonable time within which to proceed from his residence to the place of work. (ii) in the case of a minor—two hundred rupees; ment: Held no compensation can be recovered. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 207 (207) (DB).

(g) Death due to act outside the scope of employment and expressly prohibited.

[24] Workman's death due to act for which he was not employed, and warned not to do — Injury not caused by accident out of and in course of employment. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 250 (251) : 14 Rang 305 (DB).

3. Proviso (b) (ii). — [1] In considering breaches of rules, distinction is of importance between rules which define what work shall be done and rules which define how work shall be done. The former, if employers' rules, would normally be regarded as delimiting the sphere of employment; the latter as not relating to the sphere of employment but the mode of working. The latter might let in a defence based on disobedience; the former can found the argument that the act was outside the employment. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 397 (399) : I L R (1938) Nag 200 (DB).

[2] Before Proviso (b) (ii) of S. 3 (1), can operate in an employer's favour, each of seven distinct conditions must be satsified. First, an order or rule must have been given or framed; a mere warning or disclaimer of responsibility is not enough. Secondly, its substantial purpose must have been that of securing the safety of workmen as such. Thirdly, the order or rule must contain words which, on the face of them, fairly and clearly indicate that its purpose is that of securing the safety of workmen; otherwise it is not "expressly" so given or framed. Fourthly, its terms must have been brought to the notice of the individual workman who is injured. Fifthly, it must have been disobeyed. Sixthly, the disobedience must have been wilful, neither, for example, merely negligent, nor due to a mistaken mode of doing a particular task, nor due to a wrong decision in an emergency, but deliberate. Seventhly, the accident must have been directly attributable to the disobedience. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 250 (251) : 1940 Rang L R 759 : 42 Cri L Jour 56 (S B).

[3] In fatal accident case, where fatality was due to accident occurring in inclined roadway in coal mine wherein deceased was employed as signalling trammer, in determining whether act done arose out of employment, it is irrelevant to consider whether it was or was not forbidden by Regulation which formed no part of the contract of employment but was safety measure provided by Government to secure the well-being of employed. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 397 (398) : I L R (1938) Nag 200 (DB).

4. Wilful disobedience. — [1] Under Act, the sole question is whether workmen wilfully disobeyed rule devised for securing safety of workmen and not whether disobedience amounted to misconduct under English Act. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 289 (290) : 1938 Rang L R 299 (DB).

[2] The word "wilful" imports that the misconduct is deliberate and not merely a thoughtless act done on the spur of the moment. (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 508 (512) : 8 Pat 24 (DB).

[3] A man does a thing wilfully when he does it intentionally because he expects some benefit to himself, either some convenience or an easy way of doing a piece of work and so forth. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 58 (59) (DB).

[4] Employer ordering workman to insert back lagging in mine — Workman excavating beneath dangerous boulder in course of his work and receiving injuries — Absence of instructions to contrary.—No wilful disobedience—Employer liable to pay compensation. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 220 (221) (DB).

5. Employee's negligence. — [1] Accident due to employee's negligence but arising out of and in the course of employment — Employer not exempt. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 311 (314) : I L R (1937) Nag 88.

[2] Contributory negligence on the part of the employee does not exonerate the employer from liability to compensate the employee if the accident could have been avoided by the exercise of ordinary care and diligence. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 670 (671) (DB).

6. Section 3 (5) (a). — [1] Claim, even if rejected in limine by Commissioner, must be regarded as claim instituted before the Comm'ssioner within S. 3 (5) (a). (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 116 (118).

7. Principles governing grant of compensation. — [1] Award of compensation is not to give solatium to a relative of the employee who has been fatally injured but something to replace the actual loss which he or she has suffered. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 369 (370) (DB).

[2] Compensation is not remedy for negligence on the part of employer but is a sort of insurance of the workman against certain risks of accident. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 91 (92).

[3] Where Commissioner finds that neither workman nor his dependants had any claim on employer, he cannot order small compensation to be paid by employer. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 303 (304) (DB).

8. Burden of proof.—[1] In claiming compensation the onus lies on the applicant for compensation to prove that the accident arose out of the employment. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 18 (20) (DB) ✠ (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 175 (177) : I L R (1942) Bom 225 (DB).

[2] Facts proved giving rise to conflicting inferences of equal degrees of probability as to cause of death — Onus on applicant not discharged. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 349 (350) (DB).

[3] Where the work is within the scope of employment the exemption under proviso has to be proved by employer. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 630 (631, 632) (DB).

(i) in the case of an adult in receipt of monthly wages falling within limits shown in the first column of Schedule IV—the amount shown against such limits in the third column thereof, and

(ii) in the case of a minor—twelve hundred rupees;

C. Where permanent partial disablement results from the injury—

(i) in the case of an injury specified in Schedule I, such percentage of the compensation which would have been payable in the case of permanent total disablement as is specified therein as being the percentage of the loss of earning capacity caused by that injury, and

(ii) in the case of an injury not specified in Schedule I, such percentage of the compensation payable in the case of permanent total disablement as is proportionate to the loss of earning capacity permanently caused by the injury;

Explanation.—Where more injuries than one are caused by the same accident, the amount of compensation payable under this head shall be aggregated but not so in any case as to exceed the amount which would have been payable if permanent total disablement had resulted from the injuries;

D. Where temporary disablement, whether total or partial, results from the injury, a half-monthly payment payable on the sixteenth day after the expiry of a waiting period of seven days from the date of the disablement, and thereafter half-monthly during the disablement or during a period of five years, whichever period is shorter,

(i) in the case of an adult in receipt of monthly wages falling within limits shown in the first column of Schedule IV—of the sum shown against such limits in the fourth column thereof, and

(ii) in the case of a minor—of one-half of his monthly wages, subject to a maximum of thirty rupees:

Provided that—

(a) there shall be deducted from any lump sum or half-monthly payments to which the workman is entitled the amount of any payment or allowance which the workman has received from the employer by way of compensation during the period of disablement prior to the receipt of such lump sum or of the first half-monthly payment, as the case may be : and

(b) no half-monthly payment shall in any case exceed the amount, if any, by which half the amount of the monthly wages of the workman before the accident exceeds half the amount of such wages which he is earning after the accident.]

(2) On the ceasing of the disablement before the date on which any half-monthly payment falls due, there shall be payable in respect of that half-month a sum proportionate to the duration of the disablement in that half-month.

of the law is satisfied even if the injury can be traced to the accident as the unnatural cause thereof. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 286 (288) (DB).

[3] Payments made to an injured workman before his death under S. 4 (1) (d) cannot be deducted from the compensation-payable under S. 4 (1) (a) after death of workman as the right of the dependants to compensation upon the death of a workman is independent of the workman's right to compensation. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 33 (35) : 11 Rang 154 (FB).

[4] While considering whether disablement is the result of the injury the true test is not whether disablement is direct or even probable result of injury or injury natural cause thereof but whether disablement can be traced to injury even as an unusual, but not unconnected result thereof. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 286 (288) (DB).

[5] If workman has suffered total disablement as defined in cl. (1) of S. 2 (2), then under cl. B of S. 4 (1) he is entitled to compensation as laid down in Sch. IV. ('41) 1941 Nag L Jour 532.

[6] Workman losing $\frac{2}{3}$ of index and middle finger and whole of third and fourth fingers of right hand, thumb and hand remaining intact — Held, he was not entitled to compensation there being no total disablement. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 319 (319).

[7] What the Court has to see in case of permanent partial disablement is whether earning capacity of workman has been reduced in every employment which he was capable of undertaking at time of accident and not merely particular employment in which he was engaged at that time. (Vol 23) 1936 All 493 (494) : 58 All 976.

[8] Loss in earning capacity and not in physical capacity of workman has to be estimated —Railway, held best judge of loss in earning capacity of injured workman—Railway discharged workman on ground that he was physically unfit and permanently incapacitated. Held, there was 100% loss-of earning capacity and workman entitled to full compensation. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 526 (528) (DB).

5. [a][*] [b][In this Act and for the purposes thereof the expression "monthly wages" means the amount of wages deemed to be payable for a month's service (whether the wages are payable by the month or by whatever other period or at piece rates), and calculated] as follows, namely:—

Method of calculating wages.

(a) where the workman has, during a continuous period of not less than twelve months immediately preceding the accident, been in the service of the employer who is liable to pay compensation, the monthly wages of the workman shall be one-twelfth of the total wages which have fallen due for payment to him by the employer in the last twelve months of that period;

[c][(b) where the whole of the continuous period of service immediately preceding the accident during which the workman was in the service of the employer who is liable to pay the compensation was less than one month, the monthly wages of the workman shall be [d][* * *] the average monthly amount which, during the twelve months immediately preceding the accident, was being earned by a workman employed, on the same work by the same employer, or, if there was no workman so employed by a workman employed on similar work in the same locality;]

[e][(c)] in other cases, the monthly wages shall be thirty times the total wages earned in respect of the last continuous period of service immediately preceding the accident from the employer who is liable to pay compensation, divided by the number of days comprising such period.

Explanation.—A period of service shall, for the purposes of this [g][*] section be deemed to be continuous which has not been interrupted by a period of absence from work exceeding fourteen days.

Objects and Reasons.

Amendment made by Act XIII of 1939 — "Conflicting decisions of High Courts have raised doubts as to whether on account of the expression 'employed on monthly wages' occurring in the definition of 'workman' in the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, a worker whose wages are paid otherwise than by the month or on a monthly basis can under any circumstances claim the benefits of that Act. That a worker should be so debarred on that ground alone was never the intention of the Act, and to remove these doubts a more formal definition of the expression 'monthly wages' is now proposed."

6. (1) Any half monthly payment payable under this Act, either under an agreement between the parties or under the order of a Commissioner, may be reviewed by the Commissioner, on the application either of the employer or of the workman accompanied by the certificate of a qualified medical practitioner that there has been a change in the condition of the workman or, subject to rules made under this Act, on application made without such certificate.

Review.

(2) Any half-monthly payment may, on review under this section, subject to the provisions of this Act, be continued, increased, decreased or ended, or if the accident is found to have resulted in permanent disablement, be converted to the lump sum to which the workman is entitled less any amount which he has already received by way of half-monthly payments.

Section 5 — Note 1

[2] Bonus to workman declared after date of accident — Workman being in continuous employment for full official year ending before accident entitled to bonus — Bonus held formed part of 'total' wages falling due for payment for purposes of compensation. (Vol 33) 1946 Pat 437 (440) (DB).

[5] In the case of a workman who is employed only for a day, compensation to be awarded for injuries suffered by her should be on the basis of monthly average wages, calculated on the basis of her average daily wages multiplied by thirty and divided by the number of days of continuous employment. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 169 (170, 171) (DB).

Commutation of half-monthly payments.

7. Any right to receive half-monthly payments may, by agreement between the parties or, if the parties cannot agree and the payments have been continued for not less than six months, on the application of either party to the Commissioner be redeemed by the payment of a lump sum of such amount as may be agreed to by the parties or determined by the Commissioner, as the case may be.

Distribution of compensation.

8. [a][(1) No payment of compensation in respect of a workman whose injury has resulted in death, and no payment of a lump sum as compensation to a woman or a person under a legal disability, shall be made otherwise than by deposit with the Commissioner, and no such payment made directly by an employer shall be deemed to be a payment of compensation :

[b][Provided that, in the case of a deceased workman, an employer may make to any dependant advances on account of compensation not exceeding an aggregate of one hundred rupees, and so much of such aggregate as does not exceed the compensation payable to that dependant shall be deducted by the Commissioner from such compensation and repaid to the employer.]

(2) Any other sum amounting to not less than ten rupees which is payable as compensation may be deposited with the Commissioner on behalf of the person entitled thereto.

(3) The receipt of the Commissioner shall be a sufficient discharge in respect of any compensation deposited with him.]

(4) On the deposit of any money under sub-section (1) [c][as compensation in respect of a deceased workman] the Commissioner [d][shall deduct] therefrom the actual cost of the workman's funeral expenses, to an amount not exceeding [e][twenty-five rupees] and pay the same to the person by whom such expenses were incurred, and shall, if he thinks necessary, cause notice to be published or to be served on each dependant in such manner as he thinks fit, calling upon the dependants to appear before him on such date as he may fix for determining the distribution of the compensation. If the Commissioner is satisfied after any inquiry which he may deem necessary, that no dependant exists, he shall repay the balance of the money to the employer by whom it was paid. The Commissioner shall, on application by the employer, furnish a statement showing in detail all disbursements made.

[f][(5) Compensation deposited in respect of a deceased workman shall, subject to any deduction made under sub-section (4), be apportioned among the dependants of the deceased workman or any of them in such proportion as the Commissioner thinks fit, or may, in the discretion of the Commissioner, be allotted to any one dependant.

SECTION 8 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Right of dependants to compensation.
3. Refund to employer.
4. Deductions.
5. Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

1. Scope.—[1] The whole scheme of S. 8 seems to be designed for protection of employer in cases where liability is admitted or established. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 1 (4) : 7 Rang 660 (SB).

[2] The Act does not forbid compensation being paid otherwise than through the Commissioner. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 1 (4) : 7 Rang 660 (SB).

[3] Subject to the observance of the provisions of S. 8 Commissioner has power to order re-deposit of compensation. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 1 (4) : 7 Rang 660 (SB).

2. Right of dependants to compensation. — [1] Section 8 makes it quite clear that compensation is payable only to dependants of deceased. (Vol 16) 1929 All 707 (707) (DB).

[2] Right to compensation payable under this Act vests in the workman's dependant or dependants actually existing at the time of his death and on the death of such dependant before making of the claim, the right passes on to his heirs or legal representatives, as they are included in the word 'dependant' in S. 8. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 495 (497) : I L R (1937) 2 Cal 518 (DB).

[3] When once allotment of compensation to dependant or a distribution of compensation money among several dependants is made under S. 8, compensation so allotted or distributed becomes property of the dependant and if dependant dies, said sum will devolve on heirs. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 402 (402) : I L R (1938) Mad 716 (D B).

[4] When mother, widow and minor son of deceased Muhammadan were awarded compensation, held death of mother and minor constitutes variation of circumstances, and Commissioner may make new order; fact that widow had remarried was immaterial. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 580 (581) (D B).

3. Refund to employer.—[1] Under S. 8, if there are no dependants of the deceased the amount cannot be paid to more distant relatives though next of kin. The amount then is to be refunded to the employer. (Vol 16) 1929 All 707 (707) (D B).

4. Deductions. — [1] Payments made to injured workman before his death under S. 4 (1) (d) cannot be deducted from the compensation payable under S. 4 (1) (a) after death of workman. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 33 (34) : 11 Rang 154 (F B).

5. Jurisdiction of Civil Court.—[1] The Commissioner for Workmen's Compensation is the proper authority to make a re-distribution of the money which has been allotted to the share of a deceased minor. Consequently, the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to deal with the matter at all. Hence, as far as the Commissioner of Workmen's Compensation is concerned, the decree of the Civil Court (though a consent decree) is of no effect. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 580 (581) (D B).

(6) Where any compensation deposited with the Commissioner is payable to any person, the Commissioner shall, if the person to whom the compensation is payable is not a woman or a person under a legal disability, and may, in other cases, pay the money to the person entitled thereto.

(7) Where any lump sum deposited with the Commissioner is payable to a woman or a person under a legal disability, such sum may be invested, applied or otherwise dealt with for the benefit of the woman, or of such person during his disability, in such manner as the Commissioner may direct; and where a half-monthly payment is payable to any person under a legal disability, the Commissioner may, of his own motion or on an application made to him in this behalf, order that the payment be made during the disability to any dependant of the workman or to any other person whom the Commissioner thinks best fitted to provide for the welfare of the workman.]

[e][(8)] Where, on application made to him in this behalf or otherwise, the Commissioner is satisfied that, on account of neglect of children on the part of a parent or on account of the variation of the circumstances of any dependant or for any other sufficient cause, an order of the Commissioner as to the distribution of any sum paid as compensation or as to the manner in which any sum payable to any such dependant is to be invested, applied or otherwise dealt with, ought to be varied, the Commissioner may make such orders for the variation of the former order as he thinks just in the circumstances of the case :

Provided that no such order prejudicial to any person shall be made unless such person has been given an opportunity of showing cause why the order should not be made, or shall be made in any case in which it would involve the repayment by a dependant of any sum already paid to him.

[f][(9) Where the Commissioner varies any order under sub-section (8) by reason of the fact that payment of compensation to any person has been obtained by fraud, impersonation or other improper means, any amount so paid to or on behalf of such person may be recovered in the manner hereinafter provided in section 31.]

Compensation not to be assigned, attached or charged.

9. Save as provided by this Act, no lump sum or half-monthly payment payable under this Act shall in any way be capable of being assigned or charged or be liable to attachment or pass to any person other than the workman by operation of law, nor shall any claim be set off against the same.

Notice and claim.

10. (1) [a][No claim for compensation shall be entertained by a Commissioner unless notice of the accident has been given in the manner hereinafter provided as soon as practicable after the happening thereof and unless the claim is preferred before him within one year of the occurrence of the accident or, in case of death, within one year from the date of death :]

Provided that, where the accident is the contracting of a disease in respect of which the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 3 are applicable, the accident shall be deemed to have

[1] The first part of the section is enacted for the purpose of securing the benefit which the Workmen's Compensation Act is intended to provide for the workman or the dependants of the workman. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 402 (403) : I L R (1938) Mad 716 (D B).

[2] The latter part of the section contemplates that the compensation is payable to a workman and cannot be claimed by any person by operation of law; therefore before that clause can come into operation there must be an existing workman to whom it is payable and it has no application to a case where the workman died before the award of compensation. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 402 (403) : I L R (1938) Mad 716 (D B).

[3] In the case of a workman who is alive and to whom the compensation is payable, the Act says that it must be paid to him and it should not go to any other person; for example, if he becomes an insolvent his trustee in bankruptcy cannot claim the sum for the benefit of his creditors. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 402 (403) : I L R (1938) Mad 716 (D B).

SECTION 10—SYNOPSIS

1. Claims.
2. Notice.
3. Limitation—Sufficient cause.
4. "As soon as practicable."

1. Claims.—[1] Claim within S. 10 is communication by or on behalf of workman from which the employer can see that demand is being made upon him to pay compensation in respect of accident. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 348 (350) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 52 (D B).

[2] Claim referred to in S. 10 (1) and S. 22 means formal claim made before Commissioner and not claim made of employers. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 116 (117).

[3] Demand for compensation to superior fellow workman like foreman is no claim under S. 10. Claim is to be made to some higher authority who can have it brought to notice of branch charged with administration of matters arising out of Act. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 348 (350) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 52 (D B).

[4] A claim, even if rejected in limine, by Commissioner must be regarded as claim instituted before the occurred on the first of the days during which the workman was continuously absent from work in consequence of the disablement caused by the disease :

[b][Provided further that the want of or any defect or irregularity in a notice shall not be a bar to the [c][entertainment of a claim]—

(a) if the claim is [d][preferred] in respect of the death of a workman resulting from an accident which occurred on the premises of the employer, or at any place where the workman at the time of the accident was working under the control of the employer or of any person employed by him, and the workman died on such premises or at such place, or on any premises belonging to the employer, or died without having left the vicinity of the premises or place where the accident occurred, or

(b) if the employer [e][or any one of several employers or any person responsible to the employer for the management of any branch of the trade or business in which the injured workman was employed] had knowledge of the accident from any other source at or about the time when it occurred :]

Provided, further, that the Commissioner may [f][entertain] and decide any claim to compensation in any case notwithstanding that the notice has not been given, or the claim has not been [g][preferred], in due time as provided in this sub-section, if he is satisfied that the failure so to give the notice or [h][prefer] the claim, as the case may be, was due to sufficient cause.

Commissioner within S. 3 (5) (a). (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 116 (118).

2. Notice.—[1] Commissioner is sole judge as to whether want of or defact in notice shall bar proceedings. Omission to state in notice cause of injury is not material when manager of factory was already aware of it. (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 272 (273).

[2] Notice addressed to employer's office or business place and sent by registered post coming back with endorsement 'left' is valid notice. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 400 (403) (D B).

[3] The words "notice of the accident" appearing in S. 10 do not mean "notice of the details of the accident." A wide and unnecessary extension to the word "accident" which might defeat the claim to compensation ought not to be lightly given. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 169 (170) (DB).

[4] The expression "notice shall state in ordinary language the cause of the injury" does not mean that notice must state in language to the same effect as application before the Commissioner. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 130 (131) (DB).

[5] Notice must be served upon employer or person directly responsible to employer. Notice to fellow workman not valid. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 296 (298) (DB).

[6] Notice — Accident trivial at first but becoming serious — Notice to be given when serious consequences ensue. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 296 (298) (DB).

[7] Claim for compensation was made by the dependants of deceased labourer in a Railway Company's employment for accidental death against contractor employing the deceased but Commissioner, served notice on Company :

Held, that the Company was directly liable to the dependants as if it were employer :

Held also that Commissioner ought to have served notice under S. 10A, on contractor and not on Railway Company. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 683 (683) : 63 Cal 547.

[8] Proviso would apply even where no notice has been given. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 400 (404) (DB).

[9] A notice of accident given within week was held as given as soon as practicable after happening of the accident. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 1 (2).52 Bom 45 (DB).

[10] Notice under S. 10 is not necessary where workman does not voluntarily leave service of employer and want of written notice can also be excused if there was sufficient cause for failure to give notice or to institute claim. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 109 (111):57 Bom 150 (DB).

3. Limitation—Sufficient cause.—[1] The Limitation Act does not apply to proceedings under the Act. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 348 (351) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 52 (DB).

[2] Proceedings under the Act were governed by S. 10 and not by the general provisions of the Limitation Act, and hence Art. 22, Limitation Act, which applies to a suit for damages for personal injury did not apply to proceedings under the Workmen's Compensation Act. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 28 (30, 31) : 58 Bom 128 (D B).

[3] Held that workman re-employed after accident by same employer on same wages and remaining in employment for ten years was sufficient cause for not instituting proceedings within six months of accident. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 348 (351) : I L R (1938) 2 Cal 52 (DB).

[4] Workman whose ordinary duties were to spread sand in barges but was employed one day in turning pontoons so as to get manholes upwards was workman within Act. Once there is sufficient reason for not making claim within six months, bar to proceedings under Act is removed. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 28 (30, 31) : 58 Bom 128 (DB).

[5] Question whether there is sufficient cause is substantial question of law. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 227 (228).

[6] That plaintiff did not know rules about Act is not sufficient cause, even in case of ignorant and illiterate persons for admitting claim for compensation after expiry of the 6 months prescribed. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 175 (176) : 9 Rang 118 (DB).

[7] Words "has been instituted within six months" in S. 10, do not mean a claim against the employer or the institution of legal proceedings before the Commissioner. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 181 (182):17 Pat 658 (DB).

[See however (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 106 (106) : I L R (1939) Nag 460. (Word 'institute' in S. 10 (1), does not refer to the proceedings before the Commissioner but only to the workman's claim for compensation against employer. Consequently, S. 10 cannot be interpreted as laying down period of limitation in respect of proceedings for recovery of compensation before Commissioner.)]

(2) Every such notice shall give the name and address of the person injured and shall state in ordinary language the cause of the injury and the date on which the accident happened, and shall be served on the employer or upon [i][any one of] several employers, or upon any person [j][*] responsible to the employer for the management of any branch of the trade or business in which the injured workman was employed.

[k][(3) The [l][Provincial Government] may require that any prescribed class of employers shall maintain at their premises at which workmen are employed a notice book, in the prescribed form, which shall be readily accessible at all reasonable times to any injured workman employed on the premises and to any person acting bona fide on his behalf.

(4) A notice under this section may be served by delivering it at, or sending it by registered post addressed to, the residence or any office or place of business of the person on whom it is to be served, or, where a notice-book is maintained, by entry in the notice-book.]

Power to require from employers statements regarding fatal accidents.

[a][10A. (1) Where a Commissioner receives information from any source that a workman has died as a result of an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, he may send by registered post a notice to the workman's employer requiring him to submit, within thirty days of the service of the notice, a statement, in the prescribed form, giving the circumstances attending the death of the workman, and indicating whether, in the opinion of the employer, he is or is not liable to deposit compensation on account of the death.

(2) If the employer is of opinion that he is liable to deposit compensation, he shall make the deposit within thirty days of the service of the notice.

(3) If the employer is of opinion that he is not liable to deposit compensation, he shall in his statement indicate the grounds on which he disclaims liability.]

(4) Where the employer has so disclaimed liability, the Commissioner, after such enquiry as he may think fit, may inform any of the dependants of the deceased workman that it is open to the dependants to prefer a claim for compensation, and may give them such other further information as he may think fit.]

[8] Ignorance of workman of rules or law cannot be reasonable or sufficient cause. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 181 (183) : 17 Pat 653 (DB).

[9] Where injured workman was finally informed that he could not be re employed and even after this he continued correspondence and made claim for compensation two years after final order: Held that delay till final order be excused but not subsequent delay. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 307 (308) (DB).

[10] Where injured workman did not realise until particular date that he had permanently lost sight of one eye, it is sufficient cause for his not giving notice earlier. (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 272 (273).

[11] Rejection of claim by Commissioner, after condoning delay in filing same, on ground of its being time-barred without giving any decision on the merits is illegal. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 116 (118).

[12] Fact that after his discharge from hospital, the the man had been ill and was complete wreck, is sufficient cause. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 485 (486):I L R (1938) Mad 636 (DB).

[13] Under the proviso to S 10 (1) it is open to the Commissioner to admit and decide a claim if he was satisfied that there was sufficient reason for not instituting it within six months from the death. Once the claim is instituted it lies open to the Commissioner whether on his own motion or on the suggestion of the Financial Commissioner or any one else to satisfy himself whether or not the applicant came within the proviso. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 1 (3) : 7 Rang 660 (SB).

[14] Where injured workman considers his injury to be trivial and one for which he is not entitled to compensation, sufficient cause is made out for failurs to give notice under S. 10. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 197 (199) (DB).

[15] Question whether facts found by arbitrator under Act constitute reasonable cause for failure of workman to give notice of accident or claim compensation is one of law. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 197 (199) (DB).

[16] Period of six months to which S. 10 refers relates to claim for compensation made by workman against his employer and has no reference to period within which an application for settlement of the matter by Commissioner can be made. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 460 (461) : 61 Cal 508 (SB).

4. "As soon as practicable". — [1] A workman employed as a cooly in a factory met with an accident on 23rd February 1927. On 28th March 1927, while he was admitted in a hospital as an indoor patient, he sent a notice addressed to the solicitors of the proprietors of the factory. This letter was received by them on 21st April 1927. Held, that having regard to the ignorance of, and serious nature of the injury received by the workman, the notice of the accident was given as soon as practicable after the happening thereof within the meaning of S. 10(1).(Vol 16) 1929 Bom 400 (404) (DB).

[a][10B. (1) Where, by any law for the time being in force, notice is required to be given to any authority, by or on behalf of an employer, of any accident occurring on his premises which results in death, the person required to give the notice shall, within seven days of the death, send a report to the Commissioner giving the circumstances attending the death:

Reports of fatal accidents.

Provided that where the [b][Provincial Government] has so prescribed the person required to give the notice may instead of sending such report to the Commissioner send it to the authority to whom he is required to give the notice.

(2) The [b][Provincial Government] may, by notification in the [c][Official Gazette], extend the provisions of sub-section (1) to any class of premises other than those coming within the scope of that sub-section, and may, by such notification, specify the persons who shall send the report to the Commissioner.]

[a] Inserted by the Workmen's Compensation (Amendment) Act 1933, (XV [15] of 1933) S. 8. [b] Substituted by A. O. for "Local Government". [c] Substituted by A. O. for "local official Gazette".

11. (1) Where a workman has given notice of an accident, he shall, if the employer, before the expiry of three days from the time at which service of the notice has been effected, offers to have him examined free of charge by a qualified medical practitioner, submit himself for such examination, and any workman who is in receipt of a half-monthly payment under this Act shall, if so required, submit himself for such examination from time to time:

Medical examination.

Provided that a workman shall not be required to submit himself for examination by a medical practitioner otherwise than in accordance with rules made under this Act, or at more frequent intervals than may be prescribed.

(2) If a workman, on being required to do so by the employer under sub-section (1) or by the Commissioner at any time, refuses to submit himself for examination by a qualified medical practitioner or in any way obstructs the same, his right to compensation shall be suspended during the continuance of such refusal or obstruction unless, in the case of refusal, he was prevented by any sufficient cause from so submitting himself.

(3) If a workman, before the expiry of the period within which he is liable under sub-section (1) to be required to submit himself for medical examination, voluntarily leaves without having been so examined the vicinity of the place in which he was employed, his right to compensation shall be suspended until he returns and offers himself for such examination.

(4) Where a workman, whose right to compensation has been suspended under sub-section (2) or sub-section (3), dies without having submitted himself for medical examination as required by either of those sub-sections, the Commissioner may, if he thinks fit, direct the payment of compensation to the dependants of the deceased workman.

(5) Where under sub-section (2) or sub section (3) a right to compensation is suspended, no compensation shall be payable in respect of the period of suspension, and, if the period of suspension commences before the expiry of the waiting period referred to in clause D of sub-section (1) of section 4, the waiting period shall be increased by the period during which the suspension continues.

(6) Where an injured workman has refused to be attended by a qualified medical practitioner whose services have been offered to him by the employer free of charge or having accepted such offer has deliberately disregarded the instructions of such medical practitioner, then, [a][if it is proved that the workman has not thereafter been regularly attended by a qualified medical practitioner or having been so attended has deliberately failed to follow his instructions and that such refusal, disregard or failure was unreasonable] in the circumstances of the case and that the injury has been aggravated thereby, the injury and resulting disablement shall be deemed to be of the same nature and duration as they might reasonably have been expected to be if the workman had been regularly attended by a qualified medical practitioner [b][whose instructions he had followed] and compensation, if any, shall be payable accordingly.

[a] Substituted by the Workmen's Compensation (Amendment) Act, 1938 (9 [IX] of 1938) for "if it is thereafter proved that the workman has not been regularly attended by a qualified medical practitioner and that such refusal, failure or disregard was unreasonable." [b] Inserted, ibid.

[1] The phrase "that the workman has not been regularly attended by a qualified medical practitioner" should be construed as if it read: "by another qualified medical practitioner." (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 481 (483) : 55 Cal 1259 (DB).

12. (1) Where any person (hereinafter in this section referred to as the principal) in the course of or for the purposes of his trade or business contracts with any other person (hereinafter in this section referred to as the contractor) for the execution by or under the contractor of the whole or any part of any work which is ordinarily part of the trade or business of the principal, the principal shall be liable to pay to any workman employed in the execution of the work any compensation which he would have been liable to pay if that workman had been immediately employed by him; and where compensation is claimed from the principal, this Act shall apply as if references to the principal were substituted for references to the employer except that the amount of compensation shall be calculated with reference to the wages of the workman under the employer by whom he is immediately employed.

Contracting.

(2) Where the principal is liable to pay compensation under this section, he shall be entitled to be indemnified by the contractor, [a][or any other person from whom the workman could have recovered compensation and where a contractor who is himself a principal is liable to pay compensation or to indemnify a principal under this section he shall be entitled to be indemnified by any person standing to him in the relation of a contractor from whom the workman could have recovered compensation] and all questions as to the right to and the amount of any such indemnity shall, in default of agreement, be settled by the Commissioner.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing a workman from recovering compensation from the contractor instead of the principal.

(4) This section shall not apply in any case where the accident occurred elsewhere than on, in or about the premises on which the principal has undertaken or usually undertakes, as the case may be, to execute the work or which are otherwise under his control or management.

SECTION 12 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Contractor.
3. Liability of contractor to indemnify.
4. "Part of ordinary business."
5. Suits.
6. Nature and effect of order under cl. (1).
7. Liability of principal.

1. Scope. — [1] Selling agent agreeing to take delivery of goods from manufacturer's godowns — Employment of contractor for such work — Workmen employed by contractor in such work—Accident resulting in death — Liability of selling agent for compensation. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 18 (20, 21) : 43 Cri L Jour 315 : I L R (1942) Bom 139 (FB).

[2] General notion of S. 12 of Act is that, if it is ordinarily part of business of person to execute certain work, then ordinarily he will do that work by his own servants; he is not to escape liability for accident that takes place merely by interposing contractor. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 63 (64) : 60 Cal 24 (DB).

2. Contractor.—[1] A tindal who was a monthly paid servant and who also received extra wages per day for supervising a gang of coolies working for his employers, is not a contractor. (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 49 (50) : 24 Sind L R 199 (DB).

[2] The contractor referred to in sub-section (2) of the section is the contractor who contracts directly with the principal as defined in cl. (1). (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 399 (400) (DB).

3. Liability of contractor to indemnify.— [1] Indemnity is restricted under the Act between principal and original contractor and not between contractor and sub-contractor. If there is any further sub-letting of the contract indemnity must be sought by recourse to the civil Court. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 338 (340, 341) : 57 Bom 699.

[2] Where A undertakes work which is ordinarily part of his trade or business, but, he contracts with B for the execution of part of his work, and B similarly contracts with C for the whole or part of the work he himself has contracted for, and one of C's workmen is killed by accident, the principal for the purpose of S. 12 is A, and he is entitled to be indemnified by B, and whether B is entitled in turn to be indemnified by C the Act does not provide for such a contingency. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 399 (400) (DB).

[3] Where the employers who are cooly contractors engage a sub-contractor for the execution of work which is ordinarily part of their own trade or business, the employers are liable under Act and not sub-contractor. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 208 (209) (DB).

[4] Right of principal to be indemnified by contractor disputed — It is to be settled by Commissioner. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 113 (115) (DB).

[3] The business of keeping the line in order is normal and essential feature of running Railway. A coolie working under a contractor employed by railway Company in construction of a bridge sustained fatal injury while attending to work done to bridge. Work was for the line. Held, that workman sustained the injury in the course of work which was ordinarily part of the principal business of company and the company was liable to pay compensation. Where a workman has recovered compensation in respect of any injury caused under circumstances creating a legal liability of some person other than the person by whom the compensation was paid to pay damages in respect thereof, the person by whom the compensation was paid and any person who has been called on to pay an indemnity under section 12 shall be entitled to be indemnified by the person so liable to pay damages as aforesaid.

Remedies of employer against stranger.

14. (1) Where any employer has entered into a contract with any insurers in respect of any liability under this Act to any workman, then in the event of the employer becoming insolvent or making a composition or scheme of arrangement with his creditors or, if the employer is a company, in the event of the company having commenced to be wound up, the rights of the employer against the insurers as respects that liability shall, notwithstanding anything in any law for the time being in force relating to insolvency or the winding up of companies, be transferred to and vest in the workman, and upon any such transfer the insurers shall have the same rights and remedies and be subject to the same liabilities as if they were the employer, so, however, that the insurers shall not be under any greater liability to the workman than they would have been under the employer.

Insolvency of employer.

(2) If the liability of the insurers to the workman is less than the liability of the employer to the workman, the workman may prove for the balance in the insolvency proceedings or liquidation.

(3) Where in any case such as is referred to in sub-section (1) the contract of the employer with the insurers is void or voidable by reason of non-compliance on the part of the employer with any terms or conditions of the contract (other than a stipulation for the payment of premia,) the provisions of that sub-section shall apply as if the contract were not void or voidable, and the insurers shall be entitled to prove in the insolvency proceedings or liquidation for the amount paid to the workman:

Provided that the provisions of this sub-section shall not apply in any case in which the workman fails to give notice to the insures of the happening of the accident and of any resulting disablement as soon as practicable after he becomes aware of the institution of the insolvency or liquidation proceedings.

6. Nature and effect of order under cl. (1). — [1] An order awarding compensation was distinct and different from an order allowing or disallowing a claim for indemnity for the amount of compensation paid. An order holding the principal liable to pay compensation under S. 12 (1) did not give the principal an absolute right to claim indemnity from the contractor under S. 12 (2). As the contractor was not a party to the order under S. 12 (1) he was not bound by it and therefore it could not make liable to indemnify the principal. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 113 (114, 115).

7. Liability of principal.—[1] Selling agent employing contractor for transport — Workman employed by contractor—Workman accidentally killed — Selling agent liable as the work was ordinarily part of their business and selling agents could not escape liability by employing contractor. [2] To make principal liable under S. 12 when he employs contractor, it must be established that contractor was entitled to expect workman to do work at his orders and was entitled to dismiss them. Where select persons could come when they choose and do work, principal is not liable. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 428 (429, 430) (DB).

[3] Railway Contractor's employee died — Held the company was liable as if it was the employer. Since Contractor is to indemnify the Railway Company under sub-s. (2) he is entitled to notice of the claim and he can certainly dispute the claim. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 683 (683) : 63 Cal 547.

accrued before the date of the order of adjudication of the insolvent or the date of the commencement of the winding up, as the case may be, and those Acts shall have effect accordingly.

(5) Where the compensation is a half-monthly payment, the amount due in respect thereof shall, for the purposes of this section, be taken to be the amount of the lump sum for which the half-monthly payment could, if redeemable, be redeemed if application were made for that purpose under section 7, and a certificate of the Commissioner as to the amount of such sum shall be conclusive proof thereof.

(6) The provisions of sub-section (4) shall apply in the case of any amount for which an insurer is entitled to prove under sub-section (3), but otherwise those provisions shall not apply where the insolvent or the company being wound up has entered into such a contract with insurers as is referred to in sub-section (1).

(7) This section shall not apply where a company is wound up voluntarily merely for the purposes of reconstruction or of amalgamation with another company.

Special provisions relating to masters and seamen.

15. This Act shall apply in the case of workmen who are masters of [a][*] ships or seamen subject to the following modifications, namely :—

(1) The notice of the accident and the claim for compensation may, except where the person injured is the master of the ship, be served on the master of the ship as if he were the employer, but where the accident happened and the disablement commenced on board the ship, it shall not be necessary for any seaman to give any notice of the accident.

(2) In the case of the death of a master or seaman, the claim for compensation shall be made within six months after the news of the death has been received by the claimant or where the ship has been or is deemed to have been lost with all hands, within eighteen months of the date on which the ship was, or is deemed to have been, so lost.

(3) Where an injured master or seaman is discharged or left behind in any part of His Majesty's dominions or in a foreign country, any depositions taken by any Judge or Magistrate in that part or by any Consular Officer in the foreign country and transmitted by the person by whom they are taken to the [b][Central Government] or any [c][Provincial Government] shall, in any proceedings for enforcing the claim, be admissible in evidence—

(a) if the deposition is authenticated by the signature of the Judge, Magistrate or Consular Officer before whom it is made ;

(b) if the defendant or the person accused as the case may be, had an opportunity by himself or his agent to cross-examine the witness ; and

(c) if the deposition was made in the course of a criminal proceeding, on proof that the deposition was made in the presence of the person accused ; and it shall not be necessary in any case to prove the signature or official character of the person appearing to have signed any such deposition and a certificate by such person that the defendant or the person accused had an opportunity of cross examining the witness and that the deposition if made in a criminal proceeding was made in the presence of the person accused shall, unless the contrary is proved, be sufficient evidence that he had that opportunity and that it was so made.

[e][(4)] No [f][half monthly payment] shall be payable in respect of the period during which the owner of the ship is, under any law in force for the time being in British India relating to merchant shipping, liable to defray the expenses of maintenance of the injured master or seaman.

[g][(5) No compensation shall be payable under this Act in respect of any injury in respect of which provision is made for payment of a gratuity allowance or pension under the War Pensions and Detention Allowances (Mercantile Marine, etc) Scheme, 1939, or the War Pensions and Detention Allowances (Indian Seamen, etc,) Scheme, 1941, made under the Pensions (Navy, Army, Air Force and Mercantile Marine) Act, 1939, or under the War Pensions and Detention Allowances (Indian Seamen) Scheme, 1942, made by the Central Government.

(6) Failure to give a notice or make a claim or commence proceedings within the time required by this Act shall not be a bar to the maintenance of proceedings under this Act in respect of any personal injury, if—

(a) an application has been made for payment in respect of that injury under any of the schemes referred to in the preceding clause, and

(b) the Provincial Government certifies that the said application was made in the reasonable belief that the injury was one in respect of which the scheme under which the application was made makes provision for payments, and that the application was rejected or that payments made in pursuance of the application were discontinued on the ground that the injury was not such an injury, and

(c) the proceedings under this Act are commenced within one month from the date on which the said certificate of the Provincial Government was furnished to the person commencing the proceedings.]

COMMISSIONERS.

Reference to Commissioners.

19. (1) If any question arises in any proceedings under this Act as to the liability of any person to pay compensation (including any question as to whether a person injured is or is not a workman) or as to the amount or duration of compensation (including any question as to the nature or extent of disablement), the question shall, in default of agreement, be settled by [a][a Commissioner.]

Section 19 — Note 1

[1] The scheme of the Workmen's Compensation Act clearly shows that the matters which are set out in S. 19 of the Act are to be decided by the commissioner judicially and while deciding them he is performing judicial functions. He derives his authority from a statute passed by a competent authority and in exercising his jurisdiction he has the sanction of the law behind him. The commissioner acts as a Court and is a Court, and not a persona designata. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 65 (67 to 70) : 20 Pat 373 (FB).

[c][(2) Where more than one Commissioner has been appointed for any local area, the [a][Provincial Government] may, by general or special order, regulate the distribution of business between them.]

[c][(3)] Any Commissioner may, for the purpose of deciding any matter referred to him for decision under this Act, choose one or more persons possessing special knowledge of any matter relevant to the matter under inquiry to assist him in holding the inquiry.

[c][(4)] Every Commissioner shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Provided that, where the workman is the master of a [b][*] ship or a seaman, any such matter may be done by or before [a][a Commissioner] for the local area in which the owner or agent of the ship resides or carries on business.

(2) If a Commissioner is satisfied [c][that any matter arising out of any proceedings pending before him] can be more conveniently dealt with by any other Commissioner, whether in the same Province or not, he may, subject to rules made under this Act, order such matter to be transferred to such other Commissioner either for report or for disposal, and, if he does so, shall forthwith transmit to such other Commissioner all documents relevant for the decision of such matter and, where the matter is transferred for disposal, shall also transmit in the prescribed manner any money remaining in his hands or invested by him for the benefit of any party to the proceedings :

Sections 24A and 24B.

Bengal.

After section 24, the following sections shall be inserted namely:—

Reference of disputed medical questions to a medical referee.

"24A. (1) If any question arises in any proceedings under this Act pending before the Commissioner as to—

(a) the nature and extent of the permanent disablement of a workman, or

(b) the duration of his temporary disablement, or

(c) whether the incapacity of a workman is due to personal injury by accident, or

(d) whether a workman has contracted any occupational disease specified in Schedule III, the question shall, in default of agreement, on the joint application of both parties or on the application of either party in the prescribed manner, and on payment in the prescribed manner by the parties, or the party making the application, as the case may be, of the prescribed fees and expenses, be referred by the Commissioner to a medical referee appointed by him in his discretion from amongst the medical practitioners included in the list prepared under section 24B :

Provided that where an application is made by only one of the parties, if the Commissioner is of the opinion that the question is one which ought not on account of the exceptional difficulty of the case or for any other sufficient reason be referred to a medical referee, he may after recording his reasons in writing reject the application :

[2] It is clear from Ss. 23 to 30A that the Commissioner acts judicially and for several purposes he has all the powers of a Civil Court. The Commissioner is a Court subordinate to the High Court. A revision is competent under S. 115, Civil P. C. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 855 (855) (DB).

[3] Commissioner does not possess any inherent power under S. 151, Civil P. C. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 657 (658) (DB).

[4] It is not desirable thing for the Commissioner to order parties, in local inspection to re-enact scene just before accident, to decide whether the machine was in motion or not at time of accident. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 774 (774) (DB),

[5] Rules framed under Act do not preclude Commissioner from framing issues which legitimately arise in the case even if written statement does not specifically raise them. (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 508 (511) : 8 Pat 24 (DB).

[7] A Commissioner has no power to review but if he orders compensation an appeal lies under S. 30 (1) (a). (Vol 22) 1935 All 408 (409).

[8] In proceeding under Act, Commissioner cannot dismiss claim for compensation summarily on the basis of letter written by the Surgeon to the effect that claimant was not entitled to compensation. Surgeon's report is not admissible in such cases unless the Surgeon himself comes to prove it. (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 532 (532, 533) (DB).

[9] High Court can interfere with decision of Commissioner in compensation case only when it considers decision to be wrong in law. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 270 (272).

[10] Failure of Commissioner to consider whether particular person has status of any persons referred to in S. 2 (1) (d)—High Court can interfere in revision. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 33 (34) : 21 Pat 173.

[1] Words "other person" in S. 24 indicate formal appearance on behalf of persons claiming. (Vol 22) 1935 All 408 (410).

the medical examination by or under the personal direction of the medical referee the workman's right to compensation under this Act and his right to continue any proceedings under this Act shall be suspended until such examination has taken place.

(4) In any proceedings under this Act in which evidence is recorded, the report of the medical referee shall as between the parties to the proceedings be conclusive proof of the facts related therein within the meaning of section 4 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872:

Provided that such report shall not so be regarded as conclusive proof of the facts related therein if in the particular proceedings the Commissioner, either of his own motion or on application being made to him by either party, for reasons to be recorded by him in writing, deems it expedient in the interests of justice to allow the parties to adduce further evidence on such facts.

—Beng. Act VI of 1942, S. 4. [19-11-1942.]

25. The Commissioner shall make a brief memorandum of the substance of the evidence of every witness as the examination of the witness proceeds, and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Commissioner with his own hand and shall form part of the record:

Method of recording evidence.

Provided that, if the Commissioner is prevented from making such memorandum, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so and shall cause such memorandum to be made in writing from his dictation and shall sign the same, and such memorandum shall form part of the record:

Provided further that the evidence of any medical witness shall be taken down as nearly as may be word for word.

26. All costs, incidental to any proceedings before a Commissioner, shall, subject to rules made under this Act, be in the discretion of the Commissioner.

28. (1) Where the amount of any lump sum payable as compensation has been settled by agreement, whether by way of redemption of a half-monthly payment or otherwise, or where any compensation has been so settled as being payable [a][to a woman or a person under a legal disability] [b][* * * *] a memorandum thereof shall be sent by the employer to the Commissioner, who shall, on being satisfied as to its genuineness, record the memorandum in a register in the prescribed manner:

Registration of agreements.

Provided that—

(a) no such memorandum shall be recorded before seven days after communication by the Commissioner of notice to the parties concerned;

[c][* * * * * * *]

(c) the Commissioner may at any time rectify the register;

Section 25 — Note 1

[1] Section 25 precludes reception of report from any person as evidence. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 608 (608, 609): I L R (1944) Mad 301 (DB).

[2] The joint effect of R. 20 of rules framed under the Act in 1924 and S. 25 is that before proceeding with the matter of an application, the Commissioner must first of all, either by himself or officer authorized by Local Government, take evidence from the applicant to ascertain whether there is prima facie case. Medical certificates are not of themselves admissible in evidence. They should be proved by calling person giving certificate. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 697 (699, 700): I L R (1937) 2 Cal 714 (DB).

[3] Duty of Commissioner to hear evidence himself and decide dispute — Power cannot be delegated. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 453 (454, 455): 21 Pat 218 (DB).

[4] The Commissioner is constituted the tribunal under the Act to hear and determine the cases in the manner provided by the Act, and he is bound to do so and to follow the terms of the Act. If the Commissioner fails to comply with the mandatory provisions of the Act and hears no evidence but only considers a report submitted by his subordinate or statements not taken on oath, there is no hearing of the case in the judicial sense and the order passed in such proceedings cannot be sustained. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 453 (454, 455): 21 Pat 218 (DB).

[5] A Commissioner for Workmen's Compensation has no power either under the Workmen's Compensation Act or under the rules made under it, to direct a Revenue Divisional Officer or any one to make a local inspection or to make a report after local inspection, The Commissioner may himself make a local inspection, if one has to be made, as provided by Rr. 32 and 33. Section 25 of the Act precludes the reception of a report from any person as evidence in the case. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 608 (608, 609): I L R (1944) Mad 301.

[1] Question whether fatal accident arose out of and in the course of employment is for the commissioner to decide. It is not one which High Court can be called upon to decide or is entitled to decide. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 173 (174) (SB).

Section 28 — Note 1

[1] Section 28 refers primarily to cases where parties have arrived at agreement prior to hearing before Court. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 68 (69) (DB).

[2] Commissioner has power in contested proceedings before him to pass any order or decree by consent and appeal from such decree or order does not lie to High Court. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 68 (69) (DB).

(d) where it appears to the Commissioner that an agreement as to the payment of a lump sum whether by way of redemption of a half-monthly payment or otherwise, or an agreement as to the amount of compensation payable [d][to a woman or a person under a legal disability] [e][* * *] ought not to be registered by reason of the inadequacy of the sum or amount, or by reason of the agreement having been obtained by fraud or undue influence or other improper means, he may refuse to record the memorandum of the agreement [f][and may make such order] including an order as to any sum already paid under the agreement, as he thinks just in the circumstances.

(2) An agreement for the payment of compensation which has been registered under sub-section (1) shall be enforceable under this Act notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, or in any other law for the time being in force.

[a] Substituted by the Workmen's Compensation (Amendment) Act, 1929 (V [5] of 1929), S. 6, for "to a person under a legal disability". [b] The words "or to a dependant" were repealed by the Repealing and Amending Act, 1924 (7 [VII] of 1924), S. 3 and Sch. II. [c] Clause (b) was repealed by Act 5 of 1929, S. 6. [d] Substituted, ibid, for "to a person under any legal disability." [e] The words "or to any dependant" were repealed by the Repealing and Amending Act, 1924 (VII [7] of 1924), S. 3 and Sch. II. [f] Substituted by S. 2 and Sch. I, ibid, for "or may make such order".

Effect of failure to register agreement.

29. Where a memorandum of any agreement the registration of which is required by section 28, is not sent to the Commissioner as required by that section, the employer shall be liable to pay the full amount of compensation which he is liable to pay under the provisions of this Act, and notwithstanding anything contained in the proviso to sub-section (1) of section 4, shall not, unless the Commissioner otherwise directs be entitled to deduct more than half of any amount paid to the workman by way of compensation whether under the agreement or otherwise.

Appeals.

30. (1) An appeal shall lie to the High Court from the following orders of a Commissioner, namely:—

(a) an order awarding as compensation a lump sum whether by way of redemption of a half-monthly payment or otherwise or disallowing a claim in full or in part for a lump sum;

(b) an order refusing to allow redemption of a half monthly payment;

(c) an order providing for the distribution of compensation among the dependants of a deceased workman, or disallowing any claim of a person alleging himself to be such dependant;

(d) an order allowing or disallowing any claim for the amount of an indemnity under the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 12; or

(e) an order refusing to register a memorandum of agreement or registering the same or providing for the registration of the same subject to conditions :

SECTION 30 — SYNOPSIS

1. Powers of the High Court.
2. Question of law.
3. Findings of fact.
4. When appeal maintainable.
5. Plea.
6. Court-fee.
7. Proviso.

1. Powers of the High Court.—[1] The question whether an employment is of a casual nature is one of evidence. The High Court will interfere with the decision of the Commissioner only if the statement of law by him or its application to the facts is obviously wrong. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 270 (271, 272) (DB).

[2] In appeal under S. 30 if substantial question of law arises, High Court can consider case as whole on facts as well as law. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 288 (289) : 32 Sind L R 32 (DB).

[3] The High Court is not entitled to interfere with the findings of fact arrived at by the Commissioner for Workmen's Compensation except on a substantial question of law, and that includes a finding of fact which is not based upon evidence. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 169 (169) (DB).

[4] Even if an appeal under the Act has been admitted under S. 30 (a) on substantial question of law, it is open to High Court to remand case to the Commissioner to pass his order on record of admissible evidence or to form its own opinion on facts. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 126 (128) : 31 Sind L R 71 (DB).

[5] No authority is conferred on any Government officer to direct the Commissioner to reverse his decision. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 1 (3) : 7 Rang 660 (SB).

[6] Question whether fatal accident arose out of and in the course of employment is question for Commissioner and it is not one which High Court is called upon or entitled to determine. (Vol 22)1935 Rang 173 (174) (SB).

[7] The question whether the facts found by the Commissioner constitute reasonable cause for failure of the injured workman to give notice of accident within statutory period is a question of law and is open to review by the High Court. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 197 (199) (D B).

[8] When an order of direction is made by a Commissioner for a stay or for the retaining of the money in Court pending an appeal, an application shall be made by the appellant to the High Court within one month, asking for expedition of the appeal and also for the giving of any directions which the High Court may seem fit to give with regard to the maintenance of the dependants in the meantime. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 110 (112) : I L R (1945) Bom 871 (D B).

Provided that no appeal shall lie against any order unless a substantial question of law is involved in the appeal and in the case of an order other than an order such as is referred to in clause (b), unless the amount in dispute in the appeal is not less than three hundred rupees :

Provided, further, that no appeal shall lie in any case in which the parties have agreed to abide by the decision of the Commissioner, or in which the order of the Commissioner gives effect to an agreement come to by the parties :

[a][Provided further that no appeal by an employer under clause (a) shall lie unless the memorandum of appeal is accompanied by a certificate by the Commissioner to the effect that the appellant has deposited with him the amount payable under the order appealed against.]

(2) The period of limitation for an appeal under this section shall be sixty days.

(3) The provisions of section 5 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1908, shall be applicable to appeals under this section.

[9] The High Court has power to interfere only with such findings of fact as may be necessary for determination of the question of law involved. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 52 (54) : I L R (1943) Lah 813 (DB).

2. Question of law. — [1] The question whether the facts found by the Commissioner constitute reasonable cause for failure of the injured workman to give notice of accident within statutory period is a question of law and is open to review by the High Court. (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 197 (199) (D B).

[2] Although facts must be found by first tribunal, question whether such facts constitute reasonable cause for delay is matter of law. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 307 (308) (D B).

[3] Whether there is sufficient cause for extension of limitation to enable application under S. 10 to be heard on merits is substantial question of law. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 227 (227) ✠ (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 175 (176): 9 Rang 118 (D B).

[4] Where, in appeal under the Act, the question involved is, whether claimant is entitled to compensation for loss of left arm below elbow when evidence shows that he has suffered loss only of index and middle finger—Appeal involves substantial question of law. (Vol 26) 1939 All 29 (31) : I L R (1939) All 1.

[5] Where finding is based upon no evidence, substantial question of law arises. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 774 (775) (D B).

[6] Where claim has been disallowed in full, claimant is entitled to appeal under S. 30 (1) (a) and appeal involves substantial question of law. (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 106 (107) : I L R (1939) Nag 460.

[7] Whether there was any evidence before Commissioner on which he could properly be satisfied that there was sufficient cause for not giving notice in proper time is question of law. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 296 (297) (D B).

[8] Whether finding by Commissioner that there was no evidence on which he could base finding that accident occurred out of employment, is right is question of law. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 175 (176) : I L R (1942) Bom 225 (D B).

[2] Finding as to 'wilful disobedience' is a finding of fact. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 58 (59) (DB).

[3] Findings of fact by Commissioner—High Court when can interfere. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 169 (169) (DB).

[4] There is no question of law in finding by Commissioner that deceased workman worked for certain number of days only. (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 49 (51) : 24 Sind L R 199 (DB).

[5] Whether two parties have agreed or not to certain decree is not in general question of law. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 68 (69) (DB).

(6) Question whether petitioner claiming compensation is or is not widow of deceased workman is question of fact and Commissioner's finding is final. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 52 (54) : I L R (1943) Lah 813 (DB).

[7] The finding that workman lost sight by a particle of dust entering his eye is a finding of fact that cannot be challenged. (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 272 (273).

[8] Where there is any evidence to support the finding of the Commissioner, that the employement is, or is not, casual, then the finding must be treated as a finding of fact, and is not subject to appeal. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 199 (200) : 60 Bom 701 (DB).

4. When appeal maintainable.—[1] Section 30 allows an appeal from the order of the Commissioner when any substantial question of law is involved. The wording is not happy. It leaves a loophole for argument that if a substantial question of law is involved in the appeal, an appeal would lie not only on a question of law but also on facts. (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 508 (509) : 8 Pat 24 (DB).

[See also (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 272 (273).]

[2] But where legality of procedure followed by Commissioner is challenged, appeal is maintainable under S. 30. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 697 (702) : I L R (1937) 2 Cal 714 (DB).

[3] When a claim has been disallowed in full claimant is entitled to appeal under S. 30 (1) (a). (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 106 (107) : I L R (1939) Nag 460.

[4] Order awarding compensation is appealable under S. 30 (1) (a). (Vol 22) 1935 All 408 (409).

[5] Except as provided by S. 30 no appeal lies from orders of Commissioners. Financial Commissioners or other officer cannot direct Commissioner to reverse his decision. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 1 (3) : 7 Rang 660 (SB).

[6] Where the Commissioner rejects a claim for compensation on the ground of limitation under S. 10 (1) of the Workmen's Compensation Act after condoning the delay in making the claim, without giving any decision on the merits, the order is illegal. But the remedy of the applicant is to appeal to the High Court under S. 30, and not to file a suit for damages and for compensation. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 116 (117).

[7] Where compensation is awarded to two workmen, to one of whom it is more than Rs. 300 and to other less and employer appeals against such award the Court must treat each of these cases as separate cases and appeal in case of workman awarded less than Rs. 300 is not competent. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 181 (182) : 17 Pat 658 (DB).

Withholding of certain payments pending decision of appeal.

[a][30A. Where an employer makes an appeal under clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 30, the Commissioner may, and if so directed by the High Court shall, pending the decision of the appeal, withhold payment of any sum in deposit with him.]

Recovery.

31. The Commissioner may recover as an arrear of land-revenue any amount payable by any person under this Act, whether under an agreement for the payment of compensation or otherwise, and the Commissioner shall be deemed to be a public officer within the meaning of section 5 of the Revenue Recovery Act, 1890.

Section 31A.
Bengal.

PROVINCIAL AMENDMENT.

After section 31, the following section shall be inserted namely:—

'31A. (1) The provisions of section 36 of the Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, shall subject to the provisions of this section, be applicable, so far as may be, to the framing and publication of a list of touts, to the exclusion of touts included in the list from the precincts of the Court of the Commissioner and to the arrest, detention, trial and punishment of such touts.

Application of section 36 of Act XVIII [18] of 1879 to touts in office of the Commissioner.

(2) A Commissioner shall, for the purposes of the said section 36, be deemed to be an authority referred to in sub-section (1) of that section.

(3) For the purposes of this section 'tout' means—

(a) a 'tout' as defined in clause (a) of section 3 of the Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, or

(b) a person who habitually frequents the precincts of the Court of a Commissioner—

(i) for the purpose of procuring work as an agent under section 24, or

(ii) otherwise than as a party to or a witness in any proceedings before the Commissioner or as a bona fide agent appointed under section 24."

Beng. Act V of 1942, S. 12.

RULES.

Power of the Provincial Government to make rules.

32. (1) The [a][Provincial Government] may make rules[b] to carry out the purposes of this Act.

[8] Order of Commissioner giving effect to agreement between parties—Appeal not competent. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 6 (6) : 30 Sind L R 351 (DB).

5. Plea.—[1] In a case the Commissioner had recourse to services of the medical expert whom he had called to assist in the adjudication. Appellant's Pleader not only did not raise any objection to what took place but actually acquiesced in procedure adopted by the Commissioner : Held it was not open to applicant in appeal to raise objection. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 697 (702) : I L R (1937) 2 Cal 714 (DB).

6. Court-fee.—[1] In an appeal under S. 30, against an order of the Commissioner awarding compensation court-fee payable is that fixed by Art. 11, Sch. II, Court fees Act. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 83 (83,84): 19 Luck 460.

7. Proviso.—[1] The proper interpretation to be put upon the proviso to S. 30, is to limit the power of the High Court in appeal to interfere only in such findings of fact as may be necessary for the determination of the questions of law involved. Where the question of fact is wholly independent of any question of law, the High Court is bound by the finding of fact arrived at by the Commissioner. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 52 (54) : I L R (1943) Lah 813 (DB) & (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 273 (275, 276) : 27 Sind L R 377 (DB). (Obiter.— Proper interpretation to be put on proviso to S. 30 is to limit power of Court to interfere only with such findings of fact as depend on questions of law.)

[2] The object of the proviso to S. 30, is clearly that in the cases involving relief to the dependants of persons in a humble station of life there should be a quick and final decision and that the compensation arising under the Act from the death of the supporter of poor dependants should be quickly available to supply such dependants with the necessities of daily life (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 110 (112) : ILR (1945) Bom 871 (DB).

Section 30A — Note 1

[1] The discretion vested in the Commissioner by S. 30A, to withhold the payment of money pending the appeal ought to be properly exercised having regard to all the circumstances of the case. In particular, a matter of primary importance is for the Commissioner to be satisfied that there is some substantial question of law involved on which alone the right to appeal is given. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 110 (112) : I L R (1945) Bom 871 (DB).

Section 31 — Note 1

[1] Section 31 contemplates that Commissioner shall himself recover arrears and for that purpose, is Public Officer within S 5, Revenue Recovery Act, 1890, He is civil Court only for limited purposes set out in S. 23. (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 6 (7): 30 Sind L R 351 (DB).

Section 32 — Note 1

[1] Commissioner appointed under the Act has no power to issue a Commission for the examination of witnesses. (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 221 (223) (DB).

[2] There is nothing in Act or rules which entitles Commissioner to direct anyone to make local inspection or make report after local inspection. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 608 (608) : ILR (1944) Mad 301.

[3] Where Commissioner does not reduce result of examination to writing R. 24 (2) omission is substantial error in procedure. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 70 (74) : 1938 Rang L R 641 (DB).

[4] Commissioner's failure to comply with rules referred to in S. 26 of Act is no ground for ordering re-trial unless there has been failure of justice. (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 273 (275) : 27 Sind L R 377 (DB).

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for all or any of the following matters, namely:—

(a) for prescribing the intervals at which and the conditions subject to which an application for review may be made under section 6 when not accompanied by a medical certificate;

(b) for prescribing the intervals at which and the conditions subject to which a workman may be required to submit himself for medical examination under sub-section (1) of section 11;

(c) for prescribing the procedure to be followed by Commissioners in the disposal of cases under this Act and by the parties in such cases;

(d) for regulating the transfer of matters and cases from one Commissioner to another and the transfer of money in such cases;

(e) for prescribing the manner in which money in the hands of a Commissioner may be invested for the benefit of dependants of a deceased workman and for the transfer of money so invested from one Commissioner to another;

(f) for the representation in proceeding before Commissioners of parties who are minors or are unable to make an appearance;

(g) for prescribing the form and manner in which memoranda of agreements shall be presented and registered;

(h) for the withholding by Commissioners, whether in whole or in part of half-monthly payments pending decision on applications for review of the same; [c][*]

[c][* * * * * *]

[c][(i) for regulating the scales of costs which may be allowed in proceedings under this Act;

(j) for prescribing and determining the amount of the fees payable in respect of any proceedings before a Commissioner under this Act;

(k) for the maintenance by Commissioners of registers and records of proceedings before them;

(l) for prescribing the classes of employers who shall maintain notice-books under sub-section (3) of section 10, and the form of such notice-books;

(m) for prescribing the form of statement to be submitted by employers under section 10A; and

(n) for prescribing the cases in which the report referred to in section 10B may be sent to an authority other than the Commissioner].

[a] Substituted by A. O. for "Governor-General in Council." [b] For the Workmen's Compensation Rules, 1924 see, General Statutory Rules and Orders, Vol V, page 262. [c] The word " and " at the end of cl. (h) and the original cl. (i) were repealed and the new cls. (i) to (n), which were the same as cls. (a) to (f) of S. 33, were inserted by A. O.

PROVINCIAL AMENDMENT.

BENGAL.

After clause (f) of sub-section (2) of section 32, the following clauses shall be inserted namely :—

"(ff) for prescribing the procedure relating to the reference of medical questions to medical referees under sub-section (1) of section 24A;

(ff-1) for regulating the procedure relating to the medical examination of a workman by or under the personal direction of a medical referee and the submission of the report of such medical referee, under sub-section (2) of section 24A;

(ff 2) for prescribing and determining the fees and expenses payable in connection with references of medical questions to medical referees under sub-section (1) of section 24A;"

—Bengal Act VI of 1942, S. 5. [19-11-1942.]

33. [Power of Local Government to make rules.] Repealed by A. O.

Section 32 — Note 1 (contd.)

[5] The joint effect of R. 20 and S. 25 is that before proceeding with the matter of an application, the Commissioner must first of all either by himself or by some officer authorised by the Local Government to take evidence from the applicant in order to ascertain whether there is a prima facie case for the employees to answer. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 697 (699, 700) : I L R (1937) 2 Cal 714 (DB).

[6] It has been laid down in England that medical certificates are not of themselves admissible in evidence. If the workman on his side and the employers on their side desire to put medical testimony before the Court they must do so by calling medical witnesses. There is irregularity of procedure in that the learned Commissioner allowed himself to be influenced into thinking that there was a prima facie case by the fact that there was a doctor's certificate. That certificate ought to have been disregarded altogether and the commissioner should have proceeded as directed by R. 20. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 697 (700) : ILR (1937) 2 Cal 714 (DB).

List of persons who, subject to the provisions of section 2 (1) (n), are included in the definition of workmen.

Sch. II — General — Note 1

[1] Schedule II does not limit the scope of the definition given in S. 2 (1) (n) but it merely illustrates it. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 311 (314) : ILR (1937) Nag 88.

[2] Word 'employment' has a two-fold meaning : It may mean (1) engagement, that is contract of service, or (2) work in course of employment. It is in the latter sense that the word appears to have been used in the list of persons described in Sch. II. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 91 (93).

[3] Material qualification of a person to be a "workman" is that he must be employed in premises wherein on any one day in the preceding 12 months, ten or more persons have been employed and that those other persons must be workmen employed like him on contract service. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 52 (56) : I L R (1943) Lah 813 (DB).

Sch. II cl. (i) — Note 1

[1] Conductor of motor omnibus, held "workman." (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 485 (486) : I L R (1938) Mad 636 (DB).

Sch. II, cl. (ii) — Note 1

[1] A person in regular employment paid by the day is a workman. Section 2 (1) (n) must be read with Sch. 2 (ii). The qualification in the latter regarding number of persons in the premises governs the whole of Sch. 2 (ii) Other "persons" must be "workmen" employed like the workman in question on a contract of service. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 52 (55, 56) : I L R (1943) Lah 813 (D B).

[2] The word employed in cl (ii) is tautologous. It means employed on a contract of service and not 'engaged in' and if his qualification is dependent on his employment with other workmen, they must also be employed on a contract of service. (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 185 (186, 187) : I L R (1940) Kar 370 (DB).

[3] Ginning and pressing cotton is a manufacturing process within Factories Act and a person employed in it is a 'workman.' (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 311 (314) : I L R (1937) Nag 88 (DB).

Sch. II, cl. (iii)—Note 1

[1] Workman claiming compensation under S. 2 (1) (n) and Sch. 2, cl. (iii) — It is not necessary for him to show that the number of persons employed is fifty or more in the whole business or the factory concerned. But he must show that this number should be employed in the premises or within the 'precincts.' (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 855 (856).

[2] If whole process of work on which or part of which workman is employed comes within description of "adapting goods for transport or sale" workman falls within schedule, Sch. II, cl. (iii), although it may not be shown that he himself actually took part in that portion of process which involves any physical work on or alteration of article in question. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 171 (172) : I L R (1938) Bom 145 (DB).

(vi) employed as the master or as a seaman of :

(a) any ship which is propelled wholly or in part by steam or other mechanical power or by elertricity or which is towed or intended to be towed by a ship so propelled, or

(b) any ship not included in sub-clause (a) of fifty tons net tonnage or over ; or

(vii) employed for the purpose of loading, unloading, fuelling, constructing, repairing, demolishing, cleaning or painting any ship of which he is not the master or a member of the crew, or in the handling or transport within the limits of any port subject to the Indian Ports Act, 1908, of goods which have been discharged from or are to be loaded into any vessel ; or

(viii) employed in the construction, repair or demolition of :

(a) any building which is designed to be or is or has been more than one storey in height above the ground or twenty feet or more from the ground level to the apex of the roof ; or

(b) any dam or embankment which is twenty feet or more in height from its lowest to its highest point ; or

(c) any road, bridge, or tunnel ; or

(d) any wharf, quay, sea-wall or other marine work including any moorings of ships ; or

(ix) employed in setting up, repairing, maintaining, or taking down any telegraph or telephone line or post or any overhead electric line or cable or post or standard for the same ; or

(x) employed, otherwise than in a clerical capacity, in the construction, working, repair or demolition of any aerial ropeway, canal pipe-line, or sewer ; or

(xi) employed in the service of any fire brigade ; or

(xii) employed upon a railway as defined in clause (4) of section 3, and sub-section (1) of section 148 of Indian Railways Act, 1890, either directly or through a sub-contractor, by a person fulfilling a contract with the railway administration ; or

(xiii) employed as an inspector, mail guard, sorter or van peon in the Railway Mail Service, or employed in any occupation ordinarily involving outdoor work in the Indian Posts and Telegraphs Department ; or

(xiv) employed, otherwise than in a clerical capacity, in connection with operations for winning natural petroleum or naturul gas ; or

Sch II, cl. (vii)—Note 1

[1] Work of loading does not begin until there is collaboration between cargo owners' servants in charge of cargo on shore and ship's crew or stevedores employed in their place are ready on board ship to receive goods as they come over the ship's rail and stow them in hold. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 698 (701):52 Mad 747 (FB).

[2] Protection under the Act is meant for the workmen actually engaged in the process of handling the bales, so as to transfer them from the wharf to the hold of a ship. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 44 (45):54 Bom 114 (DB).

[3] The words "for the purpose of loading" do not amount to more than "in loading." (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 698 (701) : 52 Mad 747 (SB).

[4] Workman was employed in godown quarter of a mile from wharf. His duty was to take goods out of slings of crane in godown, hand them over to cart-man, who would take them to quay and hand over to stevedores: Held workman was not employed for loading of ship. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 698 (701) : 52 Mad 747 (SB).

Sch. II, cl. (x)—Note 1

[1] Where a person is employed for purpose of employer's business otherwise than in a clerical capacity in the construction, working or repair of a pipe line, the mere fact that he was officiating in a leave vacancy would not take him out of the definition of workman. (Vol 23) 1936 All 690 (691) : I L R (1937) All 15 (DB).

[2] Court has to give a wider than a narrower interpretation to the expression to "working of pipe line" used in cl. (x), Sch. II. The test is whether when a man meets with an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, he was in the position in which he was when the accident occurred because of work specified in the schedule. Where in order to test pressure of water in the main for 24 hours, to work pipe line efficiently, the Municipality fixed a recording instrument to a pipe to test the pressure and some coolies were employed to guard the instrument during night: Held (Per Beaumont C. J. and Sen J., Norman J., contra) that coolies came within the expression "working a pipe line" and consequently were workmen within Act. Sch. II, cl. (xii) — Note 1

[1] Workman employed in hand-dug well may fall under cl. (xii), but whether he falls within that clause is to be determined by the proper authority and not by High Court. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 418 (418):11 Rang 404 (S B).

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Clause 2. — Owing to the altered procedure which we, propose for adoption in Part II, the maximum period, which may elapse between the publication of the preliminary notice of a declaration to impose restrictions and the issue of the subsequent notice calling for the presentation of claims to compensation, will, in ordinary cases, amount to eighteen months, and this period may, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, be extended to three years. The actual proceedings in assessment up to the making of the award may not impossibly, at any rate in complicated cases, occupy a further period of a year, in these circumstances, houses and other constructions, which will be affected by the restrictions imposed under clause 7, may, unless the owner is given facilities for keeping them in repair, fall into ruin long before the investigation for purposes of assessment is completed, with the result that the difficulty of proving the actual amount of damage occasioned by proceedings under the Bill will be greatly enhanced. Even where the emergent powers conferred by clause 6, sub-clause (3), are exercised, a period of several months, during which the condition more especially of small and unsubstantial structures may be seriously altered by rain, may easily elapse before demolition commences; and, in these cases the report of the demolishing officer with respect to the buildings demolished by him is not unlikely, from the necessity of the case, to be most tangible evidence to which the parties can afterwards appeal. We think it desirable, therefore, to define the expression "maintained" for the purposes of clauses 6 and 7, in such a manner as to leave unaffected the liberty to repair buildings and other constructions during the interval from the publication of the preliminary notice to the making of the award or, in case of emergency, to demolition in anticipation of the award." — S. C. R.

(i) the following persons shall be deemed "entitled to act" as and to the extent hereinafter provided, that is to say,— trustees for other persons beneficially interested shall be deemed the persons entitled to act with reference to any case, and that to the same extent as the persons beneficially interested could have acted if free from disability:

a married woman, in cases to which the English law is applicable, shall be deemed the person so entitled to act, and, whether of full age or not, to the same extent as if she were unmarried and of full age; and the guardians of minors and the committees or managers of lunatics or idiots shall be deemed respectively the persons so entitled to act, to the same extent as the minors, lunatics or idiots themselves, if free from disability, could have acted:

Provided that—

(i) no person shall be deemed "entitled to act" whose interest in the subject matter is shown to the satisfaction of the Collector or Court to be adverse to the interest of the person interested for whom he would otherwise be entitled to act;

(ii) in every case the person interested may appear by a next friend or, in default of his appearance by a next friend, the Collector or Court, as the case may be, shall appoint a guardian for the case to act on his behalf in the conduct thereof;

(iii) the provisions of Chapter XXXI of the Code of Civil Procedure[a] shall, mutatis mutandis, apply in the case of persons interested appearing before a Collector or Court by a next friend, or by a guardian for the case, in proceedings under this Act; and

(iv) no person "entitled to act" shall be competent to receive the compensation-money payable to the person for whom he is entitled to act, unless he would have been competent to alienate the land upon the use and enjoyment of which restrictions are to be imposed and receive and give a good discharge for the purchase-money on a voluntary sale.

PART II.

IMPOSITION OF RESTRICTIONS.

Declaration and notice that restrictions will be imposed.

3. (1) Whenever it appears to the [a][Central Government] that it is necessary to impose restrictions upon the use and enjoyment of land in the vicinity of any work of defence or of any site intended to be used or to be acquired for any such work, in order that such land may be kept free from buildings and other obstructions, a declaration shall be made to that effect under the signature of a Secretary to such Government or of some officer duly authorised to certify its orders.

(2) The said declaration shall be published in the [b][Official Gazette] and shall state the district or other territorial division in which the land is situate and the place where a sketch plan of the land, which shall be prepared on a scale not smaller than six inches to the mile and shall distinguish the boundaries referred to in section 7, may be inspected; and the Collector shall cause public notice of the substance of the said declaration to be given at convenient places in the locality.

(3) The said declaration shall be conclusive proof that it is necessary to keep the land free from buildings and other obstructions.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Clause 3.—To prevent the recurrence of misconception, we have sought to render it clear that the initial declaration under this clause need only be accompanied by a "sketchplan", illustrating, by way of general notice to the public, the outline of the zones within which all or any of the restrictions specified in clause 7 will attach. The "detailed plan" referred to in clause 8 is a separate document which is required for the purposes of minute and detailed attachment of compensation and for the preparation of which the initial declaration cannot be postponed."

Power to do preliminary acts after publication of notice under section 3, sub-section (2).

4. It shall be lawful for such officer as the [a][Central Government] may, by general or special order, authorise in this behalf, and for his servants and workmen, at any time after publication of the notice mentioned in section 3, sub-section (2), to enter upon and survey and take levels of any land in such locality, to dig or bore into the sub-soil, to do all other acts necessary to ascertain whether any and, if so, what restrictions should be imposed on the use and enjoyment of the land, to set out the boundaries of the land upon the use and enjoyment of which restrictions are to be imposed, or of any part of such land, to mark such levels, boundaries and line by placing marks and cutting trenches, and, where otherwise the survey cannot be completed and the levels taken and the boundaries and line marked, to cut down and clear away any part of any standing crop, fence or jungle:

Provided that no person shall enter into any building or upon any enclosed court or garden attached to a dwelling-house (unless with the consent of the occupier thereof) without previously giving such occupier at least seven days' notice in writing of his intention to do so.

[a] Substituted by A. O. for "Local Government".

Payment for damage.

5. The officer so authorised shall at the time of such entry pay or tender payment for all necessary damage to be done as aforesaid, and, in case of dispute as to the sufficiency of the amount so paid or tendered, he shall at once refer the dispute to the decision of the Collector or other chief revenue-officer of the district, and such decision shall be final.

Further powers exercisable after publication of notice under section 3, sub-section (2).

6. (1) Whenever a declaration has been made and public notice thereof has been given under section 3, it shall, subject to the provisions of sub-sections (2) to (4), be lawful for such officer as the [a][Central Government] may, by general or special order, authorise in this behalf, and for his servants and workmen, to enter and demolish any buildings or other constructions on the surface, to cut down or grub up all or any of the trees, to remove or alter all or any of the banks, fences, hedges and ditches, to make underground and other drains, to fill up all excavations, and demolish all buildings and other constructions below the surface, and generally to level and clear the said land and do all such acts for levelling and clearing the same as he may deem necessary or proper, but in such manner nevertheless that evidence of the boundaries of the lands held by different owners may be preserved.

(2) The powers conferred by sub-section (1) shall not be exercised, —

(a) save as otherwise provided by sub-section (3), before the making of the award hereinafter referred to in section 12, nor

(b) save as otherwise provided by sub-section (4), after the expiration of six months from the making of the said award, or any shorter period on the expiration of which the officer exercising such powers gives notice to the Collector that there will be no further exercise of them.

(3) In case of emergency, the [a][Central Government] [b][* * *] may, by notification in the [c][Official Gazette], declare that all or any powers conferred by sub-section (1) may be exercised at any time within six months after the publication of the notice referred to in section 3, sub-section (2), and such powers may be exercised accordingly, and the said notification shall be conclusive proof of emergency.

(4) Nothing in sub-section (2) shall be deemed to preclude any such officer or his servants or workmen from exercising at any time the said powers for the purpose of removing, wholly or in part, any building or other obstruction maintained, created, added to, altered, planted, stacked, stored or otherwise accumulated in contravention of this Act or of any rule or order made thereunder or of any condition prescribed in accordance therewith.

[a] Substituted by A. O. for "Local Government". [b] The words "with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council" were repealed by A. O. [c] Substituted by A. O. for "local official Gazette".

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Clause 6.—The original Bill, following the lines of the Defence Act, 1860 (23 & 24 Vict., c. 112), section 34, purported, in all cases, to authorize the exercise of the powers of demolition conferred thereby after the expiration of fourteen days from the preliminary notice. On the other hand, it restricted to six months the period of three years during which, under the English Statute, acts in pursuance of those powers must be completed. One result of this abridgment of time was that the issue of the notice calling upon persons affected to present their claims for compensation was postponed until after the demolition was complete. We think that this procedure is, in several respects, capable of improvement. At the outset, we see no necessity, in ordinary cases, for exercising any power of demolition until after the Collector has completed his assessment and made his award. On the contrary, it will be difficult, if not impossible, to arrive at a really reliable estimate on the basis of statements relating to structures which have ceased to exist. In the case of emergency, the exigencies of defence in this country may render impracticable the delay of fourteen days, which, on the analogy of peace conditions in England, the original Bill would have rendered obligatory in all circumstances alike. We propose to recognize the distinction by enacting expressly that the acts of demolition, for the completion of which we would retain the very abridged period of six months, shall not commence until after the making of the award; and from this rule we would except only the case, not of mere urgency as contemplated by the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, section 17, but of actual emergency sufficiently grave to warrant a notification to which the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council is required. As an additional safeguard, we suggest that emergent powers, so notified, shall not be exercised after the expiration of a period of six months after the publication of the preliminary notice. Having thus narrowed down these powers to absolutely extreme cases, we consider it inexpedient to hamper the discretion of the officer exercising them by accepting a suggestion to enact a proviso directing, on the analogy of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, section 17, sub-section (1), that no building shall be entered or demolished without giving the occupier reasonably sufficient notice to enable him to remove his moveable property without unnecessary inconvenience. To give as much notice as appears reasonably practicable is always a convenience to all parties concerned; but we are reluctant to prescribe, for cases of emergency, a proviso, necessarily in general terms, which would only result in claims raising the difficult question of fact whether, in the particular circumstances, an hour or two longer might or might not have been allowed."

Restrictions.

7. From and after the publication of the notice mentioned in section 3, sub section (2), such of the following restrictions as the [a][Central Government] may in its discretion declare therein shall attach with reference to such land namely:—

(a) Within an outer boundary which, except so far as is otherwise provided in section 39, sub-section (4), may extend to a distance of two thousand yards from the crest of the outer parapet of the work,—

(i) no variation shall be made in the ground-level, and no building, wall, bank or other construction above the ground shall be maintained, erected, added to or altered otherwise than with the written approval of [b][General Officer Commanding the District], and on such conditions as he may prescribe;

(ii) no wood, earth stone, brick, gravel, sand or other material shall be stacked, stored or otherwise accumulated :

Provided that, with the written approval of the [c][General Officer Commanding the District] and on such conditions as he may prescribe, road-ballast, manure and agricultural produce may be exempted from the prohibition:

Provided also that any person having control of the land as owner, lessee or occupier shall be bound forthwith to remove such road-ballast, manure or agricultural produce, without compensation, on the requisition of the Commanding Officer;

(iii) no surveying operation shall be conducted otherwise than by or under the personal supervision of a public servant duly authorised in this behalf, in the case of land under the control of military authority, by the Commanding Officer and, in other cases, by the Collector with the concurrence of the Commanding Officer ; and

(iv) where any building, wall, bank or other construction above the ground has been permitted under clause (i) of this sub-section to be maintained, erected, added to or altered, repairs shall not, without the written approval of the [b][General Officer Commanding the District], be made with materials different in kind from those employed in the original building, wall. bank or other construction.

(b) Within a second boundary which may extend to a distance of one thousand yards from the crest of the outer parapet of the work, the restrictions enumerated in clause (a) shall apply with the following additional limitations, namely:—

(i) [d][no building, wall, bank or other construction of permanent materials above the ground shall be maintained otherwise than with the written approval of the General Officer Commanding the District and on such conditions as he may prescribe, and no such building, wall, bank or other construction shall be erected:]

Provided that, with the written approval of the [b][General Officer Commanding the District] and on such conditions as he may prescribe, huts, fences or other constructions of wood or other materials, easily destroyed or removed, may be maintained, erected, added to or altered :

Provided also that any person having control of the land as owner, lessee or occupier shall be bound forthwith to destroy or remove such huts, fences or other constructions, without compensation, upon an order in writing signed by the [c][General Officer Commanding the District] ; and

(ii) live hedges, rows or clumps of trees or orchards shall not be maintained, planted, added to or altered otherwise than with the written approval of the [b][General Officer Commanding the District] and on such conditions as he may prescribe.

(c) Within a third boundary which may extend to a distance of five hundred yards from the crest of the outer parapet of the work, the restrictions enumerated in clauses (a) and (b) shall apply with the following additional limitation, namely :—

no building or other construction on the surface, and no excavation, building or other construction below the surface, shall be maintained or erected :

Provided that, with the written approval of the Commanding Officer and on such conditions as he may prescribe, [e][a building or other construction on the surface may be maintained and] open railings and dry brush-wood fences may be exempted from this prohibition.

Land to be marked out measured, registered and planned.

8. As soon as may be after the publication of the declaration aforesaid, the Collector shall cause the land to be marked out and measured, and shall also prepare a register and a detailed plan, which shall be on a scale not smaller than six inches to the mile, showing accurately every building, tree and other obstruction.

Notice to persons interested.

9. (1) At any time before the expiration of—

(a) the period of eighteen months from the publication of the declaration referred to in section 3, or

(b) such other period not exceeding three years from the said publication as the [a][Central Government] [b][* * *] may, by notification in the [c][Official Gazette], direct in this behalf, the Collector shall cause public notice to be given at convenient places on or near the land, stating the effect of the said declaration and that claims to compensation for all interests in such land affected by anything done or ordered in pursuance of such declaration may be made to him :

Provided that, where anything has been done in exercise of the powers conferred, in case of emergency, by section 6, sub section (3), the notice prescribed by this section shall be given as soon as may be thereafter.

(2) Such notice shall state the particulars of any damage ordered to be done or, in the case referred to in section 6, sub-section (3), done in exercise of any of the powers conferred by the said section, and the particulars of any restrictions attaching to the land under section 7, and shall require all persons interested in the land to appear personally or by agent before the Collector at a time and place therein mentioned (such time not being earlier than fifteen days after the date of publication of the notice), and to state the nature of their respective interests in the land and the amount and particulars of their claims to compensation for damage to such interest and their objections (if any) to the measurements made under section 8. The Collector may in any case require such statement to be made in writing and signed by the party or his agent.

(3) The Collector shall also serve notice to the same effect on the occupier (if any) of such land and on all such persons known or believed to be interested therein, or to be entitled to act for persons so interested, as reside or have agents authorised to receive service on their behalf, within the revenue-district in which the land is situate.

(4) In case any person so interested resides elsewhere, and has no such agent, the notice shall be sent to him by post in a letter addressed to him at his last known residence, address or place of business.

Objects and Reasons.

"Clause 9.—Our proposal, as explained under clause 6, to postpone the exercise of powers of demolition, except in emergent cases, until after the award referred to in clause 11, removes the principal reason for fixing at six months the period after which the second notice calling for claims to compensation must issue. It is necessary to fix some definite period because clause 38 invests the Local Government with a power of withdrawal from the initial declaration and, if the survey, planning and valuing operations preliminary to the actual assessment are unduly prolonged, we apprehend that owners, whose property is transferred in the interim and who cannot, therefore, claim compensation, may suffer owing to the depreciated market-value. There seems to be a consensus of opinion that six months will often be insufficient for the purpose; but a period of three years over which the proceedings under the Statute may extend, will not usually be required; and we would, therefore, suggest eighteen months which, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, may be extended to three years. Where emergent powers are exercised under clause 6, sub-clause (3), any lapse of time after the demolition of a building increases the difficulty of proof of damage; and in such cases, therefore, we think it reasonable to impose upon the periods defined in sub clause (1) the further limitation that notice must be given as soon as may be after the exercise of any such power.

We have defined with greater distinctness, in sub-clause (2), the particulars to be contained in the second notice calling for claims. A precise statement of damage caused or to be caused under clause 6 will be necessary in view of the altered procedure by which the award will ordinarily precede such damage. A consequential amendment has been made in clause 13, sub-clause (1).

From sub-clause (4), the reference to registration under the Indian Post Office Act, 1898 (VI of 1898), has been omitted as sufficiently covered by the General Clauses Act, 1897 (X of 1897), section 27. A similar alteration will be found in the proviso to clause 31, sub-clause (3)."—S. C. R.

Power to require and enforce the making of statements as to names and interest.

10. The Collector may also require any such person to make or deliver to him, at a time and place mentioned (such time not being earlier than fifteen days after the date of the requisition), a statement containing so far as may be practicable, the name of every other person possessing any interest in the land or any part thereof as co-proprietor, sub-proprietor, mortgagee, tenant or otherwise, and of the nature of such interest, and of the rents and profits (if any) received or receivable on account thereof for three years next preceding the date of the statement.

Application of certain sections of the Indian Penal Code.

11. Every person required to make or deliver a statement under section 9 or section 10 shall be deemed to be legally bound to do so within the meaning of sections 175 and 176 of the Indian Penal Code.

Inquiry and award by Collector.

12. On the day fixed under section 9 or on any other day to which the inquiry has been adjourned, the Collector shall proceed to inquire into the objections (if any) which any person interested has stated pursuant to a notice given under the said section to the measurements made under section 8, and into the decrease in the value of the land and into the respective interests of the persons claiming the compensation, and shall make an award under his hand of—

(a) the true area of the land and the nature of the obstructions from which the land is to be kept free ;

(b) the compensation which in his opinion should be allowed for any damage caused or to be caused under section 6 and for any restrictions imposed under section 7; and

(c) the apportionment of the said compensation among all the persons known or believed to be interested in the land, of whom or of whose claims he has information, whether they have respectively appeared before him or not.

Award of Collector when to be final.

13. (1) Such award shall be filed in the Collector's office and shall, except as hereinafter provided, be final and conclusive evidence, as between the Collector and the persons interested, whether they have respectively appeared before the Collector or not, of the true area of the land, the nature of the said obstructions from which the land is to be kept free, the damage caused or to be caused under section 6, the value of the rights restricted under section 7, and the apportionment of the compensation among the persons interested.

(2) The Collector shall give immediate notice of his award to such of the persons interested as are not present personally or by their representatives when the award is made.

Adjournment of inquiry.

14. The Collector may, for any cause he thinks fit, from time to time adjourn the inquiry to a day to be fixed by him.

Power to summon and enforce attendance of witnesses and production of documents.

15. For the purpose of inquiries under this Act the Collector shall have power to summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses, including the parties interested or any of them, and to compel the production of documents, by the same means, and (so far as may be) in the same manner, as is provided in the case of a Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure[a].

[a] See now the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (Act V [5] of 1908).

Matters to be considered and neglected.

16. In determining the amount of compensation, the Collector shall be guided by the provisions contained in sections 23 and 24.

Supplementary proceedings.

17. Whenever the officer exercising powers conferred by section 6 considers it necessary that anything in respect of which any person is or may be entitled to compensation but of which no notice has been given or compensation awarded, under sections 9 and 12, respectively, should be done in pursuance of the said powers, the Collector shall cause supplementary notice to be given, as nearly as may be, in the manner prescribed by section 9 and subject to the limit of time imposed by sub-section (1) of that section, and the provisions of sections 10 to 16 shall, so far as they are applicable, be deemed to apply to any further inquiry and award which may be held or made in consequence of such supplementary notice.

PART III.

REFERENCE TO COURT AND PROCEDURE THEREON

Reference to Court.

18. (1) Any person interested who has not accepted the award may, by written application to the Collector, require that the matter be referred by the Collector for the determination of the Court, whether his objection be to the measurement of the land, the amount of the compensation, the persons to whom it is payable, or the apportionment of the compensation among the persons interested:

Provided that every such application shall be made,—

(a) if the person making it was present or represented before the Collector at the time when he made his award, within six weeks from the date of the Collector's award;

(b) in other cases, within six weeks of the receipt of the notice from the Collector under section 13, sub-section (2), or within six months from the date of the Collector's award, whichever period shall first expire.

(2) The application shall state the grounds on which objection to the award is taken.

Collector's statement to the Court.

19. (1) In making the reference the Collector shall state, for the information of the Court, in writing under his hand,—

(a) the situation and extent of the land with particulars of any damage caused under section 6 or of restrictions imposed under section 7;

(b) the names of the persons whom he has reason to think interested in such land;

(c) the amount of compensation awarded under section 12; and,

(d) if the objection be to the amount of the compensation, the grounds on which the amount of compensation was determined.

(2) To the said statement shall be attached a schedule giving the particulars of the notices served upon, and of the statements in writing made or delivered by, the parties interested respectively

Service of notice.

20. The Court shall thereupon cause a notice specifying the day on which the Court will proceed to determine the objection, and directing their appearance before the Court on that day, to be served on the following persons, namely:—

(a) the applicant;

(b) all persons interested in the objection, except such (if any) of them as have consented without protest to receive payment of the compensation awarded; and

(c) if the objection is in regard to the area of the land, the nature of the obstructions or the amount of the compensation, the Collector.

Restriction on scope of proceedings.

21. The scope of the inquiry in every such proceeding shall be restricted to a consideration of the interests of the persons affected by the objection.

Proceedings to be in open Court.

22. Every such proceeding shall take place in open Court, and all persons entitled to practise in any civil Court in the Province shall be entitled to appear, plead and act, as the case may be, in such proceeding.

Matters to be considered in determining compensation.

23. (1) In determining the amount of compensation to be awarded for damage caused, or to be caused, or for restrictions imposed under this Act, the Court shall take into consideration—

(a) the actual decrease in market-value of the land owing to the publication of the declaration relating thereto under section 3 and any damage caused or to be caused under section 6,

(b) the damage sustained by the person interested, by reason of the removal of any standing crops in the exercise of any power conferred by section 6;

(c) the damage (if any) sustained by the person interested, by reason of ceasing to be able to use such land conjointly with his other land;

(d) the damage (if any) sustained by the person interested by anything done or ordered under sections 6 and 7 injuriously affecting his other property, moveable or immoveable, in any other manner, or his earnings; and,

---

Section 23—Note 1

[1] Second declaration under S. 3 cancelling first one — Date of second declaration is to be considered for determining value of property whose use is restricted. (Vol 28) 1941 Rang 225 (226) : 1941 Rang L R 40 (D B).

(e) if, in consequence of the imposition of restrictions, the person interested is compelled to change his residence or place of business, the reasonable expenses (if any) incidental to such change.

(2) In addition to the amount representing the actual decrease in the market-value of the land as above provided, the Court shall in every case award a further sum of fifteen per centum on such amount.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Clause 23.—We have recast the wording of sub-clause (1), paragraph (a), to preclude argument to the effect that Court must take into consideration the decrease in market-value which has actually occurred between the two points of time specified, irrespective of the question whether such decrease was occasioned by the publication of the declaration under clause 3 or any damage caused or to be caused under clause 6. From paragraph (b) we have removed the reference to "trees" which, in the case of removal of obstruction, must, we think, be taken into consideration under paragraph (a)." — S. C. R.

Matters not to be considered in determining compensation.

24. In determining the amount of compensation to be awarded for damage caused, or to be caused, or for restrictions imposed under this Act, the Court shall not take into consideration—

(a) the degree of urgency which has led to the damage or the imposition of restrictions;

(b) any disinclination of the person interested to submit to damage or restrictions;

(c) any damage sustained by him, which, if caused by a private person, would not render such person liable to a suit;

(d) any increase to the value of the other land of the person interested, accruing or likely to accrue from anything done under this Act; or

(e) any outlay or improvements on, or disposal of, the land commenced, made or effected without the sanction of the Collector after the date of the publication of the declaration under section 3.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Clause 24 —We have omitted the words 'of the land or', which the original Bill reproduced from the fifth clause of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, section 24. The position in the two cases appears to us to be essentially different. Under the enactment cited, the land is acquired by the Government which benefits by the increase. The Bill, however, contemplates a continuance of the owner's title and occupation with compensation for any damage occasioned by restrictions upon use and enjoyment; but, if the value of any portion of the land is actually increased, the damage must, of necessity, be proportionately reduced, and the point must, therefore, be taken into account under clause 23, sub-clause (1), paragraph (a)." — S. C. R.

Rules as to amount of compensation.

25. (1) When the applicant has made a claim to compensation, pursuant to any notice given under section 9, the amount awarded to him by the Court shall not exceed the amount so claimed or be less than the amount awarded by the Collector under section 12.

(2) When the applicant has refused to make such claim or has omitted without sufficient reason (to be allowed by the Judge) to make such claim, the amount awarded by the Court shall in no case exceed the amount awarded by the Collector.

(3) When the applicant has omitted for a sufficient reason (to be allowed by the Judge) to make such claim, the amount awarded to him by the Court shall not be less than, and may exceed, the amount awarded by the Collector.

Form of awards.

26. Every award under this Part shall be in writing signed by the Judge, and shall specify the amount awarded under section 23, sub-section (1), clause (a), and also the amounts (if any) respectively awarded under each of the other clauses of the same sub-section, together with the grounds of awarding each of the said amounts.

Costs.

27. (1) Every such award shall also state the amount of costs incurred in the proceedings under this Part, and by what persons and in what proportion they are to be paid.

(2) When the award of the Collector is not upheld, the costs shall ordinarily be paid by the Collector, unless the Court is of opinion that the claim of the applicant was so extravagant or that he was so negligent in putting his case before the Collector that some deduction from his costs should be made or that he should pay a part of the Collector's costs.

Collector may be directed to pay interest on excess compensation.

28. If the sum which, in the opinion of the Court, the Collector ought to have awarded as compensation is in excess of the sum which the Collector did award as compensation, the Court may direct that the Collector shall pay interest on such excess at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date of his award to the date of payment of such excess into Court.

PART IV.

APPORTIONMENT OF COMPENSATION.

Particulars of apportionment to be specified.

29. Where there are several persons interested, if such persons agree in the apportionment of the compensation, the particulars of such appointment shall be specified in the award, and as between such persons the award shall be conclusive evidence of the correctness of the apportionment.

Dispute as to apportionment.

30. When the amount of compensation has been settled under section 12, if any dispute arises as to the apportionment of the same or any part thereof, or as to the persons to whom the same or any part thereof is payable, the Collector may refer such dispute to the decision of the Court.

PART V.

PAYMENT.

Payment of compensation or deposit of same in Court.

31. (1) On making an award under section 12, the Collector shall tender payment of the compensation awarded by him to the persons interested entitled thereto according to the award, and shall pay it to them unless prevented by some one or more of the contingencies mentioned in sub-section (2).

(2) If they do not consent to receive it, or if there is no person competent to alienate the land, or if there is any dispute as to the title to receive the compensation or as to the apportionment of it, the Collector shall deposit the amount of the compensation in the Court to which a reference under section 18 would be submitted :

Provided, first, that any person admitted to be interested may receive such payment under protest as to the sufficiency of the amount :

Provided, secondly, that no person who has received the amount otherwise than under protest shall be entitled to make any application under section 18 :

Provided, thirdly, that nothing herein contained shall affect the liability of any person, who may receive the whole or any part of any compensation awarded under this Act, to pay the same to the person lawfully entitled thereto.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in this section, the Collector may, with the sanction of the [a][Central Government], instead of awarding a money-compensation in respect of any land, make any arrangement with a person having a limited interest in such land, either by the grant of other lands in exchange, or by the remission of land-revenue on the same or on other lands held under the same title, or in such other way as may be equitable having regard to the interest of the parties concerned.

(4) Nothing in sub section (3) shall be construed to interfere with or limit the power of the Collector to enter into any arrangement with any person interested in the land and competent to contract in respect thereof.

Investment of money deposited in respect of lands belonging to persons incompetent to alienate.

32. (1) If any money is deposited in Court under section 31, sub-section (2) and it appears that the land in respect of which the same was awarded belonged to any person who had no power to alienate the same, the Court shall order the money to be invested—

(a) in the purchase of other lands to be held under the like title and conditions of ownership as the land in respect of which such money was deposited is held, or,

(b) if such purchase cannot be effected forthwith, then in such Government or other approved securities as it thinks fit ; and shall direct the payment of the interest or other proceeds arising from such investment to the person or persons who would for the time being have been entitled to the possession of the said land, and such moneys shall remain so deposited and invested until the same are applied—

(i) in the purchase of such other lands as aforesaid ; or

(ii) in payment to any person or persons becoming absolutely entitled thereto.

(2) In all cases of moneys deposited to which this section applies the Court shall order the cost of the following matters, including therein all reasonable charges and expeness incident thereto, to be paid by the Collector, namely :—

(a) the costs of such investments as aforesaid ;

(b) the costs of the orders for the payment of the interest or other proceeds of the securities in which such moneys are for the time being invested, and for the payment out of Court of the principal of such moneys and the costs of all proceedings relating thereto, except such as may be occasioned by litigation between adverse claimants.

Investment of money deposited in other cases.

33. If any money is deposited in Court under this Act for any cause other than that mentioned in section 32, the Court may, on the application of any party interested or claiming an interest in such money, order the same to be invested in such Government or other approved securities as it thinks fit, and may direct the interest or other proceeds of any such investment to be accumulated and paid in such manner as will, in its opinion, give the parties interested therein the same benefit therefrom as they might have had from the land in respect of which such money was deposited or as near thereto as may be.

Payment of interest.

34. When the amount of any compensation awarded under this Act is not paid or deposited within fifteen days of making the award, the Collector shall pay the amount awarded with interest thereon at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date of the award until it is so paid or deposited.

PART VI.

(2) Whenever it may be practicable, the service of the notice shall be made on the person therein named.

(3) When such person cannot be found, the service may be made on any adult male member of his family residing with him ; and, if no such adult male member can be found, the notice may be served by fixing the copy on the outer door of the house in which the person therein named ordinarily dwells, or carries on business, or by fixing a copy thereof in some conspicuous place in the office of the officer aforesaid or of the Collector or in the court-house and also in some conspicuous part of the land upon which restrictions are to be imposed :

Provided that, if the Collector or Judge so directs, a notice may be sent by post in a letter addressed to the person named therein at his last known residence, address or place of business and service of it may be proved by the production of the addressee's receipt.

36. Whoever wilfully—

(a) obstructs any person in doing any of the acts authorised by section 4, section 6 or section 8, or

(b) destroys, damages, alters or otherwise interferes with the ground-level or any work done under section 6, or

(c) contravenes any of the provisions of section 7 or any condition prescribed thereunder,

38. (1) The [a][Central Government] shall be at liberty to withdraw from the imposition of any declared restrictions before any of the measures authorised by section 6 have been taken.

(2) Whenever the [a][Central Government] withdraws the imposition of any declared restrictions the Collector shall determine the amount of compensation due for the damage suffered by the owner in consequence of the notice or of any proceedings thereunder, and shall pay such amount to the person interested, together with all costs reasonably incurred by him in the prosecution of the proceedings under this Act relating to the said restrictions.

In deciding on such a reference the Court shall have regard to the question whether the building or other construction proposed to be demolished is reasonably required for the full and unimpaired use of the house, manufactory or building.

(2) If, in the case of any claim of the kind referred to in section 23, sub-section (1), clause (c) by a person interested, on account of ceasing to be able to use the land, upon the use and enjoyment of which restrictions are to be imposed, conjointly with his other land, the [a][Central Government] is of opinion that the claim is unreasonable or excessive, it may, at any time before the Collector has made his award, order the imposition of restrictions upon the whole of the land of which the land upon the use and enjoyment of which it was first sought to impose restrictions forms a part.

(3) In the case provided for by sub-section (2) no fresh declaration or other proceeding under sections 3 to 10 shall be necessary ; but the Collector shall without delay furnish a copy of the order of the [a][Central Government] to the person interested, and shall thereafter proceed to make his award under section 12.

1. Interpretation of statutes—General.—It is a cardinal rule of construction of statutes in general that the intention of an enactment should be gathered from the language employed by it,[1] and that where words used are clear and unambiguous, it is the duty of the Court to give effect to them according to their plain meaning, neither adding to nor subtracting from them.[2] Due meaning must be given to every part of the language employed.[3] The language must be taken as a whole and detached words should not be given undue importance.[4] The ordinary and grammatical sense of the words is to be adhered to, unless it would lead to repugnance with the rest of the statute.[5] Even if the result of the construction were absurd[6] or anomalous[7] there would be no reason to depart from clear and unequivocal language capable of only one meaning. In other words, the interpretation should not, where the language is clear, be influenced by extraneous considerations, such as the previous state of the law,[8] or hardship,[9] or expediency,[10] or the policy or the intention of the law,[11] or the reference to or the analogy of other enactments,[12] or the terms of the enactment being against general principles of law or equity,[13] or that the giving effect to the words leads to absurdity or inconvenience or injustice[14] or that the law is different elsewhere.[15] Nor can the advantages of liberal construction be balanced against the advantages of literal construction.[16]

The Court's function is, in fact, to say not what the Legislature meant or ought to have meant but what it has said that it meant.[17] It is always dangerous to paraphrase an enactment even if badly worded[18] and no modification of the language to meet the intention can be made[19] unless it is impossible to resist the conviction that the Legislature could not possibly have intended what its words signify and that the modifications thus to be made are mere corrections of careless language and really give the true meaning.[20] Where, however, the language of the enactment is not itself precise or is ambiguous or of doubtful import, or the question arises to what extent changes in the pre-existing law have been effected by any particular amendment, recourse may be had to extraneous considerations.[21] Thus, the provisions of the other statutes which are in pari materia,[22] or the previous state of the law,[23] or the scope and intention of the Act,[24] may be considered in such cases. It is not, however, permissible to construe the provisions of one statute in the light of judicial decisions on another statute not in pari materia with the statute in question.[25]

2. Rules as to interpretation of statutes. — Subject to the general principles mentioned in the last note, the following general rules of interpretation of statutes should also be borne in mind in construing the provisions of an enactment :—

(1) Where an Act, such as the Code of Civil Procedure, is divided into sections and rules, the sections must be taken to lay down general principles and the rules as providing the machinery or the means of applying them.[1]

(2) Where the language of an enactment is difficult and ambiguous, the Court may, for its assistance in its construction, refer to rules made under the provisions of the Act, especially where such rules are, by the statute authorising them directed to be read as part of the Act.[2] But where rules are framed under a power given by the enactment such rules cannot govern or control the words of the enactment,[3] though in the case of a conflict between such rules and a bye-law, the rule prevails over the bye law.[4]

(3) Where two constructions are possible, a section should be construed so as to avoid inconsistency of meaning, [5] or the making of a word, clause or sentence either superfluous or insignificant.[6] A section which is clear in itself will be affected by previous or succeeding sections only when those sections are capable of an interpretation which is repugnant to or startling in juxtaposition with the section in question.[7] In other words, the statute should be examined as a self-contained unit, the different sections being considered simultaneously in view of each other.[8] It follows from this that where two remedies or two procedures are provided for, one must not be taken as operating in derogation of the other [9]

(4) Everything is to be taken as permissible unless there is some prohibition against it.[10] In the case of consolidating statutes, like the Civil Procedure Code, the statute itself must be consulted in order to find the authority or the prohibition.[11]

(5) Where the statute is not clear, reasonable construction should be adopted.[12] In the case of ambiguity that meaning should be preferred which is more in accord with justice and convenience.[13] A construction which leads to an absurd result,[14] or unjust consequences entailing hardship,[15] or produces injustice,[16] or defeats the object of the Act itself[17] should, if possible, be avoided.

(6) Words operating in derogation of the rights of the subject[18] or imposing pecuniary burden,[19] should be strictly construed.

(6A) In the case of reasonable doubt as to the expression contained in a penal provision, the benefit of doubt must be given to the subject.[20]

(7) A restricted construction ought not to be placed upon the language of a remedial Act.[21]

(8) General words must be given the broadest possible effect unless there is some specific reason to the contrary.[22] But general words and phrases, however comprehensive and wide they may be in their literal sense, must be usually construed as limited to the actual objects of the Act and not as altering the law beyond.[23] Specific words of importance like "mortgage" should be given their appropriate meaning.[24]

(9) A general provision must yield to a special provision providing for particular cases.[25] If the Legislature makes a special Act dealing with a particular case and later makes a general Act which by its terms would include the subject of the special Act and is in conflict with the special Act, nevertheless unless it is clear that in making the general Act the Legislature intended to abrogate the special Act, the provisions of the general Act do not override the provisions of special Act.[26] As a matter of fact a repeal of the special Act by the general Act by implication will not be admitted if the two can be read together.[27] The same rule applies to general and special expressions used in different clauses of a section[28] as also to two special Acts.[29] But such special provision must be applied only to those cases to which it is confined by the Legislature.[30] Thus, a special Act of the Legislature as the Sale of Goods Act cannot possibly, except in the branch of the law to which it relates, overrule a statute of the nature of the General Clauses Act.[31] Again, when on the same subject two incompatible provisions are in force, one general and the other particular, the particular provision must be taken to be an exception to the general one.[32]

(10) Where there are general words following particular and specific words in a section, the general words must be confined to things of the same kind (ejusdem generis) as those specified.[33] The applicability of this rule, however, will not arise if the class of cases intended to be provided for by the section is clear from the language of the section[34] or by the general object of the Act[35] or where the specific words are of different genera.[36]

(11) Where a statute has adopted part of the language of the old statute, the interpretation put upon such language by the Courts must be taken to have been accepted by the Legislature.[37] When legislation follows a continuous practice and repeats the very words on which that practice was founded, it may be inferred that the Legislature in re-enacting the statute intended those words to be understood in their received meaning.[38]

(12) Provisions ousting the jurisdiction of the Courts[39] and those conferring jurisdiction on special bodies or persons or Courts[40], should be strictly construed. The grant of a special jurisdiction does not carry with it the power to act outside such jurisdiction.[41]

(13) In the absence of any context indicating a contrary intention, the Legislature must be taken to attach the same meaning to the same words used in different parts of the statute[42] or in subsequent statutes in a similar connexion.[43] But, if sufficient reasons exist, a word can be construed

in one part of an Act in a sense different from that it bears in another part.[44] Where an expression is defined in an Act, it must be given the same meaning throughout the Act,[45] unless there is some provision which makes it clear that for certain purposes, the expression must be given a different meaning.[46] But definitions are of limited scope being framed only for the purpose of the Act in which they occur, unless specially extended.[47] Where, however, the Legislature has not defined a legal expression it would be wrong for a Court to lay down a rigid definition of it.[48]

(14) Prima facie when two different expressions are used in a statute the Court ought to assume that they are intended to bear distinct meanings,[49] but, on the other hand, it may appear from the context that the two expressions are used interchangeably and are not intended to have different meaning.[50]

(15) All rules of law are founded on the assumption that the constituted tribunals are fairly competent and have power to carry out the provisions of Acts.[51] They should, therefore, be construed so as to further and not so as to restrict the purposes of the Act.[52] Where jurisdiction is given to a Court to make a particular order, the Legislature must be deemed to have granted also the power to enforce such order.[53]

(16) Where a statute creates a right and provides a remedy, that remedy and no other is available.[54] This rule, however, does not apply where the right exists independently of the statute.[55] Where, again, a statute gives power to any person for a public purpose from which an individual may receive an injury, and where the mode of redress for such injury is also specified in the statute, the jurisdiction of the ordinary Courts will be ousted.[56]

(17) Where a statute confers rights on a party in general terms, the cutting down of those rights by a rule would make the rule repugnant to the Act.[57] But such rules must be supported unless they are manifestly unreasonable or unfair.[58] If a new rule is in conflict with the previous existing rule, the new rule must by implication be deemed to have annulled or altered that rule.[59]

(18) A change in the language of an Act from that of the old Act may be presumed to indicate a change of intention on the part of the Legislature.[60] In regard to the matters dealt with by the change, only the new provisions should be looked to,[61] and the Court in construing the later statute is not bound by the decisions under the earlier one.[62] But it is also a recognised presumption that the Legislature does not intend to make any alteration beyond what it expressly declares[63] and where the language used is doubtful no change will be deemed to have been made.[64] Any change in the language of the statute would be presumed to have been made by the Legislature with the knowledge of the course of decisions previous to the change.[65] However, a change in the wording of a section of an enactment does not necessarily involve a change in the law as amendments are often made to clear up ambiguities.[66]

(19) Where a question arises as to whether any particular provision is mandatory or directory, the general test is the relation which the provision has to the general object intended to be secured by the Act.[67] Another test is to see whether a party may waive the benefit of the particular provision.[68] In deciding the question, the Court should take into account the possibility of justice suffering from a too rigid application of the rule.[69] A provision that a certain thing shall be done may be held to be only directory. But a provision that a certain thing shall not be done should be treated as prohibitive.[70]

(20) Words in singular should be read as including the plural unless there is anything in the context to the contrary.[71]

(21) In following decided cases in regard to the interpretation placed by them upon words in a statute, the danger of diverting attention from what has been enacted to what has been judicially said about the enactment must be avoided.[72]

(22) Forms given in the Schedule do not control the clear words of the Code itself.[73]

(23) Where certain provisions from an existing Act have been incorporated into a subsequent Act, no addition to the former Act which is not expressly made applicable to the subsequent Act can be deemed to be incorporated in it, at all events, if it is possible for the subsequent Act to function effectively without the addition, nor can the repeal of the first statute affect the second.[74]

(24) Provisions of Acts passed by the same Legislature, when apparently inconsistent, should so far as possible be reconciled with each other[75] by reading one as a qualification to the other. If that is not possible the later Act should prevail.[76] The same rule applies to two apparently inconsistent sections in the same Act.[77]

(25) A repealing section should not be interpreted with reference to the reading of the repealed section.[78] The effect of repal of a statute, in the absence of saving clauses, is that it has to be considered as if the statute so repealed has never existed.[79] Unless so repealed or altered the prior existing law will continue in force.[80] Where the Act repealed is a parent Act, all the laws passed under that Act also stand repealed, unless there is a saving provision in the repealing Act.[81]

(26) A repealing Act does not affect any legal proceedings in respect to rights acquired before the repeal.[82] When an Act is in force on the date of a transaction, a subsequent repealment of the Act does not affect the merits, rights or liabilities of the parties on the date of the transaction.[83]

(27) It is not proper to use one Act for the purpose of interpreting another Act.[84]

(28) In interpreting foreign statutes Courts should not be guided by outside opinion, however eminent such opinion may be.[85]

(29) Technical language must have technical meaning attached to it, unless the contrary manifestly appears.[86].

(30) Special Acts must be strictly construed.[87]

(31) Where the terms of a statute are not imperative, the use of general powers conferred by that statute should be in strict conformity with private rights.[88]

(32) In enactments which confer powers upon public authorities, the language of permission may not preclude the existence of a duty.[89]

(33) The words in an Act are used correctly and exactly and not loosely and inexactly. Upon those who assert that the rule has been broken the burden of establishing their proposition lies heavily and they can discharge it only by pointing to something in the context which goes to show that the loose and inexact meaning must be preferred.[90]

(34) Where the matter admits of doubt, the construction against overlapping of powers on different persons should be adopted ordinarily.[91]

(35) A statute should be given a meaning, in all cases of ambiguity, which will make it consonant to, rather than in disagreement with other Acts.[92] Similarly, where two constructions are possible, the interpretation that will promote the object of the statute should be preferred.[93] The Legislature is presumed not to intend to make any substantial alteration in the law beyond what it explicitly declares either in express terms or by clear implication, or in other words, beyond the immediate scope and object of the statute.[94]

(36) In the case of statutes the maxim expressio unius est exclusio alterius (mention of one thing is the exclusion of others) is to be applied with great caution.[95]

(Vol 24) 1937 Bom 15 (16). (The word "include" in interpretation clause is enumerative and not exhaustive.)

3. Construction of consolidating statutes. — The object of consolidation is 'to collect the statutory law bearing upon a particular subject and to bring it down to date in order that it may form a useful Code applicable to the circumstances existing at the time when the consolidating Act was passed."[1] In the case, therefore, of a consolidating statute the construction must be not with reference to the circumstances existing at the time of the preceding Acts but in relation to those existing at the time of the consolidating Act itself[2] and the law should thenceforth be ascertained from that enactment itself instead of being searched for in prior decisions.[3] But in applying a consolidating Act, statutes not expressly repealed should be held to continue in force without modification.[4]

4. Retrospective operation of statutes.—It is a general principle of law that no statute shall be construed so as to have a retrospective operation unless its language is such as plainly to require such a construction.[1] Similarly, a statute is not to be construed so as to have a greater retrospective operation than its language renders necessary.[2] In fact a statute which takes away or affects vested rights, imposes a new disability or confers a new right, must be presumed not to have a retrospective operation[3] although it is competent to the Legislature to make an Act retrospective so as to affect even vested rights.[4] If a statute affecting rights at the time of its passing is expressed in a language which is fairly capable of either interpretation, it ought to be construed only as a prospective one.[5] The fact that some of the provisions of a statute have been made definitely not retrospective must not be taken as implying that other provisions have retrospective operation.[6]

Statutes, which are in their nature declaratory or explanatory are, however, an exception to this rule and are to be construed so as to have retrospective operation,[7] although nothing in a declaratory statute can render void that which has been declared by the Courts to have been done rightly under the law for the time being in force.[8] So also, enactments dealing with procedure are always retrospective in the sense that their provisions will apply to proceedings already commenced at the time of their enactment.[9] The reason is that no one can have a vested right in forms of procedure.[10] But where some of the provisions of the enactment of procedure do affect vested rights, whether substantive or remedial, the rule against retrospective operation of statute will apply[11] unless there is an indication to the contrary in the Act.[12]

Such indications can be found in the following circumstances:

(1) When the commencement of the Act is postponed to a particular day, the object of the postponement is to enable persons to enforce their rights, if any, before the new Act, negativing such rights, comes into force.[13]

(2) When the language of the enactment implies it.

Penal statutes are not to be interpreted as having retrospective effect, so as to punish an act done at a time when no illegality was attached to it.[14]

5. Procedural statutes, how far exhaustive.—It is a rule of construction of procedural statutes, that the Court ought not to act on the principle that every procedure is to be taken as prohibited unless it is expressly provided for, but should proceed on the opposite principle that every procedure is to be understood as permissible till it is shown to be prohibited by law.[1]

6. Reference to pre-existing state of the law. — Where the language of a statute is plain and clear, it cannot be qualified or neutralised by indications of intention gathered from the previous state of law.[1] But where the language is not clear or the statute has made no provision they may be read, not only as explaining the sections which immediately follow them, as a preamble to a statute may be looked to, but as affording a better key to the construction of the sections which follow than might be afforded by a mere preamble.[4]

9. Marginal notes to sections. — Marginal notes to sections do not form part of the statute itself and cannot be referred to for explaining or construing the section.[1]

Where, however, there is ambiguity in the section the marginal note can be referred to for solving the ambiguity.[2]

In the undermentioned cases[3] it has been held that there can be no objection to the reference to marginal notes for the purposes of construing or interpreting the sections of an Act, if they are inserted by or under the authority of or assented to by the Legislature.

10. Illustrations. — Illustrations, unlike marginal notes, are to be considered as part of the statute itself.[1] They are to be accepted, if that can be done, as being both of relevance and of value, in the construction of the section.[2] The rule, however, is subject to two limitations —

(1) An illustration only exemplifies the section and cannot be taken to restrict or modify the sense of the section.[3]

(2) Where the illustration is in conflict with the main section, the illustration must give way to the section.[4] But it would require a very special case to warrant its rejection on the ground of its assumed repugnance to the section itself.[5]

11. Punctuation marks. — Before the year 1849, the English Acts of Parliament were not punctuated by any stops and the then accepted rule of interpretation was that such marks could not be relied upon in construing Acts of Parliament.[1] In Maharani of Burdwan v. Krishna Kamini Dasi,[2] which was a case under the Bengal Regulation of 1819, their Lordships of the Privy Council held that "it is an error to rely on punctuation in construing Acts of the Legislature"

Since the constitution of the regular Legislatures in India, however, the practice has been to insert stops in Bills before the Legislatures and to retain them in the authentic copies of the Acts signed by the Governor-General and published in the Gazette of India.[3] In these circumstances, it was held by the High Court of Bombay,[4] that punctuation marks may be considered as aids to the interpretation of the statute where the language thereof might otherwise be doubtful. The High Court of Madras took the view that the marks were part of the statute and should be considered as such.[5] On the other hand it was held by the High Courts of Allahabad[6] and Calcutta[7] following the case of the Maharani of Burdwan that punctuation marks could not be taken into consideration in construing the statute.

The question came again before the Privy Council in Lewis Pugh v. Ashutosh Sen,[8] a case under Arts. 48 and 49 of the Indian Limitation Act and it was held that a Court was bound to read those articles without the commas inserted in the print. This view as to the use of punctuation marks has now been followed by the High Courts of Allahabad,[9] Bombay[10] and Lahore.[11] In the undermentioned case,[12] however, the High Court of Calcutta has held that where it is not contended that the punctuation is wrongly placed, there is no reason why the punctuation should not be taken as a good guide for the purpose for which it is there, namely, to understand the sense of the passage.

12. Proviso. — A proviso is subordinate to the main enactment[1] to which it is appended either to allay unfounded fears,[2] or as a condition precedent to the enforcement of the operative clause,[3] or for explaining what particular matters are not within the meaning of the enactment, or for providing exceptions and qualifications for the enactment.[4]

A proviso should be taken together with the language of the previous portion of the enactment[5] and construed in the ordinary manner.[6] As a general rule, it must be taken to govern the main proposition of law which immediately precedes such proviso, unless the language of the statute shows a different intention.[7]

But in no case can a proviso extend or enlarge the operative effect of the substantive portion, unless there is an ambiguity therein.[8] Likewise, exceptions should not be enlarged in their scope more than what their words properly justify.[9]

13. Explanation. — An explanation added to the section does not enlarge the scope of the section.[1]

When any word, phrase or expression in an enactment is explained by the Legislature, the section has to be understood in the light of the explanation.[2]

14. Judicial precedents.—Judicial precedents constitute an important guide to the proper interpretation of statutes. It is a general principle of construction of statutes that the Courts should follow existing rulings so as not to upset or disturb existing and settled practice,[1] unless such practice is clearly contrary to an express enactment or is inconsistent with it.[2] This rule is based, in the case of statutes enacting substantive law, on the ground that otherwise it would embarrass trade and commerce, affect the status of persons and unsettle many titles.[3] Though that particular ground does not apply in the case of statutes of procedure which cannot be considered to affect any rights in or titles to property,[4] it is nevertheless of great practical importance that on questions of procedure the law should be certain rather than that it should be logical[5] and that there should be uniformity of decisions.[6]

But it is necessary that the Courts should ascertain the facts with accuracy before turning their attention to the authorities.[7] They should also bear in mind the rules that no decision can cut down the express and clear words used by the section,[8] that a decision is applicable only to the facts of that particular case[9] and that a decision is only an authority for what it actually decides and not for every proposition that may seem to follow logically from it.[10]

The only use of the authorities or decided cases is the establishment of some principle of law which the Judge can follow in deciding the case before him.[11] There can be no precedent on questions of fact and matters of discretion.[12] Nor can the dicta of Judges, however eminent, be cited as establishing authoritatively propositions of law unless such dicta form the integral part of the train of reasoning directed to the real question decided.[13] It should also be noted that in relying on decided cases in regard to the interpretation of the words of any statute, the danger of the terms of the statute being unduly extended by such reliance, the diversion of attention from what has been enacted to what has been judicially said about the enactment is to be avoided.[14]

Subject to the principles mentioned above, the following rules may be remembered :

(1) All Courts in India are bound by the decisions of the Privy Council.[15] A considered decision of the Privy Council cannot be ignored as being obiter.[16]

In the case of different views among the High Courts on any point of law, the view of the Privy Council, even if obiter, is to be accepted.[17]

(2) A Judge of the High Court sitting alone is not bound on a question of law by the decision of another Judge sitting alone;[18] but a Single Judge of the High Court is bound by the decision of a Bench of two or more Judges[19] and a Bench of two or more Judges is itself bound by the decisions of the Full Bench of the same Court until they are overruled by the Privy Council or by another Full Bench.[20] Similarly, a decision of a Bench of Judges is also binding on other Division Benches of the same Court.[21] When a Division Bench disagrees with the decision of another Division Bench it is its duty to refer the matter to a Full Bench and it cannot simply ignore the earlier decision. But when there is a decision of the Judicial Committee on the point the previous Division Bench ruling need not be acted upon and the point need not be referred to a Full Bench.[22] As to whether, when a Bench differs from the decision of a Full Bench, it has got the power to refer the Full Bench decision to a fuller Bench itself or to refer the matter to the Chief Justice who is to consider if a fuller Bench should consider the question, see the undermentioned case.[23]

(3) Subordinate Courts are bound to follow the rulings of the High Court to which they are subordinate,[23a] and, in the absence of such rulings, they should follow the rulings, if any, of the other High Courts.[24] If there are two decisions of a High Court, one of a single Judge and another of a Bench of two Judges, then, unless the subordinate Court finds some grounds for distinguishing one from the other, it is bound to follow the decision of the Bench.[25]

(4) Where there are conflicting rulings both binding on the Court and they cannot be reconciled, the authority which is at once the more recent and more consistent with general principles and equity should prevail.[26]

(5) In a matter which is open to divergence of view among various High Courts, the Court should follow its own cursus curiæ unless it is of opinion that the former decisions of the Court are clearly wrong.[27]

(6) Section 3, Law Reports Act, enacts that no Court is bound to treat as authority any unauthorised report quoted before it.[28] But the Judges, in exercising their discretion under this section, would generally have regard to the practice prevailing in their Courts with regard to the particular report quoted before them.[29]

(7) Where the authorities have laid down a rule, it is not always necessary to discover the original basis of it.[30]

ambiguity, it may be necessary to apply English principles.[3]

They may, however, be referred to with advantage as affording analogies in the following cases :

(1) Where an Indian statute has been passed in the same terms and on the same lines as those of an English statute and the latter has been authoritatively construed by English decisions.[4] But where the terms of a section in an Indian Act are taken from the English law, such section should be construed strictly in relation to the immediate context of the Indian Act, and the Court should decline to be guided by evidence as to their meaning or judicial interpretations of them when they occur in another context or other statutes.[5]

(2) Where an English or American decision is based upon general legal principles recognised by the laws of all civilised countries.[6] But it must be applied with reference to Indian conditions,[7] and where the law of this country is different from that of England or America, English or American decisions should be quoted with greatest care.[8]

(3) Where the point is a novel one and there is no precedent in India dealing with it.[9]

(4) Where the Indian Act makes express reference to the Court in England and to the principles and rules on which such Court acts.[10]

[THE] ARMED FORCES (SPECIAL POWERS) ACT, 1947
(Act III of 1948)

Statement of Objects and Reasons

"Certain special powers have been conferred on the Armed Forces in certain disturbed areas of the country to enable them more efficiently to discharge their duties in connection with the maintenance of law and order. These powers have been conferred by means of Ordinances, a separate Ordinance being issued in respect of each Province in which the need for such special powers is felt.

It is desirable to replace these Ordinances by an Act which would apply to all the Provinces of India. This is a temporary piece of legislation, as it will be in force only for one year, or, if the Central Government by notification so directs, for a further period not exceeding one year. In effect, however, a Provincial Government can at any time put the measure out of operation in its Province by the cancellation of the Proclamation or Declaration referred to in clause 2 of the Bill, the existence of which is an essential condition to the exercise of the powers conferred by the Bill."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Among the many branches of science the newest and one of the most important is atomic science. Its military aspects have unfortunately overshadowed its peaceful ones, but the course of history will show that, because of the powerful tools it has provided for unravelling and understanding the processes of life because of the new weapons it has given us for fighting disease and for the alleviation of human suffering, and because of the concentrated sources of power it has put in our hands for peaceful purposes, man took one of the greatest strides forward in his history by discovering how to release atomic energy. The development and use of atomic energy is a question of national importance. This was recognised by the Government and led to the setting up of Board of Research on Atomic Energy.

The Atomic Energy Bill would give the Government powers to control the development of atomic energy in India and the disposal of the relevant raw materials, so that these may be used for the advantage of the people as a whole.

The provisions of the Bill are drafted on the lines of the Atomic Energy Act, 1946 (in U. K.) 9 & 10 Geo. VI, Ch. 80.

The Bill gives Government powers for the control and development of atomic energy for purposes connected therewith, particularly control of plants designed or adopted for the production or use of atomic energy, the working or export of fissible substances such as uranium, thorium, plutonium, neptunium and substances like beryllium and other compounds.

While every endeavour would be made to keep fundamental scientific discoveries outside the limits of any secrecy provision it is recognised that information given by foreign atomic energy agencies may have conditions attached to it. In order to ensure secrecy, while members of the Board of Research on Atomic Energy will be able to have free discussions among themselves, provision has been made in the Bill for security measures which would be necessary."

[THE] CAPITAL ISSUES (CONTINUANCE OF CONTROL) ACT, 1947.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The object of this measure is to keep in existence... the control over capital issues which was imposed by Rule 94-A of the Defence of India Rules in May, 1943, and continued in force after the expiry of the Defence of India Act by Ordinance No. XX of 1946. Although there has been an appreciable change in the general conditions which constituted the principal reason for the introduction of the control during war-time, it is thought in the light of experience gained that the control is still necessary to secure a balanced investment of the country's resources in industry, agriculture and the social services."

[THE] CENSUS ACT, 1948
(Act XXXVII of 1948)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Legislation alone can confer the powers to put questions, mark buildings, etc., for the purposes of a census. There is no Census Act in force at the moment since all the former Census Acts were confined to the specific census undertaken in particular years. Legislation is, therefore, necessary to provide for the census operations now to be undertaken. The present Bill is intended to be a measure for all time, unlike the previous Census Acts. It differs from the Indian Census Act, 1939 (XXIV of 1939) in that it provides for a general continuous cover for census operations to be undertaken at any time, raises the fine limit from Rs. 200 to Rs. 1,000, makes abetment of census offences punishable, provides against tampering by the tabulation staff and makes it obligatory on persons nominated as census officers by the Provincial Governments to serve in the capacity directed. In other respects it follows the Census Act of 1939."

[THE] COAL MINES LABOUR WELFARE FUND ACT, 1947. (ACT XXXII OF 1947)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The Coal Mines Labour Welfare Fund Ordinance promulgated in 1944 provides for the levy of an excise duty at a rate not exceeding Re. /4/ per ton of coal and coke despatched from collieries in British India. The proceeds making up the Fund are earmarked exclusively for promoting the welfare of labour employed in the coal mining industry. The Government of India are now satisfied that for reasons explained below, the limit of this Cess should be further increased, the maximum being raised to Re.-/8/- per ton on all despatches of coal and coke.

The present housing conditions in the coalfields are extremely unsatisfactory. No other scheme of welfare can be given higher 'priority'. Government do not consider that the housing problem can be tackled piecemeal. In their opinion a target figure of 50,000 houses for miners should be the aim of the housing scheme in the coalfields and that provision should be made for 15,000 houses to be completed before the end of the next financial year.

Careful calculations have been made in the light of prevalent costs and it is reckoned that by levy of a Cess at Re.—/3/4 per ton of coal and coke and a subsidy of Rs. 400 per house from general revenues, adequate funds will be forthcoming for financing a comprehensive housing-scheme of 50,000 houses. There are various other welfare measures like establishment of hospitals, anti-malarial measures, public health and sanitation, adult education propaganda, anti-tuberculosis, etc. which will absorb, when all the schemes are in final form, practically the whole of the present limit of Cess of Re. -/4/- per ton. Therefore, an increase in this limit is urgently required to provide funds for the housing scheme. The Bill provides that when the rate of Cess reaches the maximum of Re.-/8/- per ton not less than Re. /3/4 thereof will be earmarked to a separate housing fund.

Colliery owners have in many cases provided dispensary services for the benefit of the miners employed by them and the employer' responsibility in the direction is well recognised. But with the establishment of Central and Regional Hospitals by the Coal Mines Welfare Fund a tendency is likely to arise by which the responsibility for providing dispensary services will be shifted on to the Fund in the absence of any statutory provision requiring the employers to provide such facilities. A provision has, therefore, been made in the Bill by which employers who provide dispensary services up to standards prescribed will be given the grants-in-aid not exceeding the amount equivalent to Cess of 8 pies per ton in respect of coal or coke despatches from the respective colliery or the amount actually spent by the employer whichever is less. Where employers have not provided adequate dispensary services the Fund will itself provide them and to meet this expenditure as well as the costs of grants-in-aid to the employers, a further levy of a cess equivalent to 8 pies per ton is necessary. This is estimated to yield approximately Rs. 9 lakhs a year which should ensure reasonably efficient dispensary services, it being noted that the existing Cess will provide funds in addition for the larger hospital schemes.

The result of these measures is that the limit of the Cess should be raised to Re.-/8/- per ton. It is not, however intended to levy this maximum rate forthwith, and during the year 1947-48, it is not proposed to levy a total Cess in excess of Re.-/6/- per ton. There. after with the further progress in the housing scheme, rates will have to be increased gradually and up to the maximum of Re.-/8/-.

The cost of construction is expected to average Rs. 2,500 per house for which the economic rent may be as high as about Rs. 14/- a month. Miners have, by tradition, occupied quarters. where provided, rentfree and it is not, at present intended to levy a rent or at any rate more than a nominal rent from the occupants. Some provision is, therefore, necessary in order to ensure that the houses constructed by the Fund are occupied only by genuine and steady workers and that those who cease to be so, do not continue to occupy the houses rent-free or on nominal rent. The details regarding these will be discussed with representatives of employers and workers who will be associated with the administration of the Housing Fund. But as a precautionary measure a legal provision has been included for summary recovery of rent at full rates in addition to the liability under the ordinary law, for eviction."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The Board of Conciliation appointed in 1947 in connection with certain disputes in the Bengal and Bihar coalfields recommended the payment of bonus to, and the establishment of a provident fund for, the employees in coal mines. With a view to implementing these recommendations, Government promulgated the Coal Mines Provident Fund and Bonus Schemes Ordinance, 1948, on the 23rd April 1948. A Coal Mines Bonus Scheme has since been framed under that Ordinance and the details of a Provident Fund Scheme are being worked out.

As the life of an Ordinance is six months, the Ordinance will cease to be effective on the 23rd October 1948. As the schemes which are being framed under it must be continued beyond that date, this Bill seeks to replace the Ordinance by an Act."

[THE] DENTISTS ACT, 1948
(ACT XVI OF 1948)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Except in Bengal, where there is a Provincial Dental Council eetablished under a Provincial Act, there is no legal provision for the regulation of the education and training of dental practitioners or for the registration of qualified persons. There is also no restriction on the practice of dentistry by person without scientific training. It is well known that the practice of dentistry by untrained or inadequately trained persons may constitute a danger to the patient. It is accordingly proposed to constitute an Indian Dental Council, which will be empowered to lay down minimum standards of training, and Provincial Councils, which will maintain registers of persons entitled to practice dentistry. The Indian Dental Council will also be authorised to enter into agreements with corresponding authorities in other countries for the reciprocal recognition of qualifications.

For the purposes of the preparation of the first register persons holding certain specified qualifications and persons who do not hold such qualifications but have practised dentistry for a minimum period of two years will be entitled to registration. Thereafter entry to the profession will be restricted to persons who have undergone a minimum standard of training.

As the Indian Dental Council will have the responsibility of laying down standards of education and training, only dentists who have undergone such training and possess recognised qualifications will be entitled to be elected to the Council.

In order that simple dental aid may be made available to the people on as wide a basis as possible, provision is made for the registration of dental hygienists who will be entitled to carry out simple extractions and perform minor dental work. Registered medical practitioners will be entitled to practise dentistry.

The existing Bengal Dental Council will perform the functions of a Provincial Dental Council under this Act and persons registered under the Bengal Dental Act will be entitled to registration without payment of registration fee.

In view of the provisions of section 119 of the Government of India Act, 1935, persons who are not British subjects of Indian domicile and who are residents in British India and hold specified dental qualifications, will be admitted to the first register but thereafter such persons will be entitled to registration only if their qualifications have been recognised by the Indian Dental Council in pursuance of a reciprocity agreement. The Indian Dental Council will be debarred from entering into a reciprocity agreement unless by the law and practice of the foreign country Indians are permitted to enter and practise dentistry in that country."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

"Prior to the passing of the Indian Independence Act, 1947, British diplomatic and consular officers performed notarial duties in respect of Indian nationals abroad and charged fees therefor and for other consular functions for which fees were leviable. They were also authorised to administer oaths. Legal authority for the exercise of these functions existed in the Consular Salaries and Fees Act, 1891, and the Commissioners for Oaths Act, 1889, passed by the English Parliament

On the passing of the Indian Independence Act, 1947, His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom ceased to have any responsibility in the matter. It has therefore become advisable to provide statutory authority for the fixation, levy and accounting of fees to be charged by Indian diplomatic and consular officers abroad and for the administration of oaths and the taking of affidavits by them in much the same manner as was done by British diplomatic and consular officers prior to the Indian Independence Act, 1947. Hence the present Bill."

THE DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR OFFICERS (OATHS AND FEES) ACT, 1948 (ACT XLI OF 1948).

(c) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act.

Powers as to oaths and notarial acts abroad.

3. (1) Every diplomatic or consular officer may, in any foreign country or place where he is exercising his functions, administer any oath and take any affidavit and also do any notarial act which any notary public may do within the Provinces of India; and every oath, affidavit and notarial act administered, sworn or done by or before any such person shall be as effectual as if duly administered, sworn or done by or before any lawful authority in any Province of India.

(2) Any document purporting to have affixed, impressed or subscribed thereon or thereto the seal and signature of any person authorised by

4. (1) Whoever swears falsely in any oath or affidavit taken or made in accordance with the provisions of this Act shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine.

(2) Whoever forges or fraudulently alters the seal or signature of any person authorised by or under this Act to administer an oath or tenders in evidence, or otherwise uses, any affidavit having any seal or signature so forged or counterfeited or fraudulently altered knowing the same to be forged, counterfeited or fraudulently altered, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extent to three years and shall also be liable to fine.

Trial of offences.

5. Power to prescribe fees.

[THE] DISPLACED PERSONS (INSTITUTION OF SUITS) ACT, 1948 (ACT XLVII OF 1948).

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Under the existing law a suit to recover the money has to be instituted in the Court within whose jurisdiction the defendant resides or the cause of action arises either wholly or in part. This hits hard displaced merchants from Pakistan now residing in India who have money claims against persons in India. These refugees are not in a position to bring suits against their debtors in the Pakistan Court within whose jurisdiction the cause of action may have arisen, nor have they sufficient means and other necessary facilities to go to the places of residence of their debtors in India and bring suits in the appropriate Courts there. This Bill accordingly seeks to make certain special provisions for the institution of suits by displaced persons with a view to giving a certain measure of relief to the refugees concerned."

(ACT IX OF 1948).

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The demand for dock labour is intermittent depending on the arrival and departure of vessels, the size and nature of their cargo as well as seasonal and cyclical fluctuations. In the ports, therefore, there is usually labour in excess of minimum requirements and the general tendency on the part of employers is to ensure larger reserves than necessary in order to provide ample margin against emergencies. The main problem connected with dock labour is to devise measures so as to reduce the hardship due to unemployment or underemployment to the utmost extent possible. The Royal Commission on Labour recommended as far back as 1931 that a policy of decasualisation should be adopted with a view 'to regulate the numbers of dock labourers in accordance with requirements and to ensure that the distribution of employment depends not on the caprice of intermediaries, but on a system which as far as possible gives all efficient men an equal share.' Government had accepted the recommendation and efforts were made to induce Port Trusts to formulate necessary schemes of decasualisation. The voluntary attempt was not, however, a success and a scheme for compulsory registration was formulated in 1939 but was not proceeded with due to the outbreak of war.

Although the operation of certain measures introduced during the war, such as rationing and organised distribution of food supplies, facilitated the registration of labour at major ports, the problem, in the main, has remained unsolved. It is now proposed to undertake legislation giving power to the Central Government in respects of major ports and to the Provincial Governments in respect of other ports, to frame a scheme for the registration of dock workers with a view to securing greater regularity of employment and for regulating the employment of dock workers whether registered or not, in a port. In particular, the scheme may provide inter alia for the terms and conditions of employment of workers whether registered or not, including rates of remuneration, hours of work and conditions as to paid holidays. It may also provide for payment to registered workers of minimmu pay for days on which work may not be available to them and for their training and welfare.

Provision is also made in the Bill for the constitution of an Advisory Committee consisting of not more than 15 members representing the Government, the dock workers and the employers of dock workers in equal proportion. In the framing and administration of the schemes the appropriate Government will take the advice of the Committee."

(ACT LIV OF 1948).

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The co-ordinated development of electricity in India on a regional basis is a matter of increasingly urgent importance for post-war reconstruction and development. The absence of co-ordinated system, in which generation is concentrated in the most efficient units and bulk supply of energy centralised under the direction and control of one authority is one of the factors that impedes the healthy and economical growth of electrical development in this country. Besides, it is becoming more and more apparent that if the benefits of electricity are to be extended to semi-urban and rural areas in the most efficient and economical manner consistent with the needs of an entire region, the area of development must transcend the geographical limits of a Municipality, a Cantonment Board or a Notified Area Committee, as the case may be. It has, therefore, become necessary that the appropriate Governments should be vested with the necessary legislative powers to link together under one control electrical development in contiguous areas by the establishment of what is generally known as the "Grid System". In the circumstances of this country such a system need not necessarily involve inter-connection throughout the length and breadth of a Province ; regional co-ordination inclusive of some measure of inter-connection may be all that is needed. An essential pre-requisite is, however, the acquisition of necessary legislative power not only to facilitate the establishment of this system in newly licensed areas but also to control the operations of existing licensees so as to secure fully co-ordinated development.

Government feel that it is not possible to legislate for this purpose within the framework of the Indian Electricity Act, 1910, which was conceived for a very different purpose. In their view what is needed is specific legislation; on the broad lines of the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1926, in force in the United Kingdom, which will enable Provincial Governments to set up suitable organizations to work out "Grid Schemes" within the territorial limits of the Provinces. Although executive power under the proposed Bill will necessarily vest in the Provinces two considerations indicate the necessity for Central legislation :

(i) the need for uniformity in the organization and development of the "Grid System", and

(ii) the necessity for the constitution of semi-autonomous bodies like Electricity Boards to administer the "Grid Systems". In the view of Government it is bodies like these which are likely to be the most suitable organizations for working the "Grid Systems" on quasi-commercial lines. Such Boards cannot, however, be set up by Provincial Governments under the existing Constitutional Act as they would be in the nature of trading corporations within the meaning of Entry 33 of the Federal Legislative List. . . ."

THE BOARD'S WORKS AND TRADING PROCEDURE

Preparation of schemes.

28. With a view to rationalising the production and supply of electricity in any area the Board may from time to time prepare a scheme, not inconsistent with this Act, for that area, in which provision may be made for all or any of the following matters, namely :—

(a) the establishment of the Board's own generating stations;

(b) the designation of generating stations, whether existing stations or new stations, as controlled stations at which electricity shall be generated for the purposes of the Board ;

(c) the interconnection, by means of main transmission lines to be constructed or acquired by the Board, of any generating stations with any others and with any systems of licensees;

(d) where a scheme relates to a specified area, the interconnection of the system of the Board in that area with the system of the Board in any other area with respect to which a scheme is in being or may subsequently be made ;

(e) the construction or acquisition of such other main transmission lines as the scheme may require;

(f) the use by the Board of any transmission lines or main transmission lines of any licensee;

(g) such supplemental, incidental and consequential provisions as may appear necessary or expedient for any of the purposes aforesaid :

Provided that a scheme shall not, without the consent of the owner,—

(i) designate as a controlled station any generating station belonging to a person other than a licensee;

(ii) authorise the use or acquisition of a transmission line or a main transmission line belonging to a person other than a licensee.

Publication and sanctioning of schemes.

29. (1) The Board shall cause every scheme prepared under section 28 to be published in the official Gazette and in such local newspapers as it may consider necessary, and shall give public notice of the date, not being less than two months after the date of the notice, by which licensees and other persons interested may make representations thereon and when publishing such a scheme the Board shall show estimates of the capital expenditure involved and of the initial and ultimate revenues anticipated from the sale of energy, meter rentals and other services.

(2) The Board, after considering any such representations and after making such inquiries, if any, as it thinks fit, may sanction the scheme either without modification or subject to such modifications as it thinks fit, and either generally or in respect of any part of the area specified in the published scheme, and shall publish the scheme as sanctioned by it; and where the scheme has been sanctioned in respect of part of the said area, it may subsequently be sanctioned in respect of other parts of that area :

Provided that no sanction shall be accorded by the Board to any scheme or part of a scheme estimated to result in a capital expenditure exceeding fifty lakhs of rupees without prior consultation with the Authority and until any recommendations which the Authority may, in accordance with the provisions of this Act, make upon such consultation have received due consideration by the Board :

Provided further that where the recommendations of the Authority in regard to any scheme are not accepted by the Board, the Board shall not sanction the scheme without the previous consent of the Provincial Government.

(3) In respect of any scheme to which the first proviso to sub-section (2) applies, the Board shall, within one month after being requested by the Authority so to do, supply the Authority with all such information incidental or supplementary to the scheme as may be specified in the request.

Matters to be considered by the Authority.

30. The Authority shall, before making any recommendations in respect of a scheme upon which it has been consulted under the first proviso to sub-section (2) of section 29, have particular regard to whether or not in its opinion—

(a) any river-works proposed by the Board will prejudice the prospect for the best ultimate development of the river or its tributaries for power generation, consistent with the requirements of irrigation, navigation and flood-control and for this purpose the Authority shall satisfy itself that an adequate study has been made of the optimum location of dams and other river-works;

(b) the proposed scheme will prejudice the proper combination of hydro-electric and thermo-electric power necessary to secure the greatest possible economic output of electric power ;

(c) the proposed main transmission lines will be reasonably suitable for regional requirements;

(d) the scheme provides reasonable allowances for expenditure on capital and revenue account;

(e) the estimates of prospective supplies of electricity and revenue therefrom contained in the scheme are reasonable.

Recommendations of the Authority.

31. Where the Authority has been consulted under the first proviso to sub-section (2) of section 29 in respect of a scheme, it shall forward its recommendations thereon to the Board, sending a copy thereof to the Provincial Government within six months from the date of the receipt by it of the scheme :

Provided that if the Board fails to supply in due time any information requested under sub-section (3) of section 29 the period within which the Authority shall forward its recommendation shall be correspondingly increased.

32. The Board shall carry out and give effect to a scheme as soon as reasonably practicable after it has been sanctioned and published.

Power to alter or extend schemes.

33. The Board may from time to time alter or extend a scheme by a supplementary scheme made and sanctioned in the manner hereinbefore provided :

Provided that any alterations or extensions of a scheme which are in the opinion of the Board and the Authority minor in character may be made without preparing a supplementary scheme.

Supply by the Board to licensees owning generating stations.

35. The Board may at any time declare to a licensee owning a generating station, other than a controlled station, situate within an area for which a scheme is in force that it is ready to make a supply of electricity available to the licensee for the purposes of his undertaking, and thereupon, but without prejudice to the provisions of section 47, the provisions of the Second Schedule shall apply in respect of the relations between the Board and the said licensee.

Power to Board to close down generating stations.

36. The Board may at any time declare to a licensee owning a generating station situate within an area for which a scheme is in force that the station shall be permanently closed down, and thereupon but without prejudice to the provisons of section 47, where the station is a controlled station the provisions of Part III of the First Schedule, or in other cases the provisions of the Third Schedule, shall apply in respect of the relations between the Board and the said licensee with reference to the station to be closed down.

Purchase of generating stations or undertakings or main transmission lines by the Board.

37. (1) Where under the First or Third Schedule any generating station or undertaking is to be purchased by the Board, or where a sanctioned scheme provides for the purchase by the Board of a main transmission line belonging to any licensee,— the appropriate schedule, or the main transmission line from such date of purchase as the Board shall, by notice in writing given not less than one month before the said date, intimate to the licensee, shall vest in the Board free, save as provided in sub-section (2), from any debt, mortgage, lien or other similar obligation of the licensee or attaching to the station or undertaking or line, as the case may be, and any such debt, mortgage, lien or obligation shall, save as aforesaid, attach to the purchase-money in substitution of the station or undertaking or line :

Provided that notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary the licensee shall pay and the mortgagee, chargee, lien-holder or obligee shall accept the whole or part of the purchase-money as the case may be in full or part satisfaction of the debt according as the amount of the purchase-money is more or less than the amount of his debt;

(b) without prejudice to the provisions of section 47, the Board shall pay, or tender payment of, the price to be determined in accordance with the Fourth Schedule as soon as the amount thereof has been determined, together with interest on such amount from the date of purchase to the date of payment or tender of payment as aforesaid at the rate of one per centum over the average of the Reserve Bank rates between the said dates;

(c) the receipt of the licensee shall, notwithstanding anything in any other law, be a full and sufficient discharge to the Board for the payment due in respect of the purchase.

(2) Where a generating station or undertaking or main transmission line purchased by the Board under this Act is in course of construction, extension or repair at the date of purchase, the rights and liabilities of the former owner thereof under any contract for such construction, extension or repair shall be deemed to have been transferred to the Board, except such rights or liabilities acquired or incurred after the date of receipt of the notice of purchase without the prior sanction of the Board.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained elsewhere in this Act —

(i) where any generating station purchased by the Board under this Act contains any plant or apparatus which, while the station was in operation, were used jointly for the purposes of generation and transmission or distribution or wholly for the purposes of transmission or distribution, then unless otherwise agreed between the Board and the licensee, such plant or apparatus shall not be purchased by the Board but shall remain the property of the licensee.

(ii) Where under the provisions of section 28 a scheme provides for the purchase of any main transmission line belonging to any licensee the Board shall not exercise the powers of acquisition thereby afforded without the prior consent of the licensee, which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld.

Provision of new generating stations.

38. The Board shall itself establish a new generating station in any area in which it is required by any sanctioned scheme to be situated, but the Board may, with the sanction of the Provincial Government, make arrangements with any licensee or other person for the establishment of a new generating station required by a sanctioned scheme, if in the opinion of the Board it is desirable so to do.

Operation of Board's generating stations.

39. Where the Board itself establishes a new generating station or acquires a generating station otherwise than for the purpose of closing it down, it shall operate the station itself, but the Board may with the sanction of the Provincial Government, make arrangements with any licensee or other person for its operation, if in the opinion of the Board it is desirable so to do.

Provision regarding connections with main transmission lines purchased by the Board.

Use by Board of transmission lines.

41. (1) Where the Board considers it necessary to use for any of its purposes any transmission lines or main transmission lines of a licensee, the Board shall have power to use such lines to the extent to which the capacity thereof is or thereafter remains surplus to the requirements of the licensee for the transmission of electricity, on payment of charges calculated in accordance with the provisions of the Fifth Schedule.

(2) The Board may, by agreement with any licensee or other person, use any transmission line or main transmission line of that licensee or person for such time and upon such terms as may be agreed.

(3) The Grid Tariff shall be so framed as to include as part of the charge, and show separately a fixed kilowatt charges component and a running charges component :

Provided that if in respect of any area the electricity to be sold by the Board is wholly or substantially derived from hydro-electric sources, the running charges component may be omitted.

(b) The rating committee shall, after giving the licensee a reasonable opportunity of being heard and after taking into consideration the efficiency of operation and management and the potentialities of his undertaking, report to the Provincial Government making recommendations (and giving reasons therefor) regarding the charges for electricity which the licensee may make to any class or classes of consumers so however that the recommendations are not likely to prevent the licensee from earning clear profits sufficient when taken with the sums available in the Tariffs and Dividends Control Reserve to afford him a reasonable return during his next succeeding three years of account if the potentialities of the undertaking of the licensee, with efficient operation and management, so permit.

(c) Within one month after the receipt of the report under clause (b) the Provincial Government shall cause the report to be published in the official Gazette, and may at the same time make an order in accordance therewith fixing the licensee's charges for the supply of electricity with effect from such date, not earlier than two months or later than three months after the date of publication of the report, as may be specified in the order and the licensee shall forthwith give effect to such order:

Provided that nothing in this clause shall be deemed to prevent a licensee from reducing at any time any charges so fixed.

(3) Where a Board is constituted under this Act, the rating committee shall consist of three members, two of whom shall be members of the Board and one shall be a representative, co-opted by the two members of the Board from a licensees' association of which the licensee concerned is or is eligible to be a member or, if there is no such association, from such Chamber of Commerce or similar body as the Board may direct; one of such members of the Board shall be experienced in accounting and financial matters and one of the members of the Board shall be the Chairman of the committee.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE.

ARRANGEMENTS IN RESPECT OF CONTROLLED STATIONS.

ASSUMPTION OF CONTROL

1. (1) The Board shall by notice in writing to the licensee fix a date (hereafter in this Schedule referred to as the date of control), being the first day of a year of account of the licensee, and from such date the licensee shall, except where prevented by causes beyond his control, be under obligation—

(a) subject to such directions as the Board may from time to time give him, to keep the station at all times in good and substantial repair and condition and ready for use, together with adequate staff for operating, maintaining and controlling the station, and not to make any substantial alterations or renewals in, or remove any essential or substantial part of, the station without the consent in writing of the Board;

(b) to operate the station so as to generate such quantity of electricity with such units of plant, at such rates of output and at such times, or to cease to generate electricity during such periods, as the Board may direct;

(c) to carry out as soon as may be practicable such reasonable extensions, alterations or renewals of the station or any part thereof as the Board may from time to time direct;

(d) to supply to the Board all the electricty generated at the station.

(2) To enable a licensee to comply with any direction under sub-paragraph (1) requiring extension of the station or any part thereof for purposes of the Board, the Board may, if it considers it expedient and practicable so to do, offer to advance to him a loan upon such terms and conditions as it may deem proper and the licenseee shall accept the loan from the Board on the terms and conditions offered unless he raises a loan from other sources or employs his own funds for purposes of such extension on terms similar to the terms offered by the Board:

Provided that notwithstanding anything contained in any law or in any mortgage, charge or instrument executed by the licensee, the loan so advanced by the Board and the interest thereon shall be a first charge on the extension and subject to any prior encumbrance shall also be charged on the undertaking and all the revenues of the licensee and no such loan shall be amortised in any way by the licensee:

Provided further that if at the date of purchase of the station under this Act or of the licensee's undertaking under the Indian Electricity Act, 1910 (IX of 1940), the said principal or any part thereof remains unpaid though due for redemption, or is not on that date due for redemption, then any sum payable by the purchaser as a percentage on account of compulsory purchase under this Act or the said Act shall be reduced by an amount which bears the same proportion to that sum as the amount of the said principal or part thereof remaining unpaid or not being due for redemption as aforesaid bears to the total of the ordinary, preference and debenture capital of the licensee and the loans advanced by the Board under this sub-paragraph.

Explanation. — In this sub-paragraph, the expressions "ordinary capital," "preference capital" and "debenture capital" have the meanings respectively assigned to them in the Sixth Schedule.

II. From the date of the control the Board shall, except where prevented by causes beyond its control, be under obligation to supply to the licensee, and the licensee shall be under obligation to take from the Board the whole of the electricity required by the licensee for the purposes of his undertaking, except such quantity of electricity as the licensee may for the time being be entitled under paragraph III to purchase from a source other than the Board or as he may be generating in another station, not being a controlled station.

III. Unless otherwise agreed between the Board and the licensee, the licensee shall not, where he has received a notice under paragraph I, purchase after the date of control any quantity of electricity from a source other than the Board :

Provided that where on the date of the receipt of such notice the licensee is bound under any contract to purchase any quantity of electricity from some other source, he may, for a period not exceeding two years after the date of control or for such further period, if any, as the Board may allow, continue to purchase electricity under the said contract from such other source.

IV. The Board shall pay to the licensee, whether or not any electricity is generated at the station, the costs ascertained in accordance with the provisions of the Eighth Schedule.

V. The price to be paid by the licensee for electricity supplied by the Board shall be determined in the manner provided in the appropriate Part of this Schedule.

VI. The points at which electricity to be supplied under this Schedule shall be delivered by the Board and the licensee respectively shall, unless otherwise agreed between the Board and the licensee be at the generating station, and the pressure of the supplies shall be such as the Board and the licensee may agree.

VII. Where any licensee owns more than one controlled station—

(a) such of the several controlled stations as are interconnected shall, for the purposes of this Schedule, be deemed to comprise a single controlled station, and unless the subject or context otherwise requires, the provisions of this Schedule shall be construed as if the word "combined" had been inserted before the word "station" or the words "generating station" wherever they occur;

(b) the electricity supplied at the several controlled stations by the licensee to the Board, or by the Board to the licensee, shall each respectively be treated as single supplies;

(c) in the application of clause (a) of paragraph XII, the costs of production at each of the several controlled stations shall be separately ascertained, and in the application of clause (c) of the said paragraph—

(i) the sums ascertained in accordance with clause (a) of paragraph 1 of the Eighth Schedule in respect of each of the several controlled stations shall be separately allocated between fixed costs and running costs, and

(ii) the sum of the several fixed costs and the sum of the several running costs shall be the fixed costs and the running costs respectively of the combined station ;

(d) in directing the operation of the combined station under clause (b) of sub-paragraph (1) of paragraph I, the Board shall have regard to the nature and capacity of the licensee's transmission system interconnecting the several controlled stations and to the requirements of the licensee at each of those stations.

VIII. In the event of the licensee failing, except where prevented by causes beyond his control, to perform or continue to perform any obligation imposed upon him under this Part, the Board may give notice to him in writing that on the first day of the licensee's next succeeding year of account the generating station will be purchased by the Board, and on such day the Board shall purchase the station at a price determined in accordance with the Fourth Schedule; and thereafter—

(a) all the provisions of this Schedule except paragraph II and this paragraph shall, in relation to the licensee, cease to have effect;

(b) the Board shall supply the licensee with the electricity required by him under paragraph II at such price and on such conditions as the Board may determine.

PART II

PRICE TO BE PAID FOR ELECTRICITY SUPPLIED BY THE BOARD UNDER PART I

IX. There shall be agreed between the Board and the licensee in respect of each month of the licensee's year of account—

(a) the maximum capacity of the station, that is to say, the maximum capacity (expressed in kilowatts available for supply to feeders) of such plant and works appertaining to the generation of electricity at the station as were available for reliable and regular commercial operation on the first day of the month, including the capacity of such plant and works as were temporarily out of commission;

(b) the number and size of units of plant and works, forming part of the aforesaid plant and works, which ought properly to be deemed to be standby if the station were not a controlled station ;

(c) the standby capacity of the station, that is to say, the number of kilowatts (expressed in kilowatts available for supply to feeders) by which the maximum capacity of the station would be reduced if the standby plant and works referred to in clause (b) were to be left out of account;

(d) the actual effective capacity of the station, that is to say, the number of kilowatts by which the maximum capacity exceeds the standby capacity.

X. (1) The licensee shall be entitled to purchase from the station in each month at a price determined under paragraph XIII a number of kilowatts not exceeding the scheduled effective capacity of the station on the first day of that month as determined in sub-paragraph (2).

(2) The scheduled effective capacity of the station shall be agreed between the Board and the licensee in respect of each month of the year of account, and shall be computed in the same manner as the actual effective capacity under paragraph IX, except that there shall be left out of account such units of plant and works, if any, forming part of the plant and works referred to in clause (a) of the said paragraph, as the licensee declares to be surplus to his requirements for the time being :

Provided that the licensee shall not declare to be surplus to his requirements any such units of plant or works as were installed or were on order at the date of control or which were included in any previous computation of the scheduled effective capacity :

Provided further that if as a result of the licensee declaring as surplus to his requirements any units of plant or works, the scheduled effective capacity is in respect of any month computed to be less than the maximum demand of the licensee on the station for the purposes of his own undertaking, then such units of plant or works and all further additional units of plant or works shall thereafter always be deemed to be surplus to the requirements of the licensee as aforesaid unless the Board decides otherwise.

XI. Of the kilowatt-hours purchased by the licensee from the Board in each month, a number of kilowatt-hours not exceeding the number which bears the same proportion to the total number purchased as the scheduled effective capacity for the month bears to the maximum demand of the licensee on the Board in that month shall be purchased at a price determined under paragraph XIII; the balance being purchased at a price determined under paragraph XVI :

Provided that if the station is a hydro-electric station or if any unit of a combined station is a hydro-electric unit the number of kilowatt-hours which the licensee shall be entitled to purchase as aforesaid shall be reduced by such amount, if any, as may be agreed between the Board and the licensee, having regard to the number of kilowatt-hours actually supplied in the month from such hydro-electric station or unit.

XII. As soon as practicable after the end of a year of account—

(a) there shall be ascertained in respect of that year the cost of production at the station in accordance with provisions of the Eighth Schedule ;

(b) there shall be deducted from the total sum ascertained in respect of that year under clauses (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of paragraph I of the Eighth Schedule, such proportion of the charges referred to in the said clauses as are wholly attributable to so much of the plant and works, if, any, as has been declared by the licensee under sub-paragraph (2) of parapraph X to be surplus to his requirements, and the balance remaining after such deduction shall for the purposes of this Schedule be referred to as the schedule overhead charges :

Provided that in assessing the said proportion regard shall be had to the period during which any such plant or works were declared to be surplus as aforesaid ;

(c) there shall be allocated between fixed costs and running costs in accordance with the provisions of the Ninth Schedule the sum ascertained in respect of that year under clause (a) of paragraph I of the Eighth Schedule, and the amount of running costs divided by the number of kilowatt-hours supplied from the station in that year shall for the purposes of this Schedule be referred to as the running charges component ;

(d) there shall be ascertained in respect of that year an amount (in this Schedule referred to as the schedule fixed works costs) calculated from the expression, "$\frac{A}{2} + \frac{A}{2} \times \frac{B}{C}$" where—

A=the amount of fixed costs ascertained in respect of that vear under clause (c) ;

B=the sum of the scheduled effective capacities for each month of that year ;

C=the sum of the actual effective capacities for each month of that year.

XIII. The licensee shall pay to the Board in respect of each month of the year of account for the electricity purchased under paragraphs X and XI—

(a) in respect of kilowatts, an amount equal to one-twelfth of the sum of the scheduled over-head charges and the scheduled fixed works costs ;

(b) in respect of kilowatt-hours, a sum found by multiplying the number of kilowatt-hours supplied by the running charges component :

Provided that if in any year of account the station for any reason ceases to generate electricity for one thousand hours or more, then for the purposes of ascertaining the running charges component and the scheduled fixed works costs under clauses (c) and (d) respectively of paragraph XII—

(i) the said clause (c) shall be construed as if there were substituted for the words "that year" in both places where they occur, the words "the most recent year of account in which the station did not cease to generate electricity for one thousand hours or more" and as if to the said clause the following proviso were added, namely:—

"Provided that so much of the said sum as is represented by the cost of fuel shall be adjusted to take account of the cost which would have been incurred had that fuel been consumed at the average prices prevailing in the actual year of account";

(ii) in evaluating the expression contained in the said clause (d), the letter C shall be deemed to be equal to the sum of the actual effective capacities for each month of the most recent year of account in which the station did not cease to generate electricity for one thousand hours or more:

Provided further that if in any year of account there exist in the station any units of plant or works which have been declared by the licensee under sub-paragraph (2) of paragraph X to be surplus to his requirements in that year, there shall be added to the running charges component in respect of that year the amount, if any, by which that part of the said component attributable to the cost of fuel is less than ninety per centum of the corresponding part of the running charges component in respect of the year of account immediately preceding that in which the earliest installed of the said units of plant or works first came into commercial operation in the station, and in ascertaining the corresponding part as aforesaid, the fuel consumed shall be deemed to be of the same average quality and to be consumed at the same average cost per ton as the fuel consumed in the year of account:

Provided further that if in respect of any month of the year of account any units of plant or works previously declared by the licensee as aforesaid to be surplus to his requirements are for the first time taken into account in assessing the scheduled effective capacity for that month, then in addition to the payment referred to in clause (a) the licensee shall pay to the Board a sum equal to any sums previously paid by the Board to the licensee on revenue account (in respect of any period prior to the date on which the said units of plant or works came into commission) by way of interest, depreciation, testing and tuning-up expenses attributable to the said units of plant or works; and the sum to be paid as aforesaid shall become due in one or more instalments and at such time or times as the Board may direct.

XIV. The price payable by the licensee to the Board for all electricity supplied by the Board to him in excess of the quantities referred to in paragraphs X and XI shall be the Grid Tariff.

XV. The licensee shall have the right at any time, on giving to the Board prior notice in writing expiring at the end of any year of account, to purchase from the Board at the Grid Tariff the whole of the electricity supplied to him by the Board thereafter:

Provided that the Board in those circumstances may make it a condition that the licensee shall, until the date on which the scheduled effective capacity of the station becomes nil, pay to the Board in respect of each month in addition to the Grid Tariff one twelfth of such proportion as the Board may fix of the annual charges by way of interest and depreciation which would have been payable to the Board in respect of the year of account had the said notice not been given:

Provided further that in assessing the scheduled effective capacity for the purposes of the first proviso all units of plant or works which may have been under this Schedule declared or deemed to be surplus to the requirements of the licensee at the date of the expiration of the said notice and all additional units of plant or works shall after that date always be deemed to be surplus to the requirements of the licensee:

Provided further that after the expiration of the said notice the licensee shall not be entitled any time to purchase electricity from the Board at the price ascertained under paragraph XIII.

PART III.

PERMANENT CLOSING DOWN OF A CONTROLLED STATION.

XVI. The Board may give the licensee not less than six months' notice in writing expiring at the end of any year of account that from the first day of the next succeeding year of account it will not again direct the licensee to generate any electricity in the station and upon that date (hereinafter in this Schedule referred to as the date of closing down) the station shall be permanently closed down.

XVII. From the date of closing down paragraph I, IV and VIII shall, in relation to the station cease to have effect, and on receipt of the notice under paragraph XVI the licensee shall have the option (to be exercised by a date not later than three months prior to the date of closing down) either—

(a) (i) to sell the station at any time after the date of closing down, and

(ii) to purchase the electricity supplied to him by the Board at the Grid Tariff, or

(b) (i) to require the Board to purchase the station or at the option of the licensee the undertaking of the licensee at the date of closing down at a price determined under the Fourth Schedule, and

(ii) to purchase the electricity supplied to him by the Board in accordance with the provisions of Part II as modified by paragraph XVIII:

Provided that where the station cannot be severed from the distributing system of the licensee or where the severance of the station from the distributing system of the licensee is likely to affect prejudicially the interests of the licensee, the licensee shall be entitled to demand that the Board shall purchase his entire undertaking and on such demand being made the Board shall purchase the entire undertaking of the licensee.

Any question arising under the proviso to this paragraph shall be referred to arbitration under section 76.

XVIII. Where a licensee exercises his option under paragraph XVII in terms of clause (b) thereof, the Board shall comply with the requirement to purchase the station under sub-clause (i) of that clause, and in applying the provisions of Part II to the purchase by the licensee of electricity supplied to him by the Board,

(a) the station shall, notwithstanding that it has been permanently closed down, be deemed to remain a controlled station in operation but to be such a station which has ceased to generate electricity for one thousand hours or more during each year of account:

(b) clause (a) of paragraph IX shall be construed as if the following were substituted therefor, namely:—

"(a) the maximum capacity of the station, that is to say, the maximum capacity (expressed in kilowatts available for supply to feeders) of such plant and works appertaining to the generation of electricity at the date of closing down as would have been available for reliable and regular commercial operation on the first day of each month, had the station not been closed down under Part III and had no replacement of any major item of such plant or works been carried out:"

(c) clause (a) of paragraph XII shall be construed as if the following were substituted therefor, namely:—

"(a) there shall be ascertained in respect of the year of account such annual charges by way of interest and depreciation attributable to the assets purchased by the Board under Part III as would have resulted from the application of clauses (e) and (f) of paragraph I of the Eighth Schedule had those assets remained in the ownership of the licensee:"

(d) clause (b) of paragraph XII shall be construed as if the reference therein to clauses (b), (c) and (d) of paragraph I of the Eighth Schedule were omitted;

(e) there shall be added to the sum payable by the licensee to the Board under clause (a) of paragraph XIII, in each month of the year of a sum equal to one twelfth of the amount calculated from the expression, "$\frac{A \times B}{C}$" where—

PART IV

PURCHASE BY BOARD OF CONTROLLED STATION NOT TO BE CLOSED DOWN.

XIX. Where in respect of any month notified by the Board (and hereinafter in this Schedule referred to as the relevant month), the scheduled effective capacity of the station is computed under paragraph X to be less than one-half of the actual effective capacity of the station, the Board may give to the licensee six months' notice in writing that on the first day of the year of account next following the date of expiration of such notice the station will be purchased by the Board.

XX. Notwithstanding anything contained in paragraph X in computing the scheduled effective capacity for purposes of paragraph XIX there shall be left out of account all such units of plant and works as would not reasonably have been required by the licensee for purposes other than supply to the Board had the station not been a controlled station.

XXI. Where a notice under paragraph XIX has been served by the Board on the licensee, the Board shall purchase the station or where a severance of the station from the distributing system of the licensee is not possible or is likely to affect prejudicially the interest of the licensee and the licensee so requires the entire undertaking of the licensee at the date specified in the notice and at a price determined under the Fourth Schedule.

XXII. From the date of purchase of the station or at the option of the licensee the undertaking of the licensee under paragraph XXI the provisions of paragraphs I, IV and VIII shall, in relation to the station, cease to have effect, and the licensee shall be required to purchase the electricity supplied to him by the Board in accordance with the provisions of Part II as modified by paragraph XXIII.

(a) the station shall, notwithstanding that it has been purchased by the Board, be deemed to remain a controlled station;

(b) clause (a) of paragraph XII shall be construed as if the reference therein to the provisions of the Eighth Schedule excluded a reference to clauses (b), (c) and (d) of paragraph I of that Schedule, and as if the following proviso were added to the said clause (a), namely :

"Provided that the annual charges to be included in accordance with clauses (e) and (f) of paragraph I of the said Schedule shall be such as would have resulted had the assets purchased by the Board under Part IV remained in the ownership of the licensee;"

(c) clause (b) of paragraph XII shall be construed as if the reference therein to clauses (b), (c) and (d) of paragraph I of the Eighth Schedule were omitted;

(d) there shall be added to the sum payable by the licensee to the Board under clause (a) of paragraph XIII in each month of the year of account a sum equal to one-twelfth of the amount calculated from the expression, "$\frac{A \times B}{C}$" where —

A = that part of the scheduled overhead charges payable by the licensee to the Board in respect of the last year of account in which the station was in the ownership of the licensee, which relates to the items referred to in clauses (b), (c) and (d) of paragraph I of the Eighth Schedule;

THE SECOND SCHEDULE

(See section 35)

I. Before the end of each year the Board shall declare to the licensee in respect of each of the two next succeeding years the maximum number of kilowatts which it will make available for the purpose of the licensee's undertaking.

II. Where the Board and the licensee agree that the number of kilowatts declared under paragraph I will be inadequate to meet the requirements of the licensee having regard to the capacity of the licensee's generating plant, the Board shall not refuse its consent under section 44, the provisions of that section not withstanding, to the installation by the licensee of such generating plant as he may reasonably require for the purposes of his undertaking, unless the Board is able appropriately to amend its declaration within a reasonable time.

III. The licensee shall be entitled to demand from the Board, and the Board shall, except where prevented by causes beyond its control, be under obligation to supply to the licensee, a maximum number of kilowatts in each year not exceeding, without the consent of the Board, the maximum number of kilowatts declared under this Schedule in respect of that year.

IV. The point at which the electricity to be supplied under this Schedule shall be delivered to the licensee shall, unless otherwise agreed between the Board and the licensee, be at the licensee's generating station, and the pressure of supply shall be such as may be agreed between the Board and the licensee.

V. The Board shall bear the whole of the cost of the service apparatus required for making the supply under this Schedule available to the licensee.

II. From the date of closing down the Board shall be under obligation to supply to the licensee, except where prevented by causes beyond its control, and the licensee shall be under obligation to take from the Board, the whole of the electricity required by the licensee for the purposes of his undertaking, except such quantity of electricity as the licensee may for the time being be entitled under paragraph III to purchase from a source other than the Board or as he may be generating in another station, not being a controlled station.

III. Unless otherwise agreed between the Board and the licensee, the licensee shall not, where he has received a notice under paragraph I, purchase after the date of closing down any quantity of electricity from a source other than the Board:

Provided that where on the date of the receipt of such notice the licensee is bound under any contract to purchase any quantity of electricity from some other source, he may, for a period not exceeding two years after the date of closing down or for such further period, if any, as the Board may allow, continue to purchase electricity under the said contract from such other source.

VII. As soon as practicable after the licensee has exercised his option as aforesaid, there shall be ascertained and agreed between him and the Board the following quantities in respect of each year of account subsequent to the date of closing down, namely:—

(a) The maximum capacity of the station, that is to say, the maximum capacity (expressed in kilowatts available for supply to feeders) of such plant and works appertaining to the generation of electricity at the date of closing down as would have been available for reliable and regular commercial operation on the first day of the year of account, had the station not been closed down under this Schedule and had no replacement of any major item of such plant or works been carried out subsequent to the date of closing down.

(b) The number and size of units of plant and works, forming part of the aforesaid plant and works, which would have represented reasonable standby in the station.

(c) The standby capacity of the station, that is to say, the number of kilowatts (expressed in killowatts available for supply to feeders) by which the maximum capacity of the station would be reduced if the standby plant and works referred to in clause (b) were to be left out of account.

IX. As soon as practicable after the beginning of each year of account there shall be ascertained in respect of that year such annual charges by way of interest and depreciation attributable to the assets purchased by the Board under this Schedule as would have resulted from the application of clauses (e) and (f) of paragraph I of the Eighth Schedule, had those assets remained in the ownership of the licensee.

X. The licensee shall be entitled to purchase from the Board in each year of account at a price determined under paragraph XI—

(a) a number of kilowatts not exceeding the agreed effective capacity ascertained in respect of that year under paragraph VII, and

(b) a number of kilowatt-hours not exceeding the number of kilowatt-hours which bears the same proportion to the total number of kilowatt-hours required by the licensee in that year for the purposes of his undertaking as the agreed effective capacity ascertained in respect of that year bears to the total maximum demand of the licensee in that year for the said purposes.

XI. The price payable by the licensee in respect of each year of account for the quantity of electricity specified in paragraph X shall be—

(ii) by dividing the total cost so found by the total number of units sent out from the station in the basic years.

XII. The price payable by the licensee for all electricity supplied to him by the Board in excess of the quantity specified in paragraph X shall be the Grid Tariff.

XIII. The licensee shall have the right at any time on giving the Board prior notice in writing expiring at the end of a year of account of purchase at the Grid Tariff the whole of the electricity supplied to him by the Board:

Provided that the Board in those circumstances may make it a condition that the licensee shall, until the date on which the agreed effective capacity of the station becomes nil, pay to the Board in each year of account in addition to the Grid Tariff a sum equal to such proportion as the Board may fix of the annual charges by way of interest and depreciation ascertained in respect of the year under paragraph IX:

Provided that the licensee shall not be considered to have failed so to adjust his rates if the clear profit in any year of account has not exceeded the amount of the reasonable return by more than thirty per centum of the amount of the reasonable return.

II. (1) If the clear profit of a licensee in any year of account is in excess of the amount of reasonable return, one-third of such excess, not exceeding 7½ per cent. of the amount of reasonable return, shall be at the disposal of the undertaking. Of the balance of the excess, one-half shall be appropriated to a reserve which shall be called the Tariffs and Dividends Control Reserve and the remaining half shall either be distributed in the form of a proportional rebate on the amounts collected from the sale of electricity and meter rentals or carried forward in the accounts of the licensee for distribution to the consumers in future, in such manner as the Provincial Government may direct.

(2) The Tariffs and Dividends Control Reserve shall be available for disposal by the licensee only to the extent by which the clear profit is less than the reasonable return in any year of account.

III. There shall be created from existing reserves or from the revenues of the undertaking a reserve to be called "Contingencies Reserve."

IV. (1) The licensee shall appropriate to contingencies Reserve from the revenues of each year of account a sum not less than one quarter of one per centum and not more than one-half of one per centum of the original cost of fixed assets; provided that if the said reserve exceeds, or would by such appropriation be caused to exceed, five per centum of the original cost of fixed assets, no appropriation shall be made which would have the effect of increasing the reserve beyond the said maximum.

(2) The amount of the Contingencies Reserve shall be invested in securities authorised under the Indian Trusts Act, 1882 (II of 1882).

(3) The written down cost which still remains to be written off in respect of such fixed asset shall be charged against the Contingencies Reserve by equal annual instalments from the year of account in which the asset ceases to be available for use as aforesaid up to the date of the next option of purchase of the undertaking under the licence or up to the expiration of the prescribed period, whichever is earlier.

XI. Arrears of depreciation calculated in accordance with paragraph VI may be written off by equated payments over the remainder of the prescribed period and the amount so set aside in the books of the undertaking may be taken into account in any year as a special appropriation for purposes of assessing the clear profit.

XII. Where contributions are made by consumers towards the costs of construction of service lines constructed after the date on which this Act comes into force only the net cost of such service lines after deducting such contributions shall be included in the cost of fixed assets for the purposes of arriving at the capital base.

Provided that for the purposes of depreciation under paragraph VI, the total original cost of construction of the service lines shall be taken into account.

(2) If the Board or the Provincial Government, as the case may be, does not within one month from the receipt of such application, consent to such expenditure, the licensee may refer the matter to the arbitration of the Authority.

[THE] EMPLOYEES' STATE INSURANCE ACT, 1948
(ACT XXXIV of 1948.)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The introduction of a scheme of Health Insurance for Industrial Workers has been under the consideration of the Government of India for a long time. The necessity for such a scheme has become more urgent in view of the conditions brought about by war. The scheme envisaged is one of compulsory state insurance providing for certain benefits in the event of sickness, maternity and employment injury to workmen employed in or in connection with work in factories other than seasonal factories.

A scheme of this nature has to be planned on an all-India basis and administered uniformly throughout the country. With this object, the administration of the scheme is proposed to be entrusted to a Corporation constituted by central legislation.

The functions of the Corporation will be performed by a Central Board constituted of representatives of Central and Provincial Governments, and of employers, workers and the medical profession. The Board will also include certain members elected by the Central Legislative Assembly. A Standing Committee of the Board will act as the Executive of the Board, and a Medical Benefit Council will also be set up to advise on matters relating to the administration of medical benefit.

The insurance fund will be mainly derived from contributions from employers and workmen. The contributions payable in respect of each workman will be based on his average wages and will be payable in the first instance by the employer. The employer will be entitled to recover the workman's share from the wages of the workmen concerned. Workmen whose earnings do not exceed 10 annas a day will be totally exempt from payment of any share of the contribution, the entire contribution on account of such workmen being met by employer. Provision has been made for the preparation of proper budgets and the audit of accounts.

The insured workman will be entitled to the following benefits:—

Sickness Benefit. (a) A workman, if certified sick and incapable of working, will receive for a period not exceeding 8 weeks in any Cash continuous 12 monthly period a cash allowance equal approximately to half his average daily wages during previous six months. He will also be entitled to receive medical care and treatment at such hospitals, dispensaries or other institutions to which the factory in which he is employed may be allotted.

Maternity Benefit. (b) Women workers will be entitled to receive a maternity benefit at 12 annas a day for 12 weeks. They will also be entitled to medical aid at the aforesaid medical institutions.

Disablement and Dependents' Benefits. (c) A workman disabled by employment injury will receive for the period of disablement or life depending on whether the disablement is temporary or full and permanent, as the case may be, a monthly pension equivalent to half his average wages during the previous twelve months, subject to a maximum and minimum. Where disablement is partial, the pension will be proportionately reduced. In case of death resulting from employment injury, the pension will be payable to the widow or widows, minor sons and minor and unmarried daughters or in case there are no widow and legitimate children, to other dependants of the deceased workman. The workman will also be entitled to medical care and treatment.

Medical care and treatment to insured workman will be provided by Provincial Governments at such hospitals, dispensaries and other institutions as may be prescribed for the purpose. The cost of the medical benefit will be shared between the Provincial Government and the Corporation in such proportions as may be agreed upon between them. In case the average incidence of sickness cash benefit in any Province is in excess of the all-India average, Provincial Government will also bear such share of the cost of the excess incidence as may be agreed upon between it and the Corporation.

Workmen's State Insurance Courts will be set up to decide disputes and adjudicate on claims. The cost of the tribunal will be paid by the insurance fund.

Central Government will make rules on matters relating to the administration of the Corporation, such as nomination and election of members of the Board, Standing Committee, Medical Benefit Council, powers and duties of the principal officers, raising of loans, investment of funds, accounts to be maintained by the Corporation, their audit and publication. Provincial Government will make rules on matters relating to the Workmen's Insurance Courts to be set up under the Act, establishment of hospitals, dispensaries, medical institutions, etc., and the scale of medical benefit to be provided to insured persons. The Board will make regulations on matters relating to the working of the scheme, e. g. collection of contributions, payment of benefits, returns and other particulars to be submitted by employers in respect of workmen employed by them, the conditions to be observed by insured persons in receipt of benefits, etc.

The Bill makes detailed provisions in regard to the above matters. . . . . ."

SCHEDULE II

(See sections 49, 51, 52 and 53)

Sickness Benefit and Disablement and Dependants' benefits.

1. The average daily wages of an employee in each of the groups specified in the first column of the table below shall, for the purpose of calculating the sickness benefit and disablement and dependants' benefits be assumed to be the rate specified in the corresponding entry in the second column thereof.

TABLE

Group of employees	Average assumed daily wages
	Rs.	A.	P.
1. Employees whose average daily wages are below Re. 1.	0	14	0
2. Employees whose average daily wages are Re. 1 and above, but below Rs. 1—8—0	1	4	0
3. Employees whose average daily wages are Rs. 1—8—0 and above, but below Rs. 2.	1	12	0
4. Employees whose average daily wages are Rs. 2 and above, but below Rs. 3.	2	8	0
5. Employees whose average daily wages are Rs. 3 and above, but below Rs. 4.	3	8	0
6. Employees whose average daily wages are Rs. 4 and above, but below Rs. 6.	5	0	0
8. Employees whose average daily wages are Rs. 8 and above.	10	0	0

2. The daily rate of sickness benefit during any benefit period shall be an amount equivalent to one-half of the sum of the assumed average daily wages as aforesaid for each of the weeks for which contributions were paid in respect of the person during the corresponding contribution period, divided by the number of weeks in that contribution period in which he was deemed to have been available for employment within the meaning of section 48; provided that where the amount of the benefit so calculated includes a fraction of an anna, it shall be rounded to the next higher anna. The calculation indicated above is illustrated by the following examples:—

Example 1.—If the assumed average daily wages of the person as an employee were Rs. 1/4 a day for 10 weeks, Rs. 1/12 a day for 10 weeks and Rs. 2/8 a day for 6 weeks, the average of the assumed daily wages for the purpose of the rate of sickness benefit will be—

$$\frac{10\times 20 + 10\times 28 + 6\times 40}{26} = 27\frac{18}{26}$$

The daily rate of sickness benefit payable in the benefit period will then be $13\frac{22}{26}$ annas, rounded to the next higher anna, namely, 14 annas.

Example 2.—If the person was deemed to have been not available for employment for 14 weeks in any contribution period and was employed as an employee for only 12 weeks in that contribution period, his assumed average daily wages being Rs. 1/4 for the 12 weeks, the average of the assumed daily wages for the purpose of the rate of sickness benefit will be:—

$$\frac{12\times 20}{(26-14)} = 20 \text{ annas.}$$

The daily rate of sickness benefit payable in the benefit period will then be 10 annas.

Example 3.—If the person was deemed to have been not available for employment for 4 weeks in any contribution period and was employed as an employee for only 20 weeks (he having been without any employment for 2 weeks) in that contribution period, his assumed average daily wages being Rs. 1/12 for 20 weeks, the average of the daily wages for the purpose of the rate of sickness benefit will be:—

$$\frac{20 \times 28}{(26-4)} = 25\frac{5}{11} \text{ annas.}$$

The daily rate of sickness benefit payable in the benefit year will then be $12\frac{8}{11}$ annas, rounded to the next higher anna, namely, 13 annas.

3. Disablement and dependants' benefit shall be an amount equivalent to one-half of the sum of the assumed average daily wages for each of the weeks for which contributions were paid in respect of the employee during the period of fifty-two weeks immediately preceding the week in which the employment injury occurs, divided by the number of weeks for which contributions were so paid provided that where the amount of the benefit so calculated includes a fraction of an anna, it shall be rounded to the next higher anna. The calculation indicated above is illustrated by the following examples :

Example 1.—If the assumed average daily wages of an employee were 14 annas a day for 20 weeks, Rs. 1/4 a day for 20 weeks and Rs. 1/12 a day for 12 weeks, the average of the assumed daily wages for the purpose of disablement and dependants' benefit will be :—

$$\frac{20\times 14 + 20\times 20 + 12\times 28}{52} = 19\frac{28}{52} \text{ annas.}$$

The disablement or dependants' benefit will then be $9\frac{20}{26}$ annas, rounded to the next higher anna, namely 10 annas a day.

Example 2. — If the employee worked only for 34 weeks in the period of 52 weeks preceding the week in which the employment injury occurs and his assumed average daily wages were 14 annas a day for 20 weeks and Rs. 1/4 for 14 weeks, the average of the assumed daily wages for the purpose of disablement and dependants' benefit will be : —

$$\frac{20\times 14 + 14\times 20}{34} = 16\frac{16}{34} \text{ annas.}$$

The disablement or dependants' benefit will be $8\frac{8}{34}$ annas, rounded to the next higher anna, namely, 9 annas a day.

The disablement or dependants' benefits calculated as aforesaid shall be called the full rate.

4. The disablement or dependants' benefit shall be payable to a person suffering from disablement as a result of an employment injury sustained as an employee in a factory or establishment to which this Act applies, or if he dies as a result of such injury, to his dependants as follows :—

(i) to the insured person—

(a) for temporary disablement, during the period of such disablement at the full rate ;

(ACT LVIII OF 1948.)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"On account of the wholesale exodus of non-Muslim from West Punjab, North-West Frontier Province, and certain other areas of West Pakistan, it became necessary to arrange for an exchange of prisoners from these areas. Negotiations were started with Pakistan and a general agreement was arrived at. The agreement worked for sometime and a large number of non-Muslim prisoners were received from West Punjab and all Muslim prisoners except about 300 were returned to Pakistan from East Punjab.

To impliment and validate this exchange of prisoners the Governor-General passed an Ordinance (Exchange of Prisoners Ordinance, No. VI of 1948) which was promulgated on 20th April 1948.

The exchange of prisoners has not been completed yet and some of the provisions of the Ordinance will have to be kept in force even after such exchange is completed, for example, sections 5 and 8. It is, therefore, considered desirable to re-enact all the provisions of the Ordinance in the form of an Act of the Legislature. The present Bill, therefore, seeks to replace the Ordinance which expires on the 20th October 1948, by an Act."

[THE] EXTRA-PROVINCIAL JURISDICTION ACT, 1947

"The Central Government have acquired by agreement, treaty, usage, etc, certain powers and jurisdiction in the non-jurisdictional and semi-jurisdictional States and Talukas of Western India and Gujrat, Manipur, etc. The Central Government have in consequence assumed certain functions in relation to the administration of these areas. In order to provide legal machinery for the exercise of these functions, the Extra-Provincial Jurisdiction Ordinance was promulgated. It is now proposed to replace the Ordinance by an Act of the Dominion Legislature. The present Bill empowers the Central Government to exercise in the areas outside the Provinces jurisdiction and powers acquired, or that may be acquired, by the Central Government, by treaties, agreements, etc., and validates action already taken by the Central Government and its Officers."

[THE] FACTORIES ACT, 1948
(ACT LXIII OF 1948)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The existing law relating to the regulation of labour employed in factories in India is embodied in the Factories Act, 1934. Experience of the working of the Act has revealed a number of defects and weaknesses which hamper effective administration. Although the Act has been amended in certain respects in a piecemeal fashion whenever some particular aspect of labour safety or welfare assumed urgent importance, the general framework has remained unchanged. The provisions for the safety, health and welfare of workers are generally found to be inadequate and unsatisfactory, and even such protection as is provided does not extend to the large mass of workers employed in work-places not covered by the Act. In view of the large and growing industrial activities in the country, a radical overhauling of the Factories law is essentially called for and cannot be delayed.

The proposed legislation differs materially from the existing law in several respects. Some of the important features are herein mentioned. Under the definition of "Factory" in the Act of 1934, several undertakings are excluded from its scope but it is essental that important basic provisions relating to health, working hours, holidays, lighting and ventilation, should be extended to all workplaces in view of the unsatisfactory state of affairs now prevailing in unregulated factories. Further the present distinction between seasonal and perennial factories which has little justification has been done away with. The minimum age of employment for children has been raised from 12 to 13 and their working hours reduced from 5 to 4½, with powers to Provincial Governments to prescribe even a higher minimum age for employment in hazardous undertakings.

The present Act is very general in character and leaves too much to the rule-making powers of the Provincial Governments. While some of them do have rules of varying stringency, the position on the whole is not quite satisfactory. This defect is sought to be remedied by laying down clearly in the Bill itself the minimum requirements regarding health (cleanliness, ventilation and temperature, dangerous dusts and fumes, lighting and control of glare, etc.) safety (eye-protection, control of explosive and inflammable dusts, etc.), and general welfare of workers (washing facilities, first aid, canteens, shelter rooms, creches, etc.) amplified, where necessary, by rules and regulations to be prescribed by Provincial Governments.

Further the present Act leaves important and complex points to the discretion of inspectors placing heavy responsibility on them. In view of the specialised and hazardous nature of the processes employed in the factories, it is too much to expect Inspectors to possess an expert knowledge of all these matters. The detailed provisions contained in the Bill will go a long way in lightening their burden.

Some difficulties experienced in the administration of the Act, especially relating to hours of employment, holidays with pay, etc., have been met by making the provisions more definite and clearer. The penalty clauses have also been simplified. An important provision has also been made in the Bill empowering Provincial Governments to require that every factory should be registered and should take a license for working to be renewed at periodical intervals. Provincial Governments are further being empowered to require that before a new factory is constructed or any extensions are made to an existing one the plans, designs and specifications of the proposed construction should receive their prior approval.

It is expected that the Bill when enacted into law will considerably advance the condition of workers in factories.

The substantial changes made in the existing law are also indicated in the Notes on Clauses [omitted.] Opportunity has also been taken to arrange the existing law and to revise expressions, where necessary."

[THE] FEDERAL COURT (ENLARGEMENT OF JURISDICTION) ACT, 1947 (ACT I OF 1948)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The Bill provides for the enlargement of the appellate jurisdiction of the Federal Court in civil cases to the fullest extent permissible under section 206 of the Government of India Act, 1935, as now in force and for the abolition pro tanto of all direct appeals in such cases from High Courts to His Majesty in Council either with or without special leave. Although owing to the limitations imposed by the existing constitution appeals to the Privy Council cannot altogether be excluded by means of this Bill, it will when enacted have the effect of stopping the further flow of direct appeals to the Privy Council in civil cases and prepare the way for the abolition in due course of all appeals to that body. The Bill, however, does not interfere with appeals which are pending before the Privy Council and the records of which have been transmitted to England by the High Court concerned, nor with appeals to the bringing of which special leave may have been granted by the Privy Council before the coming into force of this law. These appeals are left to be disposed of by the Privy Council under the existing law."

[THE] GANDHI NATIONAL MEMORIAL FUND DONATIONS (COMPANIES) ACT, 1948 (ACT XXXV OF 1948).

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"It has been represented that the absence of enabling provisions in the Memoranda of Association of certain companies precludes them from making donations to charitable or public funds such as the Gandhi National Memorial Fund, not closely connected with or incidental to the objects for which the companies may have been formed. The amendment of such Memoranda with a view to incorporating such provisions will, in the ordinary course, be a long process and in some cases involve considerable expense. It is desirable that such companies as are anxious to contribute to the Gandhi National Memorial Fund but are unable to do so in terms of their Memoranda or Articles of Association should be enabled by law to make such donations. The scope of the Bill is strictly restricted to cover such donations to the Gandhi National Memorial Fund only."

[THE] INDUSTRIAL FINANCE CORPORATION ACT, 1948 (ACT XV OF 1948).

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In order to fill this lacuna, Industrial Finance Corporations, to provide medium and long-term credit for facilitating post-war rehabilitation and development, have been established in several countries. This Bill seeks to establish a similar Corporation in India for the same purpose, ..."

[THE INDIAN] MATRIMONIAL CAUSES (WAR MARRIAGES) ACT, 1948 (ACT XL OF 1948)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"In the course of the judgment delivered in the case of Mrs. Margaret Pierce v. Mr. George Albert Pierce, the Additional District Judge, 24-Parganas, Calcutta, observed as follows:

'The position of a woman domiciled in India who marries a foreigner not domiciled in India appears to be extremely anomalous in regard to the law of divorce. She can apparently obtain no relief under the Indian Divorce Act, 1869, and, inasmuch as the Indian and Colonial Divorce Jurisdiction Act, 1926, is applicable only to parties who are British subjects domiciled in England and Scotland, she can obtain no relief under that Act either .... The anomaly of this position is intensified in regard to a war-time marriage contracted by a woman domiciled in India with a foreigner serving temporarily in India on military duty; and inasmuch as not a few war-time marriages of this character must presumably have been contracted between women domiciled in this country and foreigners temporarily resident here during the war, it would seem that there is a lacuna in the present law of divorce which ought to be filled.'

Under the existing law, no Court in India has jurisdiction to grant a decree of divorce, unless the parties are domiciled in India or in England or Scotland. In other cases the woman has no remedy unless she is in a position to institute proceedings in the country of her husband's domicile. A clear case, therefore, exists on the merits for the enactment in India of a counterpart of the Act in the United Kingdom called the Matrimonial Causes (War-Marriages) Act, 1944, whereby in the case of a marriage celebrated during the war period, where the husband was at the time of the marriage domiciled outside India, and the wife was, immediately before the marriage, domiciled in India, the Indian Courts exercising jurisdiction under the Indian Divorce Act should be vested with jurisdiction in relation to proceedings for divorce as if both parties were at all material times domiciled in India. Such a law would obviously apply only in cases where the petitioner or the respondent professes the Christian religion. Hence the present Bill.

Provision is also included in the Bill for limiting the time within which proceedings for divorce or for nullity of marriage may be commenced under the Act."

[THE] MINES AND MINERALS (REGULATION AND DEVELOPMENT) ACT, 1948.

(ACT LIII OF 1948)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The question of Central regulation of mines and oilfields and mineral development has been engaging the attention of Government for some time. The need for Central regulation was amply illustrated in the last war when certain key minerals had to be controlled under the Defence of India Act. It is now well recognised that a planned and uniform policy of mineral development is essential to economic and industrial progress. The Industrial Policy Resolution of the 6th April 1948 included minerals amongst the industries whose location must be governed by economic factors of all-India import or which require considerable investment or a high degree of technical skill and must consequently be the subject of Central regulation and control.

This Bill has accordingly been drafted under Item 36 of the Federal Legislative List of the Seventh Schedule to the Government of India Act, 1935, to regulate mines and oilfields and mineral development on the lines contemplated in the Industrial Policy Resolution of the 6th April 1948. It seeks to give powers to the Central Government to frame rules for the regulation of the terms and conditions of mining leases, as also for the conservation and development of minerals. It also provides for modification of existing leases on payment of compensation. Clause 8 provides for delegation of powers to Provincial Governments or any officers or authority as may be specified in this behalf, e.g., a Coal Commission. Clause 11 confers powers of entry and inspection on any officers authorised by the Central Government in this behalf. Finally, there is a clause prescribing penalties for contravention of any of the provisions of the Act or the rules made thereunder. The rules made under the Act will be laid before the Legislature as soon as may be after they are made, while rules relating to compensation to be paid for modification of existing leases will not be operative unless and until they are approved by the Legislature."

(ACT XI OF 1948.)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The justification for statutory fixation of minimum wages is obvious. Such provisions which exist in more advanced countries are even more necessary in India, where workers' organizations are yet poorly developed and the workers' bargaining power is consequently poor.

The Bill provides for fixation, by the Provincial Governments, of minimum wages for employments covered by the Schedule to the Bill. The items in the Schedule are those where sweated labour is most prevalent or where there is a big chance of exploitation of labour. After a time, when some experience is gained, more categories of employments can be added and the Bill provides for additions to the Schedule. A higher period is allowed for fixation of minimum wages for Agricultural labour as administrative difficulties in this case will be more than in the other employments covered by the Schedule. The Bill also provides for periodical revision of the wages fixed.

Provision has been made for appointment of Advisory Committees and Advisory Boards, the latter for coordination of work of the Advisory Committees. The Committees and the Boards will have equal representation of employers and workmen. Except on initial fixation of minimum wages, consultation with the Adisory Committees will be obligatory on all occasions of revision.

In cases where an employer pays less than the minimum wages fixed by Provincial Governments, a summary procedure has been provided for recovery of the balance with penalty and for subsequent prosecution of the offending party.

It is not ordinarily proposed to make any exemptions in regard to employees of undertakings belonging to the Central Government except that difficulties might arise where the sphere of duty of such an employee covers more than one Province and when the rates of minimum wages fixed by the different Provinces may be different. For this purpose, a provision has been included that the minimum wages fixed by a Provincial Government will not apply to employees in any undertaking owned by the Central Government or employees of a Federal railway, except with the consent of the Central Government."

[THE] NATIONAL CADET CORPS ACT, 1948.
(ACT XXXI OF 1948)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"It is considered that the present University Officers Training Corps should be overhauled, but at the same time it is felt that full development of character and the capacity for leadership will be possible only when the requisite training is given to boys and girls while they are young and impressionable.

The problem is essentially educational which can be solved adequately only if the Educational Authorities take an active interest in this aspect of training and make it an integral part of school education. A good beginning to achieve this end can be made by the introduction of cadet training in schools and universities. With that object in view the present Bill has been drafted.

These units will be officered by members of the teaching staff, but regular training will be imparted wherever necessary by trained regular officers.

Provision is also included in the Bill for the raising of additional units as the exigencies of circumstances may require. The National Cadet Corps Committee recommended that open units should be constituted to which recruitment will be made from amongst boys earning a livelihood and the object of cl. 7 is to provide for such units."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The development of the Power Alcohol Industry is of national importance both from the point of view of using the molasses which would otherwise be wasted, and of creating in the country the nucleus of an industry which would be of importance in times of emergency. The utilisation of Power Alcohol would also reduce the price of sugar and reduce our dependence on petrol. It would, however, not be possible for most of the Provinces producing molasses to absorb their total production of Power Alcohol within their own limits. It is, therefore, necessary to adopt measures to utilise their surpluses in other Provinces in which production will not be sufficient to meet their requirements.

The Panel for the development of Sugar, Power Alcohol and Food Yeast industries which was set up by the Government of India recommended that admixture of Power Alcohol with petrol should be made compulsory for the whole country and enforced in such areas as are notified from time to time. The Industries Conference held in December, 1947, in which representatives of Provincial and State Governments participated, also unanimously passed a resolution in support of the proposed legislation."

[THE] PRESS (SPECIAL POWERS) ACT, 1947

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

"Experience of recent communal riots has shown that inflammatory writings and speeches and their dissemination by the Press have contributed to the creation and maintenance of tension between the communities and have hampered the return of normal conditions in riot-stricken areas. Publication of false or exaggerated reports about riots and ill-informed or violent comments thereon have spread this tension to or resulted in the out-break of rioting even in distant areas.

The permanent law as it stands has been found inadequate to deal with this probelm. Its processes are too dilatory and afford undue publicity to objectionable matter. To remedy these defects in the existing law it has been found necessary to promulgate the Press (Special Powers) Ordinance, 1947. The present Bill seeks to repeal that Ordinance and re-enacts its provisions."

[THE] REHABILITATION FINANCE ADMINISTRATION ACT, 1948 (ACT XII OF 1948)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"Credit facilities for the settlement of refugees in business and industry cannot adequately be granted by commercial Banks and other financing agencies nor can they appropriately be provided by a commercial organization like the proposed Industrial Finance Corporation. It is also impracticable for the State to give such accommodation direct as in the case of agriculturists, small shopkeepers, artisans and persons engaged in professions. This Bill therefore seeks to establish for this purpose a Rehabilitation Finance Administration which will be financed and controlled by the Central Government but will work as a semi-autonomous body in close collaboration with the Central and Provincial Governments and Banks. Provision has also been made which will facilitate the granting of such financial assistance by normal banking channels."

Under the Government of India Act, 1935, the power to legislate in respect of trade and commerce is given to the Provincial Legislature, while the power to legislate for the incorporation, regulation and winding up of trading corporations is given to the Central Legislature. The Boards contemplated by Provincial Governments have been held to fall within the definition of trading corporations. This Bill is intended to give the necessary power to such Provincial Governments as may desire to set up the Corporations. While delegating this power it is necessary to guard against wasteful competition between road transport services and the Railways, and provision has, therefore, been made for the Corporations being set up with the consent of the Central Government. All other details relating to the constitution of the Corporations, which are likely to vary from Province to Province, are being left to be provided for in Provincial Legislation."

[THE] TERRITORIAL ARMY ACT, 1948. (ACT LVI OF 1948)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

"This Bill seeks to provide the legal basis for raising the Territorial Army, the proposals regarding which were announced in Parliament on the 8th April 1948. Owing to the constitutional changes, the old Territorial Force Act, 1920, is no longer suitable for this purpose. For example, the Act of 1920 makes members of the Force subject to the British Army Act. The present Bill merely lays down the broad principles on which the Territorial Army is to be raised leaving all administrative details, etc., to be provided for in rules and regulations. The role of the force will be—

(a) to provide a second line to, and a source of reinforcement for, the regular army;
(b) to assist in internal defence duties in a national emergency;
(c) to be responsible for anti-aircraft and coastal defence; and
(d) to give the youth of India an opportunity of training themselves to defend their country.

With the passage of this Bill, the Indian Territorial Force Act, 1920, will lapse."
